AT NO. 9 MONTGOMERY PLACE, BOSTON, Mass.

COLBY & RICH,

Publishers and Proprietors.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.
Aided by a large corps of able writers.

THE BANNER OF LIGHT is a first-class, eight-page Family Newspaper, containing FORTY COLUMNS OF INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE READING, classed as follows:

LITERARY DEPARTMENT.—Original Novelettes of reformatory tendencies, and occasionally translations from French and German authors; Poetry, original and selected; Choice Stories for Children, etc.

REPORTS OF SPIRITUAL LECTURES—By able Trance and Inspirational Speakers.

ORIGINAL ESSAYS—Upon Spiritual, Philosophical and Scientific Subjects.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.—Subjects of General Interest, the Spiritual Philosophy, its phenomena, etc., Current Events, Entertaining Miscellany, Notices of New Publications, etc.

MESSAGE DEPARTMENT.—Spirit-Messages from the departed to their friends in earth-life, given through the mediumship of MRS. J. H. CONANT, which demonstrate direct intercourse between the Mundane and Super-Mundane Worlds.

ORIGINAL CONTRIBUTIONS from the most talented writers in the world.

All which features render this journal a popular Family Paper, and at the same time the Harbinger of a Glorious Scientific Religion.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE.

Per Year	$3.00
Six Months	1.50
Three Months	75

☞ There will be no deviation from the above prices.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money-Order on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes, since, should the Order or Draft be lost or stolen, it can be renewed without loss to the sender.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

Subscribers in Canada will add to the terms of subscription 20 cents per year, for pre-payment of American postage.

POST-OFFICE ADDRESS.—Subscribers should not fail to write legibly their Post-Office Address and name of State.

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. Thus we publish two volumes a year.

Patrons of the BANNER when renewing their subscriptions should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed; and the same care should be exercised when a change of location is desired.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are in the same condition, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather, or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
WILLIAM PAYN.

'73 REUNION.

THE "HISTORY OF THE RETURN OF THE SONS & DAUGHTERS OF PORTSMOUTH, JULY, 1873," is just published. It contains 96 pages, octavo, and is a thorough detail of everything relating to the three Festal Days,

The Reunion, July 4th,
High School Reunion, 5th,
The Praise Meeting, 6th;

and containing a

Verbatim Report

of every speech that was uttered at the Tent on the 4th and 5th, besides giving a full report of all the Reunion preliminary movements in Portsmouth, Boston and New York. WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &C.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Research made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

CATARRH!
A Woman Having Catarrh 35 Years, Cured.
And Droppings in Throat, Choking, Stranglings, Pains in the Side, Loins, Headache, Dizziness, and General Weakness, Cured by less than Three Bottles of the CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY.
TO MESSRS. LITTLEFIELD & CO., Proprietors of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, Manchester, N.H.: I reside at Manchester N., H., and previously resided at Hennikor, and am a native of Weare, this State. I have had Catarrh twenty-six years, ever since I was 18 years old; had it bad all the time. It run all that period, and nights it would fill up and drop down in my throat, causing a feeling of choking, so that I would spring up in bed to save myself from strangulation. It affected my head so that I felt confused, and was troubled with severe headache at intervals, for a week at a time. I also had bad pains in shoulders, back and kidneys, from which I suffered immensely. So bad were they, that a year ago last summer I was obliged to lie in bed most of the time for three months. I have tried all kinds of snuff and Catarrh remedies with no particular benefit, and consulted physicians. I had a hacking cough. I began to take the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy last August. I began to grow better before finishing the first bottle. I am now on the third bottle. My Catarrh is cured; my health is restored. I have no pains, aches, or cough. My whole system is made over new. I know it is this medicine that has rescued me from intense suffering and almost the grave. I am now able to do the hardest work and bear the greatest exposure, and feel that I cannot say too much in favor of the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.
MRS. E. J. FLANDERS.
Manchester, N. H., Feb. 1, 1873.
I am now 53 years old, have had Catarrh ever since I was eighteen years old, and headache all the time; have suffered beyond description with running at the nose, droppings in the throat, chokings and stranglings. Have tried any quantity of Catarrh Remedies, but have found no relief till I tried your Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, six months ago. I found immediate relief.
Catarrh and all its attendant evils have left. Headache, Pains in Loins and Back, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, and General Weakness. Less than three bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy have cured me. I have not been so well since I can remember as now. I feel as if I could not say too much for the medicine, or thank God too heartily that through its instrumentality I have been restored to health.

A Chinese Funeral.

[Otago (N. Z.) Guardian.]

Recently, a Chinaman named Mow Tai, a partner in the firm of Sun, War, On & Co., poisoned himself through taking an overdose of opium. After the inquest (at which a verdict was returned that deceased died from the effects of opium administered by himself, while in a state of temporary insanity), the friends of the departed, who appear to have some curious notions on the subject, made an application to the authorities that they might be allowed to keep the body for a week before interment. This application they made, not from any superstitious motive, but from one of an eminently practical character. They were of opinion that there might be a possibility of restoring him to life, or in other words, they though it possible that he might not be dead. They stated that they had known instances of Chinamen, both in China and Australia, who had been thrown into an apparent death through an overdose of opium, and who afterwards by proper treatment had been brought round. Some Chinamen dilute their opium with vinegar, some with water, and it is said that those who only take the water mixture are often resuscitated, while those who take vinegar are never brought round. The Chinaman in question had partaken of a mixture of opium and water, and for this reason it was thought possible that he might be restored to life. The proper remedy to administer in such cases is a dose or series of doses of duck's blood; and this appears to have been done in the present instance to the unfortunate Mow Tai, but without avail. So his friends at last gave it up for a bad job and decided to bury him.

Th funeral cortege consisted of a hearse and mourning coach and two of the town buggies—the three latter being filled with the friends of the deceased, and the hearse containing the coffin, on which was a plate setting forth his age, his country, and the period of his death. An express had gone on in advance containing the deceased's clothes, bedding, etc., also a number of articles used in celebrating the Chinese funeral rites; likewise a roast duck and loin of salt pork, together with tea, brandy, and other refreshments that, according to Chinese notions, are good for the souls of the departed. The funeral took place in the Southern Cemetery, where a good many people, the majority of whom were young boys, were assembled to witness the interesting ceremony which followed, and which the young gamins afterwards characterised as a "first-rate performance." No doubt it was the more enjoyable to these members of the rising generation from the fact that there was nothing to pay.

Arrived at the graveyard, the hearse was stopped, and the coffin borne to the grave by several of the deceased's comrades. It was at once lowered down without any further ceremony. The ropes having been raised, the Chinamen proceeded to throw in their white hat-bands on top of the coffin, after which the express cart was drawn up, and the departed's clothes, in the shape of his boots, pants, socks, and other aids to personal adornment, were "heft" down upon the coffin. His sheets and blankets—which would have been the better for a wash—followed, and then came his bed itself, and a number of other articles, sufficient to half fill up the grave, and give joy to the departed on a cold night, when bedclothing shall be at a premium. The deceased's countrymen then passed the head of the grave one by one, and made their salaams, after which it was filled up. A wooden tombstone, setting forth, in the Chinese language, the virtues of the departed, was next placed in the loose earth at the head of the grave. After this the faces of the Chinaman relaxed into a smile. A bonfire, in which was much incense, was made on one part of the grave. On the other a clean mat was spread, and upon this was arranged the provender we have before referred to. Some half a dozen or so of small Chinese cups were filled with an infusion of the very best Chinese tea, while smaller cups still were filled with a lighter looking liquid, which we heard on very good authority was pale brandy. The Chinamen again passed round, and each threw tea to his departed brother, and afterwards brandy.

The small boys at this time pressed very closely around the grave, upon which the Chinamen "scrambled" a quantity of dried fruits and other comforts of a like nature, to which the youthful appetite is addicted. They afterwards dispensed the lighter-looking liquid to the men standing round, and the whole thing presented more the appearance of a Christmas picnic than a funeral. After about half-an-hour had been spent in this way, the cups, saucers, incense, wax candles, and other things made use of in the ceremony, were indiscriminately distributed over the grave, and nearly every person succeeded in carrying off a relic of the Chinese funeral.

The whole thing bore the appearance of a farce, and should hardly be tolerated in the centre of a burying-ground where Christians lie. Scrambling for sweets and dried fruits over the graves of our departed friends is not a kind of ceremony calculated to imbue the public mind with that reverence for our Christian graveyards which ought to prevail. If the Mongolians choose to carry on their rites in a portion of the churchyard unoccupied by those of our own race there can be no possible objection, but the burial described above was an unseemly one in this respect, taking place, as before observed, in the midst of a group of Christian graves.

Senator Chandler has brought a suit against the Detroit Free Press for libel, claiming $100,000 damages. The alleged libel is a special despatch from Washington, February 20th, charging Chandler with intoxication and disgraceful conduct in the senate chamber.

Ex-President Baez of Santo Domingo has been arrested in New York on the application of Davis Hatch of South Norwalk, Connecticut, who brings an action for damages charging the ex-president with conspiring against his liberty, wealth and life, while he was a resident of Santo Domingo. Baez was admitted to bail in $35,000, which he declines to pay, and he is still in custody.

The Christian Register, in an editorial on the action of the Boston school committee, in regard to the ladies elected as members, says: The worst anticipated mischief which women can do on the school committee seems to be their voting in favor of paying female teachers the same wages that shall be given to male teachers of equal qualifications of services! Such shocking iniquity may well be prevented at all hazards. Let them be required to clamber over every statutory barrier before they are allowed to perpetrate official deeds of this nefarious character. * * * The same pay for the same work! If such monstrous propositions are entertained, what is to save us from Red Republicanism and outright Communism?

Baltimore papers describe a remarkable monstrosity similar to the Siamese Twins, being the female twins born at Tobaccostick, Dorchester county, Md., on the 4th inst. The twins were of colored parentage. One of the twins was alive at birth, but died in a few seconds thereafter. The other, when born, was dead. The one first ushered into the world bore the impress upon its face of a genuine negro, while the complexion of the other was like that of a white person, and its hair less kinky than its sister's. The monstrosity was taken to Baltimore and will be properly preserved in alcohol. An investigation showed that the bond of union connecting the bodies of the twins extends from the centre of the breastbone to the navel, thus placing the bodies face to face. The bodies are well formed, and weigh ten pounds and a half, and measure eighteen inches in length. The physicians who were present, gave as their opinions that each of the twins possessed separate stomachs, hearts, livers, etc., and that a wall separated the stomachs along that part where the bond of union exists. The only case on record where a similar bond of union ever existed, is in the London Museum, and, like the Dorchester novelty, the twins were females.

Eli Perkins, so called, froze his ears in St. Paul the other day, but it is a comfort to know that he has plenty left for next winter's frost to work on.

A Maliciously Funny Scene.

[Boston Herald.]

Butler thought it would be a huge joke to force an introduction upon his opponents in the Massachusetts delegation. The first victim was Mr. Williams, who was sitting quietly in his seat in the back row. Butler went up to him, put his hand on his shoulder and asked him to turn around. Mr. Williams greeted Mr. Simmons very cordially, while Butler looked on with an expression of sardonic satisfaction on his face which set the reporters' gallery in a roar. His next movement was on Mr. Geo. F. Hoar. But the Worcester Congressman recoiled from an interview, and when he saw Butler and his man approaching his seat he got up hurriedly and moved away to another part of the hall, and the other members of the anti-Simmons party also got out of the way. But a still checkier piece of business followed. During the morning Butler had quietly drawn up a paper requesting the President to appoint Judge Russell to the Venezuela mission. With this in his pocket he proceeded to each of the Massachusetts members who were present for signatures. He went first to Judge Hoar and sarcastically remarked that he supposed the judge would like to head the list of signatures. Words fail to express the disgust of the Concord statesman at the making of such a proposition. Of course he did not sign and of course Butler did not expect that he would do so. Butler next went to Mr. George F. Hoar, who dismissed the proposition with equal curtness. Butler was scarcely able to express his glee at the manner which his advances met. He was not satisfied until he had practiced his joke upon all who were present. He contrived to let pretty nearly everybody in the House know what he was about, and it has been related generally to-night. There is little doubt that Butler will have Russell appointed to Venezuela, for he is very anxious to get him out of the way before next fall.

The Colored People in Washington.

Grace Greenwood writes from Washington: I was a friend to the colored people when they needed friends, when the politicians who court and use them now were ridiculing, reviling and hunting them down, and it is in no harsh or fault-finding spirit I speak now. "Faithful are the wounds of a friend." I mean all I say in kindness, but somebody ought to speak out when there is a general cause of complaint. Sloth and squalor are certainly not confined to our lately enfranchised citizens, but here at the capital they oftenest put on that color, a color which always inclines me to lenient judgment, remembering the long, dreadful past, the hard condition of the old life, the cruel hindrances, the darkness, the bondage—all unfitting them for habits of order and industry, for self-respecting responsibility,—still I think it is time they were taught either by the precept and example of the most intelligent and refined of their own race or by the authority yet for a time resting in ours, to regard the proprieties and decencies of life. Into our street cars, especially those on the avenue, come men and boys whom it is not only disagreeable but positively perilous to sit by,—animated masses of rags, giving out foul and sickening odors. The street car, 'tis true, "is the poor man's carriage," but it is extravagance in the poor man to use it when he can as well walk. How men, ragged as Neapolitan lazzaroni, can afford frequent indulgences of the kind is to me a profound mystery. I have known great, hulking, lazy boys, with rags fluttering in every wind, like signals of distress, take a street car for a lift of three or four blocks. Colored youths of this sort show a manly jealousy of their rights under the fifteenth amendment, and seldom are known to offer a seat to a woman, whether she be a delicate white girl or a feeble colored "aunty." They are almost as uncivil as New York merchants, lawyers and editors. I hope I need not say I am glad that colored people can ride in the cars, but it does seem to me they are overdoing the thing in this city. We hardly have a fair chance; they have so taken possession of that popular vehicle that we think of petitioning the munificent and magnificent corporation of the Georgetown and Navy-yard Street Railway, to furnish a set of new and elegant cars and put new straw in them, and colored conductors on them, and set them apart for our colored citizens, leaving to us the present old dilapitated concerns, unchanged except that they shall be plainly lettered: "White people allowed to ride in these cars." To be serious and not invidious, it seems to me that for the honor and safety of our community regulations should be established excluding all persons indecently ragged or offensively dirty not only from the galleries of the Capitol, but from the public conveyances of the city, and that these regulations should be rigidly enforced without regard to age, sex, color, or previous condition of servitude.

Death of the Tribune Cat.

The following is from a Tribune of a late date; "Stumpy is dead! To the outer world it may be necessary to say that Stumpy was a cat which for twelve years or more has been a real terror to the rats of the Tribune office. She was honest, mild and amiable, and had an abbreviated tail, from which latter fact was derived her peculiar name. It was never satisfactorily known whether that tail was an abnormal development, or whether it had been untimely docked in infancy. It was generally believed, however, that the caudal appendage was a natural characteristic of the cat—born with her, so to speak. Stumpy inhabited the composing-room of the Tribune, and though having no regular 'sit,' made herself comfortable and welcome at the case of every compositor. She was not exclusive, but, during a long and peaceful life, she bestowed her company as a distinguished Senator sheds his money, on the just and on the unjust. During the eventful period of her connection with journalism, Stumpy witnessed many changes. She saw the rise and fall of Republicanism, gazed undismayed on Black Friday, rejoiced at the end of the rebellion, and serenely saw the types set to announce to the world all the great events which have happened during the last eight of a century.

When the old Tribune building was demolished, she watched its fall, brick by brick, her attitude of pensive observation being only interrupted by the appearance of a fugitive rat, to which printing-office pest she remained, up to the day of her death, a terror and a scourge. Though not a literary cat, she was the cause of a literary effort from others. During the twelve years of her life she was acquainted with a generation of Tribune editorial writers, and verses in her honor were written by men eminent in letters, among whom such poets as Bayard Taylor and others were glad to shine. Her friends and acquaintances were among those whom the world has honored; and her modest substistence was derived from a fund regularly subscribed by the compositors of the Tribune. She was not a cat to linger superfluous: and on the morning of February 21, after seeking a secluded retreat in which to shuffle off this mortal coil, she waited until the paper had gone to press, when she, too, locked up her form in death's embrace and in the darkness of the stereotype room, breathed her last. She was a faithful public servant, an honest cat, a devoted friend. Peace to her ashes!"

Old Time Chronicles, No. 107.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

President John Adams was once in Newington, but it was long before he was President. Undoubtedly he was the first who held that office, who was ever in New Hampshire. It was in 1753. Mr. Adams was then but eighteen years of age, and at the time was a student in Harvard College. Very likely he was on a visit to see his uncle, Rev. Joseph Adams, minister in that place. He gives no account of any thing in regard to the place, but simply mentions in his writings, that he was there.

He was there again in 1770. He was thirty-five years of age and was a lawyer. He puts down a record of this visit. The more important particulars are the following: "Took a pint of milk for breakfast, and rode to Newbury, where I oated my horse, then rode to Clark's at Greenland meeting house. Gave horse hay and oats. Turned in by Col. March's and passed two gates to my uncle's in Newington. Found him hale and beauty, although eighty-one years of age. Took a cheerful dinner and rode to York."

Mr. Adams was in Newington, this time, in June, 1770. The town had been incorporated but six years. But it had been a distinct parish long and had a minister, Rev. Joseph Adams, he having been settled in 1715.

The population at the time of President Adams' visit was about 500. It is not so large now.

This mention of two gates after leaving Clark's tavern in Greenland, shows that a portion of the way, at least, was destitute of public roads. There were paths, probably "bridle paths" through woodland and fields, partly under cultivation.

She Knows Her Duty.

New Haven is somewhat celebrated for its number of pretty girls of flirting propensities, whose smiles shed a beneficent radiance upon the hard life of the student, but often, like an ignis fatuus, lead on to dangerous abysses. The experience of two students, as related in a New Haven journal, is truly cruel. They ventured to call at the house of two sisters who had given them some encouragement, and were invited to the sitting room, where a beautiful domestic scene presented itself. The mother was reading aloud a useful historical work, and her two daughters were industriously sewing while listening. The youths were seated, when the reading began again, and was continued without any signs of interruption. In vain did the love-struck students seek to catch the eyes of their adored; in vain were all their manifestations of impatience. The monotonous reading flowed on for two hours or more, when the disappointed and disgusted visitors made a burst for the door. It is evident that that mater familias knows her duty.

Civil Rights.

The necessity for a Civil Rights law is shown by an article by Bishop Haven, in the Independent, from which we quote as follows:

In Florida, South Carolina, Mississippi, and I believe Louisiana, the Civil Rights bill is enacted as a local law. Consequently, there is more liberty in these States than in most of the States at the North. But that makes it more dangerous when their colored citizens cross their boundaries. A South Carolina legislator, a gentleman in dress and bearing, went over the bridge which separates his State from Georgia, a few weeks ago, into the city of Augusta. Some one recognized him, and asked him if he was not from South Carolina. He answered that he was. Immediately a hue and cry was raised on him, a white mob rushed after him, and he escaped only by getting over the bridge before they could overtake him. That madness of hate would not have been exhibited had we a national civil-rights law. For the South will accept law to-day and it will accept nothing else. A worse case yet happened in Tennessee. A minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in the Mississippi Conference, was on his way to the session of that body. He must needs go through the edge of Tennessee. He rode with his white brethren till the road entered the latter State. At the first station in that State the conductor came to him and ordered him into the "Jim Crow Car," as they call it here. He refused to go. He again ordered him, and sought to drag him out of his seat. He resisted. The conductor went on the platform of the depot; and very soon four young men of the place appeared at the window with pistols cocked, and told him if he did not get out of that seat they would shoot him dead. He knew their nature too well. He had no protection. No jury in that State would convict or governor hang the shooting men. He had to get up and go forward. In less than twenty miles he was round again into Mississippi and occupying his old seat. The conductor got off at the station before they entered the free State, or he would have been arrested.

—When they find a man in Washington who hasn't a plan of his own for the financial problem, they drown him. No one has been drowned there yet.

Indistinct Ailments.

There are many distressing symptoms of disease the causes of which are uncertain. Debility, nervous irritation, mental stupor, and headache, for instance, may possibly be symptomatic of chronic disease in some particular organ; yet, in a large majority of cases, at least, they arise from indigestion, and morbid conditions of the liver and bowels engendered by a foul stomach. When this is the case a few doses of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will usually effect a complete cure, but should the symptoms be only mitigated without being entirely removed, by a brief course of the remedy, let it be continued until every trace of disease has vanished. Dyspepsia is a wonderful mimic. It imitates with startling accuracy the indications of heart disease, brain disease, kidney disease, and half a dozen other frightful ailments, and when the doctors have solemnly announced the existence of one or other of these complaints, half a dozen doses of the Bitters will in most cases, explode their theories by curing the patient.

20,000 cures of PILES have been recorded during the past five years by ANAKESIS, the happiest discovery in medicine ever made. No disease is more painful and vexatious than PILES, and lotions, ointments, and quack nostrums always make them worse. ANAKESIS is an infallible, painless, simple, permanent cure, as a bougre, soothing poultice and medicine. The relief from pain is instaneous and cure certain. All Doctors recommend it.—Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists everywhere. ANAKESIS Depot, 48 Walker St., New York.

Hottentots Gathering Buchu for Helmbold's Extract has become almost a historical picture. The great consumption of Dr. Helmbold's Buchu attests the important fact that thousands upon thousands need a diuretic medicine. For Dropsy, Gravel, Kidney Complaint, and all diseases of the urinary organs, either in male or female, there has never been a remedy equal to Helmbold's Buchu. Its imitators are mere trash. Helmbold's is the old reliable standard remedy. For sale by all druggists.

Symptoms of Liver Complaint and of Some of the Diseases Produced by It.

A sallow or yellow color of skin, or yellowish brown spots on face and other parts of body; dullness and drowsiness with frequent headache; dizziness, bitter or bad taste in the mouth, dryness of throat, and internal heat; palpitation, in many cases a dry teasing cough, with sore throat, unsteady appetite, raising of food, and a choking sensation in throat; distress, heaviness, bloated or full feeling about stomach and sides, pain in sides, back or breast, and about shoulders; colic, pain and soreness through bowels with heat, constipation, alternating with frequent attacks of diarrhea; piles, flatulence, nervousness, coldness of extremities, rush of blood to head, with symptoms of apoplexy, numbness of limbs, especially at night, cold chills, alternating with hot flashes, kidney and urinary difficulties; female weakness and irregularities, with dullness, low spirits, unsociability and gloomy foreboding. Only a few of the above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time. All who use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for Liver Complaint and its complications are loud in its praise. Sold by all Druggists everywhere. 711

At this season of the year, when so many of our people are suffering from colds, we call attention to AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL as a sure cure not only for coughs and colds, but all affections of the lungs and throat. Having used it in our family for many years, we can speak from personal knowledge of its efficiency. There may be other remedies that are good, but in all our experience this has proved to be by far the best. Its qualities are uniform and wholly reliable. It is pleasant to take, and should be kept at command, by every family, as a protection against a class of complaints which seem harmless in the beginning, but become afflicting and dangerous if neglected.—[N. H. Register.]

Gov. Thos. E. Bramlette, of Louisville, Ky., has given three years to the building up of a Public Library in Louisville, which he intends shall be the best in the country. He is doing it by a series of Gift Concerts, the profits of which go to the Library. The third drawing distributed $500,000, and the fourth, which takes place March 31st, distributes $1,500,000. The drawing will certainly occur on the day named, and the 12,000 gifts distributed as set forth in advertisements.

PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE

NO. 4 BULFINCH STREET, BOSTON.

When a thing is counterfeited, it is a proof of its excellence and popularity. The Peabody Medical Institute is a case in point. Founded in good faith many years ago, and the only establishment of the kind in the country, its success and ever-increasing popularity finally caused the name (Medical Institute) to be pirated and adopted by a lot of infamous quacks, empirics and pretenders, who have been endeavoring to cheat the public by sailing under a stolen flag. The founder of the Peabody Medical Institute can in no way be held responsible for this misuse of the name of a reputable and well-known curative establishment and legitimate medical institution, which has been from the start specially devoted to the treatment of nervous derangements and affections, from whatever causes proceeding. During its existence there have been issued from it several medical publications; quite recently a work on Diseases of the Nervous System, which have had almost a world wide circulation and popularity. These publications sufficiently attest the high character of the institution under whose patronage these medical works have been published. Meantime it is gratifying to know that several of the impudent charlatans, who have stolen its name to cover their nefarious practices, are getting their deserts in the penal institutions of the Commonwealth.—Boston Herald.

Local Matters.

Mr. Miller's Record.

To-day, from four to eight o'clock, P. M., the republicans of Portsmouth will ballot for a candidate for Mayor and we presume that as a matter of justice Frank W. Miller, Esq., will receive the nomination quite unanimously and be triumphantly elected next Tuesday. We find among our democratic friends, scores who would like to deposit their votes for Mr. Miller, and will if he is nominated. No citizens' movement can succeed this year, and a leading democrat said in our sanctum recently that none ought to, for Mr. Miller deserved the office and would make a popular and efficient Mayor. We understand that Samuel W. Moses, Esq., is likely to receive the democratic nomination, a straight nomination being necessary to keep the party from further demoralization.

The only opposition made heretofore to Mr. Miller has been on the charge that he would not be economical in the discharge of the duties of the Mayoralty. We have taken trouble to consult his record in the past and place before intelligent voters the following statement of facts which show the unjustness of the charge:

Mr. Miller has never anxiously desired or sought the nomination or election, which no high-minded voter should forget. Successful business men make the most successful public officials. The inherent energy of Mr. Miller has accomplished what no other man in Portsmouth has had the courage to undertake. It was no small thing to successfully establish and sustain without political aid the first republican daily paper in the State, which was very influential as all know who were republicans when Pierce and Buchanan were Presidents.

As a business man, his great success has shown his capability for official trusts. He has extended the inhabitable limits of the city to the amount of one hundred acres of new streets and dwelling houses, where for two and a half centuries our present best building sites had been but grazing ground, thus, as a citizen remarks, "putting an addition on Portsmouth."

His public career shows him to be a wise and faithful official. As ward clerk and councilman he performed his duty well; likewise in various positions in societies. The city record shows that as an alderman he was alike efficient and influential. To his personal exertions was due the widening of Congress street near its junction with Middle, which had been talked of for thirty years in aldermanic and selectmen boards; the laying of the sidewalk there and on Vaughan street, in place of the old stumbling stones was another improvement which Mr. Miller succeeded in having made by collections from citizens. For these improvements the thanks of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen were voted, on motion of Alderman Nowell, who also suggested that one of the fine new streets be named Miller Avenue, in his honor. Mr. Miller was an alderman when Hon. Frank Jones was Mayor and Ex-Mayor Fernald was an alderman. With them, he assiduously labored to secure the improvements on Deer street, by paving it near Market street and securing a crossing to Railroad Avenue. The purchase of the stone-crusher and the reservation of the old State street school-house from sale, and its subsequent fitting for a ward-room and school-house, and consequent removal of the school from under the court-house, must be credited to Mr. Miller. His vote is recorded for the new school-house at the Creek.

Mr. Miller and Mr. A. H. Hoyt also procured the gift of valuable land for a public park or mall, and the shore of the South mill-pond might have been utilized ere this but for opposition from many who have since regretted it. Mr. Miller urged the building of a high bridge over the railroads and the North pond at Dover street, as the most direct and only means of reaching North Portsmouth, including the city farm, without crossing railroad tracks at grade, a nuisance which he insisted should always be avoided.

By the exertions of Alderman Miller, also, with Alderman Nowell, the Fleet street widening, as at present, was authorized in 1872, the damages assessed being less than half the amount paid for the same, last year; but in Mr. Miller's absence, the vote was rescinded and the street was widened at that time but six feet. [We think he was the first person who suggested the widening to its present dimensions.] The reconsideration of the vote during his absence cost the city about $3000. It was at his suggestion that the Mechanics' Association left the court-house for quarters of their own.

As an assessor and chairman of that Board, Mr. Miller was largely instrumental in wiping from the records a lot of uncollectable and worthless taxes, which had cumbered the books and had created much confusion and dissatisfaction for many years.

As a Commissioner for Rockingham county, Mr. Miller has looked snugly after the interests of the county, and the city has not been forgotten. During the first year he was Commissioner, the county debt, which had been increasing for two years, was reduced about $25,000; and he has always opposed the increase of the public indebtedness for any purpose. While advocating a liberal expenditure, he has evidently been always governed by an intelligent economy. Opposing the suggestions for a new and expensive jail in this city, as calculated to add unnecessarily to the public burdens, he was instrumental in having the old building changed from a state of ruinous dilapidation to one of neatness and convenience, securing improvements in its inner and exterior appearance.

We have carefully examined the public record of Mr. Miller's services, to confute the statements that he would be an extravagant official. The public know him as a just and hard-working citizen who has honored every position he has held. "Good wine needs no bush," and Mr. Miller needs no endorsement from us. We choose only to recall to intelligent voters the numerous improvements for which they are directly indebted to Frank W. Miller.

Fire at Hampton.

The large new boarding house of Joseph W. Dow, together with stable and other outbuildings, were totally consumed by fire, Sunday evening, about nine o'clock. One horse, two cows, fourteen sheep and lambs perished in the flames. A small quantity of furniture was saved, the family barely escaping without a change of clothing. Mr. Dow is chairman of the Selectmen and had the custody of the money and papers belonging to the town; $1500 in cash, and securities amounting to several hundred more were lost, with $200 to $300 belonging to himself. The house was located on one of the finest situations in town and is the second house burned on the same spot, one having been destroyed some four years ago before completion. There is a partial insurance. The total loss will not fall short of $10,000. Mr. Dow is an estimable man, and the loss falls heavily upon him. He has the sympathy of the entire community.

Usage is Law.

I was glad to see, Messrs. Editors, your allusions to the the Mayoralty and the nomination to be made. If our nominee of last year, Mr. Miller, is any the less entitled to a renomination because the republicans allowed fraud and treachery to defeat him and us, I fail to see it. As to his record as a republican citizen and business man, we shall not offer a word;—that speaks for itself; and many of those best competent to judge are of opinion that he has done more for the prosperity of the city than any other man, and much for the success of the party. The efforts to get up a citizens' ticket thus far have proved failures; but an attempt, however hopeless, may be made. Be on your guard, all

TRUE REPUBLICANS.

Danbury Items.

There is a general opinion that the ice crop for 1874 will prove a complete failure, and much suffering has been apprehended among the wealthy next summer.

The amount of enjoyment a bad boy manages to squeeze out of this vale of tears is certainly astonishing.

An applicant for old clothes at a Pine street residence, Saturday, received a half dozen soiled paper collars with the advice "to turn them and chalk the edges."

Where there is no will there is a way. A young man who can neither sing nor play treated his girl's bed-room window late Monday night to a recitation. The piece selected was that which so vividly calls attention to the boy who stood on the burning deck, which, considering the temperature of this season, is full of comforting passages.

—A Paris theatre has imported a troupe of genuine Egyptian dancing girls.

—A Chinese plant, which changes color three times a day, has been sent to Paris.

—Perhaps it would be well, after all, to allow women to run for Congress, for a few of them might be able to talk the male members down, and compel them to give more time to the people's business.

—White muslin trowsers are very much worn by ladies in Spain. They are trimmed with frills, and ladies here who wish to put on frills have a worthy example set them by those who have to walk Spanish.

—A cold-hearted pastor named Frost remarked at a social in Dedham, Mass., that the church was not built for kissing purposes, whereupon the young people who held a contrary opinion, made it warm for Frost, and froze him out.

Chairman of Ward Committee.

SMITH'S ACADEMY
—AND—
Commercial College
FOUNDED 1874.

An institution for Young Ladies and Gentlemen intended to meet the requirements of Portsmouth and vicinity.

Instruction will be given in the Greek, Latin and modern languages and literature, including especial attention to those studies required for admission to college. Book Keeping, Mathematics, and Penmanship will have that prominence which their practical importance demands. The Natural Sciences will be included in what is intended to be a thorough and complete English course of instruction.

Mrs. E. M. Barrett, educated at Mt. Holyoke Seminary and well known as a successful teacher in schools in Massachusetts, will assist. Other competent teachers will be employed as the needs of the patrons may require. Spring term commences Monday, Feb. 16. Applications for admission can be made at the residence of the Principal, 31 Middle St. or at the Academy rooms in Mechanic's Block, Congress Street. LEWIS E. SMITH, A. M., Principal.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND HUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes The Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR,
FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR
TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray, and either of these incline it to shed prematurely.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, by long and extensive use, has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately; often renews the growth, and always surely restores its color when faded or gray. It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity, and preserves both the hair and its beauty. Thus brashy, weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair regrows with lively expression; falling hair is checked and established; thin hair thickens; and faded or gray hair resumes its original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors, and keeps the scalp cool, clean and healthy—under which conditions diseases of the scalp are impossible.

As a dressing for ladies' hair, the VIGOR is praised for its grateful and agreeable perfume, and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

A Fireside Amusement.

Fasten a picture frame on two posts by means of screws driven through them into the back of the frame. Place these at the end of the room, about two feet from the wall, so that the frame will stand upright, with the lower edge about three feet from the floor. From all sides of the frame to the wall drape dark shawls or other convenient cloth, and also place a black cloth on the wall behind, so that it cannot be seen through the opening in the frame. The light which should come from the top or sides of the room should be shaded from the eyes of the spectators and thrown upon the frame. Two or three boxes of different heights must be ready for the persons who are to perform the picture to stand or sit upon, in order to arrange them properly. The pictures should be concealed during the arrangement of them by sliding doors or a curtain. A little ingenuity will contrive very pretty groups, and pictures may be found in books and magazines to copy. Comic pictures may be introduced with good effect to give variety—for instance, you announce an antique head by Gardener, and show a cabbage head, or represent the light of other days by a tallow-dip in an old-fashioned candlestick, etc.

You Know How 'Tis Yourself.

A young lady called at the registry department of the Sacramento post-office and asked for the privilege of reopening a letter which she claimed to have dropped in the box that morning. The post-master, after finding the address and taking a particular description of the missive sought, obligingly searched among the letters in "drop," and, finding the letter, proceeded to open it in the presence of the writer. In doing this the official used a common lead pencil, but the lappel of the envelope was stuck to "stay stuck," and a general tear was imminent. Observing the unprofessional method, the lady said decidedly: "Give it to me; let me show you." The letter was handed over, when the fair manipulator deftly ran the thumb-nail under the edges of the lappel, raising it neatly. Following this up with delicate touches in kind, it soon became apparent that the opening, without leaving a trace of the manipulation, was only a question of time. The post-master and his deputy looked on in charming and innocent interest. The performance was a high art; a deft facility eloquent of patient practice. Neatly the work was done, and, as the careful opening was completed, the lady remarked, by way of explanation, merely, and lest some inference unfavorable to the legitimacy of this skill might be drawn: "I used to be in a post-office myself, you see: I learned how it's done, as you know." That post-master and that deputy depose and say that they "see," but they ever that the obvious meaning of the words "you know," conveys an insinuation, and that anybody who says so is "another".

—Church property has been taxed in California, and all sects are satisfied.

—The latest thing in envelopes is a small, black devil in the fold, with the words "Who the" over his lordship, and "is this from?" underneath.

—A debating society finds it impossible to decide "whether an untidy woman with a sweet temper is to be preferred to a tidy one with a sour temper."

—An Indiana physician has perfected what he calls a "sphygmometer," with which he expects to "weigh the force, count the frequency, measure the size and write the character of the pulse."

—A medusa polyp has lately created some interest in the Garden of Acclimation at Paris. After he was placed in a pool it was observed that he depopulated the water, all his neighbors dying speedily. Examination showed him to be the very rare vinegar polyp, the body of which, in pure water, gives a strong acetic solution. This polyp first produces alcohol, which it transforms into vinegar, and in the State of Massachusetts it would be liable to a fine of $20 and to 20 days' imprisonment.

—In an article on "Dentistry" the Saturday Review drops into science, and says: "To any one who is anxious to prove 'material civilization' a mistake, the inquiry may be suggested: What effect has the invention of knives and forks had upon the teeth of those nations that have condescended to adopt the use of them? For these pernicious utensils plainly render good teeth less a necessity of life than they were before, so that people with bad teeth now survive, transmit their degenerate natural weapons to their descendants, and so on."

—The arena enclosed within the walls of the Coliseum is now the scene of extensive excavations. The theatre of the gross amusements of the ancient Romans, in which the blood of so many gladiators and Christian martyrs has poured out, presents a scene to which visitors have not before been accustomed. Horses and carts are busy coming and going, carrying away the earth which is in process of removal, to a depth of a dozen or fifteen feet, or down to the original level. As far as the work has yet gone, enough has been discovered to interest those curious in studies of the past, and the throng of visitors every day increases. For more than a hundred years the Flavian amphitheatre has been consecrated to religious rites, and the dozen tabernacles of the via crucis, and the cross in the centre of the arena, have been the objects before which devout groups have gathered. Every visitor has read the inscription which lets it be known to all sinners, and others concerned, that by kissing the cross an indulgence of one hundred days may be purchased. This cross and the shrines are now to be removed, and the Coliseum will resume its old character of a classical ruin.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.
Aided by a large corps of able writers.

THE BANNER OF LIGHT is a first-class, eight-page Family Newspaper, containing FORTY COLUMNS OF INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE READING, classed as follows:

LITERARY DEPARTMENT.—Original Novelettes of reformatory tendencies, and occasionally translations from French and German authors; Poetry, original and selected; Choice Stories for Children, &c.

REPORTS OF SPIRITUAL LECTURES.—By able Trance and Normal Speakers.

ORIGINAL ESSAYS.—Upon Spiritual, Philosophical and Scientific Subjects.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.—Subjects of General interest, the Spiritual Philosophy, its phenomena, etc., Current Events, Entertaining Miscellany, Notices of New Publications, etc.

MESSAGE DEPARTMENT.—Spirit-Messages from the departed to their friends in earth-life, given through the mediumship of MRS. J. H. CONANT, which demonstrate direct intercourse between the Mundane and Super-Mundane Worlds.

ORIGINAL CONTRIBUTIONS from the most talented writers in the world.

All which features render this journal a popular Family Paper, and at the same time the Harbinger of a Glorious Scientific Religion.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE.

Per Year	$3.00
Six Months	1.50
Three Months	.75

☞ There will be no deviation from the above prices.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money-Order on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes, since, should the Order or Draft be lost or stolen, it can be renewed without trouble to sender.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

Subscribers in Canada will add to the terms of subscription 20 cents per year, for pre-payment of American postage.

POST-OFFICE ADDRESS.—Subscribers should not all to write legibly their Post-Office Address and name of State.

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. Thus we publish two volumes a year.

Patrons of the BANNER when renewing their subscriptions should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed; and the same care should be exercised when a change of location is desired.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, and for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes filthless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. Dr. BENT'S Compound of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which because so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced using it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
WILLIAM PAYN.

'73 REUNION.

THE "HISTORY OF THE RETURN OF THE SONS & DAUGHTERS OF PORTSMOUTH, JULY, 1873," is just published. It contains 96 pages, octavo, and is a thorough detail of everything relating to the three Festal Days,

The Reunion, July 4th,

High School Reunion, 5th,

The Praise Meeting, 6th;

and containing a

Verbatim Report

of every speech that was uttered at the Tent on the 4th and 5th, besides giving a full report of all the Reunion preliminary movements in Portsmouth, Boston and New York. Much of the matter of this work has never yet appeared in any form, and we think it will prove interesting to all who participated in the Three Days' Jubilee.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over 30 years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as improved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All accessory for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. CATARRH!
A Woman Having Catarrh 35 Years, Cured.
And Droppings in Throat, Chokings, Strangulings, Pains in the Side, Shoulders, Dizziness, and General Weakness, Cured by less than Three Bottles of the CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY.
To MESSRS. LITTLEFIELD & CO., Proprietors of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, Manchester, N.H.:
I reside at Manchester N., H., and previously resided at Henniker, and am a native of Weare, this State. I have had Catarrh twenty-five years, ever since I was 9 years old; had it boiled in the time, it run all that period, and nights it would fill up and drop down in my throat, causing a feeling of choking, so that I would spring up in bed to save myself from strangulation. It affected my head so that I felt confused, and was troubled with severe headache at intervals, for a week at a time. I also had bad pains in shoulders, back and kidneys, from which I suffered immensely. So bad were they, that a year ago last summer I was obliged to lie in bed most of the time for three months. I have tried all kinds of snuff and Catarrh remedies with no particular benefit, and consulted physicians. I had a hacking cough. I began to take the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy last August. I began to grow better before finishing the first bottle. I am now on the third bottle. My Catarrh is cured; my health is restored. I have no pains, aches, or cough. My whole system is made over new. I know it is this medicine that has rescued me from intense suffering and almost the grave. I am now able to do the hardest work and bear the greatest exposure, and feel that I cannot say too much in favor of the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.
MRS. E. J. FLANDERS.
Manchester, N. H., Feb. 1, 1872.
I am now 53 years old, have had Catarrh ever since I was eighteen years old, and headache all the time; have suffered beyond description with running at the nose, droppings in the throat, chokings and strangulings. Have tried any quantity of Catarrh Remedies, but have found no relief till I tried your Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, six months ago. I found immediate relief.
Catarrh and all its attendant evils have left, Headache, Pains in Loins and Back, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, and General Weakness. Less than three bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy have cured me. I have not been so well since I can remember as now. I feel as if I could not say too much for the medicine, or thank God too heartily that through its instrumentality I have been restored to health.

An Orator in Ruins.

[Atlantic.]

"If any ladies were here to-night," the man continued, rising to his feet, as if from involuntary respect to the very imagination of such presence, "if I dared venture to say such things to the sex, I would remark to them—no, sir, not even in imagination! But as to all this talk about women becoming lawyers, sitting on the jury and the like, I will say it to you, Anderson: will you tell me how it would do to have them in the box, on the bench, in view of all the ugly matters necessary to be laid before them there? I am told they are going as doctors into dissecting rooms and hospitals, but the loathsomeness of heart and soul laid bare in the court-house is a thousand times worse! Now I am nothing, Mr. Anderson, but a blackguard lawyer, yet I can imagine a pure and beautiful girl, say my sister, or my betrothed. Do you suppose me such a villain as to be able to look her in the soft, innocent eyes, and state and develope and urge the vile facts which make up so many cases in court? If any man, lawyer or otherwise, tried it in the presence of a lady of my acquaintance, I would smash his jaws! I have been forced occasionally, by circumstances, such as the grand jury, judge, and the like, to drop my profession for a time; that would make me drop it forever! Yet stop a moment, sir! As darkness ceases only by presence of pure light, this occurs to me, possibly woman's purity must come into such close contact with foulest darkness! If the darkness is ever to go! If so, woman's purity must be intensely pure! I do wonder, Anderson, and I never thought of it before, if woman, in virtue of being distinctively woman, is the reserve remedy for the world! You Yankees, sir, laugh at Southern Chivalry. It has gone out, sir, with the Confederacy. Five hundred thousand men were killed in the war. It has thrown up their value too much. Not in the eyes of the other sex alone. We men have come to rate ourselves too high. Now can it be, sir, that with a higher estimate of woman, upon other grounds, a nobler chivalry is to come in? Heh?"

The Adoration of Woman.

That adoration which a young man gives to a woman whom he feels to be greater and better than himself is hardly distinguishable from a religious feeling. What deep and worthy love is not so? whether of woman or child, or art or music? Our caresses, our tender words, our still rapture under the influence of autumn sunsets, or pillared vistas, or calm, majestic statues, or Beethoven symphonies, all bring with them the consciousness that they are mere waves and ripples in an unfathomable ocean of love and beauty; our emotion in its keen moment passes from expression into silence; our love at its highest flood rushes beyond its object and loses itself in the sense of divine mystery. Is it any weakness, pray, to be wrought on by exquisite music? to feel its wondrous harmonies searching the subtlest windings of your soul, the delicate fibres of life where no memory can penetrate, and binding together your whole being, past and present, in one unspeakable vibration, melting you in one moment with all the tenderness, all the love that has been scattered through the toilsome years, concentrating in one emotion of heroic courage or resignation all the hard-learned lessons of self-renouncing sympathy, blending your present sorrow with all your past joy? If not, then neither is it a weakness to be so wrought upon by the exquisite curves on a woman's cheek and neck and arms, by the liquid depths of her beseeching eyes or the sweet childish pout of her lips. For the beauty of a lovely woman is like music,—what can one say more! Beauty has an expression beyond and far above woman's soul that it clothes, as the words of genius have a wider meaning than the thought that prompted them; it is more than woman's love that moves us in a woman's eyes—it seems to be a far off mighty love that has come near to us, and made speech for itself there; the rounded neck, the dimpled arm, move us by something more than their prettiness—by their close kinship with all we have known of tenderness and peace. The expression in beauty (it is needless to say that there are gentlemen with whiskers dyed and indyed who see none of it whatever), and for this reason the noblest nature is often the most blinded to the character of the woman's soul that the beauty clothes. Whence, I fear, the tragedy of human life is likely to continue for a long time to come, in spite of mental philosophers, who are ready with the best receipts for avoiding all mistakes of the kind.

Washington Gossip.

Miss Grant's marriage to Mr. Sartoris is fixed for October next. Mr. Sartoris is the son of Adelaide Kemble, and nephew to Fanny Kemble Butler. The young man travelled with Miss Grant upon her return from Europe, more than three years ago. He did not declare his love at that time, but went west on his journey. Happening to be in St. Louis when the President visited there last spring, and witnessing the homage that was paid him on that occasion it seemed to dawn upon the mind of the young man that the daughter of the American President was not altogether undesirable. He made known his intentions to the young lady's father, who rejected him on account of the want of fortune on both sides, for, said the President, my daughter possesses no dowry, and he might have added that our republican form of government forbids a salary being voted by Congress when a member of the royal family marries. For a time all negotiations were suspended, but an accident to the oldest son and heir removed all impediments, and as soon as Sartoris' pere recovered from the shock of his eldest son's death (which was caused by his being thrown from his horse) he wrote to the President and said that Miss Nellie's adorer could now support her comfortably on forty thousand dollars a year. This produced a revulsion, and after a few preliminaries, the engagement took place, and was announced. So there is something to stir us all up next fall. I am told that the Sartoris house, near London, is the resort of all authors, artists, and celebrities. Those who know Miss Nellie's fondness for dancing have asked if there was a ballroom, and did the old folks enjoy the German? No doubt that Miss Nellie will prove herself a true American girl, who can fill and adorn any station. Colonel Fred. Grant's fiancee, Miss Kitty Cook, has returned from Europe, and is a perfect beauty. She is lovely in character, too, and I hope the young man appreciates his good fortune. So amid the themes of politics and finance that are discussed at the White House is the old but ever new one of love and marriage.

Ex-President Millard Fillmore is in a precarious state from paralysis.

The barque Everett Gray of Yarmouth, Maine, arrived at New York, reports that she was boarded off Havana by a force of Spanish soldiers and searched.

A boiler explosion at Blackburn, Lancashire, England, killed twenty persons and seriously injured thirty more.

The barque Grace Darling was wrecked on the Scottish coast, and nineteen men were drowned.

Eight persons were fatally injured by a burning car on the Great Western Railway, in Canada, last Saturday night.

The President has nominated Frederick D. Sewell of Maine as successor to Supervisor Simmons.

A Havana letter states that the order from Spain removing the embargo from American estates has not been carried out, and the authorities are being pressed by the United States government in demanding the release of these estates. They have added such enormous taxes to them that the owners will be forced to sell or abandon their property.

Almoran H. Emery of Lowell attempted suicide on Sunday by stabbing himself in the abdomen and cutting his throat with a large sharp-bladed jack-knife. It was several hours before he would allow his wounds to be dressed, and his recovery is doubtful. The cause of the rash act is said to be an insinuation that he had been indiscreetly behaving toward some members of his family.

Captain Stephen Trowbridge, who now resides in Milford, Conn., is ninety-three years old, and has made one hundred trips across the Atlantic Ocean from New York to Liverpool. He has been shipwrecked several times and washed overboard during a gale in mid-ocean. His ship was attacked by Algerian pirates while in the Mediterranean Sea more than half a century ago. He has been able to read without glasses until the last four months, and has been a Mason for sixty-nine years, having joined the order in the year 1805.

The Springfield Republican of Saturday says: "It is a pretty safe bet that Washington doesn't contain a more pensive and melancholy statesman, this morning, than Mr. George S. Boutwell." It also remarks: "This is what comes of cutting down the Paddock elms. Simmons may be regarded in the light of a judgment."

The Louisville Courier-Journal says: "Andrew Johnson has so many friends and so many enemies, that whenever he comes to the surface there is sure to be a row. As matters stand, he happens to be a kind of bulwark to the republican party in Tennessee, and, so long as he will not down, they can pile the ground with democratic corpses in every big fight that is made."

Yankee Locke on Saturday evening enchired about 500 citizens of Lawrence by getting them to visit the City Hall to see "what's trumps," but when they arrived, nary a trump was to be seen, nor any other advertised cards as for that matter. None of the party put in an appearance, and nobody knew the reason why.

A despatch has been received from Lieutenant Governor Campbell of Bengal, giving an alarming report of the condition of the people. He says 1,070,000 persons are starving there, and all the poorer classes are beginning to feel the want of food.

Senator Edmunds of Vermont has been advised by his physicians that he must seek relief from his active labors for a while. He is proposing to go South, by sea, and try the effect of a change of climate and life in the open air for a few weeks.

A Lewiston gentleman has in his possession a pair of spectacles made a century and a half ago. There is metal enough in them to make half-a-dozen pairs of modern sight-aiders.

Nast has been heard from. He was in Louisville lately and sent a note to the young ladies of the Female High School regretting his inability to accept an invitation tendered to address them. The note was characteristic of the author. It was simply a sheet of writing-paper, on the left end of which was drawn a building, about eleven stories in height, with the words "To the young ladies of the female High School." Just below this, to the right, was a picture of the artist himself trying to get to the school but with a conductor pulling him toward a train of cars in the opposite direction. On the cars were the words "Franklin, Ind., Feb. 19, 1874." The whole was a rough sketch, drawn with black ink. Of course the answer was appreciated, and it is probable that it will be framed and hung up in the office of the school as a memento.

A severe shock of earthquake was felt at Eastport on Saturday night.

A little daughter of Mr. Samuel Condon of Brooksville, Me., aged about eleven years, died, a few days ago, from a singular accident. She was passing from one room to another, with her knitting work in hand, when she stumbled and fell, and one of the needles entered her face near the eye with such force that it penetrated the skull and passed into the brain. It was extracted, but the wound produced inflammation of the brain, from which she died about a week after.

Abby Smith's cause has taken form at Hartford in a petition, which is to be circulated all over the State for signatures, asking the Legislature for a law exempting the property of women from taxation, so long as they shall be denied the privilege of voting.

Five thousand republicans, encamped near the village of Somorrostro, fifteen miles northwest of Bilbao, Spain, were surprised by the Carlists, and a bloody engagement took place, in which 1000 of the former were killed. The remainder took flight and were closely pursued by the royalists. All of them were either captured or drowned in an attempt to cross the river in way of their retreat.

The Wisconsin Legislature has passed a bill regulating the rates of and cutting down railroad tariffs.

One thousand cattle died of the plague in Tumbez, Peru, during January.

Gov. Allen of Ohio employs a good share of his time in returning free passes, etc., all of which he refuses to accept. It is remembered of him that, when he was in the Senate, he got a reputation for eccentricity by refusing extra mileage.

Potatoes are worth more than wheat in Kansas and Iowa.

A praying crusade has been inaugurated in San Francisco.

Anthony Borli shot Peter Tarchine in the back and instantly killed him, while the two were walking together in New York on Tuesday. The murderer then blew his own brains out. They were both Italians, and partners in business.

State News.

A young woman named Minnie French, who was left in charge of a dwelling house in Manchester in the absence of the family, sold a quantity of furniture, appropriated the money to her own use and fled to Vermont. She was arrested under a requisition and has been bound over to the supreme court upon charges of forgery and larceny.

Charles Waterman and Charles Blanchard, town boys, got into a fight at Hanover and a saw was broken by the former over the latter. Blanchard is likely to lose the use of several fingers in consequence.

The Worcester Gazette says: It is a beautiful sentiment, that of Mr. Forbes of Boston,—"We propose to keep the republican party of Massachusetts where John A. Andrew left it." We admire it, and we hope it may be practicable, but we have grave fears that Mr. Forbes and those who echo him will only succeed in placing the republican party alongside of John Brown's body.

A conservatory of music is to be established in Dover.

Two fine blocks of stores are being built of brick on Water street in Exeter.

A fire in Newport, Monday morning, destroyed an unoccupied cottage house owned by Chauncy Marshall. Loss $600, insured for $400. Some furniture belonging to a previous occupant was burned. Cause of the fire unknown.

The Great Falls liquor sellers have enriched the county treasury fifteen hundred dollars or more.

Nathaniel Bruce, Postmaster of Mount Vernon, died March 2d, aged 79 years.

The inclemency of the weather materially interfered with the pecuniary success of the New Hampshire poultry show, but the exhibition was the best both for variety and number of exhibits ever given in Manchester.

Efforts are making to remove the Pittsfield National Bank from that town to Manchester by the brothers Charles H. and Josiah Carpenter, the principal stockholders, and a good deal of excitement is the consequence. It is alleged that the bank cannot do a paying business in Pittsfield, but the citizens assert the contrary, and Hiram A. Tuttle and Reuben L. French went to Washington with a remonstrance signed by nearly all the prominent citizens of the town against the removal of the bank.

William G. Brooks, Esq., of Boston, has within a few days presented to Phillips Exeter Academy as a memorial of Honorable John Phillips the framed diploma granted by Dartmouth College when they conferred the degree of LL. D., in 1777. Mr. Brooks caused it to be framed, in order that it might be seen and securely kept. He has a large amount of the papers and correspondence of Hon. John Phillips, which are very interesting and valuable. At the dedication of the new academy, a year ago last June, he presented to the trustees the silver watch worn by the founder of the academy, and also his pocket-book and other interesting curiosities. Phillips Academy has now thirty portraits and busts of the most distinguished of its alumni.

How License Laws Promote Temperance.

Anti-prohibition orators and papers have told us a great deal about the impossibility of making men moral and temperate by statute, (which no statute pretends to attempt,) that prohibition only makes men drink more liquor, and that "a stringent license law" is the only thing to help along true temperance. At first sight it would seem only reasonable to expect that if prohibitory laws caused an increased amount of liquor drinking, the liquor manufacturers and retailers would be the most ardent supporters of prohibition,—which we think is not the case in fact; but leaving this view of the matter, the following extract from a paper published in the British colony of New Zealand, which now has and since its first settlement has always had "a stringent license law," may serve to show the exact kind of temperance fostered by such a law:

"It has been remarked, by some one who has keenly observed men, that, when a Spaniard settles in a new country, the first thing he does is to build a chapel. The Frenchman thinks that the primary requisite of a civilized man, in the same situation, is a theatre, which he at once proceeds to improvise accordingly. The Englishman, with a pardonable pride in his aptitude for colonizing, entertains a supreme contempt for both, and no sooner sets his foot firm on the virgin soil than he begins to put up a public house. Certainly this not very amiable phrase of our national character has accompanied with startling constancy the expanding life of our colonial societies. The evil is great and patent to all. We have licensing laws, permissive bills, temperance societies and lecturers, bands of hope, etc., etc. And still, nathless the hope societies and the temperance societies, the licensing bills, and the permissive bills, the 'Giant Despair' of drink, omnipotent, and Protean in shape, erects his daring head, and glaring upon us with his bloodshot eyes, mocks us to scorn. He is in our crowded thoroughfares, he is at every street corner, in our theatres, on our racecourses, at our national celebrations—everywhere, in short, where man meets man in business or in innocent pastime, his impudent face intrudes, mocking and mowing at our legislatures, our lecturers, and our licenses. Surely something must be wrong here, somehow or other. In the first place, are we really sincere in our attempts to check the deadly social pestilence by positive legislation? What would be said, and what perhaps would be done, to anyone who would have the impudence to hint that, while on the one hand, with a vast clashing of cymbals and an infinite huzzahing, mutual laudations, pulling of long faces, etc., we are painfully busy in the rather hopeless task of trying to hoodwink the Devil, on the other hand we are carefully laying up treasure in his sable majesty's exchequer? Is it at all possible that, while we pretend to suppress the evil, we are willing to make it a source of revenue? Is it at all possible that the State in our day can be what Milton finely said the church was in his day—'a banking den of thieves that, in its fogging proctorage of money, dare thus baffle, and buy, and sell the awful and majestic wrinkles of her brow?' Do we look on the money like Vespasian's penny, and if it have no bad smell, do we chuck it into the till?"

Indistinct Ailments.

There are many distressing symptoms of disease the causes of which are uncertain. Debility, nervous irritation, mental stupor, and headache, for instance, may possibly be symptomatic of chronic disease in some particular organ; yet, in a large majority of cases, at least, they arise from indigestion, and morbid conditions of the liver and bowels engendered by a foul stomach. When this is the case a few doses of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will usually effect a complete cure, but should the symptoms be only mitigated without being entirely removed, by a brief course of the remedy, let it be continued until every trace of disease has vanished. Dyspepsia is a wonderful mimic. It imitates with startling accuracy the indications of heart disease, brain disease, kidney disease, and half a dozen other frightful ailments, and when the doctors have solemnly announced the existence of one or other of these complaints, half a dozen doses of the Bitters will in most cases, explode their theories by curing the patient.

20,000 cures of PILES have been recorded during the past five years by ANAKESIS, the happiest discovery in medicine ever made. No disease is more painful and vexatious than PILES, and lotions, ointments, and quack nostrums always make them worse. ANAKESIS is an infallible, painless, simple, permanent cure, as a bougee, soothing poultice and medicine. The relief from pain is instantaneous and cure certain. All Doctors recommend it.—Price $1.00. Sold by Druggists everywhere. ANAKESIS Depot, 46 Walker St., New York.

Hottentots Gathering Buchu for Helmbold's Extract has become almost a historical picture. The great consumption of Dr. Helmbold's Buchu attests the important fact that thousands upon thousands need a diuretic medicine. For Dropsy, Gravel, Kidney Complaint, and all diseases of the urinary organs, either in male or female, there has never been a remedy equal to Helmbold's Buchu. Its imitators are mere trash. Helmbold's is the old reliable standard remedy. For sale by all druggists.

Symptoms of Liver Complaint and of Some of the Diseases Produced by it.

A sallow or yellow color of skin, or yellowish brown spots on face and other parts of body; dulness and drowsiness with frequent headache; dizziness, bitter or bad taste in the mouth, dryness of throat, and internal heat; palpitation, in many cases a dry teasing cough, with sore throat, unusually appetite, raising of food, and sweating sensation in throat; dizziness, heaviness, bloated or full feeling about stomach and sides, pain in sides, back or breast, and about shoulders; colic, pain and sorreness through bowels with hard constipation, alternating with frequent attacks of diarrhœa; piles, flatulence, nervousness, coldness of extremities, rush of blood to head, with symptoms of apoplexy, numbness of limbs, especially at night, cold chills, alternating with hot flashes, kidney and urinary difficulties; female weakness and irregularities, with dullness, low spirits, unsociability and gloomy foreboding. Only a few of the above symptoms are likely to be present in any one case. All who use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for Liver Complaint and its complications are loud in its praise. Sold by all Druggists every where. 711

Gov. Thos. E. Bramlette, of Louisville, Ky., has given three years to the building up of a Public Library in Louisville, which he intends shall be the best in the country. He is doing it by a series of Gift Concerts, the profits of which go to the Library. The third drawing distributed $500,000, and the fourth, which takes place March 31st, distributes $1,500,000. The drawing will certainly occur on the day named, and the 12,000 gifts distributed as set forth in advertisements.

THE PLEDGE AT SPUNKY POINT.

[John Hay, in Harper's Weekly.]

It's all very well for preachin',
But preachin and practice don't 'gree;
I'm posted on virtue and temp'rance,
And you can't ring it in on me.
Just toddle along with your pledge, Squire,
Be what's what you want me to sign;
Behold me and you, I've been thar,
And I'll not take any in mine.

A year ago last Fo'th July,
A lot o' the boys was here;
We all got corned and signed the pledge
Fur to drink no more that year.
There was Tilman Joy and Sheriff M'Phail,
And me and Abner Fry,
And Shelby's boy Leviticus,
And the Goylers—Luke and Cy.

And we anteed up a hundred,
In the hands o' Deacon Kedge,
Fur to be divided the following Fo'th
Among the boys that kep' the pledge.
And we knowed each other so well, Squire,
You may take my scalp for a fool,
Ef every man, when he signed his name,
Didn't feel dead sure of the pool.

Fur a while it all went lovely:
We put up a job next day,
Fur to make Joy b'lieve his wife was dead,
And he went home middlin' gay.
Then Abner Fry he killed a man,
And afore he was hung, M'Phail
Jest bilked the widder outen her sheer
By gittin' him slewed in jail.

But Chris'mas scooped the Sheriff—
The eggnogs gathered him in—
And Shelby's boy Leviticus
Was New Year's tight as sin.
And along in March the Goylers
Got so drunk that a fresh biled owl
Would 'a look, 'longside of them two young men,
Like a sober temperance fowl.

Four months alone I walked the chalk;
I thought my heart would break,
And all them boys a slapping my back,
And axin', "What'll you take?"
I never slept without dreamin' dreams
Of Burbin, Peach, or Rye,
But I chawed at my nigger head and swore
I'd rake that pool or die.

At last—Fo'th—I humped myself
Tarough chores and breakfast soon,
Then scooted down to Taggart's store,
For the pledge was off at noon.
And all the boys was gathered thar,
And each man bilt his glass,
Watchin' me and the clock, quite solemn-like,
For to see the last minute pass.

The clock struck twelve! I raised the jug,
And took one lovin' pull—
I was holler clar from skull to boots,
It seemed I couldn't get full.
But I was roused by a fiendish laugh
That might have raised the dead—
Then ornary sneaks had set the clock
A half an hour ahead!

"All right" I squawked, "you've got me;
Jest order your drinks agin,
And we'll paddle up to the Deacon's,
And scoop the ante in."
But when we got to Kedge's,
What a sight was that we saw!
The Deacon and Parson Skeeters,
In the tail of a game of Draw.

They had shook 'em the heft of the mornin';
The Parson's luck was fa'r,
And he raked the minute we got thar,
The last of our pool on a pa'r.
So no more temp'rance for me, Squire;
I tow it's all very fine;
But ex fur myself, I thank ye,
I'll not take any in mine.

Maine Municipal Elections.

Portland has re-elected Mayor George P. Wescott, republican, by 525 majority, a gain of 108. The city councils are republican.

Lewiston has chosen Hon. H. H. Dickey, democrat, by 147 majority. Four democratic and three republican aldermen, and thirteen republican and eight democratic councilmen, were elected.

Auburn has elected Hon. Thomas Littlefield, republican, for mayor, and the whole republican ticket.

Saco chose a democratic mayor, Hon. Rishworth Jordan, by 76 majority, the friends of Judge Tapley bolting because he was not the nominee of the republican caucus. The city council is unanimously republican.

—A California paper, having obtained a new subscriber, records the startling fact in a half-column article, headed "Still Another! Our Course Endorsed by the People!"

—The local preacher at Elk Horn, Nevada, has had to leave the place because "he was so mighty nice he wouldn't even hold the stakes in a horse race."

Special Notices.

PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE

NO. 4 BULFINCH STREET, BOSTON.

When a thing is counterfeited, it is a proof of its excellence and popularity. The Peabody Medical Institute is a case in point. Founded in good faith many years ago, and the only establishment of the kind in the country, its success and ever-increasing popularity finally caused the name (Medical Institute) to be pirated and adopted by a lot of infamous quacks, empirics and pretenders, who have been endeavoring to cheat the public by sailing under a stolen flag. The founder of the Peabody Medical Institute can in no way be held responsible for this misuse of the name of a reputable and well-known curative establishment and legitimate medical institution, which has been from the start specially devoted to the treatment of nervous derangements and affections, from whatever causes proceeding. During its existence there have been issued from it several medical publications; quite recently a work on Diseases of the Nervous System, which have had almost a world wide circulation and popularity. These publications sufficiently attest the high character of the institution under whose patronage these medical works have been published. Meantime it is gratifying to know that several of the impudent charlatans, who have stolen its name to cover their nefarious practices, are getting their deserts in the penal institutions of the Commonwealth.—Boston Herald.

Local Matters.

The Mayoralty Caucus

Of the republican party was held in the State street ward room on Tuesday, the polls being opened at four o'clock, P. M., and closed at eight, the check-list being used, as heretofore. The meeting was called to order by Wm. H. Rollins, Esq., and the permanent organization was effected by the choice of Mr. Samuel A. Adams as chairman, and Messrs. John H. Locke, Geo. W. Marston and Joseph H. Gardiner as secretaries. Mr. Charles A. Hazlett, Ex-Gov. Goodwin's secretary, then read the following letter, which explains itself:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, March 2d, 1874.

HON. ICHABOD GOODWIN—Dear Sir:—It has been intimated to me that an effort will be made at the republican caucus to nominate me as a candidate for re-election to the office of Mayor. Will you be so kind as to state to the meeting that I do not desire to serve in that capacity after the expiration of my present term. I have been a member of the City Council for more than six years and may now justly claim the privilege of retiring from active participation in municipal affairs. I sincerely thank my fellow townsmen for the distinguished honors they have conferred upon me, and regret only the inadequate amount of service I have been able to perform. I beg, therefore, my honored friend, that you will have my name withdrawn if there are any persons disposed to vote for me.

Very respectfully and truly yours,
THOMAS E. O. MARVIN.

The caucus was the largest ever held in Portsmouth. Frank W. Miller, Esq., had 650 votes, Thos. E. O. Marvin 1, W. H. Y. Hackett 1. Messrs. Samuel H. Kingsbury, Andrew J. Beck and Daniel W. Neal, were appointed a committee to notify the nominee and request his presence at the ward-room. Performing their duty, Mr. Miller was received with applause and spoke briefly in acceptance. He thanked his friends for the honor again conferred, and stated that it had been unsolicited last year and this. He saw no indications that republicans were inclined to defeat themselves now, and hoped they would not. Were he chosen Mayor, he would serve them to the best of his ability. The meeting then adjourned.

Newcastle Election.

At the Newcastle town election, held on Tuesday, all the republican candidates for town officers were elected without opposition. The democracy were completely demoralized, and but a very few of them even put in an appearance at the town meeting; and those present did not vote. The following gentlemen were elected: moderator, Nathaniel P. Campbell; town clerk, William A. Meloon; selectmen, Wm. A. Meloon, Chas. E. Whitehouse, John W. Bickford. "As goes Newcastle so goes the State." A republican friend from the island town says if Portsmouth does as well, proportionately to its population, as Newcastle will do for the republican candidates for State offices, next Tuesday, the Portsmouth democracy won't remember next day that there has been an election at all.

An Invention.

Messrs. Editors: I see you notice in the CHRONICLE an invention or an arrangement by which smoke and cinders are carried over the top of the cars, thereby keeping them entirely out of the cars while moving. Now I desire to make the following statement, that ten years years ago or more, I thought of the same thing and perfected it so far as I could do it by drawings, etc., took it to Boston and showed it to Supt. Prescott and asked him to allow me the privilege of putting it on a train of cars at my own expense, but he refused me, saying it would be too much bother. I also showed it to Mr. Eddy, (who is a patent agent), but he thought it would not amount to anything and said I could not obtain a patent on it. I also tried to put it on a train of cars on the Concord and Portsmouth R. R., but was refused there also. Will further say that about one year since, I wrote Com. Vanderbilt that I had perfected an arrangement by which I could prevent a" steam, smoke and cinders from entering the cars with the windows wide open and that it would do it while passing through a tunnel. I write this much to prove that I told the truth.

I will also say that I am glad the Frenchman has found some one who has common sense enough to try a plain, simple, useful thing. It is a good thing and will afford more comfort according to what it will cost, than any patent that has ever been used upon the cars. It will stop all chances of setting fires from the smokestack, ladies can wear good dresses and not have them ruined by soot and cinders, and people can ride in the cars with the windows open or shut, without being suffocated. Will also say that I hope to find out the Frenchman's name and address, so that I can consult with him, as it may be advantageous to both of us. NATHL. WIGGIN.

Laconics.

Mr. John Murray, who ranks next to Joe Jefferson in the impersonation of the character of Rip Van Winkle, will appear at the Temple on Thursday and Friday evenings, supported by an excellent dramatic company.

We have been shown a well preserved order for goods, written in black ink and signed by Sir William Pepperrell, Sept. 9, 1724. It is the property of Mr. Andrew Pepperrell Wentworth of Kittery.

M. T. Betton & Co. will sell at public auction this day, at 12 o'clock, noon, the wreck of the British schooner "The Star," which came to grief on Jerry's Point some weeks ago, and was towed up to Long Wharf (where she now lies) and stripped. She is a nearly new vessel, having been launched in 1871. At the same time and place the masts, sails and other gear taken from the schooner will be sold.

Mr. John S. Tilton, "Nacker," (we have a strong notion to publish the definition of that word which would save us answering no end of questions,) has removed to his new store in Rogers Block, next to Betton & Co's auction room, where he has a large stock of harnesses, horse blankets, brushes, whips and all other articles usually found in a harness store; also a varied assortment of trunks and travelling bags. Mr. Tilton pays particular attention to repairing harnesses and trunks, and invites those in want of new goods, or who have old ones which they want made as good as new, to give him a call.

Mr. Elisha Tripp, whose ability and faithfulness as a painter, paper hanger, and in all other branches of his business, are too well known in this city to need any puffing, advertises a large and complete stock of materials for sale at his old stand, corner of Penhallow and Daniel streets, where he will be pleased to receive his old patrons and new customers, and sell them either cheap or costly goods as they may fancy, or take their orders for work to be performed.

Mr. Wilber I. Trafton, who has been very successful in engineering masquerades at Charlestown, Portsmouth and Great Falls, will try Dover on the 24th inst. An extra train will be run from Portsmouth, and a large number will attend.

Mr. Joseph H. Wilkinson of South Newmarket has made improvements in steam boilers, which he claims will generate at least 25 per cent. more steam from the same amount of fuel than the best boiler now in common use. He is also the inventor of a patent automatic oiler, designed especially to lubricate the crank-pin of massive and stationary engines, a mechanical device at once reliable and economical, and invaluable for marine engines, where gallons of the best oil are wasted by the old mode of oiling. His oiler is in successful operation at the navy yard and on several government vessels, besides many marine and stationary engines.

The first Piscataqua bridge was chartered in 1794, and connected the towns of Newington and Durham, just below the outlet of Little Bay. It was 2362 feet in length. The river at the point is over 50 feet deep at high water. The arch of the bridge was constructed by Timothy Palmer of Newburyport, and was admired at its completion. In the old bridge was used 3000 tons of oak timber; 2000 tons of pine timber; 80,000 four-inch plank; 20 tons of iron, and 8000 tons of stone. The whole cost of the bridge was $62,000.

Work in clearing up the wreck of the English steamer Sir Francis, which went on the rocks off Hampton Beach a year since, began on Thursday.

Kearsage S. F. E. Co. No. 3 will hold a tea-party, Fast eve, at Congress Hall.

A son of Silas Philbrick fell from the rigging of the schooner Active, lying at Peir Wharf, injuring him severely, on Tuesday.

BEHOLD!

WILSON'S

SUPERPHOSPHATE

At Auction!

My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.

My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.

The only Fertilizer that has ever received a SILVER MEDAL from the N. E. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

FOUNDED 1874.

An institution for Young Ladies and Gentlemen intended to meet the requirements of Portsmouth and vicinity.

Instruction will be given in the Greek, Latin and modern languages and literature, including especial attention to those studies required for admission to college. Book Keeping, Mathematics, and Penmanship will have that prominence which their practical importance demands. The Natural Sciences will be included in what is intended to be a thorough and complete English course of instruction.

Mrs. E. M. Barrett, educated at Mt. Holyoke Seminary and well known as a successful teacher in schools in Massachusetts, will assist. Other competent teachers will be employed as the needs of the patrons may require. Spring term commences Monday, Feb. 16. Applications for admission can be made at the residence of the Principal, 51 Middle St. or at the Academy rooms in Mechanic's Block, Congress Street. LEWIS E. SMITH, A. M., Principal.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND HUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes The Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up. Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray, and either of them incline it to shed prematurely.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, by long and extensive use, has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately; often renews the growth, and always surely restores its color when faded or gray. It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity, and preserves both the hair and its beauty. Thus brittle, weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair re-grows with lively expression; falling hair is checked and established; thin hair thickened; and faded or gray hair resumes its original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors, and keeps the scalp cool, clean and soft—under which conditions diseases of the scalp are impossible.

As a dressing for ladies' hair, the VIGOR is praised for its grateful and agreeable perfume, and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.

Running Footmen.

In former days, when coaches did not go above five miles an hour, and roads were not macadamized, footmen used to run before their masters. They were considered indispensable attendants upon the carriage of a great man, and doubtless their services were often in requisition. They cleared the way, paid the turnpikes, helped to pull the carriage out of the ruts, or to support it on each side to prevent its being overturned, and they bore torches, which, in London, they put out on their return home by means of the iron extinguishers attached to the lamp-railings, such as may yet be seen in front of the old houses in May Fair. The dress of the running footman was often gaudy, and he carried in his hand a long pole, six or seven feet long, with a silver ball at the end, made hollow, which was to hold an egg or some wine. The pole was also used for leaping ditches or hard parts of the road; and great feats in this way are recorded of some footmen.

The powers of endurance of these men were wonderful. It is asserted that in a bad road they could easily keep ahead of coach-and-six, but on level ground the pace of the horses would be somewhat slackened on their account. It was not unusual for them to go sixty miles in the day. A Duke of Marlborough drove a phaeton-and-four from London to Winchester against one of them, and only just beat him; but the man did not long survive this unnatural strain upon his strength. The Duke of Queensbury, who died in 1810, was the last to keep up the custom. A trace of it lingers among us in the attendance of grooms who walk by state carriages, and that of the mutes at funerals who precede the hearse. The long pole was the origin of the silver-headed canes now borne by footmen standing behind a carriage.

Eternal Justice Done.

In Paterson, N. J., a fellow named John Ames went courting. He hitched his horse to a post in front of the girl's door. The visiting was so protracted that the horse ate the top of the hitching post. One of Bergh's men was rooting around, saw the case, took the horse, and summoned Master Ames. All the unmarried women in Paterson were in attendance to give evidence as experts, if necessary, but Judge Brush settled the matter solely in reference to the horse's feelings. The couple might court as long as they pleased, but to keep the noble animal waiting was not the right thing. So a fine of $25 was imposed.

A Bug Exterminator.

[Scientific American.]

Hot alum water is a recent suggestion as an insecticide. It will destroy red and black ants, cockroaches, spiders, chintz-bugs and all crawling pests which infest our houses. Take two pounds of alum and dissolve it in three or four quarts of boiling water; let it stand on the fire until the alum disappears; then apply it with a brush while nearly boiling hot, to every joint and crevice in your closets, bedsteads, pantry shelves, and the like. Brush the crevices in the floor of the skirting or mop-boards, if you suspect that they harbor vermin. If, in whitewashing a ceiling, plenty of alum is added to the lime, it will also serve to keep insects at a distance. Cockroaches will flee the paint which has been washed in cool alum water. Sugar barrels and boxes can be freed from ants by drawing a wide chalk-mark just around the edge of the top of them. The mark must be unbroken or they will creep over it, but a continuous chalk-line half an inch in width will set their depredations at naught.

The republicans of the third ward are to meet in caucus at the Water street ward-room, this evening, at seven o'clock, to nominate candidates for ward and city officers, etc. The caucuses in the other wards will be held on Friday evening.

—The Albany Journal says that the largest law office in that city is now governed by the following rules, to which it is said everybody who enters conforms: 1. Gentlemen entering the office will leave the door wide open. 2. Those having no business should remain as long as possible, take a chair and lean against the wall; it will preserve it. 3. Gentlemen are requested to smoke, especially during business hours; tobacco will be furnished. 4. Jack-knives will be supplied to persons desiring to pass away the time by whittling the desks and chairs. 5. Spit on the floor, as the spittoons are for ornament. 6. Talk loud and whistle, especially when the occupants are engaged. If this has not the desired effect, sing. 7. Put your feet on the tables or lean against the desks; it will be of great assistance to those writing at them. 8. Persons having no business with this office will call often, bringing their friends with them.

—The Prairie Farmer does not believe in clipping horses in general, whatever may be best for horses which have constantly the very best care. Its remarks on this point brought out a leading horse-fancier of Chicago in defense of the practice, which he holds is a healthful tonic and beneficial to the horse in every respect. The editor, however, has common sense on his side. Doubtless animals which are cared for by skilled grooms and under the frequent inspection of a jealous owner may thrive the better for clipping, but nothing could be worse for horseflesh in general than to have an indiscriminate rage for clipping set in. Should it become the fashion to that degree that ladies begin to fancy that clipping is necessary to maintain the social status, we pity the horses. Something very like the epizootic might in that case become chronic, and, besides, we should lose the beautiful glossy coats which are produced by the careful grooming of the natural hair.

All which features render this journal a popular Family Paper, and at the same time the Harbinger of a Glorious Scientific Religion.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE.

Per Year	$3.00
Six Months	1.50
Three Months	75

☞ There will be no deviation from the above prices.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money-Order on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes, since, should the Order or Draft be lost or stolen, it can be renewed without loss to the sender.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

Subscribers in Canada will add to the terms of subscription 20 cents per year, for pre-payment of American postage.

POST-OFFICE ADDRESS.—Subscribers should not fail to write legibly their Post-Office Address and name of State.

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. Thus we publish two volumes a year.

Patrons of the BANNER when renewing their subscription should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed; and the same care should be exercised when a change of location is desired.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry out the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas Scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All my sufferings are ended. It is a blessed boon to see me walking and working.

In conclusion, I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
WILLIAM PAYN.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. CATARRH!

A Woman Having Catarrh 35 Years, Cured.

And Droppings in Throat, Chokings, Strangulings, Pains in the Side, Loins, Headache, Dizziness, and General Weakness, Cured by less than Three Bottles of the CONSTITUTIONAL CATARRH REMEDY.

To Messrs. LITTLEFIELD & CO., Proprietors of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, Manchester, N.H.:

I reside at Manchester N., H., and previously resided at Haverhill, and am a native of Weare, this State. I have had Catarrh twenty-five years, ever since I was 10 years old; had it bad all the time. It run all this period, and nights it would fill up and drop down in my throat, causing a feeling of choking, so that I would spring up in bed to save myself from strangulation. It affected my head so that I felt confused, and was troubled with severe headache at intervals, for a week at a time. I also had bad pains in shoulders, back and kidneys, from which I suffered immensely. So bad were they, that a year ago last summer I was obliged to lie in bed most of the time for three months. I have tried all kinds of snuff and Catarrh remedies with no particular benefit, and consulted physicians. I had a hacking cough. I began to take the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy last August. I began to improve before finishing the first bottle. I am now on the third bottle. My Catarrh is cured; my health is restored. I have no pains, aches, or cough. My whole system is made over new. I know it is this medicine that has rescued me from intense suffering and almost the grave. I am now able to do the hardest work and bear the greatest exposure, and feel that I cannot say too much in favor of the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy.

MRS. E. J. FLANDERS.

Manchester, N. H., Feb. 1, 1873.

I am now 53 years old, have had Catarrh ever since I was eighteen years old, and headache all the time; have suffered beyond description with running at the nose, droppings in the throat, chokings and strangulings. Have tried any quantity of Catarrh Remedies, but have found no relief till I tried your Constitutional Catarrh Remedy, six months ago. I found immediate relief.

Catarrh and all its attendant evils have left, Headache, Pains in Loins and Back, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, and General Weakness. Less than three bottles of Constitutional Catarrh Remedy have cured me. I have not been so well since I can remember as now. I feel as if I could not say too much for the medicine, or thank God too heartily that through its instrumentality I have been restored to health.

Praying in the Streets.

The Churchman, a well known religious paper, has a long article on the subject of the temperance crusade in Ohio, and it argues against the practice of women going into or in front of saloons, and endeavoring, by prayer, to worry the proprietors into submission to their will. From this article we quote the following paragraph, which will give an idea of its general purport:

"Without meaning to allege that the idea of these very excellent and well-meaning women is to weary out the sellers and the drinkers by importunity, it is very plain that they do calculate the effect of their praying as upon the hearts and minds of those whom they wish to move. Now, this is a wholly unauthorized and mistaken conception of prayer. That is a supplication addressed to Almighty God, and to him alone. It may be in behalf of others, but it is more than questionable whether it is ever desirable or even fit that it should be offered in the hearing of those for whose benefit it is intended, unless such are previously disposed to join with it. Praying at people is a practice which in almost every case hardens and angers them, and inevitably tends to degrade prayer. Two things radically different are thus confounded. One is remonstrance with an offender, the other prayer for a sinner. And these women are inevitably placed in that position of antagonism which will and must lead to that confusion. In fact, the practical effect is that prayers are addressed to the liquor seller, through Almighty God, requesting the dealer to give up his business. It is impossible to avoid this consequence, and we submit that it needs only to be stated in this light, to show its mutiness."

—T. W. Higginson has been converted or something else. He says: "I would rather see too much enthusiasm than not enough. I often think that the spread-eagle of the stump orator is better than the cold spirit of a city editor who cuts him up. I would be rather choked with gas than smothered with starch."

—A Shelburne Falls man had a horse with two lame legs which he thought ought to be poulticed. So he took a pair of his own drawers, and, drawing them up over the horse's legs, tied them at the bottom and strapped them over the back; he then made a large pail of poultice and poured it into the drawers.

—The passion which the colored people have for getting into court is noticed by the Montgomery (Alabama) State Journal. If one owes another a dollar, and doesn't pay it on demand, the creditor forthwith brings suit, and the costs amount to greatly more than the debt. So, too, if one calls another a liar there is a suit for defamation, and one or the other has the costs to pay. Law, to these simple people, is a new luxury.

—A correspondent writes from Washington: "I was never sure that we were not civilized people till I contemplated my compatriots in the Washington supper room on a 'festival occasion.' There I have seen dignitaries who the public believe have enough to eat at home, pushing toward a supper table as a cannibal might to a feast; and ladies renowned as 'delicate,' with piled up plates of pickles, salads, fruits and creams, cramming at a rate that would make a perfectly healthy women sick abed for a week."

—The second edition of the Medical Times states that the autopsy of the Siamese twins was continued Feb. 20, resulting in some interesting disclosures. The Commissions found that the two livers, which were supposed to be joined only by blood vessels, were really one body, the parenchymatous tissue being continuous between them, so that when they were removed from the bodies and placed upon the table they formed one mass. The so-called tract of portal continuity is therefore liver tissue. It will be remembered that Chang was said to be possessed of one more pouch than Eng. When the liver was removed, however, an upper hepatic pouch was found also proceeding from Eng, so that the band contained four pouches of peritoneum besides the liver tissue. These disclosures show that any attempt during life to separate the twins would in all probability have proved fatal.

—Breach-of-promise suits are always interesting. A case has been tried in London which illustrates the proverb which forbids discussion in matters of taste. Both parties were past the sentimental age, and their conduct was, as usual in such cases, a trifle more absurd than that of young people under the same distressing circumstances. The lady possessed a fine, poetic temperament and a little moustache. The lover professed to adore the former, but the sequel proved that it was the latter which really claimed his homage. One day she applied a razor to her lips, and removed her unusual feminine ornament, and with her hair, as with Samson of old, her strength vanished also. Her lover, discovering the imposition that had been practised upon him by the removal of his lady's principal charm, rated her soundly, demanded an apology for the outrage upon his sense of the beautiful, and finally struck her. The engagement ended, and the lady sued him. The jury found damages for the plaintiff of £200, which was pretty fair compensation for the loss of a lover and a moustche.

THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1874.

The Temperance War.

A summary of the the temperance movement in Ohio from sixty towns and villages shows that in eleven towns liquor selling has entirely stopped, and that in over forty from five to twenty-six places in which liquors were sold are closed, and the work is everywhere going on vigorously. In Chillicothe and Dayton the work was begun by frequent visitations daily by small committees, without singing and prayer at the saloons. A surrender is reported at Richmond, Ind. The whiskey dealers say that the trade begins to feel the effects of the movement.

Readables.

The explosion of a carboy of vitriol in a car in the freight house of the Eastern railroad at East Boston, Wednesday, has caused the loss of $200,000 to the corporation. Forty men at work there barely had time to escape. A train of thirty loaded cars was standing in the house and all but two were burned. The depot was valued at $50,000, and the cars and contents $150,000; not insured. The goods were shipped to about 1600 consignees.

The three-foot narrow-guage railroad system is rapidly becoming popular in this country, and but few people are aware of the fact that since it came in vogue, during the last three or four years, no less than 1445 miles of narrow gauge railway have been built in this country and in Canada, which roads, when completed, will have a mileage of 4,562 1-2 miles, while there are 1201 miles under construction.

The steamship State of Virginia, from Glasgow, reports that on February 25 had to steer south 120 miles to clear the immense packs of ice.

The President has pardoned the Rochester, N. Y., election inspectors who have been convicted and imprisoned for letting women vote.

Dr. Sayre, having examined the bodies of the Siamese twins, is convinced that they might have been separated with safety during life by constricting portions of the band with silver wire until the flesh gradually was cut through and sloughed off.

A Paris letter states that there is some uneasiness relative to an anticipated movement on the 16th of March in favor of Napoleon IV., who on that day becomes of age to govern. It is said that the ex-Empress Eugenie is actually in Paris, plotting a Bonapartist manifestation. Agents of Bonapartists are throughout France, and visiting cards have been freely distributed with the Prince Imperial's photograph, with the words underneath, "16 Mars, 1874, Appel au peuple."

Muscatine, Iowa, has the boss potato. It is twenty-one inches long, thirteen in circumference, about four pounds in weight, and has more eyes than Argus.

Danforth Clements writes from Montana to George Warren, of Putnam, Conn., to say that the bones found a year ago near Putnam were not his, as has been supposed, and the good people of that town are trying to think whose bones they were.

Still another romantic marriage was consummated in Yamhill County, Oregon, last week. The bridegroom, after being knocked down with a board by his future mother-in-law, got up, landed an extinguisher upon her nose, which laid her out, and then went away with his dove and got spliced.

Elder Knapp is dead.

Chief Justice Waite was sworn in on the 4th.

State News.

The Tudor Ice Company is erecting a large ice-house at Lake Massabesic, four miles from Manchester.

Mrs. Warren Dodge of Charlestown complained of feeling ill on the night of the 24th ult. and got up and took some ordinary remedy, returning to bed. Her husband got up and built a fire and found her dead on returning.

Democratic "Economy."

[Monitor.]

The democratic press of the State ask for a restoration of their party to power on the ground of its observance of economy. This claim is a false one. It will be remembered that in 1871 the democratic majority in the legislature reduced, for political effect, the State tax to $300,000, when they well knew that the amount was largely insufficient, thereby imperiling the credit of the State and in reality increasing its obligations. But take another instance. Coos county is and has been under democratic rule, and Sullivan county under republican. Last year the tax of Coos was almost one per cent. of its total valuation; that of Sullivan county less than .3 of one per cent. With a population less by several thousand than Sullivan, Coos county taxes were greater, by $10,000, or more than one third. Coos county debt was almost four times as great, while the cost of supporting paupers was nearly double. Four thousand dollars, according to the report of the democratic County Treasurer for 1869, disappeared somewhere during the previous year, and has never been accounted for. Such are the results of democratic financiering.

Pure Water.

[Cincinnati Times.]

Water may be preserved pure and wholesome in rain water cisterns by letting the supply-pipe connect at the bottom of the cistern. The fresh water being heavier than that already in the cistern, will force the stale water to the top so that it can be used before it becomes offensive. It is well known, however, that cistern water becomes impure from the organic matter it contains, and if this can be got rid of by destroying its vitality and precipitating it to the bottom, it will leave the water pure. It is claimed that there is nothing better to effect this than permanganate of potassa, used in the proportion of about an ounce to fifty gallons of water. This causes the inorganic matter to sink to the bottom an innoxious sediment. But the permanganate must be continued as long as the water has a purplish appearance, indicating that the inoffensive matter has not all been precipitated. Though this is not a poisonous drug, and is, we believe, in no way hurtful, still no more should be used than necessary. Every druggist has it for sale. Care must be taken to have the cistern thoroughly cleaned at least twice a year, as well as the troughs upon the building supplying the water.

The Rice Trade.

[New Orleans Picayune.]

Some 75,000 barrels of the rice crop of last season have been marketed, and the total will probably reach 100,000 barrels. A very large amount has been retained in the country for seed, and the planting this spring will be the largest on record. Another year will place Louisiana in the first rank among the United States as a rice producer, and the culture of this cereal is certainly destined to reach enormous proportions within the next decade.

Early Fruits and Vegetables.

The Charlestown, (S. C.) News says that the steamship Manhattan, which left that port for New York, Feb. 25, had on board the first new strawberries of the season, being a lot of about 100 quarts. She also took a parcel of new green peas, both being among the earliest shipments known. They were the growth of Florida, and indicate that the semi-tropical climate of that State is able to furnish fresh fruits and vegetables nearly all the year round. The News adds: "Our own crop of new vegetables is progressing favorably, although the season has been rather wet lately, but should it prove favorable from this on, our northern friends can calculate upon an early supply of first-class vegetables from this vicinity."

Car Coupling Slaughter.

[Scientific American.]

During eleven months ending December 1, 1873, four hundred persons were killed while coupling cars on the Pennsylvania railroad. "Is it the fault of the inventions, or is it the fault of the railway companies, that some of the improved devices be not more widely used, and the slaughter of the employes stopped?" asks a correspondent of the Commercial Advertiser.

Several devices have been fully described and illustrated in our columns, and may have, when practically used, proved valuable inventions. We think there is little room for argument on the point that if a railroad company chooses to ignore modern improvements, and persists in retaining on its cars the old fashioned connection, saving perhaps a few dollars otherwise invested in experimenting at the cost of the lives of hundreds of its employees, the blame falls fairly and squarely on their shoulders and the public should fully appreciate the fact.

A Hard Case.

[Harper's Weekly.]

A few days ago a young girl, fifteen years of age, was arrested in Newark, New Jersey, for stealing three loaves of bread from a basket left temporarily on the steps of a dwelling-house. She was arraigned before a justice, and, when questioned as to what caused her to commit the crime, she burst into tears and said she wanted to get food for a little sister at home who was starving. Inquiry proved the truth of the girl's story, and further that she had no parents, and, with the aid of a brother of her own age, had supported four other children until this winter, when being unable to procure any work, she was tempted to steal the bread. The children were found half dead from cold and hunger. The girl was discharged, and was furnished with food and fuel by the overseers of the poor. Such cases as this reveal the destitution that exists in the midst of great cities. Seldom has there been a winter when there was so much need of wise and careful charity. Cases come to our knowledge every day, showing how earnestly many poor families are struggling with want in every form, and yet striving to live honestly. Judicious help in these times will save many from despair and ruin.

A Wonderful Dog.

Hon. G. F. Richardson, of Lowell, owns a magnificent Newfoundland dog. Last spring Mrs. Richardson took the children and dog to the photograph saloon to have the group taken, but the dog was in a willful mood and would not pose, and was turned out. The next day the dog put in an appearance at the saloon and scratched at the door till he was admitted; he then proceeded directly to the spot assigned him the day before, and placed himself in the exact position that had been desired by the artist. The photograph was taken, and when completed put into a box and given to the dog, who carried it directly to his master; but it being April 1st, the master was at first suspicious, but at length yielded to the dog's pertinacity and opened the box.

Religion and Congress.

[Morning Star.]

Mr. Nesmith of Oregon has been exhibiting himself in a very pitiable way, while discussing the project to reduce the army. He took occasion to display his sneering and brutal spirit by indulging in a tirade against the just, pacific and humane policy adopted toward the Indians, and by holding the gospel of mercy and love up to public ridicule. We are sorry to add that he was greatly encouraged in his work by the sympathetic and noisy laughter of a large fraction of the members. Here are some of the words in which he indulged himself:

"Now the great hue and cry that has been gotten up here for the reduction of the army has emanated from those who are interested in maintaining what is known as the 'peace policy' in relation to the conduct of our Indian affairs. They tell us that we want no military force to protect the frontiersman; that 'Jesus Christ and him crucified' is the means by which the Indians should be pacified. Why, Mr. Chairman, if Christ himself had gone to preach the gospel in the Indian country he would not have kept the hair on his head for twenty-four hours. The missionaries sent out by the Government have rendered no protection, but, on the contrary, they have robbed and plundered the Treasury. All the protection we ever get on the frontier is derived from the presence of troops. I can take you through my State for more than two hundred miles where you will never be out of sight of the grave of a white settler, butchered by ruthless savages before we had protection. I believe the transactions in the lava beds will demonstrate to every gentleman upon this floor—and if they do not now they will when the appropriation bill comes up to pay for them—that there is no peace on that border. The troops there were held in abeyance by those peace commissioners, who were sent out with the understanding they should negotiate peace with these hostile Indians with arms in their hands—as brave and as gallant troops as ever shouldered a musket or drew a sword—kept in abeyance for three months, while supplies were being sent in to feed Indians who had murdered our women and children on the frontier. These stump orators of the Lord, these broken-down gospel peddlers, who are selected for the purpose of going out to investigate Indian affairs, come back with the report that the army demoralizes the Indians, and that the frontiersmen are worse than the army."

We quote this to show what sort of talk is indulged and even applauded in Congress. It certainly proves one thing,—that there are some people beside Indians on the western frontier, who have so far proved wholly impervious to humane influence, and who suggest that the primary missionary work is greatly needed in the ceiled houses of the leading politicians not less than in the wigwam of the common savage.

Deacon Barnes' Sunday.

"Beautiful! beautiful!" mentally ejaculated Deacon Barnes at the close of a sermon about heaven. "Those are my ideas exactly."

And so enrapt was he with his thoughts as he passed out of church, he forgot to ask lame old Mrs. Howe to ride home with him, as was his usual custom.

"Perhaps it is just as well," he thought, "for she is a worldly old woman, and would probably have drawn my thoughts away from heaven."

At the dinner table his son exclaimed:

"Oh, father, I have a situation at last!"

"Have you forgotten that it is Sunday, John?" asked his father, sternly. "Don't let me hear any more such talk."

John ate his dinner in silence. How could his situation be a wrong thing to speak of on Sunday? He was so thankful for it that it seemed to come from the hand of God. God knew all about the restless months in which he had answered an advertisement every day.

When the minister gave thanks in church for all the mercies of the past week, John's heart gave a grateful throb, and he determined anew to acknowledge God in all his ways.

John ate his dinner in silence while his father thought about heaven.

In the afternoon Mr. Barnes' nephew, a stranger in the place, came over from his boarding place opposite and sat on the piazza talking with John.

"I can't allow this, Tom," said Mr. Barnes, coming to the door with his Bible in his hands; "you must not sit here breaking the Sabbath. Go back to your boarding-house and read some good book."

Tom started up angrily, and spent the afternoon fishing and bathing with an old colored man, his only other acquaintance in the place, while Deacon Barnes sat in a large rocker on the piazza with a handkerchief over his face, and thought about heaven.

Presently his two little grand-daughters came on the piazza with a large picture-book and sat down near him. There was a flutter of leaves and a good deal of buzzing as the little yellow heads bent over the book, and finally they laughed outright.

"Children, where's your mother?" sternly demanded Deacon Barnes, springing to his feet."

"Up stairs putting baby to sleep," they both answered together.

Deacon Barnes strode into the hall.

"Ellen! Ellen!" he shouted. "I should think you might keep these children quiet on the Sabbath. They won't allow me to think."

Ellen had been awake all night with a fretful baby. She had hushed him, and had just fallen asleep when her father's voice aroused her and awoke the baby.

"Please send them up stairs," she said wearily.

And all the sultry afternoon she amused the three children in a close, upper room, while her father rocked and fanned himself and thought of heaven.

—The Boston Saturday Evening Gazette tells the following story about a somewhat well-known clergyman of the Hub, which it says "has the merit of being 'too true.'" A gentleman invited Rev. Mr. M——, to drive, one day, and thought he would improve the opportunity for a little serious conversation, and broke the ice thus: "I sometimes think there's something wanting in my life——" "Yes," interrupted M——, "you want something that will get up and git, and just come on the road better than this old plug you're holding the lines over now!"

Special Notices.

PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE

NO. 4 BULFINCH STREET, BOSTON.

When a thing is counterfeited, it is a proof of its excellence and popularity. The Peabody Medical Institute is a case in point. Founded in good faith many years ago, and the only establishment of the kind in the country, its success and ever-increasing popularity finally caused the name (Medical Institute) to be pirated and adopted by a lot of infamous quacks, empirics and pretenders, who have been endeavoring to cheat the public by sailing under a stolen flag. The founder of the Peabody Medical Institute can in no way be held responsible for the misuse of the name of a reputable and well-known curative establishment and legitimate medical institution, which has been from the start specially devoted to the treatment of nervous derangements and affections, from whatever causes proceeding. During its existence there have been issued from it several medical publications; quite recently a work on Diseases of the Nervous System, which have had almost a world wide circulation and popularity. These publications sufficiently attest the high character of the institution under whose patronage these medical works have been published. Meantime it is gratifying to know that several of the impudent charlatans, who have stolen its name to cover their nefarious practices, are getting their deserts in the penal institutions of the Commonwealth.—Boston Herald.

BEHOLD!

WILSON'S

SUPERPHOSPHATE

At Auction!

My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignments has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys a ton of it which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.

My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.

The only Fertilizer that has ever received a SILVER MEDAL from the N. E. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

TUESDAY, MARCH 24, COMMENCING AT 10½ O'CLOCK,

The entire Stock of Goods in Store at that time. I shall sell at auction every Wednesday and Saturday, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and every evening, at 7½ o'clock, until the 16th of March, when all the goods on hand at that time, will be lotted, numbered and sold without reserve. I will name some of the goods in the stock:

White Granite, Stone China, China, Glass, and Brown Ware, Silver Plated Ware, Table Cutlery, Lamps, Bleached and Unbleached Table Linen, Linen Towels, Russia and American Crashes, Red Quilts, Blankets, Bed Comforters, Shirts and Drawers, Hosiery, Gloves, Mittens, Suspenders, Cloaks, Flannels, Shirting, Tickings, Prints, a large assortment of Umbrellas, Chamber sets, French Bedsteads, Cottage do., Folding Cribs, Sofa Bed Lounges, Hair Cloth and Damask covered Lounges, Black Walnut and Chestnut Extension Tables, a good assortment B. W. German Plate Mirrors, Cane and Wood Seat Chairs, Hair, Husk, Wool and Excl. Mattresses, Feather Beds and Pillows, Wool and Carpeting, together with a thousand other articles, which you can see by stepping in to look. The public are respectfully invited to call; they may see something they would like to purchase.

The unexpired Lease of the Store can be had, and if any one wishes to purchase the whole stock they can have it on liberal terms of payment. The store has been occupied as an Auction and Commission Store ever since it was built, more than 40 years, and has had but two occupants during that period. I shall continue to receive such goods as may be sent to be sold at Auction, at the regular Sale Days, Wednesdays and Saturdays. Goods at private sale cheap.

"Rip Van Winkle"

Will be given to-night. For its pathos and irresistibly amusing features, it is one of the most popular plays familiar to the American stage. The most important character—that of "Rip"—will be assumed by Mr. John Murray, who is a worthy rival of Joe Jefferson himself. Those who intend to be present may confidently look for one of the finest entertainments ever given in this city. The Concord Patriot says Mr. Murray's conception of the character and appreciation of the dreamy legend are admirable, "and his rendering throughout was of the superior kind. None who were present can deny that he is an actor of genius and talent, and is possessed of great dramatic powers. The audience seemed fully to appreciate his fine efforts and constantly gave him the most enthusiastic applause." Reserved seats may be selected at Preston's drug store. See advertisement.

An Astonisher.

Messrs. Editors:—I noticed with surprise in your issue of the 4th inst. a letter from Hon. T. E. O. Marvin, declining to be a candidate for Mayor at the republican caucus of Tuesday last. What could have induced the gentleman, for one instant, to have supposed that the republican party had the slightest idea of using his name at their caucus is to me a mystery, as a man who will once lend himself to an opposition to defeat the regular nominee of his own party should never again expect to receive its confidence or support. I am now patiently awaiting the publication of Mr. Marvin's letter to the democratic caucus, declining its nomination also. ! ! !

Caucus.

The republicans of Ward Three nominated the following ticket, Wednesday evening:

Representatives, William H. Rollins, Oliver H. Locke.
Aldermen, John E. Ham, Michael J. Vaughan.
Common Councilmen, Lafayette V. Newell, Job Woodsum, John S. McDonald.
Selectmen, Michael J. Vaughan, George M. Ayers, Thomas R. Moore.
Assessors, John Nutter, Richard L. Randall.
School Committee, Charles W. Gardner, John S. Rand, William H. Ham.
Overseer of Poor, Elihu Dennett.
Moderator, William H. Rollins.
Ward Clerk, John O. Ayers, 2nd.

Laconics.

A gentleman residing in the outskirts of the city painted a portion of the outside of his house on Tuesday, the 3d, and on Wednesday morning found the paint stuck full of mosquitoes and moths.

The officers of the republican caucus, who were engaged in the arduous duty of receiving votes and checking names for four mortal hours, were the recipients of a hot supper at the hands of Mr. Plumer D. Norton; and Officer Entwistle was so enthusiastic over the large and unanimous vote being cast that he sent in a bottle of furniture varnish, in the natural exuberance of his enjoyment of the rights of a citizen.

April showers came in considerably ahead of time on the 4th.

Schooner The Star was bidden in by Capt. Clark, her skipper, on Wednesday for $2500.

Charlie and Lillie Wilkinson, with a full dramatic company, will appear at the Temple on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, March 11 and 12, in two new plays, "Jane Vail's Mission" and "The Dead Alive."

The Court street Christian Society of this city will hold an Apron Festival on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, of next week. Refreshments, fancy articles, etc., will be offered for sale. Dialogues, tableaux and music, will be among the amusements for each evening. Admission 25 cts. for adults and 15 cts. for children.

Some of the democracy have been coaxing Hon. Daniel Marcy to accept their nomination for Mayor, but the Captain isn't fond of leading a forlorn hope without the least possibility of success. Few men like to enter a fight knowing that they are beaten before the start.

The Seven Wonders of the World.

The seven wonders of the world are among the traditions of childhood, and yet it is a remarkable fact that ninety-nine persons out of one hundred who might be asked the question could not name them. They are: 1, The pyramids—the mystery of the past—the enigma of the present—and the enduring for the future ages of the world. 2, The temple, the walls and hanging gardens of Babylon, the most celebrated city of Assyria, and the residence of the kings of that country after the destruction of Nineveh. 3, The Chryselephantine statue of Jupiter Olympus, the most renowned work of Phidias, the illustrious artist of Greece. The statue was formed of gold, and was sitting on a throne almost touching the summit of the temple, which was 70 feet high. 4, The Temple of Diana at Ephesus, which was 220 years in building, and which was 425 feet in length and 220 in breadth, and supported by 127 marble columns of the Ionic order, sixty feet high. 5, The Mausoleum at Halicarnassus, erected to the memory of Mausolus, the king of Caria, by his wife Artemesia, B. C. 358. 6, The Pharos, at Alexandria, a light house erected by Ptolemy Soter at the entrance of the harbor of Alexandria. It was 450 feet high and could be seen at a distance of 100 miles, and upon it was inscribed, "King Ptolemy, to the gods, the saviours, for the benefit of sailors." 7, The Colossus at Rhodes, a brazen image of Apollo, 105 Grecian feet in height, and located at the entrance of one of the harbors of the city of Rhodes.

—Mirrors are said to have been invented because ladies are so forgetful of their looks.

—Englishmen are somewhat paradoxical. They feed a horse on corn, and then call him a cob.

—Chess is said to have been played in India before the first stone of the Egyptian pyramids was laid.

—It is said that some of the street car companies in Chicago take as much as $4 a day in bogus five-cent pieces.

—A New York judge has decided in favor of passengers on a crowded train occupying seats in a palace car without paying extra therefor. "O, righteous judge!"

—An Aberdeen philosopher has extracted the following reply from an advanced free school lad to the query, "How is the earth divided?" "By earthquakes, sir!"

—Said a pompous husband, whose wife had stolen up behind and given him a kiss, "Madam, I consider such an act indecorous." "Excuse me," said the wife, "I didn't know it was you."

—The oldest milkman is now to be brought out. They have found one in Hudson, N. Y., who has been going his rounds nearly twenty years. The praying people in Ohio should send for him; he can so well attest the benefits of water.

—A half dozen young men went from Shreveport, La., when the late war began; they were all in one mess; they all went through the war without a scratch, and returned to their homes. They were lively boys in a bar-room, and all carried pistols. One after another they killed and were killed, until in 1869 the last one laid in a bloody grave.

Indigestion's Martyrs.

Half the diseases of the human family spring from a disordered stomach, and may be prevented by invigorating and toning that abused and neglected organ with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Let it be borne in mind that the liver, the kidneys, the intestines, the muscles, the ligaments, the bones, the nerves, the integuments, are all renewed and nourished by the blood, and that the digestive organs are the grand alembic in which the materials of the vital fluid are prepared. When the stomach fails to provide healthful nourishment for its dependencies they necessarily suffer, and the ultimate result, if the evil is not arrested, will be chronic and probably fatal disease somewhere. It may be developed in the kidneys in the form of diabetis, in the liver as congestion, in the muscles as rheumatism, in the nerves as paralysis, in the integuments as scrofula. Remember, however, that each and all of these consequences of indigestion may be prevented by the timely and regular use of that sovereign antidote to dyspepsia, Hostetter's Bitters.

Imitators and their Schemes come to grief at last. Only original discoveries, like that of Dr. Helmbold, stand the test of time. Helmbold's Buchu, which is the only extract of that wonderful shrub that realizes its full virtues, is still relied upon to cure Kidney Complaint, Female Disorders, Impotency, Gravel, the effects of dissipation and all troubles of the urinary organs in either sex. This steadily successful medicine is recommended by physicians. Beware of counterfeits. John F. Henry, New York, Sole Agent. Sold by all druggists.

Quack Medicines.—We never puff, but ANAKESIS the great Western PILE remedy has cured Thousands, after lotions, ointments, and all manner of nostrums have failed. It is the discovery of Dr. Silsbee, an eminent western physician, and has been endorsed by medical men of all schools. It is a simple medicated suppository, acts as an instrument, poultice and medicine, affords instant relief from pain, and is pronounced an infallible cure.—Price $1.00. Sold by druggists everywhere. ANAKESIS Depot, 46 Walker St., New York.

Symptoms of Liver Complaint and of Some of the Diseases Produced by it.

A sallow or yellow color of skin, or yellowish brown spots on face and other parts of body; dulness and drowsiness with frequent headache; dizziness, bitter or bad taste in the mouth, dryness of throat, and internal heat; palpitation, in many cases a dry teasing cough, with sore throat, unsteady appetite, raising of food, and a choking sensation in throat; distress, heaviness, bloated or full feeling about stomach and sides, pain in sides, back or breast, and about shoulders; colic, pain and soreness through bowels with heat, constipation, alternating with frequent attacks of diarrhœa; piles, flatulence, nervousness, coldness of extremities, rush of blood to head, with symptoms of apoplexy, numbness of limbs, especially at night, cold chills, alternating with hot flashes, kidney and urinary difficulties; female weakness and irregularities, with dullness, low spirits, unsociability and gloomy forebodings. Only a few of the above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time. All who use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for Liver Complaint and its complications are loud in its praise. Sold by all Druggists everywhere. 711

NONE but a physician knows how much a reliable alterative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cures.—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues they claim. In this state of the case, Dr. J. C. AYER & Co., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other kindred preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

SMITH'S ACADEMY
—AND—
Commercial College
FOUNDED 1874.

An institution for Young Ladies and Gentlemen intended to meet the requirements of Portsmouth and vicinity.

Instruction will be given in the Greek, Latin and modern languages and literature, including especial attention to those studies required for admission to college. Book Keeping, Mathematics, and Penmanship will have that prominence which their practical importance demands. The Natural Sciences will be included in what is intended to be a thorough and complete English course of instruction.

Mrs. E. M. Barrett, educated at Mt. Holyoke Seminary and well known as a successful teacher in schools in Massachusetts, will assist. Other competent teachers will be employed as the needs of the patrons may require. Spring term commences Monday, Feb. 16. Applications for admission can be made at the residence of the Principal, 51 Middle St. or at the Academy rooms in Mechanic's Block, Congress Street. LEWIS E. SMITH, A. M., Principal.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND HUMORS.
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes The Weak Strong.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Conditional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR,
FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR
TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.
Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition, all turn the hair gray, and either of them incline it to shed prematurely.
AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, by long and extensive use, has proven that it stops the falling of the hair immediately; often renews the growth, and always surely restores its color when faded or gray. It stimulates the nutritive organs to healthy activity, and preserves both the hair and its beauty. Thus brushy, weak or sickly hair becomes glossy, pliable and strengthened; lost hair re-grows with lively expression; falling hair is checked and established; thin hair thickens; and faded or gray hair resumes its original color. Its operation is sure and harmless. It cures dandruff, heals all humors, and keeps the scalp cool, clean and soft—under which conditions diseases of the scalp are impossible.
As a dressing for ladies' hair, the VIGOR is praised for its grateful and agreeable perfume, and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.

Loyola.

[Emilio Castelar.]

The Renaissance came, and was for the middle ages what Christianity was for antiquity—the beginning of another age, the soul of another world. From the abyss of heaven to the abyss of the sea, from the abyss of the sea to that of conscience, all was enlightened and illumined. The human body rose from the breast of creation, and breathed, and absorbed a new spirit. At this same moment sprang forth two parties which were to divide society—the conservative or reactionary party, which is represented by Jesuitism, and the liberal or progressive party, which is represented by Masonry. And indeed the reformation has all the historical accessories of other religions. St. Francis of Assisi is its prophet, Savonarola is its Baptist, and Luther its revealer, but Ignatius Loyola is the entire reaction against this work. He was born in Spain, in the country which was soon to sacrifice itself for the preservation of Catholic orthodoxy. He was born in the Basque province, in the province of the grand defiles and the treeless plains, at the foot of the Pyrenees, called the Mountains of Fire by the ancients, near that untamed Cantabrian sea whose waves are continually inviting to marvelous adventures. He was the compatriot of the sailor Elcano; he was the associate of Magellan, who first circumnavigated the globe. He was born in the last days of chivalry, and grew up in the dawn of modern times—the end of the fifteenth century. War was his occupation, adventures were the employment of his youth. But in the war of Navarre, sustained by the Catholic king, he was wounded by a bullet. A long illness followed, and after the wound and the illness a miraculous exaltation. Ignatius was a cavalier in war and a cavalier in religion. He fought for his king in youth; he was to fight for God the rest of his life. The only lady of his thought was to be the Virgin Mary. He was completely possessed by the national madness—love of the superhuman and the miraculous, of all which is beyond the narrow limits of the possible. "Amadis of Gaul" was his favorite reading, and inspired him no more or less than Don Quixote himself. He also watches his arms; he also swears to redress all outrages and wrongs done to the Catholic religion. Reading the pages of the life of the cavalier of Guipuzcoa, you might imagine you are reading the pages of the life of the cavalier of La Mancha. Ignatius is also an ascetic. In the cave of Montserrat, he gives himself up to fasting, to maceration, to penitence, like those early hermits of Christianity, excited by faith, dispersed in the immensity of the desert. Thence he attempts to go to the Holy Land to imbibe from the fountains of Christianity a faith like that of the crusaders. He returns from this journey to Montserrat to surrender himself anew to penances. But he needs not only prayers and mortifications to prepare for battle, but ideas as well. How can he fight the battle of ideas, knowing nothing? He betakes himself to study in Alcala, from Alcala to Salamanca, from Salamanca to Paris, the universities of which contained all the science of that time. In Paris he gathers about him various friends, who are to be hereafter as famous as himself—Xavier, Salmeron—and with them he founds on Montmartre, at the base of the fountain, which is running still, after a communion famous to all time, the new religious society. From Paris, Ignatius and his associates go to Venice to take part in a crusade against the Turks. From Venice, preaching in a sort of lingua Franca, composed of Spanish, French, and Italian, he goes to Rome, where the pope confirms his statutes, and where arises the most famous and most powerful, the most fervid of all religious orders—the order of the Jesuits.

Why He Succeeded.

A man in one of the new States, where society was in a sort of rushing condition, was elected to Congress. A friend in Washington, who knew how entirely unqualified he was for such a position, asked him,—

"How in the world did you manage to get elected?"

"I stole a horse."

"What! stole a horse? And is horse stealing considered a qualification for Congress in your district?"

"No, that ain't it. But as soon as it was known, the papers on t'other side took it up, and howled over it. Of course the papers on our side had to defend me. A tremendous noise was made. Our papers called it a mean, dastardly, cowardly attempt to tarnish the fair name of their standard-bearer—a gentleman whose fortunes were in the hands of his fellow citizens, and who would look confidently to them for redress and support. The noble people would never be deceived by this wicked slander, fiendishly devised for the most unholy of party purposes! and all such kind of stuff. The people got their backs up, and I got in."

At the next election in that State this man's opponent was elected. The same friend meeting the now defeated candidate shortly after the election news had been received, asked him how it had happened.

"O, dod rot the fellow! he stuck a mice, and he got the start of me. He shot a deputy sheriff!"

—"And did you hear him call her my dear or anything like that?" asked the lawyer. "No, sir! of course not; why, she was his wife," answered the lady witness.

—Little girl—"Mamma, I don't think the people who make dolls are very pious people." Mamma—"Why not, my child?" Little girl—"Because you can never make them kneel. I always have to lay my doll down on her stomach to say her prayers!"

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

IF VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas Scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which ate into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
WILLIAM PAYNE.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public with the sanction of the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, Boston." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. IRON IN THE BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND HUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes The Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

BEHOLD!

WILSON'S

SUPERPHOSPHATE

At Auction!

My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.

My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.

The only Fertilizer that has ever received a SILVER MEDAL from the N. E. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Romance In Reality.

[New Bedford Mercury.]

The vicissitudes which mark the lives of some women are exemplified in the case of Mrs. Attorney-General Williams. Many and varied are the stories told concerning her marriages, and when at last she appeared in Washington as the wife of the Attorney-General several excellent leaders of fashion were disposed to frown her down. Because a woman has been unusually unfortunate, while not guilty, seems to me the very reason why her own sex should befriend and uphold her; but the reverse is almost always the case. Consequently Mrs. Williams went very little into society during her first season in Washington. She held aloof with a calm dignity that surprised the "leaders of fashion," while her exemplary conduct eventually forced from them their respect and esteem. It was conceded that she was handsome and agreeable, but it was never suspected that she possessed more than ordinary mind or any diplomatic ability.

She is one of the few women who know how to wait, and, if she cannot create an opportunity, knows how to seize one when it occurs. Her husband's position gave her the first golden opportunity of her life, and so well has she improved it that, from being received under protest, she now leads the beau monde of the capital and dictates even to what style of refreshments shall be offered at receptions. Mrs. Williams well merits her tardy good fortune. But of all the facts concerning her domestic troubles which have been given to the public, one has been omitted containing an element of romance, and showing the love she inspired in the heart of her only child.

Whatever were the terms of separation between herself and first husband, the child remained with its father, who told his son that his mother was dead.

For years the boy believed the story, but one day, on going to the post-office for his father's letters, he found one addressed to himself. It was from his mother! Overpowered by the sudden knowledge of her existence, he dropped upon the curbstone and read his mother's letter.

It related how ill-treatment had driven her from his side; how, poor, alone, and with the reprobation of the world upon her she had struggled for existence; but happier days had at length come—she was married to a Mr. Williams and was going to Europe. She enclosed her photograph and bade her son never forget his mother.

The boy sprang up, vowing to do more than remember—to devote his life to finding her. He went to his father, showed him the letter, and asked him the reason of his deception. He coldly replied that he had thought it best—that if he had known his mother was alive he would have wanted to see her, and that he would never have permitted.

The boy followed his mother's example—he left the rich man's house; and although not twelve years of age, he went to work in a foundry. Steadily he worked with but one purpose in his heart—to earn money enough to go and find his mother. That moment came at length, and he went to Europe, with nothing to identify her by but the photograph and letter.

Failing to find her in Europe, he returned to the United States and hunted through city after city, unavailingly. His procedure was simple. He copied from the directory the addresses of all in the place named Williams and called on them in turn till the list was exhausted.

Many a quiet family he startled from their serenity by a raid upon them, photograph in hand, inquiring for his mother. At last there was but one city left to search—Washington. He pursued his usual course there, visiting all the Williams families in the capital save that of the Attorney-General. In every case he was disappointed.

He was now so near despair that he had had half a mind, he said, not to call on them. But it was the last of the name whom he had not seen, and his search would be incomplete without it. The youth resolved to make his last inquiry; so photograph in hand, he entered the National Hotel, and asked the clerk if Mrs. Williams lived there. "Yes," was the reply. "Does this look like her?" "That's the lady," said the clerk. "I am her son—can you give me a room near her?" "Yes." "Say nothing of my being here—I want to surprise her." "All right."

The young man went to his room, arrayed himself in his best, then knocked at his mother's door, his whole frame trembling with agitation and with hope deferred at length realized.

Her voice bade him enter. He flung open the door, and, exclaiming, "Mother, don't you know me?" he rushed frantically into her arms.

She was at the time an invalid, and the shock proved serious; but as "joy never kills," they say, she recovered.

He had worked his way almost all through Europe and America; consequently his education had been neglected; but as he was only twenty-one years of age when he found his mother she hoped to overcome the defect. She put him to school at once, and he gives promise of becoming as brilliant in mind as he is loving of heart.

The Advertiser says: The most notable feature of the March elections is, perhaps, the election of women by a large number of towns in central and western Massachusetts to places on school committees. The recent discussion of the subject in Boston excited a very general interest, and many towns took this method of expressing their opinion about it at the first opportunity. There are few towns in the State where women are not ready to undertake the supervision of the schools with intelligence and enthusiasm. In many of them all the teachers are women and all the pupils children, the older boys and girls finishing their education away from home. In such towns the school committee service seems to belong especially to women, if any can be found who are willing to undertake it.

Another African War.

[N. Y. World.]

The English settlement at Sierra Leone cost the English government from first to last about £8,000,000 in money and the lives of a large number of gallant soldiers and able administrators. It used to be said "that Sierra Leone always had two governors, one going out alive and the other coming home dead," and this ghastly extravagance does not do much injustice to the deadly and pestiferous climate of the colony. The colony was founded in 1789 "for the suppression of the slave trade and the elevation of the negro." The slave trade has been suppressed by causes with which Sierra Leone had nothing whatever to do; but eighty-seven years of pious and philanthropic labor among the negroes have not resulted in their elevation. On the contrary, some of them seem to grow steadily, or unsteadily, worse; and they have recently been indulging in exploits which threaten to result in even a more "equivocal and entangling war" than the one which has just been brought to a close in Ashantee. One of the tribes whose elevation was sought by the establishment of the Sierra Leone colony are the Kossohs, a warlike and brave race. Their king offered to send some of his soldiers to aid Sir Garnet Wolsely; the offer was accepted with thanks; the men were duly forwarded, and are now with Sir Garnet in Ashantee. The king was paid for the loan of his men, and was supposed to be quite satisfied with his bargain. But the other day, either out of sheer "cussedness" or by reason of some grudge, he suddenly made an inroad into the British settlement of Sherboro', burned and plundered a town called Manoe, and carried off all its inhabitants—negroes—into slavery. He then sent word to the British commandant that he would return the captives upon the payment of an adequate ransom; but as this is not the way England does busines, he was informed that unless he sent the prisoners home and made compensation for the destruction of their town he would be chastised. To this he retorted "Come and take me," and thus here is the probable beginning of another African war. Nor was this all, for a few days afterward the British commandant happening to be at Free Town, went across the river with three other Englishmen to enjoy a few days shooting. Shooting in plenty they had—but it was in being shot at; for on the second night the house which they occupied was attacked by two hundred armed men of the Shoosoo tribe. The commandant and one of his friends were wounded, the other two were badly beaten, their arms were taken from them, and they escaped with difficulty with their lives. This little escapade occurred within four miles of the government house and in the British territory. It would seem as if eighty-seven years of missionary effort and £8,000,000 should have produced a more perceptible progress in the civilization of Africa than these facts indicate.

How The Dauphin Escaped.

[Paris Letter.]

After a respite of several days, M. Jules Favre resumed his speech in favor of Comte Alberi de Bourbon. The court was crowded to excess, and order had to be preserved by the military in the neighborhood of the Palais de Justice, owing to the number of persons flocking to catch a glimpse of the claimant and his family. In a recent letter I mentioned how the father of the Comte Albert had been acknowledged by several old servants of Louis XVI. and by the last home minister of that monarch, M. de Joly. On Friday, M. Jules Favre proceeded to show how the Dauphin escaped from the Temple where he had been handed over to the custody of the shoemaker Simon and his wife. The story may be thus briefly narrated: The Dauphin was confined in the tower of the Temple, and there was only one door. Several devoted conspirators, and among them the Comte de Montmorin and Josephine de Beauharnais, furnished the necessary funds. One morning some opium was administered to the Dauphin, who was carried up stairs in a basket and a ay figure, made to resemble him, was placed in his bed. After a short time this fraud was discovered, and the government had a deaf and dumb child substituted so as to make it believe that Louis XVII was still in the temple. A doctor was called in to poison the child, but an apothecary administered a counter poison, and shortly afterward both doctor and apothecary were poisoned. As the deaf and dumb boy would not die, a sickly lad was procured from a hospital and he soon died, was subjected to a post-mortem examination, and was placed in a coffin. This coffin was taken up stairs, where the Dauphin had passed some eight or ten months; another substitution was accomplished, the dead body was placed in a basket, and Louis XVII put in the coffin.

On the way to the cemetery a last substitution was effected, the Dauphin was slipped out of the coffin and some bundles of paper slipped in. Louis XVII was confided to the care of trusty friends, and all the courts of Europe were warned of what had occurred. After these astonishing assertions, Mr. Jules Favre went on to accuse all the persons who had sworn to the death of the Dauphin as guilty of deliberate falsehood. He then said that the people chiefly concerned in the escape of the Dauphin were Barras, Charette, Josephine Beauharnais, Hoche, Pichegru, etc., adding that a man named Laurent, who had managed the details, was afterward sent to Cayenne by Bonaparte. The widow Simon, who died in a hospital in 1819, up to her last breath declared that the Dauphin had made his escape, and, questioned by the Duchesse d'Angouleme, by the Duchesse de Berri, and Talleyrand, she persisted in the truth of her statement. Shortly after Bonaparte married Josephine he had the Dauphin's coffins taken up in presence of Fouche and Savary, and it was found empty. It seems, too, that in 1814, Josephine, disinclined to witness the usurpation of the Comte de Provence, confided the secret to the Emperor of Russia. The Comte did all he could to procure her silence, offered her a marshal's baton for her son Eugene Beauharnais, and a province of France. Prince Eugene refused. According to M. Jules Favre, in the secret treaty of Paris the high contracting powers stated that they had no material proof of the death of Louis XVII. And on his death-bed Louis XVIII referred M. Tronchet to a certain chest, which he examined in company with M. de Villele and two other ministers.

After an examination of its contents, the ministers agreed to proclaim the Duc de Normandie (Louis XVII), but Cardinal de Latil objected, and thus Charles X was crowned. The Duc de Berri (father of the Comte de Chambord) was one of his warmest partisans, and often wrote to the Duc de Normandie. M. Jules Favre then related what happened to the Dauphin on escaping from Paris. He first repaired to La Vendee, as a proclamation by Charette proved, but he was betrayed and imprisoned. By whom it was not said. However, Josephine Beauharnais, Barras, Hoche, Pichegru, etc., aided him to escape a second time, and he gained Trieste, then Rome, where he was protected by Pius VI. A woman who had helped the Dauphin to get out of the Temple married a Swiss clockmaker. The Prince was constantly with these persons, learned German from the wife and clock-making from the husband. However, the Dauphin was obliged to fly from Rome, he took the ship for London, but was taken by a French vessel of war, was thrown into prison and persecuted. Again did Josephine and her friends deliver him, and he went to stay with the Duc d'Enghien, but he was once more arrested in the neighborhood of Strasburg, and was cast into the prison of that place. In 1808 Josephine had him liberated. He was then twenty-four years old, but he had passed seventeen years in prison, and what wonder that he had forgotten his French! After a variety of adventures the Dauphin reached Berlin, but, having no passport, he could not enter the city. A charitable soul gave him a passport drawn out in the name of Naundorff, and this was how he came by that appellation. As for his physical identity, M. Jules Favre explained that that had been "seriously disquieted" by his enemies. For example, at Strasburg he was subjected to severe torture; his face was pierced by one thousand holes, and the bleeding wounds were washed with corrosive acid. "When he was cured he was not recognizable." Even under Louis Phillippe he was put in prison, but he scaled the walls and fled to Holland, where he died in peace and was buried in 1845.

Afflicted with the Twinsy.

[Max Adeler.]

When Smiley of Pittsburgh started for Philadelphia the other day a woman occupied the seat in front of him with twin infants. Just before the train moved off the woman asked Smiley to hold the babies for a moment while she went to the drug store across the street after a new bottle top. He took the little ones and before the woman returned the train started. Smiley was in agony, and when the babies began to cry no words can describe his misery. All the passengers were looking at him, and as he dandled the children up and down, one on each knee, the perspiration streamed from every pore. This kind of thing continued until dark, and then as the conductor refused to have anything to do with the infants, poor old Smiley put them into his own berth, and tried to soothe them. But the more he tried the more they howled; and he set up alongside of them the whole night utterly wretched, while the other passengers swore at him and threw boots at his head, and called him hard names because he wouldn't keep the youngsters quiet. By the time morning came Smiley was pretty near crazy, and the twins were almost starved to death. He had nothing to give them but plug tobacco and bay rum, which he carried for his hair, and he knew those were not healthy. The first time the train stopped he bolted out and bought a pie. When he returned one of the twins had tumbled off the seat and had broken a nose, but he stuffed them both with pie until they were deathly sick. Then Smiley was in a worse case than ever. When he reached Philadelphia he was on the very verge of insanity, and his reason was all but dethroned when a policeman entered the car and seized him on the authority of a telegram from Pittsburgh, on a charge of kidnapping. He spent the night in jail, and was then released on bail. He wants to find the father of those twins. He yearns to tell him something, and to fumble among his hair.

Do Not Poison Young Hearts.

Never try to poison a young heart. Never tell it of all life's sorrows and crimes before experience has come with its cruel teaching. Too soon we all must learn that there is treachery and duplicity in many a heart, but let those fresh enough, sweet enough to believe in angels, keep their faith as long as possible. Let them be happy, too. Never darken their lives with sad revelations. We are none of us free from care too long. If all women are not models of innocence, what good will it do the boy to know it? If all men are not faithful lovers and husbands, why should you force the truth upon a loving girl? The very knowledge of crime sometimes sullies the soul. The longer one is kept ignorant of it, the more likely is that one to be permanently good and innocent.

Why Dawes is Sulky.

Hon. Henry L. Dawes made the statement on the floor of the House of Representatives two or three weeks ago, that when it was found that the pension agent in Massachusetts was receiving $18,000 a year, instead of cutting his salary down, it was concluded that it was enough for two, and another was appointed. A Washington correspondent tells the following anecdote concerning this Massachusetts agency, and probably it is as untrue as it is immoral and amusing:

Mr. Dawes learned that the agent in Boston made $18,000 per annum, which is too much for one man, and all to go to the city of Boston, and he went to work to get the district divided, so as to have an agency in the western part of the State. After he had succeeded in this, and got his fine pasture marked off and fenced in, he began to make preparations to turn his favorite steer in there to forage; but lo! before he was ready, on looking over the fence he saw one of Butler's herd quietly browsing there, and the bars were up.

Butler and the venerable Alvah Crocker had gone to work, and while Dawes was preparing the land, they were making ready to stock it, and thus was the birthright of the political Esau of Mr. Dawes turned over to the Jacob of the tribe of Benjamin. The subsequent proceedings had no further interest for the Chairman of Ways and Means, and he came to the conclusion that the thing was a nuisance, and must be got rid of.

Simple Gate-Latch.

The gate to the calf-pen has always been a bother. A peg to insert, with the other hand encumbered by a pail of roots, a dipper of bran, or a basket of hay, and hungry calves crowding and jostling. Could we rummage a latch from the old iron? Yes; that old strap hinge is exactly the thing—just soggy enough to catch quick. Here's a flat staple, too. For the catch we can bore and drive in a bit of axe-helve, saw a snug slot therein and cut an incline therein for the latch to rise on with a drawing knife. Capital! The rattle of that gate latch is as charming now as the click of a boy's first jack-knife or watch always is.

The Grand Central Hotel, New York.

A recent New York letter says of the Grand Central Hotel: Although the Grand Central has been, daily, a scene of busy activity since it was first opened, Mr. Powers has found time this winter, with the aid of a corps of skilled artists in each department, to make his splendid hotel look fresher and more beautiful than ever. Most noticeable, perhaps, among the recent improvements are the new and tasteful designs in frescowork which adorn the halls, parlors, grand dining-room, and exchanges. In keeping with this, solid and polished walnut and white and variegated marble predominate below, while rich patterns of Royal Wilton and Axminister carpets cover the floors in every direction above. The Grand Central is also growing famous for its table. Another deserving feature, now in great favor, is the plan of rates adopted by the Grand Central, which allows the guest to choose the price and location of his room, the prices $3, $3.50, and $4, being charged according to the floor selected.

Indigestion's Martyrs.

Half the diseases of the human family spring from a disordered stomach, and may be prevented by invigorating and toning that abused and neglected organ with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Let it be borne in mind that the liver, the kidneys, the intestines, the muscles, the ligaments, the bones, the nerves, the integuments, are all renewed and nourished by the blood, and that the digestive organs are the grand alembic in which the materials of the vital fluid are prepared. When the stomach fails to provide healthful nourishment for its dependencies they necessarily suffer, and the ultimate result, if the evil is not arrested, will be chronic and probably fatal disease somewhere. It may be developed in the kidneys in the form of diabetis, in the liver as congestion, in the muscles as rheumatism, in the nerves as paralysis, in the integuments as scrofula. Remember, however, that each and all of these consequences of indigestion may be prevented by the timely and regular use of that sovereign antidote to dyspepsia, Hostetter's Bitters.

Imitators and their Schemes come to grief at last. Only original discoveries, like that of Dr. Helmbold, stand the test of time. Helmbold's Buchu, which is the only extract of that wonderful shrub that realizes its full virtues, is still relied upon to cure Kidney Complaint, Female Disorders, Impotency, Gravel, the effects of dissipation and all troubles of the urinary organs in either sex. This steadily successful medicine is recommended by physicians. Beware of counterfeits. John F. Henry, New York, Sole Agent. Sold by all druggists.

Quack Medicines.—We never puff, but ANAKESIS the great Western PILE Remedy has cured Thousands, after lotions, ointments, and all manner of nostrums have failed. It is the discovery of Dr. Silabee, an eminent western physician, and has been endorsed by medical men of all schools. It is a simple medicated suppository, acts as an instrument, positive and medicine, affords instant relief from pain, and is pronounced an infallible cure.—Price $1.00. Sold by druggists everywhere. ANAKESIS Depot, 46 Walker St., New York.

Symptoms of Liver Complaint and of Some of the Diseases Produced by It.

A sallow or yellow color of skin, or yellowish brown spots on face and other parts of body; dullness and drowsiness with frequent headache; dizziness, bitter or bad taste in the mouth, dryness of throat, and internal heat; palpitation, in many cases a dry tensing cough, with sore throat, unsteady appetite, raising of food, and a choking sensation in throat; distress, heaviness, bloated or full feeling about stomach and sides, pain in sides, back or breast, and most shoulders; colic, pain and soreness through bowels with heat, constipation, alternating with frequent attacks of diarrhœa; piles, flatulence, nervousness, coldness of extremities, rush of blood to head, with symptoms of apoplexy, numbness of limbs, especially at night, cold chills, alternating with hot flashes, kidney and urinary difficulties; female weakness and irregularities, with dullness, low spirits, unsociability and gloomy forebodings. Only a few of the above symptoms are likely to be present in any case at one time. All who use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for Liver Complaint and its complications are loud in its praise. Sold by all Druggists everywhere. 711

NONE but a physician knows how much a reliable alterative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cures.—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues their claim. In this state of the case, Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other kindred preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE

NO. 4 BULFINCH STREET, BOSTON.

When a thing is counterfeited, it is a proof of its excellence and popularity. The Peabody Medical Institute is a case in point. Founded in good faith many years ago, and the only establishment of the kind in the country, its success and ever-increasing popularity finally caused the name (Medical Institute) to be pirated and adopted by a host of impudent quacks, empirics and pretenders, who have been endeavoring to cheat the public by sailing under a stolen flag. The founder of the Peabody Medical Institute can in no way be held responsible for this misuse of the name of a reputable and well-known curative establishment and legitimate medical institution, which has been from the start specially devoted to the treatment of nervous derangements and affections, from whatever causes proceeding. During its existence there have been issued from it several medical publications; quite recently a work on Diseases of the Nervous System, which have had almost a world wide circulation and popularity. These publications sufficiently attest the high character of the institution under whose patronage these medical works have been published. Meantime it is gratifying to know that several of the impudent charlatans, who have stolen its name to cover their nefarious practices, are getting their deserts in the penal institutions of the Commonwealth.—Boston Herald.

SPLENDID AND UNPARALLELED TRIUMPHS

—OF THE—

WHEELER & WILSON

Sewing Machine Co.,

NEW YORK.

OVER EIGHTY-ONE COMPETITORS,

—AT THE—

WORLD'S EXPOSITION, VIENNA, 1873, &c.

1. The Knight's Cross of the Imperial Order of "Francis Joseph," conferred by his Apostolic Majesty the Emperor of Austria, upon the Honorable Nathaniel Wheeler, President of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Company, as the founder and builder of Sewing Machine industry.
2. The Grand Diploma of Honor, recommended by the International Jury for this Sewing Machine Company only, for their important contributions to the material and social welfare of mankind.
3. The Grand Medal for Progress, awarded for their New No. 6 Sewing Machine, being for progress made since the Paris Exposition of 1867, at which the only Gold Medal for Sewing Machines was awarded to this Company. Hence the Vienna awarded marks Progress not from a low, level, or inferior medal, but from a Gold Medal, the highest award made at Paris.
4. The Grand Medal for Merit, for the development of Needle Industry and excellence and superiority of manufactured samples exhibited.
5. A Grand Medal for Merit, for excellence and superiority of Cabinet work, the only award of the kind in this section.
6. Medals for several Co-operators, of the Wheeler & Wilson Company, for superior ability.
7. The Official Report, published by the General Direction of the Vienna Exposition, signalizes the supremacy of the Wheeler & Wilson Company for quantity and quality of manufacture, and position in the Sewing Machine business, as follows:

OFFICIAL REPORT, VIENNA EXPOSITION SEWING MACHINES, &C.

(GROUP 15, SEC. 2, A.)

"The greatest Sewing Machine Manufactory in the world is that of Wheeler and Wilson, New York, which alone has brought already over 900,000 of their Sewing Machines into practical use. The complete production of the parts by machinery is so regulated that each complete machine may be used as a sample for exhibition. This firm produces 600 well adjusted machines daily."

"The latest production of this firm, and which is the wonder of the Vienna Exposition, is their new No. 6 Sewing Machine. This universal machine sews the heaviest leather harness and the finest gauzes with a truly pearl stitch."

"Wheeler & Wilson have received the highest prizes at all World's Expositions, and at the Vienna Exposition were extraordinarily distinguished."

FURTHER DISTINGUISHED HONORS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15, 1873.

THE GRAND MEDAL OF HONOR

—OF THE—

AMERICAN INSTITUTE, NEW YORK,

Was unanimously recommended by the judges of Sewing-Machines for

WHEELER & WILSON'S

NEW NO. 6 SEWING MACHINE,

of being "a decided improvement over all other machines in the market," and which "must revolutionize certain branches of industry, especially in Shoe and Harness Manufacturing."

BALTIMORE, Md., October 31, 1873.

"The MARYLAND INSTITUTE has awarded WHEELER & WILSON the GOLD MEDAL for their New No. 6 Sewing Machine. Other Sewing Machines received nothing."

SAVANNAH, November 4, 1873.

"At the GEORGIA STATE FAIR, a SILVER MEDAL, the highest and only premium for Leather Stitching, was awarded to WHEELER & WILSON for samples done on their New No. 6 Sewing Machines."

Local Matters.

FOR MAYOR,

FRANK W. MILLER.

Caucusing.

The republicans of the first and second wards are to meet at their respective ward rooms, this evening, to complete their nominations for ward and city officers, etc. We presume the custom of renominating officers who have served but one year will be continued. The demoralizing effect of making "yearlings" of officials who have made themselves obnoxious in one way or another to members of the party in times past, was shown a year ago when a combination of the friends of those men whose feelings had been hurt succeeded in defeating our candidate for Mayor and nearly lost the election in the first ward, which would have thrown the city into democratic hands had there been a change of a few votes. The caucus of the second ward this evening, opens at seven o'clock; that of the first ward at half-past seven.

Political Changes.

A noticeable incident of the republican mayoralty caucus was the fact that a majority of the votes cast was not thrown by navy yard workmen, who it was claimed nominated Mr. Miller last year. Another and very pleasing feature was the appearance of many republicans who voted for Mayor Marvin last year, because of the "police question," and who are now heart and hand for Mr. Miller, as if realizing that they owed him recognition for quietly abiding by the declaration of votes for Mayor in preference to an ill-natured contest when his indignant friends urged it after he had been counted out in the third ward. Still another incident is noticeable—the disappearance of the labor reform and liberal republican organizations from politics, a majority of those who have cast their votes in that direction for a year or two being now among Mr. Miller's warmest advocates.

The Mayoralty.

Hon. Daniel Marcy is the democratic nominee for Mayor. It is understood that the democracy were very much afraid of losing the third ward and finally prevailed on the Captain to allow his name used to strengthen the ward ticket. Charles Robinson, Esq., is the prohibition candidate. The republican nominee will have a large majority over both, next Tuesday. Mr. Robinson, by running as a temperance candidate for Senator against William R. Martin, Esq., in 1871, after being the recipient of honors from the republicans, succeeded in defeating an election, and the democratic legislature chose Mr. Marcy Senator. We are surprised that men of character should allow themselves to be used in such a manner, when their own success is entirely out of the question and no benefit can be derived from it, while its tendency is to harm those who have been faithful political and personal friends.

Religious Politics.

Second edition of Hardy's tactics—running as a prohibition candidate for the Senate with no prospect of receiving one tenth of the whole number of votes, for the purpose of defeating a life-long temperance man and electing the democratic candidate. The first edition was exhausted last year by the same gentleman running as a temperance candidate for Congress in the third district, thereby helping to draw off a sufficient number of votes from Gen. Griffin to defeat him and elect a democratic backpay salary-grabber. Is there method in Methodism?

Laconics.

"Rip Van Winkle" appeared to a very good audience at the Temple, Thursday evening, and pleased all present, Mr. Murray fulfilling the popular anticipation in the title role. The play will be repeated this evening.

The Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals acknowledges the receipt of $25 from "A friend to dumb animals," to be added to the permanent fund.

North Hampton.

The levee, given by the ladies of the Congregational Society was a very successful and satisfactory one. The attendance, considering the bad state of the roads, was very good and the entertainments passed off well. Net proceeds $280.

Miss Celia Valentine will read in the vestry, Friday evening, March 13th, for the benefit of the Congregational Sabbath school.

J. W. B.

Dead Congressmen Utilized.

[Max Adeler.]

We see in one of the papers a paragraph from a Washington letter, which says that it costs the government two thousand dollars to bury a Congressman who dies at the capitol. We should not have noticed the statement but for the fact that we have come across another statement to the following effect: "Recently an eccentric Englishman died and left fifty pounds in his will to a London gas company, on condition that it should convert him into gas in one of its crucibles." Now, if it is really practicable to make gas out of an ordinary human being, imagine how enormous would be the quantity that could be made from an average Congressman, who is chiefly composed of gas! Therefore, instead of spending so much money for funerals, we insist that hereafter every defunct Congressman shall be turned over to the gas company to be worked up, and run through a meter and sold by the cubic foot. It would be an unusually exhilarating experience to read a newspaper by the light of a vaporized Congressman, and to turn that statesment out when we get into bed. There are a great many Congressmen who never will throw light on anything unless they are put through a crucible and emitted from a burner.

The city of Nashua very foolishly chose a democratic Mayor at the last election, and during the year the ordinary expenditures of the city were increased $13,679.48. The year previous the total city expenses, less cash on hand and city debt, were $92,563.24. The present year they amount to 131,645.22, being $39,071.98 more than under a republican administrator. No wonder the staid citizens desire a more economical management.

—In the South it costs a bale of cotton, in the West a stack of hay, in Cincinnati a barrel of pork, in Virginia a hogshead of tobacco, in Pensylvania a ton of pig iron, and in New England a first-class sewing machine—to dress a belle for a ball.

—"I see," said a young lady, "that some printers advertise blank declarations for sale; I wish I could get one." "Why?" asked the mother. "Because, ma, Mr. G——— is too modest to ask me to marry him; and, perhaps, if I could fill a blank declaration he would sign it."

—A couple of blacksmiths, formerly in partnership in Leon, Iowa, have a curious lawsuit. One sues the other for labor performed and money paid out, and the other presents a counter claim for twelve months' checker-playing indulged in by the plaintiff when he should have been at work.

—A Nebraska judge, not long since, convicted and fined a man in the following manner: There being no evidence against the prisoner the judge declared he knew something of the case himself. Whereupon he solemnly administered the oath to himself, gave his testimony, and convicted the prisoner thereon.

—Captain Blackman of Stratford, Conn., commander of the New York and Richmond steamer Isaac Bell, was recently reprimanded by the insurers of his vessel for saving a wrecked schooner and her crew and towing them into port, but the insurers of the wrecked schooner sent him a check for $4000.

—The Patrons of Industry and the Sovereigns of Industry are politely requested to make way for something more comprehensive. For here comes Mr. Jonathan Periam, of Chicago, with a new order, the "Advocates of Justice," designed, "not only for those who work with muscles, but those who work with brain."

—Philadelpia lawyers have a world-wide reputation for smartness, but a local liquor seller has cast them into the shade by advertising that the women's war on whiskey was to begin at a certain number in Sansom street, on Friday. The announcement had the intended effect, and secured him a good day's trade.

—San Francisco has a shrewd grabber for a policeman. Through the courtesy of the Chinese the outside barbarians were allowed to inspect their new temple, and numbers availed themselves of the privilege. The knight of the billy, noticing the curious throngs, stationed himself at the door and took fees from all desiring to enter, until his fraud was discovered and stopped by the Mongols in charge.

—In a Detroit Police Court, recently, when a man was about to be tried for assault and battery, he brought forward his boy, ten years old, as a witness. The Justice asked the lad if he knew the nature of an oath, and the boy said his father had explained it. "What did he say?" asked the Justice. "He said," replied the boy, "that if I didn't swear that the other fellow struck first, he'd tan the whole hide off my back." He wasn't used on the stand.

—A great deal of harm is done through forgetfulness. A little thoughtfulness and care with respect to others would often save them from a great deal of suffering, and aid them in their work. A man is discouraged in consequence of the difficulties he meets with. An encouraging word may be all that is necessary to revive his energies, and to cause him to persevere. That word were easily spoken. There are those who are perfectly willing to speak it, but they do not think of it.

—City men may, after a while, overcome all obstacles and learn to milk a cow, but as a general thing it is not best to milk one with a lighted cigar in the mouth. Jack Reynolds attempted this at Setauket, Long Island. He was doing very well until he lowered his head and touched bossy on her round with the fire on his cigar. Then that weed was put out and poor Jack was put in—out into a mud puddle, and these dove-colored pants became distastefully variegated. As for the cow, after heaving her hind-quarter at him, she stepped her hind foot into and through the milk-pail, and went off with it on her foot, shaking her head and daring him to do it again.

—A Washington letter says: Talk about "panics!" There never has been such "dressing" among womankind in Washington as this winter. It looks as though "poor but pious parents" had put all their available funds into laces and diamonds before making a final assignment to their creditors. The belles have been mostly stout women, who could carry off most of this toggery. Some have been pointed out to me that actually made me seasick. Your petite, spiritueile women count as nothing to the carnal mind longing for the avoirdupois. The noticeable women here this winter have been many of them from the south, and their beauty is of the luxuriant type, not common at the north.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

Lucky Omens.

[Harper's Weekly.]

What an exhibition of human weakness is made in the petty superstitions regarding so-called omens and lucky and unlucky days! Let us run over a few of these follies, not yet exploded in certain sections of the population.

Odd numbers—barring the ever fatal thirteen—are thought to be lucky. The shrill piping of the household cricket is prophetic of happiness to the hearth it haunts, as surely as the settling of a stork upon a Dutchman's roof-tree bodes pleasant times to the dwellers beneath it. That forlornest of animals, the masterless dog that follows close upon the heels of a night-walker, and will not be balked of companionship, is a certain luck-bringer. Black cats should be at a premium, considering a stray puss of that hue who takes a fancy to establishing himself in a house introduces good fortune with him; while a cat of any color, whether an uninvited visitor or an acknowledged member of the family, ought never to be restrained from sharpening his talons at the expense of the table's legs, since, when he thus scratches, he scratches for luck. Pat kindly the head of the first lamb of spring, if you have the chance; it will bring prosperity to you and yours; but avoid the innocent creature if it presents its tail to view.

To come suddenly upon a couple of magpies, to pick up a pin lying with its head toward you, to find—of course without seeking—a four-leaved clover, or a bit of old iron, is matter for rejoicing; if the iron take the shape of a rusty nail or an old horseshoe, the omen is so much the more fortunate. Absent-minded and careless dressers are likely to be often in luck's way. To put on any garment wrong side out, provided we are not neat enough to spoil the charm, is an infallible prognostic that something is about to happen which will profit the sloven greatly.

It is not pleasant to stumble up stairs, but there is some consolation for sore shins in knowing that a wedding will come off in the house ere twelve months have passed by, even if the stumbler has no hope of being a party concerned in the event. Should a spinster or a bachelor be inadvertently placed between a married pair at the dinner-table, he or she will taste the sweets of connubial bliss before the year is out. A maiden who has constant ill luck at the card-table will play the game of life with greater success partnered with a good husband. Happy will be the bride the sun shines on; and if a hen cackles in her new home as she crosses its threshold, she will be a happy mother as well as a contented wife. The odd notion prevails in some parts of France that when two marriages take place at the same time, the bride who leaves the church first will have a boy for her first child. Not long ago two weddings were celebrated simultaneously at Archies. As soon as the ceremony was over, the two couples and their friends made all haste to reach the church door, and, to use a sporting phrase, made a dead-heat of it. Neither party were inclined to yield precedence, defiant looks were exchanged, and things wore a threatening aspect, when the mayor, stepping to the front, solved the difficulty by giving an arm to each of the brides, and taking them out together, to the immense relief of their respective friends.

To barter away old shoes for the benefit of the "translator" is a sad waste; there is nothing like well-worn leather to propitiate fate. The time-honored custom of throwing an old shoe after a departing friend, in order that his journey may have a prosperous issue, is so ancient and so common that we only mention it here to remind intending throwers that the shoe should belong to the left foot—there is no virtue in its fellow—and that the harder the recipient is hit, the happier will be the result. Old shoes are within everybody's reach, but a friend is not always at hand to perform the ceremony. However, that scarcely matters much, since we have lately learned success is to be retrieved, whether it be deserved or not, by simply pocketing a bit of coal.

—A sure sign of an early spring is a cat watching a hole in the wall with her back up.

—The Pittsburg, Penn., chief of the fire department has issued a "Handbook of etiquette for the boys, when wrestling with every degree of heat, from a half dollar blaze to a raging conflagration." Politeness of course is always a good thing. It forbids comment on the book.

—As a rule our ministers and consuls are very poor penmen, and it is oftentimes with difficulty their communications are read. Bancroft writes a large, school-boy hand; Schenck uses a quill, which, many think must be a paint brush; Washburne's penmanship is not intelligible; and as for Marsh, he is said to form letters as he would a block-house.

—"Grace Greenwood," writing from Washington to the New York Times, says: I lately came upon a newspaper story of a handsome but headstrong little boy, who, while innocently diverting himself by belaboring the heels of a spirited horse, received a kick which laid open his blooming cheek. While the wound was being dressed, he looked up to his sympathizing parent, standing over him, and said: "Papa, I never will be pretty again, will I?" "No, you will never be pretty again, but you will know more, my son, you will know more." So a rash young Congressman, a member from the west or south, sometimes dares and invites an attack from the member from Lowell, but he seldom repeats the provocation; and he is likely to bear some ugly mark of the encounter throughout his parliamentary life in an epithet or nickname that stings and sticks.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to pitch of crutch, a well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
WILLIAM PAYN.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN

HAIR RENEWER!

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever. It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color. It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff; and the scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, says of it: "I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE,

FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as improved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BETTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

BEHOLD!
WILSON'S
SUPERPHOSPHATE
At Auction!
My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.
My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.
The only Fertilizer that has ever received a SILVER MEDAL from the N. E. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Daily Chronicle.

Hunchback Margery.

So you want to hear my story? Twenty years ago you wouldn't have had to ask. Every man, woman and child hereabouts knew it then. But the old people are dead, the children are men and women, gone to seek their fortunes; new people have come in the old ones' places, and it's little the new ones care for Hunchback Margery's story. Then, too, after Lily was married, I left the good old place, and moved up here on the hill. There wasn't any need of keeping two rooms for one lone woman. It is pleasanter on the hill. I like to sit by the window at night and, look down over the silent city, when the roar and the howl are all still, and the poor people have forgotten their troubles. I like to sit here in the night and watch the long rows of gaslights, twinkling through the mist like so many little stars, stretching miles away through the streets, and winding in and out through the hills. I can tell you my story better here.

[And so, sitting there in the dusk by the window, on the hill above the silent city, silent as an enchanted city of old, looking dreamily down at the long rows of lamps, stretching miles away down the streets and winding in and out among the hills, we listened to Hunchback Margery's story.]

I have no story worth telling before Lily was born. I was ten years old then. That's where my story began. Lily is so bound up with my story, and woven in and out through it, that, take Lily away, I should have no story at all. My father died the day Lily was born. One went out of the world as the other came in. One solved the mystery of death just as the other began to know the mystery of life. Which is the greatest mystery, life or death? I don't know. Only I am sure that death itself can never be a greater mystery than my life has been to me. A lone woman with a crooked back has time for queer thoughts, different from the thoughts of other women, may be.

But I wasn't a crook-back when Lily was born. I was straight and strong as a young tree then. I took the little new baby in my arms and carried her to where her father lay dying. He could hardly see for dimness of death which was gathering in his eyes. I have my father's eyes, large and black, with long lashes, the only beauty about me, you see. My father laid his hand feebly upon the head of the little one. He could only speak in a faint whisper.

"Is it a girl?" he said.

"It's a girl, papa."

My father didn't speak for a minute, and then he gathered all the little strength he had left, and murmured faintly:

"Take care of her, Margery."

So you see the child was a solemn bequest to me, in a manner. My father never spoke again, and in a few minutes he was dead. And he was the only friend I ever had.

[Margery paused a moment. We could see in the dim light that she wiped a tear from her still beautiful eyes, with their long black lashes. Then she went on:]

From that day I gave my life up to Lily. That's my story, long or short. I was wrong. No one ought to give his life time, or even the best years of it up to another. God never meant it. You may make a slave of yourself to somebody, and the more you slave, the more you may slave, and by and by you will be looked upon as a slave. You may give yourself up soul and body to work for another all your life long, just out of pure love. What then? Be sure you'll get no thanks for it, and your own'll not think a bit more of you for it. That's one of the queer things I've observed in this world, being but a solitary woman with a crooked back, and having no company but my own thoughts for fifteen years. Women are more apt to sink into this slavish existence than men. I've seen a woman faintly crawl on her hands and knees to please a man, work her life out inch by inch for him, without a thought or care for herself. What did her husband do? He mostly left his wife at home in the kitchen, and went off to play gallant to some other who wasn't worth his wife's little finger nail. It was hard for the poor wife, but it was good enough for her. Make a slave of yourself and you'll be treated as a slave. Though I've noticed that where a man's wife drudges her life out for him it mostly happens in turn that his second wife gets her foot upon his neck in the same way. It's a retribution of Providence on him.

Just so I gave up my life to Lily. I don't complain of it, or regret, mind you; yet it's but sorry comfort to remember it now. I washed and dressed Lily, and slept with her and fed her, and took care of her night and day. She would cry if mother took her away from me. Not that mother cared. Mother never cared for any one much, but herself. She had been the beauty of a large family. The beauty of the family is nearly always disagreeable. Mother was a spoilt, selfish beauty when father married her. She stayed spoilt and selfish as long as she lived, though she wasn't a beauty any longer. I am sure she held a grudge against the memory of my father for dying and leaving her poor. She used to say she wondered what ever made her such an idiot as to marry father. I dare say many another woman wonders the same thing about her husband, after a while.

Mother had a grudge at me, because I was like poor father, I think. She said I had no spirit or life in, just like my father. Lily was beautiful, like mother. I was the drudge, like father. We became too poor to keep a servant, after a while, and I was maid of all work. I never cared for schooling much. I was a stupid poke, like father, mother said. So I worked about the house and so managed to live. Lily was as beautiful as a child angel; though she wasn't much like an angel, to be sure. But the child was spoiled from the beginning. Her eyes were as blue as the spring violets, and people told her so from the time she was two years old. Her hair was like a brown autumn leaf showered over with gold dust; the people told her that, too. She was a willful little thing from the first, and always took her own head. She ruled mother with a rod of iron, and they both together ruled me.

When I was fifteen years old, that happened to me which—which made me what you see. Life used to look bright to me before that. I used to sit at night and look out in the darkness and dream of a home and happiness which might one day be mine. Why not? Every girl dreams so. My idea of happiness is just a home. Even as I sat looking out in the darkness, then a dreaming girl of fifteen, even so I sit down here alone by my window at night, and dream that the good I have missed on earth will be made up to me in heaven. I believe that for all the poor people in the world, and God bless us all! Ah, well! The home and happiness were never to be. My life has been nearly all darkness and gloomy weather. But once I heard a learned man say that above the clouds the sun is always shining. I remember that, and I am sure that must be how it is. When we pierce the clouds it will be all darkness and joy.

I can hardly tell you the next. I don't know very well myself, only I know that my mother always blamed me for it, and said it was all my stupidity. Lily was a headstrong child, as I said; a roaring little vixen when her temper was up. If she was crossed in anything, she would bellow and scream till she would turn black in the face, and mother would be afraid she would burst something, and so let her have her own way. That's how she managed mother. If I had children of my own, I'd never give up to them for fear they'd scream and burst themselves. I'd let 'em burst. But Lily always had her own way. She was the most aggravating young one, she was. If she thought you wanted her to do anything in particular, you might have taken her head off for her before she'd have done it; if she knew you didn't want her to do anything, she ran right off and did it before you could blink your eye. But I loved her dearly. She was my beautiful sister, and father had said with his dying breath, "Take care of her, Margery."

Mother and I had to be constantly on the watch to keep her out of danger. But one day she escaped our eyes, and ran out into the street. I missed her in a moment and went out after her. I saw her from the front gate. She saw me, too, and that moment the imp of mischief possessed the child, and she started to run across the street as fast as her willful little feet could carry her. I ran after her, of course; and if I live a thousand years, and lose all remembrance of everything else on earth, I shall never forget the next frightful moment. A cold damp comes out over my body, and I turn faint and sick when I think of it. I never think of it when I can help. Oh! it was awful! I had reached the middle of the street. At that instant a pair of runaway horses, harnessed to a heavy wagon, came thundering and roaring down upon me like a hundred infernal spirits. I have read of those terrible horses in the Book of Revelation, which are to destroy the third part of the kingdoms of this world, whose heads were as the heads of lions, and out of their mouths issued fire, smoke and brimstone, and it was like the horses which came thundering down upon me that day. I felt the hot breath of their flaming nostrils against my cheek. I saw their wild, mad, awful eyes as they seemed burning into my heart. I snatched Lily in my arms and ran like the wind, and I don't know any more.

They said something struck me on the back, and I was thrown senseless against the sidewalk, still holding on like iron to the child in my arms. I had surely saved Lily's life, they said. It has comforted me ever since to know that. My beautiful sister is one of the most brilliant and admired of women, and only for me those wild horses would have trampled her to death. Only for me the beautiful grand lady would never have been. But I knew nothing of it all then. One morning I seemed to wake from a long, troubled dream. It must have been winter when I went to sleep, and now the sun was shining, and I saw from the window that the grass on the hillside was green. It was very strange. My mother was talking to some one in the room, and I heard her say:

"There's no use spending money for medicine if the child isn't going to get well."

A strange thing for a mother to say? Perhaps it was. I thought so once when I heard a lady read a story about a poor mother who, with her baby, was found lying in the snow one morning after a great storm. She had stripped all the outside clothing off herself, and wrapped it around her baby, to keep the little thing from perishing; and when they found the two, the poor mother was dead and frozen stiff, but the child looked up at them warm and smiling. I thought of what mother had said when I heard that story. I have thought of it again, when sometimes I have seen mothers crying over their dead children and refusing comfort. I wonder if mother would have cried if I had died? I don't know.

I had received a permanent injury of the spine, the doctor said, and my back would always be crooked. I might leave my bed again, he said, but I would never be straight any more. How long would I be apt to live? I might live to be a hundred years old, he said, for all he knew. I turned my face over to the wall and cried like a baby at that. This was to be the end of my dreams of happiness. I never dreamed any bright dreams for this world after that. Still, more weeks went on, and when it was hot summer, I stood upon my feet and walked again, and ever since then I have been a pale, little, crooked old woman.

I never could work again as I had done, and mother turned our two lodgers away. My stupidity had lost us our living, she said. There is just about so much of care and responsibility put upon the shoulders of everybody alike in this world, I've noticed. But there are two kinds of people in the world. The care and responsibility slides off the shoulders of one kind like water poured on oiled paper, while with the other kind they soak in through and through to the very bones. Mother and Lily were the first kind; I was born the second kind, and their share of care and planning and looking ahead for a living, and my own share, too, all fell upon me—one pale, little crippled woman. I earned the living for us all. How? I did embroidery—not the common work, but embroidery on velvet. I hardly know how I picked it up, but I was always handy with my fingers, to make up for my stupidness about books, perhaps. I believe that when folks don't have one gift, they always have some other, in its place, which is just as good, if they make good use of it. No imported embroidery was handsomer than the leaves and buds I worked into the glossy velvet. They looked like the flowers and leaves in a picture. And so I made our living—a shabby one, to be sure, but still we were comfortable.

When Lily was fourteen mother died, too. Almost with her last words she told me to take care of Lily; just what father had said years before. But mother said something else, too. Mother said:

"Take care of her, Margery, and bring her up a lady."

Lily was a strong, healthy, beautiful girl. I was a pale little cripple. Some mothers might have thought that the healthy girl should take care of the cripple, maybe. But my mother said: "Take care of Lily and make a lady of her." Perhaps it was well enough. I never could be a lady myself, from having been born a drudge and from being a hunchback. So I obeyed mother and worked for my beautiful sister, worked my fingers off and my eyes out almost. And Lily? Lily went to a ladies' school, where she learned to sing and play and look pretty. She learned fine ways, too—to despise our shabby little rooms, among other things; and finally learned to be ashamed of her Hunchback sister, Margery. That was the hardest to bear of all, because, you see, I had done it myself. I had brought Lily up to be ashamed of me. It seemed to me that the load was heavier than my poor crooked shoulders could bear. But I gulped my troubles down and said nothing. That's always the easiest way to get over anything, I find. Lily was discontented and unhappy all the time, and made me unhappy too by her perpetual repinings. None of my path in this world has led me through a bed of roses. But I worked on and said nothing.

When Lily was twenty a grand gentleman fell in love with her and married her. He saw her in a tableau, where she was a heathen goddess, or something. I never understand these matters, and it was love at first sight with him. Sometimes love at first sight wears, and sometimes it doesn't. Lily was married in church. I saw her from up in the gallery, and a more beautiful bride than my sister Lily I never looked at, in her orange wreath, and the lovely veil I had worked for her with my own hands. After the wedding, they went away off to their grand home, and my sister Lily is a lady, and has her carriage with the proudest, and no end of silk dresses and diamonds. That was fifteen years ago; I have never seen them since.

No; Lily didn't ask me to go and live with her. I would be happier in my old home, where I had always lived, she said, and then I never could feel at ease among grand people. So she went away. A while after that my eyesight began to fail. I had hurt them so working on Lily's wedding clothes that they never were strong again. Five years ago they failed me entirely for embroidery, and I have never made so much as a leaf since. Then I sold little pictures, taking them from house to house. I had to keep the wolf from the door. I did well at first. People knew me and knew my story, and they were kind to me. They bought my pictures, whether they wanted them or not, and always asked me to stop and rest. But it is different now. People are richer than they were five years ago, and don't want my poor little engravings any more. When I ring the bell a servant comes to the door and asks me my business and always says the lady of the house doesn't want any pictures.

And then the chill of disappointment falls like cold lead over my heart. I didn't use to mind, but I can't bear what I could once. I am growing bashful lately, somehow. I can't understand it, but it makes me feel scared and faint to ask strangers to buy my pictures. Maybe it's because I'm growing old. Then, too, the walking is very hard on me, and when I sit down to rest, sometimes the boys gather about and stare after me as I limp along the street. I oughtn't to mind it, maybe, but it makes me feel like a hunted animal, with no place to hide. Oh! If I could only go into the beautiful country, away from the sight of men! But I know that can never be.

I made a mistake in my life. When I was young and could work, I ought to have put by money enough to bury me in my old days, instead of spending it all for Lily. I was wrong. Lily ought to have worked for herself. It would have been better for both of us. My beautiful sister is one of the most selfish and heartless of women. I made her so. Many a man and woman are made selfish and heartless in the same way. I have seen mothers drudge their lives away for children, only to make their children despise them afterward, and go through the world in the belief that it was every mother's duty to be a drudge for her children. I know people who believe that is what mothers are made for. But I am sure it is wrong; wicked, even. No human being ought to be a slave to another human being. It hurts them both. When I am dead and buried, if you ever see Lily, tell Lily that.

I don't think I want to live any longer. Life is getting to be too hard for me, and I don't do anybody any good. Then, too, I have a horror of being old. It makes me shudder to think of it. Sometimes in the street I meet such hideous looking old crones, with dead, stony eyes, and grizzly, wolfish faces. And then I shudder with terror, and wonder if I shall ever live to make people shudder when they see me. We look so bad when we are old. Strange that I should think of that? Well, maybe so. But we all have our little vanities, and I have always been glad to know that my face was fresh and pleasant to look at and my eyes were bright and black. But what if I should live to be a grizzly, hunch-backed old crone, like those I told you of, hideous and helpless, and be sent to die at last in the charity-house? You don't know what an awful thing it is to think about. Yet I try hard to console myself, even with that dismal thought. I know that however it may be, there is no trouble so bad that it won't end sometime; that the very worst grief which can come to the heart can't possibly last forever. I believe, too, yes, I know, that above the cold and darkness, above the storms and the clouds, there is a land where it is always day, and that the good I have missed here is waiting for me—there. And so, good night.

[Hunchback Margery did not go out on her rounds next day, they noticed. They did not see her go out or in. In the evening late, they feared she must be ill, and went to her room. A stale, sickly smell of smoke was in the room. Her lamp had burned down and gone out. Margery was sitting by the window. "One delicate hand lay across her lap—her hand was always delicate and fine, like a lady's—the other grasped a little picture. It was her father's likeness, with the face like her own, pleasant and kindly. The long rows of gas lights still wound in and out among the hills above the silent city, but Margery was not looking at them. A sweet, gentle smile was on her face, and her eyes were closed. She was dead!

The little crooked old woman had gone away into the beautiful country.]

SATURDAY, MARCH 7, 1874.

The Temperance War.

The ladies of Worcester, Mass., have decided that the Dio Lewis plan of conducting the campaign is not suited to New England, but they are deeply interested and very enthusiastic. It is now quite certain that there will be no sensational street work there. They have a sub-committee at work preparing forms for pledges for circulation among various classes of offenders against the moral law through alcohol. One of the first pledges circulated, it was urged, should be one among Christian women to abandon the use of stimulants themselves, either as medicines or in cooking. There was, too, an unexpected manifestation of feeling against the use of wine at the communion table, many ladies speaking against it in very strong terms, relating instances of its unfortunate effects on reformed inebriates. Several said they had abstained from the communion for years, because they could not countenance the use of wine. The clergymen are to be appealed to, to abandon its use.

In Philadelphia a delegation of women waited on Mayor Stokely and presented a petition for the enforcement of the Sunday law to prevent the sale of liquors. He pointed out the defects of the present law, and advised application to the legislature to amend it, so as to be made operative. In taking their leave they assured him that whatever steps he may take to crush out the evil he would have the moral support of the women. He said that he had intended issuing a proclamation, but concluded to wait the result of the conference of the Baptist clergymen with the judges of the court of common pleas before doing so.

In Pittsburg, Pa., the movement is rapidly spreading. All the saloons but one in Cadiz are closed. The business men at Martin's Ferry have subscribed $1000, and more, if needed, for the cause. At Crestline meetings are held in the churches, money subscribed and there is considerable excitement.

At Columbus, Ohio, the immense crowds which follow the temperance crusaders induced a change of programme, and about two hundred ladies were divided into four squads, going in opposite directions, but each had its attendants in large numbers. At several beer saloons the doors were locked and admittance was refused, while at others the proprietors treated the ladies well and made them a speech, evidently prepared for the occasion. At one saloon just as the ladies reached the outside door, a crowd of men ran in, and calling for beer rattled the glasses and laughed to show their contempt. The proprietor refused to allow prayers, saying that he feared it would only cause the ladies to be insulted. One wholesale liquor dealer refused to allow prayer. Several prominent grocers said that they would gladly give up liquor selling if the other grocers would. Several saloon keepers have expressed their willingness to sell out, and, whether this was done or not, to purchase no more stock. No particular indignity was offered at any place, and the ladies derived considerable encouragement from this fact. Quite a number of signatures were obtained to the citizens' pledge, but not one liquor dealer could, by song or prayer, be induced to sign the dealers' pledge.

Readables.

The ghost of the franking bill is "laid" for the present, the House of Representatives having smashed it on Thursday. The previous adverse vote was reconsidered, but the House finally voted, 111 to 120, that it isn't yet safe to revive the franking abuse.

Ex-President Baez has been discharged from custody, and another application for his arrest, on a similar complaint as before, denied by the judge.

Thomas McLaughlin, who was shot by James Dwight in Charlestown, Mass., Wednesday evening, died on Thursday. The assassin will recover.

Steamship Sodza, from New Castle for Port Said, is lost. Thirty people were drowned.

Despatches have arrived from the Gold Coast, fully confirming the previous reports of victory, and dispelling the fears entertained for the safety of the expedition. The Ashantee king finally surrendered himself into the hands of the British troops, and was a prisoner at General Wolseley's headquarters.

Havana advices report that the people of Cardenas have opposed the craft, and that it will be generally resisted. It is rumored that the insurgents have captured Manzanillo. A Key West despatch states that Vice President Pacheco of the Cuban republic has arrived there, accompanied by several friends.

The correspondent of the London Daily News at St. Petersburg writes on the 28th ultimo that serious rioting occurred in East Poland in consequence of the closing of the churches by order of the government. At one place the disorder was so great that the military was called out and fired on the rioters, killing and wounding seventy persons.

There is one thing certain as to the result of the present political contest in New Hampshire. Either Luther McCutchins or James A. Weston must be the next Governor of New Hampshire unless prevented by death. The Constitution provides that where there is no choice by the people the selection must be made by the legislature in convention, from the two highest candidates voted for by the people. Now no prohibitionist believes for a moment that Blackmer can be one of those two. Is it not then the height of folly for temperance men to throw away their votes on Blackmer, and thus endanger the maintenance of the present prohibitory laws? Or can they advance the cause they have at heart by defeating republican representatives and directly aiding the election of men who will vote for Weston and the license system, or still worse vote to abolish all laws that restrain the traffic?

The Detective Swindle.

The investigation into the revenue detective system, by a congressional committee, thus far seems to show that the whole system is no better than a gigantic black-mailing machine, for filling the pockets of detectives at the expense of reputable merchants.

The appearance of Mr. William E. Dodge, of the firm of Phelps, Dodge & Co., before the committee gave a new direction to the hearing, and one which was not anticipated when the informer dragged the name of this firm into his testimony. The clerical errors charged against the firm amounted in the aggregate to sixteen hundred dollars. This amount extended over so long a period, and was divided among so many invoices, that the technical liability rose to many millions of dollars; and the firm really paid nearly three hundred thousand dollars rather than be subject longer to the persecution to which the case exposed them. The story is an extraordinary one, and must go farther than any argument can go to expose the odious nature of the system.

The Torpedo Boat

Launched on Thursday at Charlestown navy yard is a formidable war vessel. 170 feet in length with 30 feet beam, and a depth of 15 feet. She has five thicknesses of iron plates, each being one inch in thickness. The deck is of wood, ten inches thick. Underneath the bow is an iron shaft under which the torpedo is placed. The motive power is furnished by two engines, six large boilers and twin screws. The amount thus far expended has been $300,000, but it will reach fully a half million before the boat is completed. Among the naval officers from other stations who witnessed the launching were Naval Constructor Webb of the Portsmouth yard, Naval Constructor Easby of the Norfolk, Va., yard, and Assistant Naval Constructor Fernald, of the Wilmington, N. C., yard.

New Publications.

The March number of WOOD'S HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE opens with an interesting story "The Guiding Hand," by Mrs. H. G. Rowe; following this Joseph Snider gives his "Experiences in the City." "My Prayer" is a touching story told in the sincere manner and rough speech of a railroad hand. "The Weekly Diabolical" by Karl Kase, aims a sharp and timely blow at sensational literature. "The Kaiser Frederick" is one of Mary Hartwell's entertaining stories. In the installment of "Misery Jippen," H. V. Osborne raps the knuckles of the fashionable clergyman. There are several other articles of merit, and some choice poetry. The Magazine contains six illustrations, including a fine design for a Country School House. Terms one dollar a year. Address, WOOD'S HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE, Newburgh, N. Y.

BLACKWOOD'S MAGAZINE for February, republished by the Leonard Scott Publishing Co., contains a greater portion of story and narrative than usual, an order of literature in which the magazine has earned well-deserved distinction. Valentine and his Brother, International Vanities, The Two Speranskys, Scepticism and Modern Poetry, The Book of Carlaverock, The Philosopher's Baby, The Minor King of Mysore, and Fables in Song, is the list of contents. $4 per year.

Indigestion's Martyrs.

Half the diseases of the human family spring from a disordered stomach, and may be prevented by invigorating and toning that abused and neglected organ with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Let it be borne in mind that the liver, the kidneys, the intestines, the muscles, the ligaments, the bones, the nerves, the integuments, are all renewed and nourished by the blood, and that the digestive organs are the grand alembic in which the materials of the vital fluid are prepared. When the stomach fails to provide healthful nourishment for its dependencies they necessarily suffer, and the ultimate result, if the evil is not arrested, will be chronic and probably fatal disease somewhere. It may be developed in the kidneys in the form of diabetis, in the liver as congestion, in the muscles as rheumatism, in the nerves as paralysis, in the integuments as scrofula. Remember, however, that each and all of these consequences of indigestion may be prevented by the timely and regular use of that sovereign antidote to dyspepsia, Hostetter's Bitters.

Imitators and their Schemes come to grief at last. Only original discoveries, like that of Dr. Helmbold, stand the test of time. Helmbold's Buchu, which is the only extract of that wonderful shrub that realizes its full virtues, is still relied upon to cure Kidney Complaints, Female Disorders, Dropsicalness, Gravel, the effects of dissipation and all troubles of the urinary organs in either sex. This steadily successful medicine is recommended by physicians. Beware of counterfeits. John F. Henry, New York, Sole Agent. Sold by all druggists.

Quack Medicines.—We never puff, but ANAKESIS the great Western PILE remedy has cured Thousands, after lotions, ointments, and all manner of nostrums have failed. It is the discovery of Dr. Silabee, an eminent western physician, and has been endorsed by medical men of all schools. It is a simple medicated suppository, acts as an instrument, poultice and medicine, affords instant relief from pain, and is pronounced an infallible cure.—Price $1.00. Sold by druggists everywhere. ANAKESIS Depot, 46 Walker St., New York.

There is scarcely any disease in which purgative medicines are not more or less required, and much needless and suffering might be prevented were they more generally used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal disease which might have been avoided by a timely and judicious use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, or Sugar-Coated Concentrated Root and Herbal Juice, Anti-Bilious Granules. These little Pellets, unlike every other cathartic, produce such a secretory task be effect upon the bowels as to bring about a permanent healthy action and increase their peristaltic motions. Price 25 cents a vial, by all Druggists. 712

NONE but a physician knows how much a reliable alterative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cure—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues they claim. In this state of the case, DR. J. C. AYER & CO., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other kindred preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent person in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

—AT THE—

WORLD'S EXPOSITION, VIENNA, 1873. &c.

1. The Knight's Cross of the Imperial Order of "Francis Joseph," conferred by his Apostolic Majesty the Emperor of Austria, upon the Honorable Nathaniel Wheeler, President of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Company, as the founder and builder of Sewing Machine industry.
2. The Grand Diploma of Honor, recommended by the International Jury for this Sewing Machine Company only, for their important contributions to the material and social welfare of mankind.
3. The Grand Medal for Progress, awarded for their New No. 6 Sewing Machine, being for progress made since the Paris Exposition of 1867, at which the only Gold Medal for Sewing Machines was awarded to this Company. Hence the Vienna awarded marks Progress not from a low, level, or inferior medal, but from a Gold Medal, the highest award made at Paris.
4. The Grand Medal for Merit, for the development of Needle industry and excellence and superiority of manufactured samples exhibited.
5. A Grand Medal for Merit, for excellence and superiority of Cabinet work, the only award of the kind in this section.
6. Medals for several Co-operators, of the Wheeler & Wilson Company, for skill and ability.
7. The Official Report, published by the General Direction of the Vienna Exposition, signalizes the supremacy of the Wheeler & Wilson Company for quantity and quality of manufacture, and position in the Sewing Machine business, as follows:

OFFICIAL REPORT, VIENNA EXPOSITION SEWING MACHINES, &c.

(GROUP 13, SEC. 2, B.)

"The greatest Sewing Machine Manufactory in the world is that of Wheeler and Wilson, New York, which alone has brought into market over 900,000 of their Sewing Machines into practical use. The complete production of the parts by machinery is so regulated that each complete machine may be used as a sample for exhibition. This firm produces 600 well adjusted machines daily."

"The latest production of this firm, and which is the wonder of the Vienna Exposition, is their new No. 6 Sewing Machine. This universal machine sews the heaviest leather harness and the finest gauzes with a truly pearl stitch."

"Wheeler & Wilson have received the highest praises at all World's Expositions, and at the Vienna Exposition were extraordinarily distinguished."

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND HUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes The Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Local Matters.

FOR MAYOR,

FRANK W. MILLER.

The Caucuses.

The republicans of the first ward nominated the following candidates, Friday evening:

Alderman, Henry L. Garrett, Samuel A. Spinney, John A. George.

Councilmen, William Critchley, William H. Lovell, Willard Sears, Leonidas F. Rand.

Assessors, Francis I. Wilson, Geo. W. DeRochement, Joseph H. Berry.

Overseer of the Poor, James Junkins.

Moderator, Harry G. Tanton.

Selectmen, Richard H. Waldron, Robert E. Rich, Oliver D. Rowell.

Clerk, Henry C. Walker.

Representatives, James W. Emery, George Amable, Christopher C. Jackson, John G. Tibbetts.

School Committee, Lot L. Harmon, John Pender.

The only contest was for Aldermen, there being 352 votes cast. Henry L. Garrett had 330, Samuel A. Spinney 236, John A. George 197, George W. Pendexter 120, John A. Lamprey 114, Orville D. Bryant 64.

The republicans of the second ward made the following nominations:

Aldermen, Lewis G. Davis, William H. Sise, Chas. H. Hayes.

Councilmen, Chas. C. Akerman, Chas. A. Hazlett, Chas. E. Simpson, Joseph E. Fernald.

Assessors, Eben F. Brackett, Rufus K. Oxford, James S. Seavey.

Overseer of the Poor, Newton Johnston.

Moderator, Henry A. Yeaton.

Selectmen, Daniel L. Randall, Edwin H. Leslie, Samuel H. Kingsbury.

Clerk, E. Washington Brown.

Representatives, Samuel S. Whidden, J. Horace Kent, Joshua Brooks, William A. Peirce. Stephen L. Marston declined a renomination.

School Committee, Alfred F. Howard, Lewis E. Smith.

Atrocious Mendacity.

The Times of Thursday says Mr. Nathaniel K. Raynes "weighs but ninety pounds." Where does that editor expect to go when he finally lays down the scissors and bids a long farewell to the paste-pot? Did he ever read the story of Ananaias and Sapphira, and sich? Mr. Raynes' fighting weight is one hundred and twenty-two pounds, and if the Times editor don't believe it all he has got to do is to go to the Christian shore brickyard and wait there till Mr. Raynes comes,—he'll be willing to believe anything before he gets through that job.

Coincidences.

It is a little singular that the recent accident on Portsmouth bridge, by which several freight and platform cars were unwheeled, planks broken, rails torn up and timbers smashed, should have occurred on a Friday night, just one year from the Friday night when two cars of a freight train ran off the track at Noble's Island and bumped over the timbers the whole length of the bridge, doing great damage the whole distance but making the worst showing exactly where the recent accident occasioned the most destruction. What caused the latter misfortune we could not learn at the time, nor have we seen any account of it in our exchanges.

A schooner named in honor of the first man who ever dared openly to advocate in the United States senate, universal freedom for all men without regard to color, was an occasional visitant to this port for many years; she was generally fortunate, and the "John P. Hale" was considered a very "lucky" vessel. On the day when the senatorial pioneer of abolitionism breathed his last at Dover, and very nearly at the same hour, we are informed that the schooner "John P. Hale" went ashore on "Norman's Woe," a rock off Cape Ann, Mass., and was broken into fragments by the sea,—the hero-philanthrophist and the staunch little vessel bearing his name closing their career at the same time.

Laconics.

The "Merry Sons of Momus," a minstrel and burlesque combination of Portsmouth "home talent," gave an entertainment in Trefethen's Hall, Kittery, to a large audience, on Thursday evening; and we hear that they gave a very good show. They perform next Monday evening at Rye.

S. H. Goodall, Esq., has a partnership in a floral establishment at Melrose, Mass.

The Journal says "to satisfy many anxious ones who are interested in the success of the movements of the colored Jubilee Singers in raising funds for the building of a church, we can safely say that all 'Professor' Thompson carried away was his own, and a good reputation." Glad to hear it, neighbor; but we were under the impression that the Professor carried away some money that belonged to us, for advertising—but we are not anxious about it.

Gunner Andrew Harman, U. S. N., has reported for duty on the receiving ship Sabine.

Citizens who may think of voting for Charles Robinson, Esq., thinking that he would make a good Mayor, should remember that a plurality of votes elects and that either Mr. Miller or Mr. Marcy will be the next Mayor. Every republican vote thrown for Mr. Robinson counts for naught.

The nomination of Hon. Daniel Marcy for Mayor has already created considerable dissatisfaction in democratic ranks. The peculiar manner in which democratic nominations are made, by committee, after which the masses are invited in to endorse them, gives the managers opportunity to slaughter their former nominees very easily. Two years ago, Mr. Jerome C. Butler was nominated at a caucus; last year no caucus was called, Mr. Butler's claims to a renomination were discarded, and the democracy voted for Mayor Marvin. This action and the nomination of a new candidate this year are not tending to conciliate the friends of Mr. Butler.

A suit for land damages is being tried at Dover in which the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad corporation is the defendant.

Ex-Gov. Fred Smyth received the largest vote ever cast for one person in Portsmouth.

The democrats will vote against the proposition to purchase the aqueduct property, very few persons advocating the measure.

The annual supper of the Federal Fire Society came off at the Kearsarge, Thursday evening, Hon. Albert A. Fernald being the host.

Rev. Mr. DeNormandie will deliver an address on the Temperance Crusade Sunday evening, at the Unitarian Church.

A Farmer's Grange has been formed here, called the Portsmouth Grange, with Haven L. Scott for Master; S. Storer Whidden, Overseer; Charles H. Hayes, Treasurer; Frank W. Miller, Lecturer; John H. Hutchinson, Secretary; Thomas Wiggin, Chaplain; Joseph O. Ham, Steward; C. B. Mason, Gate Keeper; Frank G. Sherburne, Assistant.

Eastern Railroad officials place the loss by the recent fire at East Boston at only $25,000. Nine cars were destroyed.

Rev. John E. Dame of Lowell will preach at the Pearl Street church to-morrow.

The Congregational Society in Newcastle having procured a new and valuable organ, a number of friends there, by the gift of several elegant silver articles, such as cake-basket and pie-knife, have expressed their appreciation of the services as organist of Mrs. Chas. E. Simpson. She in return would thus proffer her grateful acknowledgements, for so beautiful and valuable a testimonial of their kind regard. S. E. S.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind, and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured a wide a reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and gives a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well-founded, if taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Recommended by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

COAL! COAL!

ROBERTS & CO. are prepared to sell COAL as Low as the Lowest, on Equal Quality at PRAY'S WHARF, North End of Market Street, Portsmouth.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

—Almost all the maidens of Oregon are bowed down with mumps.

—The death rate on English railways during 1872 was equal to the slain in battle during the Crimean war.

—It was an expressive remark of a practical man regarding the woman of the period recently: "She don't know enough, sir, to boil water."

—A Kansas newspaper thinks Illinois legislators have their brains at the wrong end, in as much as they wear No. 4 hats and No. 11 boots.

—"Old age is coming upon me rapidly," as the urchin said, when he was stealing apples from an old man's garden, and saw the owner coming, whip in hand.

—A favorite song of the temperance ladies out west is, "Shall we gather at the river?" and the response of the saloon-keeper in every instance is, "By all means. Start now."

—When a western member of Congress recently alluded so feelingly to the "hay-seed in his hair," and the "oats in his throat," why didn't he complete the diagnosis by speaking of the rye in his stomach?

—The present fashion for gentlemen's coats now apes the ladies' polonaise in length of skirt. The latest style is deep enough to be draped, and we wonder the tailors do not go a step further, and add a sash at the left side.

—"Brother Beecher," said the venerable Dr. Bacon, laying his hand on the great preacher's shoulder, "Brother Beecher, I fear the devil whispered in your ear just now that this was a very fine lecture." "Oh, no," replied Beecher, "the left that for you to do."

—Never be above your business, no matter what that calling may be, but strive to be the best in that line. He who turns up his nose at his work quarrels with his bread and butter. He is a poor smith who quarrels with his own sparks: there is no shame about an honest calling. Don't be ashamed of soiling your hands; there is plenty of soap to be had.

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. Thus we publish two volumes a year.

Persons not finding the BANNER in their subscriptions should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed; and the same care should be exercised when a change of location is desired.

☞ ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

IF VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such complaints, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon the blood, purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. If the blood becomes fibrous and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will remove the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. Its conviction is, by the testimony of as well as of the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas Scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, thought consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they seemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,

WILLIAM PAYN.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER!

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever.

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff; and the scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, says of it: "I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE,

FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs from all irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, Boston." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

$1 PER BOTTLE. SIX BOTTLES, $5.

BEHOLD!
WILSON'S
SUPERPHOSPHATE
At Auction!
My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.
My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to procure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.
The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind, and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured a wide reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long-continued series of marvellous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well-founded, if taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

Gen. McCutchins at Home.

[Cor. of the Boston Globe.]

Your correspondent has been on a perilous expedition, and is truly grateful that he has got back in safety. He took it into his head that it would be a good thing to make a visit to the "hay-seed candidate," on his farm in New London. The thing looked simple and easy enough. He was told that he could take the train to Potter Place, on the Northern road, and then it was about four miles to New London, by stage. There was a train up at 10.40, and one returned from Potter Place at 2.10, and he fancied that in the interval he could hold his interview, and thus be back early.

With cheerful impression, he set out. The day was foggy and chill, and as the train sped by the rocks and fences, the patches of grove and the open fields, there was cold and ghostly mist over everything, that made it seem as if he was going into some vague and half-known region of the Northland. In an hour and ten minutes, Potter Place was reached. Now, Potter Place consists of a cheerless old shed of a depot, flanked by a huge wood-pile, a store, which is also a Post Office, and which appeared to be closed, a little tavern with the imposing name of "Kearsarge House" on its front, three or four empty freight cars, sundry old barrels and boxes, and the grave of "old Potter." Whether this latter shrine gives the name to the place, or whether old Potter founded the place or the place founded him, this deponent knoweth not. Old Potter, by the way, was once a famous conjuror, or sleight-of-hand performer, the wonder of all this region, and his mortal remains are deposited behind a board fence, about a dozen rods above the depot. Presently, I found the driver of the rickety old yellow stage that travelled to New London, and from him I learned that it was between eight and nine miles up there, over high hills and bad roads, and that he must wait for another train, and would not reach the village till after two o'clock; and, moreover, that there was no conveyance back to meet the evening train. This last difficulty was got over by striking a bargain with the said driver to bring me down for a good and lawful consideration. I then went over to the Kearsarge House, to see if they had dinner at that hostelry. This establishment looks like a farm-house, with the exception of being labelled across the front with its name, and probably was once. Its name it gets from a somewhat famous mountain, a few miles away. There was a dreary bar-room or office inside, the resort of such loafers as the forbidding soil and climate produces, decorated with bills of sales, fairs, and one thing and another which occurred in the neighboring towns, some months ago; and there was, too, a dining room, occupied by several long tables, and one long waiting maid in cork-screw curls and woollen slippers. "Roast beef and fresh fish," quoth the maid as soon as I sat down. "Roast beef," quoth I, and surveyed the regular and picturesque arrangement of brown bread, white bread, crackers and pickles on the table. Two small, irregular lumps of animal food and a big dish of boiled potatoes were set before me. As soon as I had done what I could with these, "Apple pie and meat pie," quoth the maid. "Both," quoth I, and on they came, and the dinner was over. A vile cigar followed, and presently the stage was ready.

By this time there was a cold, pelting rain, but I got up outside, nevertheless, and faced it, and off we went. Whew! What a road! Alternate mud and snow, both in a very soft condition and of unknown depth. Up hill and down, but mostly up, we plunged through it, past little farm-houses, some dilapidated with age and some white and clean as a house of sugar; through little villages known to be such by the presence of the store and Post Office combined, and the little knot of people of perpetual leisure that always crowd its doorway; past a saw-mill, a tannery and a scythe factory; through bits of woods and overflowed meadows, little ponds full of black stumps and tall bushes, which remind one of the "dark tarn of Auber in the misty mid-region of Weir;" over a large hill crowned with enormous snowdrifts, and in two hours we were in New London, without the loss of a single limb or the dislocation of a joint.

This village stands on a high hill and overlooks a broad expanse of country enclosed by mountain ridges. In Summer, the prospect must be very beautiful, but now the hills are brown and dead, but laced with lines of snow along the fences and in the gullies. The town is small in extent, and has but about 1000 inhabitants. It stands about midway between two railroads, but is over eight miles from the nearest depot. The village is one long, straggling street, in a condition of unfathomable and incomprehensible mud. There are two little churches; a town house, a store and Post Office combination, three or four shops and half a dozen dwelling-houses, more or less; but its crowning glory is a large brick building occupying a broad plat of ground and overlooking the surrounding country. This is the "New London Literary and Scientific Institution," a flourishing seat of learning, which has the remarkable power of attracting youth from far and near to this exalted place.

On the way up I had questioned the driver somewhat about General McCutchins, whom he rather flippantly and irreverently spoke of as "Old Mac." "Is he pretty sure to be at home?" I asked. "I guess so," replied the driver; "he was hauling wood for me, yesterday." The candidate for Governor hauling wood for the stage driver; he is evidently one of the people. "What do the people about here think of him?" I asked. "O, they think a good deal of him. He is a good, square, honest man, and everybody respects him. He's a little set when he thinks he's right, but he's nobody's fool, he ain't. He understands things as well as the next man." The driver stopped at almost every house and shop to leave some parcel, and, coming to the very top of the hill, pointed to a cream colored farm-house, half a mile off, and said, "that's where Mac lived for twenty years or more," and, hauling up in front of another cream-colored house, "and this is where he lives now," he added.

It was a plain, old wooden structure, with the front yard at the side, forming an open passage from the street right by the house to the barn door. The said door was open, and the stalwart figure of the farmer could be seen inside pulling hay from the mow and feeding his cattle. I passed in and introduced myself. The man before me was, at least, six feet two inches in height, with broad shoulders and the slight stoop which tall men who work with their hands always have. He had on coarse dark pants, a darker and coarser vest, buttoning up to his still darker neck-cloth, and a rough cloth cap, but no coat. His face is rough and weather-beaten, but strong and sturdy. It is thoroughly Scotch, broad and heavy, with a square shut of the mouth and full shaggy brows over the eyes. The latter features are characterized by sensibility and frankness, rather than especial calmness and strength. He greeted me very cordially, and took me into the house, through the back room and kitchen, to his sitting room. After introducing me to his wife, a quiet, trim, oldish lady in black, who was knitting a very long stocking by the window, he went out to put on his coat and take off his cap, and I examined the room. Almost its exact counterpart may be found in farmhouses all over New England. The ceiling was low, and neatly whitewashed, the walls covered with the plainest of paper, the floor with homely rag matting. The old chimney-place was bricked; a soapstone stove stood before it. On the walls were two or three common prints, one of them colored; over the small windows were white shades; in one corner an old-fashioned escretoire contained a few books of no distinctive character, and by one of of the windows was quite a little conservatory of plants, one of them an ivy that trailed part way round the room. Presently the tall farmer returned, with his thick, coarse, gray hair uncovered, and took one of the plain rocking chairs, with their fluffy black cushions filled with feathers.

"I don't know that I can say much to you," he began; "you see how I am, a plain farmer, about my work. I don't know how this election is going, but it doesn't disturb me at all. Whatever the result of next Tuesday may be, it will not trouble me in the least, so far as my personal feelings are concerned, any more than last Tuesday. Everybody who knows me at all knows all about me. I am in the habit of saying just what I think on all subjects, at all times, and that is the way I like to do. Now, however, I am expected to be under some restraint."

It was evident all throughout the conversation that he felt that restraint, and it was somewhat irksome, for he avoided expressing his views in the open manner which was evidently natural to him on the matters directly involved in the campaign.

"You see," he continued, "I never sought this nomination, and if I had only my own feelings to consult, I should be rather glad to be allowed to stay quietly at home among my neighbors and about my work; yet I do think it is important to the party to win this election. The administration, bad as it is, ought not to lose another State. There is no improvement to be expected from the democratic party, and I am afraid to have power to drift into their hands. I feel anxious as to what course the South might take, and what it might be able to do in that case. This State rights question, which has troubled the Government from its very foundation, is not dead yet, and may do mischief some time."

Being led back to the manner in which he became a candidate, he said:

"At the caucus of the republican members of the Legislature, last June, it was concluded that the next candidate should be a farmer. I had supposed that Mr. Bell would be the man, but when it was decided that he should be a farmer, I proposed Mr.— of Concord, but it was objected that he was too rich. Then I spoke of Mr. B—, up here, but he was too much of a fancy farmer; they wanted a real working farmer. I never thought of myself as an acceptable candidate, and even up to the time of the convention, did not imagine I should be nominated. I have been accused of being one of the clique at the Hazeltine House in Manchester, who brought about the nomination. I know nothing about the clique, and was never in the Hazeltine House in my life. What I do I do openly, and I wish the world to see me and know me as I am."

"You have spent most of your life here, I believe," your correspondent suggested with a view of opening up a new line.

"Well, yes; I was born down here in Pembroke and lived there till I was seven years old, when my father died. Then I had to take care of myself, and I owe nothing to any one else for whatever I am. I worked in several towns not far from here, and went to school when I could. My great desire was to be educated, but I was never able to compass it, though I used every opportunity I could, and for some fifteen years I taught school in the winter and worked on a farm the rest of the time. When a young man I went to Connecticut and spent four years with Mr. Pillsbury at the State House there. Finally, Governor Colby wanted me to come up here and go to farming, and I came and bought a farm here, thirty-two years ago. I lived here year after year, like any other farmer, doing my own work. A few years ago I sold the farm and came down here to the village, and thought I wouldn't farm any more. I had considerable probate busines, and a good many references came to me, but I didn't have enough to do, and felt uneasy, and so bought another farm, about a mile from here, where I do most of my work now."

"You have never been in public life much, I believe."

"No; I never sought it at all, and what I have had sought me. I have been almost constantly in some town office here at home. One year, I was County Commissioner by appointment, and several years ago, as well as this last year, I was in the legislature. Some years ago, somebody in Londonderry wrote to me to know if I didn't want to run for County Commissioner. I wrote back that if Merrimack County wanted me for Commissioner, she would let me know. I had nothing to do about it. That has always been my feeling. I seek no public position."

"Your family, I think, is of Scotch origin."

"Yes, they originally came from Scotland and settled in Londonderry, Ireland, and from there four brothers came to Londonderry in this State. They all went into the Revolutionary army, and my grandfather is the only one that came out alive. His descendants are the only people of the name that I know of in this country."

"You think that having a farmer candidate, this year, is an advantage," I suggested.

"I do; yes. That was the feeling, last Summer, in both parties, and it was intended by the democrats to nominate Judge Roberts of Rollinsford, who is a farmer and a very good man, too; but they were cheated out of it in the convention. Whatever estimation I may be held in personally, I think a farmer candidate was called for. I don't know how it will be throughout the State, but here where I am known some democrats will vote for me. Several have said so themselves."

I tried to draw the old farmer into some expression of opinion on the liquor question, but he avoided it. He spoke of the prohibition party, and said that many of the men were honest and sincere, but if they expected to build up a great national party, they ought to be open and frank in their proceedings. Underhand management and trying to undermine somebody else by intrigues did not look well for the honesty of their intentions. He believed there was a good deal of discontent among republicans on account of national affairs, and thought it might occasion some staying at home; but still the matter depended, mainly, on the effort made to bring voters out. There are always certain ones who don't care much and need to be stirred up. It was possible, in the country towns, if the weather was good, to bring out about every vote, if anybody had zeal enough to make the attempt. The fact is, he said, the people of New Hampshire, as a general thing, understand pretty well what is at stake and what is involved in the election. He alluded to the Simmons appointment in Massachusetts, and said that some thought it would affect the election, but he didn't see why it should. It really did not concern this State much, nor the general merits of the party. Mr. Weston, he said, was a very nice man and a good engineer, if he did locate one of the walls of a public building in this county a foot out of the way. Nobody could find any particular fault with him, and that seemed to be why he was nominated. Dr. Blackmer he knew nothing about personally, but he seemed to be a restless spirit that thought he had the universe to revolutionize, and only a short time to do it in, and only one means of doing it.

From this the conversation drifted into general matters, New London and its peculiarities, the New Hampshire people and place, etc. The General appeared to be well informed and intelligent, and is, as he says, a lover of history and records of facts, but his chief peculiarities appear to be straightforward frankness and open cordiality of feeling. In the intervals of conversation he looked thoughtful, with the least tendency to melancholy reflection. His gray hair standing almost straight on end, his brows contracted slightly, and his broad, firm mouth drawn down, gave him a look of steadfast strength and solemn earnestness. I took my leave impressed with the opinion that, if the farmers of New Hampshire ever wish to vote for a man of their own class for Governor, they can never have a better opportunity than now. This man is a thorough every-day working farmer, honest and open as the day, and, at the same time, with the information and ability which are in request for public officers. There is no doubt that he would hold to what he regarded as right with a firmness that could not be shaken, and his sound judgment and common sense would ensure his being actually right in most if not all cases.

Daily Chronicle.

MONDAY, MARCH 9, 1874.

Readables.

A young Charlestown thief, by the name of Lee, snatched a package of money, containing over $2000, from J. D. Wheeler, president of the Grafton National Bank, on Congress square, Boston, Friday noon. He ran, pursued by a large crowd, and was finally overtaken on Fulton street by two citizens. The money was recovered and the thief arrested.

A despatch from Constantinople reports an extensive conflagration in Salonica, by which eleven persons were burned to death.

The Catholics of Newburyport have purchased a lot for a nunnery in that city.

Jefferson, the actor, is now on his plantation in Louisana, where he intends staying during the cold weather. It is uncertain when he will make his appearance on the stage again, as he talks of retiring from it altogether.

The new democratic mayor-elect of Saco, Hon. Rishworth Jordan, has declined the office, much to the dismay of those who voted for him. A new election was ordered for next Friday.

The steamer Scandinavian of the Allan line having left Liverpool on the 19th of February, encountered a hurricane and storm, and met with severe weather, for 7 days the waves sweeping over the deck nearly half the time. The captain several times narrowly escaped being swept off the bridge. The first officer was knocked down upon the bridge by the waves and badly injured. The morning after the storm one of the passengers, Cornet Bugley, of the British army, was found dead in his berth with a pistol by his side. He was suffering from mental depression and anxiety during the storm. The steamer encountered great quantities of icebergs off Newfoundland Banks. Captain Berry, a passenger of the Scandinavian, and an old sea-captain, declares the passage the roughest he ever experienced.

State News.

A fisherman on Winnipesaukee lately caught a cusk which was 18 inches long. On dressing the fish he found a perch inside of him which was just 9 inches long, and inside of this a perch just 4 1-2 inches long.

Senator Wadleigh seems to have a proper realization of the qualities of some of the "temperance" leaders. In his speech at Nashua he said that they were only a gang of political hucksters, who would sell out their party to the highest bidder as soon as it is big enough to kill.

Some of the Hanover antiquarians think they have identified part of the road that Gov. Wentworth built from Wolfeboro' to Hanover in order to bring his state-carriage to grace one of the early Commencements of the college.

A Quarrel Settled.

A California paper gives an account of the manner in which two men, Dr. C. E. Cleveland and Milton J. Gilkey, recently settled a long-standing feud at Watsonville, in that State. They had not met for four months, but hated each other as cordially as though they had met every day; and at their last meeting, at 10 o'clock at night, they settled all old scores. After a brief greeting they commenced hostilities. Cleveland though drunk, was quick with his weapon, and Gilkey had hardly spoken before a ball from the Doctor's pistol struck him just over the right nipple. The wounded man gave a slight cry, and staggered back a few steps. He threw his left arm around a tree, and steadying himself, took deliberate aim at the Doctor. By this time the Doctor had cocked his pistol again. Then came two shots almost almost simultaneously. The Doctor's second shot missed its aim, but that from Gilkey's pistol struck the Doctor on the right side, and passing through the body, severed one of the main arteries of the heart, causing almost instant death. The Doctor gave a groan and sank to the ground. Gilkey, growing weak from the loss of blood, released his hold of the tree and fell heavily to the ground, expiring in about five minutes. The two bodies were not over six feet apart. The sharp crack of the pistols, ringing out upon the night air of the quiet village, attracted a number of people to the scene of the frightful tragedy. The pistol shots were distinctly heard by Dr. Cleveland's wife, but she little dreamed that her husband had fallen a victim, until a few minutes later when his dead body was brought home. Cleveland was one of the most prominent physicians of that section. He was about 52 years of age and leaves a wife and several children. Gilkey was a carpenter and millwright by trade and about 50 years of age. He took a prominent part in the lynching of Matt Tarpey on the 17th of last March, and had the reputation of being a man devoid of physical fear. The manner of his death excited little surprise. It had been often predicted of him that he would "die in his boots."

A Breathing Cave.

The St. Louis Democrat tells a wonderful story about a wonderful cave, which from the description given of it we think must be an outlet or inlet of that place to which most western editors will go at some time or another. The account is as follows: In the range of mountains in Western North Carolina known as the "Fox Range," a most singular phenomenon exists. It is a "breathing cave." In the summer a current of air comes from it so strongly that a person can't walk against it, while in winter the suction is just as great. The cool air from the mountain in the summer is felt for miles, in a direct line from the mouth of the cave. At times a most unpleasant odor is emitted upon the current from dead carcasses of animals sucked in and killed by the violence. The loss of cattle and stock in that section in winter is accounted for in this way: they range too near the mouth of the cave, and the current carries them in. At times, when the change from inhalation to exhalation begins, the air is filled with various hairs of animals; not unfrequently bones and whole carcasses are found miles from the place. The air has been known to change materially in temperature during exhalation from quite cool to unpleasantly hot, withering vegetation within reach, and accompanied by a terrible roaring, gurgling sound, as of a pot boiling. It is unaccounted for by scientific men who have examined it, though no exploration can take place. It is feared by many that a volcanic eruption may break forth there some time. Such things have occurred in places as little expected.

—The following notice was recently posted on the premises of a very wealthy Kentucky farmer: "If any man's or woman's cows or oxens gits in these oats, his or her tail will be cut off as the case may be."

—The epitaphs of Dakota papers are most pathetic. Jim Barrett had been shovelling snow, from which he caught a bad cold, which turned into fever. The fever settled Jim's mundane affairs; and a local paper says, most affectingly, in his obituary, "He won't have to shovel snow in the country he has gone to."

Indigestion's Martyrs.

Half the diseases of the human family spring from a disordered stomach, and may be prevented by invigorating and toning that abused and neglected organ with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Let it be borne in mind that the liver, the kidneys, the intestines, the muscles, the ligaments, the bones, the nerves, the integuments, are all renewed and nourished by the blood, and that the digestive organs are the grand alembic in which the materials of the vital fluid are prepared. When the stomach fails to provide healthful nourishment for its dependencies they necessarily suffer, and the ultimate result, if the evil is not arrested, will be chronic and probably fatal disease somewhere. It may be developed in the kidneys in the form of diabetis, in the liver as congestion, in the muscles as rheumatism, in the nerves as paralysis, in the integuments as scrofula. Remember, however, that each and all of these consequences of indigestion may be prevented by the timely and regular use of that sovereign antidote to dyspepsia, Hostetter's Bitters.

Kentucky in Egypt.

Governor TROS. E. BRAMLETTE, manager of the Kentucky Public Library, of Louisville, Ky., received last week, the following letter, which explains itself:

CAIRO, EGYPT, Jan. 22, 1874.

DEAR SIR:—I have arranged with Mr. S. S. Merchant, No. 76 South street, New York, to honor your draft for $50 for which I wish you to send me to this place a ticket to your Fourth Gift Concert, for March 31st, 1874. Direct it to "His Excellency Warren Bey, Surgeon-in-Chief to the General Staff," and pay the postage (which will be 30 cents) through. Be sure to write in one corner of envelope, "Via Brindisi," and do not fail to send me a copy of the drawing of premiums as promptly as possible. I think you would do well to appoint an agent (not myself of course,) in this country, as I am sure a number of tickets would be disposed of for every drawing. There is a fever for such investments in Egypt.

Respectfully, &c.,
EDWARD WARREN, M. D.

GOV. BRAMLETTE sent the tickets promptly. It would be a curious thing if the grand prize of $250,000 should go to Cairo, Egypt. The West would be paying back the East the treasures it has drawn from thence. Probably a hundred tickets will be sent to Cairo as the result of this one. The incident shows the wide-spread popularity of the Gift Concerts, and the faith reposed in the management.

Imitators and their Schemes come to grief at last. Only original discoveries, like that of Dr. Helmbold, stand the test of time. Helmbold's Buchu, which is the only extract of that wonderful shrub that realizes its full virtues, is still relied upon to cure Kidney Complaint, Female Disorders, Impotency, Gravel, the effects of dissipation and all troubles of the urinary organs in either sex. This steadily successful medicine is recommended by physicians. Beware of counterfeits. John F. Henry, New York, Sole Agent. Sold by all druggists.

Quack Medicines.—We never puff, but ANAKESIS the great Western PILE remedy has cured Thousands, after lotions, ointments, and all manner of nostrums have failed. It is the discovery of Dr. Silabee, an eminent western physician, and has been endorsed by medical men of all schools. It is a simple medicated suppository, acts as an instrument, poultice and medicine, affords instant relief from pain, and is pronounced an infallible cure.—Price $1.00. Sold by druggists everywhere. ANAKESIS Depot, 46 Walker St., New York.

There is scarcely any disease in which purgative medicines are not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented were they more generally used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases which might have been avoided by a timely and judicious use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, or Sugar Coated Concentrated Root and Herbal Juice, Anti-Bilious Granules. These little Pellets, unlike every other cathartic, produce such a secondary tonic effect upon the bowels as to bring about a permanent cure, not decrease their peristaltic motion. Price 25 cents a vial, by all Druggists. 7t2

NONE but a physician knows how much a reliable alterative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cures.—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues their claim. In this state of the case, DR. J. C. AYER & Co., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other kindred preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

This compound of the vegetable alteratives, Sarsaparilla, Docks, Stillingia and Mandrake with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system that undermine health and scatter loathsome eruptions. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they generate disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidney, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism and Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucchorrhea arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation and General Debility. With their departure, health returns.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND HUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes The Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills" simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Local Matters.

FOR MAYOR,

FRANK W. MILLER.

Important Law.

At the last session of the legislature a law was enacted fixing the time of closing the polls in this city, and as to-morrow's election will be the first under this new law we copy it from the pamphlet laws of 1873, page 238.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened:

SECTION 1. That at all elections hereafter held in the city of Portsmouth, for State, county, and municipal officers, the polls shall be closed at six and one half o'clock in the afternoon of the day of election, and of the day of any adjournment from that day, and not before; and no ballot shall be given in, received, or placed in the ballot-box after six and one half o'clock of the day when the balloting takes place.

SECT. 2. As soon as a declaration of the votes shall have been made at any election, it shall be the duty of the clerk of each ward to take possession of all the ballots counted, and preserve them in the same condition in which they were at the time of the declaration, together with the memorandum from which the moderator made the declaration,—also, any memorandum or figures made by any officer who assisted in sorting or counting the ballots,—and preserve the same in some safe place under his lock and key, for ninety days after such election, subject during that time to such examination or recount in such manner and at such times as the mayor and aldermen may order; and subject, also, to be examined by any person in the presence of the ward clerk, upon two days' notice thereof given to the moderator and selectmen of the ward.

SECTION 3. This act shall take effect from and after its passage. [Approved July 3, 1873.]

Election Returns.

We request our friends, correspondents, election officers and others, to furnish us any returns from their respective sections, at the earliest possible moment on Tuesday. Give us the Governor and Senator votes, with the names and parties of Representatives; and the list of Town Officers is also desirable.

Young People's Union.

At the fourth annual meeting of the Young People's Union, last week, the following officers were elected:

President, Robert E. Rich;
Vice-President, Charles A. Hazlett;
Secretaries, Miss Mary A. Foster, Mrs. A. B. Wilson, Miss Carrie A. Freeman;
Treasurer, Alfred Stavers;
Librarian, Robert E. Rich;
Directors, Rev. James DeNormandie, Joseph H. Thacher, Joseph H. Foster, Mrs. F. W. Miller, Mrs. J. P. Moses, Miss Julia A. Fray;
General Committee, Wm. H. Hackett, A. W. Odiorne, John Laighton, A. P. Stevens, Mrs. G. W. Green, Mrs. C. E Lord, Misses E. L. Laighton, Lavinia Laighton, Sarah Simmons, A. S. Fernald, Hattie Remick and E. A. Philbrick.

The Union is in a very prosperous condition and the attendance at the rooms on Congress street is larger than during any previous year.

Laconics.

Lieut. Frank D. Webster, U. S. M. C., has been ordered to duty at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Pension Agent Vaughan furnishes a larger bond than the new Collector of the port of Boston is obliged to secure. The former amounting to $175,000, and the latter $100,000.

The Portland Press says the Wilkinson theatrical company is the best that has visited that city for a long time. They play here on Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week.

The republicans of Newcastle have renominated John W. Bickford, Esq., for Representative—a most excellent candidate. Newcastle will show a large republican gain to-morrow.

Foster's Democrat says the liquor dealers of Boston have been importuned to raise a fund of $30,000 to assist the democracy in endeavoring to carry New Hampshire, and that $20,000 had already been subscribed and sent on. It is understood that a large portion of the money has been received for disbursement in Rockingham county. The democratic leaders of Portsmouth have a thousand or more to put out on votes, and we advise those democrats who are accustomed to receive a moiety each for their votes to get their share of the rhino to-morrow ere they deposit their ballots for Weston.

The nomination of Hon. Daniel Marcy as a candidate for Representative in the third ward shows that the democracy have no hope of his election as Mayor; it also shows that good democratic timber for candidates is getting scarce in the lower ward.

Portsmouth bonds sold in Boston on Saturday for $92. Who is more responsible for this than Capt. Marcy?

The Eastern and Boston & Maine Railroads have finally signed a contract by which the two roads will cease from competition and 40 per cent. of the receipts by either company on business at competing points will be divided between the corporations.

Old Double Bee (Ben Butler) never hurt republicanism in New Hampshire a bit. We wish we could say as much for Dawes.

The opposition claimed no higher motive at the last Presidential election than "anything to beat Grant;" and most of the managers of the political temperance party, are a good deal more desirous to defeat the republicans than of promoting any reform.

A Slippery Customer.

William Johnston, recently arrested at Yarmouth, N. S., under the Extradition Treaty, at the instance of Mr. Woodbury Locke of this city, (Mr. Locke having signed Johnston's bail bond when the latter was charged with passing counterfeit money, the culprit making himself inconveniently scarce immediately afterward,) seems to be a slippery customer, judging from his record as given in the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick papers. One of the latter says "Johnson belongs in Yarmouth, and went to New Hampshire in 1872, where he succeeded, at different towns, in passing considerable counterfeit money. Previous to going to New Hampshire, he had borrowed $600 from a gentleman named Churchill, at Yarmouth, and repaid him in counterfeit money. Churchill, not knowing the money to be counterfeit, sent it to Boston, where the fraud was discovered, and the money was returned to him. He tendered it back to Johnston, who readily accepted it, saying he knew from whom he received it, and it would be all right. Though suspected at the time he was not proceeded against, and he shortly afterward left for the States. Here, as stated, he got off a considerable quantity of the 'queer,' until at last he was arrested for defrauding Perley Dodge, of Amherst. After an examination he was committed for trial, but released to appear, bail being taken in two sureties of $6,000 each. One of these sureties was Mr. Locke, who was induced to sign for him by false representations as to his wealth and fraudulent conveyances of deeds to indemnify him (Locke) from loss. Immediately upon the bonds being signed, Johnston and his brother left for the Provinces, and failed to put in an appearance for trial. The State did not proceed against Mr Locke for the amount of the bond—the other bondsman having left the State—but gave him time to produce Johnston. This Mr. Locke intends to do, if possible, under the Extradition Treaty. To arrest Johnston was no easy task. He took to the woods, and for some days defied all efforts to capture him. He was secured, however, and was brought to Halifax with bracelets upon his wrists. He is apparently about 40 years of age, a farmer by occupation, and of respectable appearance. He alleges that all the forged money he ever held was a $50 bill, and that he received in a horse trade. And he says that he was willing to be tried; but the difficulty in capturing him does not bear out the latter statement."

Another Compliment.

[Rochester Courier.]

The Colored Jubilee Singers sung their songs and melodies at the Methodist Vestry, Wednesday evening. But the eternal mud and damp atmosphere must have put a wet blanket on their hopes for a crowded house. Of the singing it was superb, the members possessing wonderfully flexible voices, while the tune and harmony were perfect. We havn't any musical critic, but as near as we can, express the emotions, etc., and that our readers who were not there may know "how it is himself," he must imagine himself attached to the bob-tail of a large kite; gently and steadily he ascends into the air, to an immense height, until, at last, the string breaks and he comes down "wiggle-waggle," (a very expressive word) arriving on terra firma in a field up to his arms in clover! Let his imagination thus aid him, and it will be useless for us to feebly portray the peculiarities of their musical talent, for he has them before him singing. The power of raising one right by his suspenders into an ethereal existence, and there leaving him

"Floating, floating—softly floating
Through the blue and dreamy air."

is a singular and rare gift of theirs—a peculiarity of all other peculiarities, the most peculiar.

Too Much Horse.

The Grangers of Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties, Cal., have taken steps toward squelching the Southern California District Agricultural Association, which they deem has degenerated from its high estate as a means of encouragement for agricultural and mechanical industry, and has become merely a cloak for betting on horse races. As an evidence of what they charge, seventeen Masters of Granges in those counties, in a memorial to the legislature, set forth that at the last Fair of that Association $3,650 were paid as premiums on horse races and only $843 as premiums on all other articles. So discouraging was the influence of this discrimination, that there was actually no competition in those departments which should have been of the first importance, the list of articles entered being so meager that only four escaped being awarded premiums. The Grangers go on to say:

"The entire energies of the society seemed to be centered on the race-track, where fast running and fast trotting horses, under the management of the Association, continued throughout the entire week to be the center of attraction. These races were not run so much for the trial of speed as for the purpose of affording facilities for pool-selling, which was carried on extensively under the management of the society—the amount of pools sold during the week reaching the sum of $24,500. The people see no reason why the State of California should encourage public gambling under the guise of fostering agricultural interests; and your memorialists would most respectfully protest, in the name of the farmers of Southern California, against extending further aid to this Association, and would ask that the State turn its attention toward fostering legitimate agricultural pursuits."

—A correspondent of the Arcadian says: "You should see Madame S[illegible]tson in the domestic circle. She has the most wonderful faculty of ingratiating herself with children. She will sit down on the floor with them, enter into all their fun and infantile architecture and then precipitate them into ecstacies by whistling for them—and she whistles like a flute or a nightingale—or playing the violin. It is really wonderful to hear her whistle; no one ever could do it better. There is nothing she is fonder of than a good romp with a lot of lively children—she makes them all infatuated with her in less than a minute, and she kicks up more noise than an eight-horse-power schoolgirl."

SPLENDID AND UNPARALLELED TRIUMPHS

—OF THE—

WHEELER & WILSON Sewing Machine Co.,

NEW YORK.

OVER EIGHTY-ONE COMPETITORS,

—AT THE—

WORLD'S EXPOSITION, VIENNA, 1873, &c.

1. The Knight's Cross of the Imperial Order of "Francis Joseph," conferred by his Apostolic Majesty the Emperor of Austria, upon the Honorable Nathaniel Wheeler, President of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Company, as the founder and builder of Sewing Machine industry.
2. The Grand Diploma of Honor, recommended by the International Jury for this Sewing Machine Company only, for their important contributions to the material and social welfare of mankind.
3. The Grand Medal for Progress, awarded for their New No. 6 Sewing Machine, being for progress made since the Paris Exposition of 1867, at which the only Gold Medal for Sewing Machines was awarded to this Company. Hence the Vienna awarded marks Progress not from a low, level, or inferior medal, but from a Gold Medal, the highest award made at Paris.
4. The Grand Medal for Merit, for the development of Needle Industry and excellence and superiority of manufactured samples exhibited.
5. A Grand Medal for Merit, for excellence and superiority of Cabinet work, the only award of the kind in this section.
6. Medals for several Co-operators, of the Wheeler & Wilson Company, for superior ability.
7. The Official Report, published by the General Direction of the Vienna Exposition, signalizes the supremacy of the Wheeler & Wilson Company for quality and quantity of manufacture, and position in the Sewing Machine business, as follows:

OFFICIAL REPORT, VIENNA EXPOSITION SEWING MACHINES, &c.

[GROUP 15, SEC. 2, R.]

"The greatest Sewing Machine Manufactory in the world is that of Wheeler and Wilson, New York, which alone has brought already over 200,000 of their Sewing Machines into practical use. The complete production of the parts by machinery is so regulated that each complete machine may be used as a sample for exhibition. This firm produces 600 well adjusted machines daily."

"The latest production of this firm, and which is the wonder of the Vienna Exposition, is their new No. 6 Sewing Machine. This universal machine sews the heaviest leather harness and the finest gauzes with a truly pearl stitch."

"Wheeler & Wilson have received the highest prizes at all World's Expositions, and at the Vienna Exposition were extraordinarily distinguished."

FURTHER DISTINGUISHED HONORS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15, 1873.

THE GRAND MEDAL OF HONOR

—OF THE—

AMERICAN INSTITUTE, NEW YORK,

Was unanimously recommended by the judges of Sewing-Machines for

WHEELER & WILSON'S NEW NO. 6 SEWING MACHINE,

of being "a decided improvement over all other machines in the market," and which "must revolutionize certain branches of industry, especially in shoe and Harness Manufacturing."

BALTIMORE, Md., October 31, 1873.

"The MARYLAND INSTITUTE has awarded WHEELER & WILSON the GOLD MEDAL for their New No. 6 Sewing Machine. Other Sewing Machines received nothing."

SAVANNAH, November 4, 1873.

"At the GEORGIA STATE FAIR, a SILVER MEDAL the highest and only premium for Leather Stitching, was awarded to WHEELER & WILSON for samples done on their New No. 6 Sewing Machine."

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after suffering different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the morbid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas Scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up in my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had taken 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, as well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, will an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
WILLIAM PAYS.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER!

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever.

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff; and the scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, says of it: "I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE,

FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

$1 PER BOTTLE. SIX BOTTLES, $5.

BEHOLD!
WILSON'S
SUPERPHOSPHATE
At Auction!
My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.
My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.
The only Fertilizer that has ever received a SILVER MEDAL from the N. E. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.
The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind, and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever acquired a wide a reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long-continued series of marvellous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well-founded, if taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

THE CHILD AND THE STAR.

[Boston Advertiser.]

Star, that's through my window shining
'Tween the branches of the tree,
Every night I think about you
As you're looking in on me.

And I very often wonder
If you are an angel's eye,
Watching over me while sleeping,
From your home up in the sky.

Do you know my little brother,
Who, one pleasant day last year,
Went away to live in Heaven,
And left me to mourn him here?

Tell him, Star, I want to see him,
For I miss him at my play,
And the house seems dark without him
When there comes a rainy day.

Oft I think you are a window,
And my brother's looking through
On his brother Charlie, sleeping—
How I wish that this were true!

For whenever he felt lonely
He could look off far away,
And, although I cannot see him,
He could see me every day.

Mother says you are a planet,
A great world like this of ours,
With great mountains, lakes and rivers,
Clouds and sunshine, trees and flowers.

And perhaps some boy upon you
Looks off to a great, bright star—
This great earth—and wonders at it,
As I wonder what you are.

ALFRED FORD.

TUESDAY, MARCH 10, 1874.

The Temperance War.

The temperance crusade continues. Dr. Dio Lewis has appeared at St. Albans, Vt., where he said that the people of New England are too proud and puritanical to do anything which would look like copying from the West, which was the reason the Ohio plan has not met more favor in Worcester, Mass.

Wendell Phillips addressed an immense audience in Tremont Temple, Boston, Sunday evening, on temperance.

In Fall River, Mass., the State police have been carrying on the war so vigorously that the ladies will have to hurry up or they will not find any rumsellers to pray for when they get there. John Campbell, an alderman, had 500 gallons of whiskey and several cases of brandy, seized last week.

In New York, a large meeting was held on Sunday, in a saloon kept by Harry Hill, a noted "sporting" man.

In Columbus, Ohio, no services were held in the churches on Sunday, nearly all the ministers being on the platform at the city hall, which was crowded.

The Liquor-Dealers Association of Philadelphia has requested its members to close their saloons on Sunday, and the Mayor has issued a proclamation ordering all saloons to be closed on that day.

Readables.

And now Maggie Mitchell won't play in Boston because they've cut down those Paddock elms.

The damages occasioned by the recent freshet on the European & North American Railway, near St. John, N. B., have been repaired, and all trains are again running on time.

Ex-President Millard Fillmore died at Buffalo, N. Y., Sunday night, aged 74 years.

The ocean steamer Phœnician, which has been overdue at Portland for about a week, arrived safely at that port, Sunday, after a very rough passage.

A Swede named John Andersen shot two men in a factory at Wallingford, Conn., on Saturday, and fired at several others. One man was fatally wounded. He shot himself in the head and cut his throat with his knife, and succeeded in wounding himself fatally.

The reported killing of the Cuban ex-president Cespedes is confirmed. He was betrayed by a negro, who did it to save his own life. Cespedes fired six shots from a revolver at his assailants, and was killed by a volley. His body was buried and not burned, as was at first stated.

State News.

The body of Miss Jennie Russell, who has been missing from her home in Lancaster for four days, was found Sunday afternoon in Nashua river, near Lancaster. She was a daughter of the late Professor Russell, and undoubtedly committed suicide.

John Kimball was nominated as a candidate for the mayoralty of Concord by the republicans on Saturday afternoon.

A Wicket Fraud.

[Mark Twain.]

It is seldom pleasant to tell on one's self, but sometimes it is a sort of relief to a man to make a sad confession. I wish to unburden my mind now, and yet I almost believe that I am moved to do it more because I long to bring censure upon another man than because I desire to pour balm upon my wounded heart. I don't know what balm is, but I believe it is the correct expression to make in this connection—never having seen any balm. You may recollect that I lectured in Newark lately for the young gentlemen of the Clayonian society? I do at any rate. During the afternoon of that day, I was talking with one of the young gentlemen referred to, and he said he had an uncle, who, from some cause or other, seemed to have grown permanently bereft of all emotion. And with tears in his eyes this young man said:

"Oh, if I could only see him laugh once more! Oh if I could only see him weep!"

I was touched. I never could withstand distress. I said:

"Bring him to my lecture. I'll start him for you."

"Oh, if I could but do it! If you could but do it! All our family would bless you forevermore—for he is very dear to us. Oh my benefactor, can you make him laugh? Can you bring soothing tears to those parched orbs?"

I was profoundly moved. I said:

"My son, bring the old party around—I have got some jokes in that lecture that will make him laugh if there is any laugh in him—and if they miss fire I have got some others that'll make him cry or kill him, one or the other."

Then the young man blessed me, and wept on my neck, and blew his nose on my coat tail and went after his uncle. He placed him in full view in the second row of benches that night and I began on him. I tried him with mild jokes; then with severe ones; I fired old stale jokes into him, and peppered him fore and aft with red hot new ones; then I warmed up to my work and assaulted him on the right and left in front and behind; I fumed and sweated and charged and routed till I was hoarse and sick and frantic and furious—but never moved him once—I never started a tear! never a ghost of a smile nor a suspicion of moisture! I was astonished. I closed the lecture at last with one despairing shriek—with one wild burst of humor—and hurled a joke of supernatural atrocity full at him. It never moved him! Then I set down bewildered and exhausted.

The president of the society came up and bathed my head with cold water and said:

"What made you carry on so towards the last?"

I said: "I was trying to make that confounded old fool laugh in the second row."

And he said: "Well, you were wasting your time—because he is deaf and dumb and as blind as a badger."

Now was that any way for that old man's nephew to impose upon a stranger and an orphan like me? I simply ask you as a man and a brother if that was any way for him to do?

The Lightning Rod Man.

In Blossburg, Pa., recently, a lightning rod man drove up in front of a handsome edifice standing in the midst of trees and shrubs, and spoke to Mr. Summers, who was sitting on the steps in front. He accosted Summers as the owner of the residence and said:

"I see you have no lightning rods on this house."

"No," said Summers.

"Are you going to put any on?"

"Well, I hadn't thought of it," replied Summers.

"You ought to. A tall building like this is very much exposed. I'd like to run you one of my rods; twisted steels, glass tenders, nickle-plated tips—everything complete. May I put one up to show you? I'll do the job cheap."

"Certainly you may, if you want to. I haven't the slightest objections," said Summers.

During the next half hour the man had his ladders up and his assistants at work, and at the end of that time the job was complete. He called Summers out into the yard to admire it. He said to Summers:

"Now that is well enough, but if it was my house I'd have another rod put on the other side. There's nothing like being protected thoroughly."

"That's true," said Summers, "it would be better."

"I'll put up another, shall I?" asked the man.

"Why, of course, if you think it best," said Summers.

Accordingly the man went to work again and soon had the rod in its place.

"That's a first rate job," he said to Summers, as they both stood eyeing it. "I like such a man as you are. Big-hearted, liberal, not afraid to put a dollar down for a good thing. There's some pleasure in dealin' with you. I like you so much that I'd put a couple more rods on that house, one on the north end and one on the south, for almost nothing."

"It would make things safer, I suppose," said Summers.

"Certainly it would. I'd better do it, hadn't I—hey?"

"Just as you think proper," said Summers.

So the man ran up two more rods, then came down and said to Summers, "There, that's done. Now let's settle up."

"Do what?"

"Why, the job's finished, and now I'll take my money."

"You don't expect me to pay you, I hope?"

"Of course I do. Didn't you tell me to put those rods on your house?"

"My house!" shouted Summers. "I never ordered you to put those rods up. It would have been ridiculous. Why, man, this is the court house, and I'm here waiting for the court to assemble. I'm on the jury. You seemed to be anxious to rush out your rods, and as it was none of my business, I let you go on. Pay for it! Come, now, that's pretty good."

The Blossburg people say that the manner in which the lightning rod man tore round town was fearful. But when he got his rods off the court house he left.

Cincinnati Times-Currents.

Providence only can tell what has happened to the Pittsburg Commercial, but they've inaugurated a "General and particular" fellow who's as cheerful as beans. His last remark is that the Ohio women "are saloonatics."

Right's right and wrongs no man; and just when we want to hook the religious column of the Rochester Dem. Chron., it's mighty hard lines to find that they've just hooked our last one. That fellow that would steal religion would take advantage of a poor blind girl.

It grieves us deeply to record how an unusually philanthropic heart in Covington was rendered forever deaf to charitable appeals. It was met by a ragged, sickly little girl on the street corner with the tearful prayer, "Please, sir, give me five cents to buy a loaf of bread for my mother." From the depth of his tenderness and his pocket, Philanthropos extracted five cents, and moved on murmuring softly, "Bless you, my child!" A short time after, stepping into a drug store for a moment, he discovered his sickly girl placidly consuming a glass of soda, and inquired, with mixed grief and astonishment, whether she had bought that bread. Pausing a moment from the ingurgitation of her foamy fluid, the maiden cocked an eye up at Philanthro's stormy countenance, and responded, "What'smattero' you? I guess yer got worms." Philanthro mournfully declares that he will give clothing more in charity, and is not to be moved by the argument that it was not his five cents, but another, that she spent for soda.

—Jean Luie, the claimant's witness in the Tichborne case, is fully committed for trial on a charge of perjury. Andrew Boyle, the old negro servant of the Tichborne family and one of the strongest witnesses for the claimant, has become hopelessly ill since the verdict was rendered against Orton.

—An ox that had been eating fermented grain, which was in preparation for making ale, became intoxicated, and was offered for sale by his owner as "scorned" beef.

Indigestion's Martyrs.

Half the diseases of the human family spring from a disordered stomach, and may be prevented by invigorating and toning that abused and neglected organ with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Let it be borne in mind that the liver, the kidneys, the intestines, the muscles, the ligaments, the bones, the nerves, the integuments, are all renewed and nourished by the blood, and that the digestive organs are the grand alembic in which the materials of the vital fluid are prepared. When the stomach fails to provide healthful nourishment for its dependencies they necessarily suffer, and the ultimate result, if the evil is not arrested, will be chronic and probably fatal disease somewhere. It may be developed in the kidneys in the form of diabetis, in the liver as congestion, in the muscles as rheumatism, in the nerves as paralysis, in the integuments as scrofula. Remember, however, that each and all of these consequences of indigestion may be prevented by the timely and regular use of that sovereign antidote to dyspepsia, Hostetter's Bitters.

Imitators and their Schemes come to grief at last. Only original discoveries, like that of Dr. Helmbold, stand the test of time. Helmbold's Buchu, which is the only extract of that wonderful shrub that realizes its full virtues, is still relied upon to cure Kidney Complaint, Female Disorders, Impotency, Gravel, the effects of dissipation and all troubles of the urinary organs in either sex. This steadily successful medicine is recommended by physicians. Beware of counterfeits. John F. Henry, New-York, Sole Agent. Sold by all druggists.

Quack Medicines.—We never puff, but ANAKESIS the great Western PILE remedy has cured Thousands, after lotions, ointments, and all manner of nostrums have failed. It is the discovery of Dr. Silsbee, an eminent western physician, and has been endorsed by medical men of all schools. It is a simple medicated suppository, acts as an instrument, poultice and medicine, affords instant relief from pain, and is pronounced an infallible cure.—Price $1.00. Sold by druggists everywhere. ANAKESIS Depot, 46 Walker St., New York.

NONE but a physician knows how much a reliable alterative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cures.—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues they claim. In this state of the case, DR. J. C. AYER & CO., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other blood purifying preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

—The story is told of a western woman who freely used her tongue to the scandal of others, and made a confession to the priest of what she had done. He gave her a ripe thistle top, and told her to go about in various directions and scatter the seeds one by one. Wondering at the penance, she obeyed, then returned and told her confessor. To her amazement, he bade her go back and gather the scattered seeds; and, when she objected, that it was impossible, he replied that it would be still more difficult to gather up and destroy all the evil reports which she had circulated about others.

Polls Close at 6:30 P. M.

Republican Ticket.

Below we print the State and municipal tickets to be supported at the polls by the republicans of this city to-day. A little care will prevent the success of any attempts on the part of the opposition to palm off split or bogus tickets on republican voters, though the democrats will undoubtedly try all their old games.

Voters!

Remember, That Daniel Marcy is a Portsmouth & Dover Railroad Director;

That in the capacity of a Director, more schemes of a nature which would require more aid from the city for that Road might be pushed through were he in the Mayor's chair;

That Frank W. Miller in his official capacity of County Commissioner has instituted reforms that have lessened the county expenses and reduced the debt $25,000 in one year;

That in the office of Mayor the same spirit of economy will be displayed;

That last year under the guise of "Retrenchment and Reform" Mr. Miller was defeated by a candidate under whose administration the usual city expenses were increased nearly $9,000, exclusive of the sum expended for the reception of the Sons;

That while the city expenses in 1870 and 1871 were $198,536.94, those for 1872 and 1873 were $218,038.65, an increase of $19,501.71.

Republicans!

Do not forget that any neglect of duty at the polls may cause unpleasant reflections. The importance of one vote was shown at the last election, and scores who failed to vote because they thought their votes were not needed or were lukewarm in politics, afterward deeply regretted their neglect. If you would escape the evils that democratic success would bring, do your best to avert all possibility of it. Be at the polls and use your cherished privilege of voting. If there were danger of being deprived of the right, how jealously you would guard it! The republicans have placed candidates before you whom it is a pleasure and a duty to sustain. It takes a few minutes only to visit the polls and cast a ballot, except for those living in the outskirts of the city; and as a rule those nearest the voting places are the least liable to vote. Take your earliest opportunity to vote. Remember that by law the polls will be open from nine o'clock to half-past six only. Remember that Gen. McCutchins needs every vote that can be polled for him to be elected over the democratic and temperance nominees.

Election Returns.

If the clerks of the different wards will furnish us with their election returns as soon as convenient after the closing of the polls, as in times past, they will confer a favor which will be duly appreciated.

The P. & D. R. R. Candidate for Mayor.

Messrs. Editors: Will you inform your readers as regards the great anxiety manifest among the several Railroad interests in the election of Capt. Daniel Marcy for Mayor?

It is whispered among the knowing ones that Mr. Marcy must be elected if possible.

Now, why this anxiety? Is it true that THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS more must be added to the City debt of $300,000 already incurred to build the P. & D. R. R., and that Mr. Marcy, who is a prominent Director of that road, is to use his influence for another saddle of indebtedness on our taxpayers?

It is understood that the Dover city government laid the resolutions passed at a recent session of our city government (which demanded where the $300,000 subscribed for the completion of that R. R., had been expended,) on the table, and that it was done at the instance of interested parties, who intend it shall remain there for the present.

We claim we have the right to know where the money has gone, and Mr. Marcy is one of the parties to tell us.

Are we to be sold body and soul to these Railroad interests, and is Mr. Marcy's election to be another link of the chain? If not let us do what we can to prevent any railroad Director from having any such position as Mayor, to bind us further.

A JEFFERSONIAN DEMOCRAT.

A Good Record.

A correspondent writes us that Miss Sarah Ann E. Rice, who died in Kittery on the 6th, at the age of eighty-one, "was valued for mental culture, a pure life and an unfailing trust in the love and goodness of God. Her sympathy with the poor and her interest in the religious welfare of those about her were remarkable; and nearly all the funds for building a church in Kittery were raised through her influence. A few years ago Miss Rice was the last resident proprietor on an estate which has been both owned and occupied by the Rice family since 1634. In that year this estate was granted by Sir Ferdinande Gorges to Thomas Withers, and the same year a marriage took place between Mr. Withers' daughter Mary, who was his only child, and Mr. Thomas Rice. Major Alexander Rice and Dr. Charles Chase, senior Surgeon U. S. N., are the present proprietors."

Don't You Forget It.

Don't forget that James A. Weston has been Governor one year and had a democratic Legislature to help him reduce the State expenditures, and that instead of doing it they increased them $15,000 and ran the State into debt by their bungling management, $192,340.

Don't forget that that legislature took out of the Treasury, for its own pay, $8000 more than have the republican legislatures.

Don't forget that that same legislature appropriated $17,000 more than did its republican predecessor.

Don't forget that the first thing Governor Straw had to do after coming into office was to negotiate a temporary loan of $225,000 to supply the deficiency which a democratic administration handed over to him.

Don't forget that if the burdens of taxation are grievous to be borne, James A. Weston has proved that he lacks both the disposition and ability to relieve them. The child of fortune and railroads, the jelly-fish of politics, he keeps one eye open for "constructive salaries" for himself, and the other that his party gets as well paid by money received from office, and a little better, than the other party gets.

Don't forget that the man who knows what it costs to pay taxes by day's work, the economical, honest candidate for Governor, is Luther McCutchins.

Temperance Lecture.

[Claremont Eagle.]

Dr. C. A. Norton of Portsmouth, G. W. P. of the Sons of Temperance, talked in favor of voting for John Blackmer, at the Town Hall, Claremont, Sunday evening. Dr. Norton is all right on the Temperance question, but all wrong when he travels through the State and gives the advice he does on this important matter. By the way, why does Dr. Norton labor so hard to defeat Gen. McCutchins, when he knows him to be a thorough and devoted temperance man? Why does the Dr. hide the Gen's letter, published elsewhere. Is he shamming in this matter, and wants notoriety and can't get it in any other way? We commend the democratic platform, that plank which favors License, to the Doctor. The democrats are bound to carry out its provisions if they have the power so to do. Foster, of Dover, said, once on a time, that "there was not a temperance man in the democratic party." If this is true, and he should know, Dr. Norton may rest assured that prohibition is "gone up" if the democratic party has anything to say about it.

Laconics.

Look out for spurious ballots.

A plurality of votes will elect the Mayor. All votes thrown for the temperance candidate have no effect. Don't waste your votes, republicans.

We learn that Capt. Earl English, for several years past executive officer at the navy yard, will shortly leave that position to take command of the frigate Congress, now on the Mediterranean station. Wherever he may go Capt. English will carry with him the respect and good will not only of his brother officers and those with whom he has socially mingled, but of the many workingmen who have from time to time been under his orders on the yard. While regretting that so popular and efficient an officer should leave this station before his term of land-service has expired, we congratulate him, in the name of many well-wishers, on the fine ship and favorite station to which he is to be transferred.

An exchange says "the tuneful mosquito is already flapping his midnight wings, in Richmond, Va." That's nothing; he has been flapping them in Portsmouth for a week past, and yet people will persist in speaking of our cold climate.

The alacrity with which the Times denies the statement we gave from Foster's Democrat that a corruption fund of $30,000 had been raised in Boston by the liquor dealers to aid the democracy, shows that the shaft struck home. We advise the democratic voters to get their share of this fund. Don't let it go out of the family, boys!

The insolent fellow who insulted a lady on Vaughan street, Saturday afternoon, deserves a punched head and is likely to get it if he doesn't behave less like a beast. He is known—too well known.

Special Notice.

In order to give voters due warning of the time for the closing of the Polls, the Christian Shore, North Church and South Ward-room bells will begin ringing at quarter-past six and cease at half-past six P. M., which is the legal time for the closing of the Polls. Per Order.

Gentle Amusements.

The Young American must be humored, and as the world has advanced, so have his tastes. The toys of our childish days are no longer his toys. The playthings that were dear to us as the apple of our eye would draw from the chubby-faced skeptic of to-day a sneer as cynical and pococurante as ever hoary-headed vaurien indulged in. He must have hobby-horses with spiral springs, steam engines with all the minute perfection of a twenty-horse power, and with the latest improvements in governing. He must have nitro-glycerine torpedoes that will break plate-glass, and "Pharaoh's serpents," whose gas is fatal. Over these he gloats in glory, touching off the serpent in his sister's bed-room, and glueing the torpedo on the heel of his grandpa's boot. The last toy for this domestic Beelzebub is a parlor mortar, which, by the firing of a fulminating cap, throws a rubber ball a rod or two. Several of the caps went off at once, on Tuesday, in New York, and the whole front wall of a store stepped out into the street at the same time.

A Strange Scene.

On Sunday, 1st. inst., a cattle car containing seventeen cattle ran off the railroad bridge across the Genessee at Rochester, N. Y. The car broke and released some of the cattle, who were carried over the High Falls by the strong current. The Democrat says: "The remaining twelve were crowded together just below the bridge. Depot Master Knapp, deeming it best for the railroad company that the cattle should be sold for whatever they would bring, quickly announced his determination to dispose of them. The company will be obliged to pay the drover, to whom they belong, their full value. The entire seventeen were sold on the spot for $250, $200 of which were paid down, and $50 remain to be paid.

The purchasers were Mr. Rhinehart and John O'Kane, Jr., who will probably make a few dollars out of the transaction. They procured a number of ropes, and attached one to each of the cows. A consultation was held among those present, and it was finally determined to drag each animal to the east side of the river where the current is very strong, and let them be carried over the falls, it being well known that if they went over at the east side the whirlpool would throw the carcass upon the shore, where it could be easily secured.

By the adoption of this expedient, five of the cattle passed over the falls, ninety-six feet high, alive. The others were drowned or killed by the fall. It was a lively scene under and around the falls while this carload of animals was passing over the brink and into the abyss.

Eating Salt with Nuts.

"One time," says a writer, "whilst enjoying a visit from an Englishman, hickory nuts were served in the evening, when my English friend asked for salt, stating that he knew of the case of a woman eating heartily of nuts in the evening, who was taken violently ill. The celebrated Dr. Abernethy was sent for, but it was after he had become rather too fond of his cups. He muttered, 'Salt, salt,' of which no notice was taken. Next morning he went to the place, and she was a corpse. He said that had they given her salt it would have relieved her. If they would allow him to make an examination, he would convince them. On opening the stomach the nuts were found in a mass. He sprinkled salt on this, and immediately it dissolved. I have known of a sudden death myself which appeared to have been from the same cause. I generally eat salt with mine, and I think it improves them."

—The consistent granger perfumes his handkerchiefs with sassafras bark, and scorns Parisian perfumes.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

—An investigation of a very exciting character recently took place at the town of Sheboygan, Wisconsin, illustrating with painful vividness the uncertain nature of all things human. It seems that about twenty-three years ago a drover, who was supposed to have a large sum of money on his person, stopped at a hotel in that place. Shortly after coming there he mysteriously disappeared, and has not been heard from since. The gossips of the town have often shaken their heads over the mysterious affair, and vague rumors of a dark deed have from time to time found circulation. Recently, these took the form of a suspicion that the drover's bones, together with a bag of gold coin, were resting at the bottom of an old well, not far from the spot where he was last seen in life. Urged on by this dark suspicion, and perhaps by an undefined hope of gain, the worthy burghers determined to probe the mystery. With great labor and unflagging zeal they worked to remove the accumulated rubbish of years, and finally dug their way to the bottom of the well. Imagine the feelings of these simple-minded villagers when, at the end of the third day of toil, the bottom of the well being reached, they found themselves face to face with two empty oyster cans, a mutilated skillet and the rusty remains of a hoopskirt.

SMITH'S ACADEMY

— AND —

Commercial College

Founded 1874.

An institution for Young Ladies and Gentlemen intended to meet the requirements of Portsmouth and vicinity.

Instruction will be given in the Greek, Latin and modern languages and literature, including especial attention to those studies required for admission to college. Book Keeping, Mathematics, and Penmanship will have that prominence which their practical importance demands. The Natural Sciences will be included in what is intended to be a thorough and complete English course of instruction.

MRS. E. M. BARRETT, educated at Mt. Holyoke Seminary and well known as a successful teacher in schools in Massachusetts, will assist. Other competent teachers will be employed as the needs of the patrons may require. Applications for admission can be made at the residence of the Principal, 31 Middle St. or at the Academy rooms in Mechanics' Block, Congress Street. LEWIS E. SMITH, A. M., Principal.

☞ There will be no deviation from the above prices.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money-Order on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes, since, should the Order or Draft be lost or stolen, it can be renewed without loss to the sender.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

Subscribers in Canada will add to the terms of subscription 20 cents per year, for pre-payment of American postage.

POST-OFFICE ADDRESS.—Subscribers should not fail to write legibly their Post-Office Address and name of State.

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. Thus we publish two volumes a year.

Patrons of the BANNER when renewing their subscriptions should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed; and the same care should be exercised when a change of location is desired.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after long years of suffering, many remedies, suffering for years, is if not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas Scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
WILLIAM PAYN

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER!

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever.

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff; and the scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, says of it: "I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE,

FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as improved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

$1 PER BOTTLE. SIX BOTTLES, $5.

BEHOLD!
WILSON'S
SUPERPHOSPHATE
At Auction!
My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.
My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.
The only Fertilizer that has ever received a SILVER MEDAL from the N. E. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.
The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind, and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured a wide a reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long-continued series of marvelous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL is really robbed those dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and gives a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well-founded, if taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

How to Cure Split Hoof.
[Cor. Cincinnati Gazette.]
I had a horse that had both hoofs split from top to bottom. He could not walk without his feet spreading apart. I kept him for three months on straw one foot deep in the stable, but all did no good. At last I went to the blacksmith shop and had heavy shoes made which spread wide at the heels. To these heavy shoes there, was welded, at the outset of each heel, a piece made of shoe nail iron. These pieces were made to fit well around the foot, about an inch below the hair. I let the pieces come together within half an inch each, and turned up about three-fourths of an inch. In the turned-up part a hole was made to receive a bolt an inch long, with a square head and screw and nut on the other end. On nailing the shoes on and putting the bolt in and screwing on the nut, the foot was brought together. In this way, I was enabled to work him every day if I wished. Previous to this my horse had not walked one mile in three months. Next day after I had the shoes put on I drove him in a carriage twenty miles, and I have used him right along.

PIANO TUNING.
MR. EDWARDO DE ANGUERA, the well known Piano Tuner, Regulator and Repairer from Boston, would notify his old customers and the public generally, that he will be in Portsmouth in a few days and will attend to all orders left at Preston's Drug Store. Those wishing their Pianos put in perfect tune and repair will please leave their orders immediately, as his stay is limited.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT
FOR 1874.
READ AND THINK.
We have received to-day a large lot of FLOUR in Barrels and Half-Barrels, which we propose to sell at PRICES THAT CAN'T BE BEAT.

PRIDE OF THE WEST	$10.00
RED JACKET	10.00
GENUINE	9.25
A	10.00
LILY OF THE VALLEY	10.50

These prices are less than the same brands or quality can be bought in this State, and we guarantee everything as we say, or you can return it at our expense.
With EVERY BARREL of Flour so sold, we shall give you your choice of
TWO CHROMOS,
Sharing the Meal!
—AND—
The Anxious Mother.
Why? 1st, Because it so increases our sales that even with a small profit on the flour we can make day wages. 2d, Because when people come to buy flour they see the prices of other goods and buy them.
NOW TRY US. All we ask is for you to call, see and be convinced.
J. RIDER & SON.
READ ON.
AFTER JANUARY 1st, to every CASH customer who buys 15 DOLLARS' WORTH of GROCERIES,
Excluding Sugar, we will give a choice of Three Large Chromos.
For this month they will be
The Barefoot Boy,
Feeding the Ducklings, and The Faithful Guardian.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 11, 1874.

The State Election.

The returns we are able to present to our readers to-day are all we could obtain up to 2 A. M. The indications are that there is no choice of Governor, the Senate is republican and the House doubtful. The republican net loss over the last election is about 2000.

"The Administration, bad as it is, ought not to lose another State."—McCutchins.

"When the people want me for Governor they will let me know it."

CONCORD, 11:30 P. M.

Returns from 104 towns give McCutchins 16,971, Weston 17,487, Blackmer 896; the same towns last year gave Straw 16,997, Weston 16,616, Blackmer and scattering 825; republican loss in 104 towns, 968.

CONCORD, Midnight.

One hundred and thirty-one towns give an aggregate vote of 46,711; of this vote McCutchins has 22,321, Weston 23,193, and Blackmer 1297.

CONCORD, 11th, 1 A. M.

One hundred and forty-two towns give McCutchins 24,100, Weston 24,851, Blackmer 1374. Last year the same towns gave Straw 23,903, Weston 22,839, Blackmer 1196. Republican net loss 1992.

CONCORD, 11th, 2 A. M.

One hundred and forty-seven towns give an aggregate vote of 54,551; of this McCutchins has 26,345, Weston 26,685, Blackmer 1517. There may be no choice of Governor by the people. It is impossible at this hour to state what will be the status of the legislature.

Representatives Elected.

Portsmouth—James W. Emery, Christopher C. Jackson, George Annable, John G. Tibbets, J. Horace Kent, S. Storer Whidden, Joshua Brooks, William A. Peirce, republicans; Daniel Marcy, Albert R. Hatch, democrats.

Newcastle, John W. Bickford, republican.

Newington, James Wm. Hoyt, dem.

Rye, Albert M. Walker, dem.

Greenland, no choice.

Hampton, Samuel D. Lane, rep.

Hampton Falls, George B. Sanborn, rep.

Somersworth, two democratic and two republican representatives.

Newton, democratic representative.

Kingston, democratic representative.

Vote of Newcastle.

McCutchins 123; Weston 29. All other republican nominees 121; democrats 29.

Newington.

Selectmen, Joshua B. Pickering, John J. Trefethen, demo., Henry Bean, rep.; clerk, Thos. E. Pickering, dem. Voted to abolish the school district and leave school matters in charge of the selectmen. McCutchins had 30 votes, Weston 69; for senator, J. F. Hall had 32, Lafayette Hall 67.

Greenland.

Selectmen, Charles W. Pickering, Geo. E. Brackett, A. L. Marden; town clerk, Nath'l Chapman; supt. sch. com., Wm. O. Junkins—all democrats. Voted not to send a representative.

Rye.

The State vote was as follows: McCutchins, 87; Weston, 161,—being a democratic net gain of 21 as compared with the vote of last year. Blackmer received four votes for Governor. The following are the town officers elected:

Moderator, G. H. Jenness; Town Clerk, Sylvanus W. Foss; Representative, Albert M. Walker; Selectmen, Joseph W. Garland, John E. Leavitt, Sheridan Remick; Supt. School Com., G. H. Jenness; Collector, John O. Foss; Auditors, G. H. Jenness, David Jenness. Total amount of money appropriated for State, county, and town expenditures, $7000; amount appropriated for school purposes, $1200. On the article abolishing school districts the town voted to indefinitely postpone; and also voted to enforce the prohibitory law,—evidently a "sarcastical" vote. Rev. A. C. Hardy, prohibition candidate for senator, ran one behind his ticket—he had three votes and Blackmer had four. The democratic ticket had 161 votes.

Comparative Vote--1873-74.

Among the ocean steamers which report a rough and dangerous passage during the recent storms in the Atlantic is the steamer Pennsylvania, just arrived at Philadelphia, which was considerably injured, and whose captain and second and third officers were swept overboard and lost.

Another brutal murder came to light in the town of Bradford, near Haverhill, Mass., an unknown man being found dead by the wayside, having been stabbed by a person also unknown. A man with a bloody knife in his hand, and giving other reasons for suspicion, was arrested.

Charles Orton has published in the London Globe a confession that the Tichborne claimant is his own brother.

A stage coach was attacked by bandits in Mexico, recently, and the passengers resisting, a fight occurred, in which two persons were killed, and others were injured and treated in a barbarous manner.

The democrats recaptured Biddeford, Monday, electing Dr. Francis G. Warren, mayor, by 61 majority. They also carried four of the seven wards.

State News.

Mr. Wm. O'Nell of Dover, who appealed from a decision of the Railroad Commissioners giving him $250 for land damages sustained by the building of the Portsmouth and Dover road, has been awarded $400 by the Court, after which the Court adjourned sine dic.

"As Others See Us."

Taught by plays, caricatures and books, the untravelled American is apt to consider the average Frenchman as a creature something between an ape and a gorrilla, with hair close-cropped, an incessant habit of shrugging the shoulders, and a constant yearning for frogs. So, too, the average Englishman is always a big, burly, red-faced man, with sidewhiskers, and the Irishman a ragged fellow whirling a shillelah. On the other hand foreigners have equally absurd views about ourselves. Sardou's "Uncle Sam" showed what an intelligent French play-wright thought of American society. A writer in the Vie Parisienne is now publishing a series of sketches which, he claims, are faithful portraitures of American life. We translate a chapter, in which he tells how he visited a young American lady, to whom he had been previously introduced.

"One evening," says he, "I found Alice alone in the parlor. Her cousins had started out for a walk with their beaux. I was surprised to notice that she was not in her usual elegant toilette; and when I asked the reason, she said she was warm and tired."

"Let us go to Hoboken," I proposed. "The fresh air from the water will do you good."

"No!" she replied.

"Will you go out and take some roast oysters and a lobster salad?"

"No."

"Well then," I suggested, "let us go to Maillard's and have an ice."

"No, I tell you," she said. "But wait! If I should go out with you what would the whole affair cost you, including the supper, the theatre and all the usual expenses?"

"I hardly know," I answered, "besides, what difference does it make? It's of no importance. Come on, please, and not worry yourself about my purse."

"Just listen to me," said she; "you would spend about fifteen dollars. Now, instead of going out, let us remain at home and take a cup of tea, and you can give me the fifteen dollars!"

The writer vouches for the authenticity of this story, and gives others equally ridiculous. The Figaro, reprinting them, gravely remarks that it is not probable that such manners are universal in America; evidently considering they are, however, by no means uncommon.

"Wad some power the giftie gie us
To see ourselves as others see us!"

The Vie Parisienne seems to be that power.

Hanged by Women.

A dispatch from Trinidad, Colorado, says: About ten days ago a woman by the name of Molly Howard came here from Los Animas, and took up her residence in a small hut within sight of our post office. At the same time a man arrived who claimed to come from California. This man was an American. He was lame in one foot, having had his toes frozen, and was only able to wear a boot on one of his feet. He was of a sandy complexion, medium height, heavy set, with a very bad face. He lived in a small hut with four or five Mexican men.

On Saturday morning last the town was thrown into a state of great excitement by the report that Molly Howard was found in her house murdered. The poor woman lay across her bed dead, with the left side of her head mashed to a jelly; on the forehead was a gash two inches in length, on her chin two ugly bruises, and on her throat the imprints of finger nails were visible. The opinion was that the deed was done by the Mexicans. The coroner took charge of the body and impanneled a jury. The stranger referred to was arrested on suspicion, as well as a big Mexican named Pedro Lucero, a very desperate character. The Californian, Lucero, another Mexican, and a negro were all held to await the decision of the coroner's jury. The coroner gave permission to bury the remains, and Sunday the late Molly Howard was taken to her last resting place.

About nine o'clock Monday morning groups of men with revolvers gathered together. At about eleven the groups concentrated into one large crowd and proceeded to the coroner's office. Finding that the inquest was over they wended their way to the office of one of our Justices of the Peace. They then entered the building, and seizing the American they once more made their way down the street toward the river, followed by at least 150 persons of both sexes.

At the river side a large cottonwood tree was sought and found, a rope thrown over a projecting limb and fastened around the culprit's neck. He was then asked if he had anything to say, when he confessed to having killed Mollie Howard because she owed him one dollar. He was then told he would be given ten minutes to make his peace with his Creator. He replied that he did not want to pray.

A woman by the name of Moline then fastened another knot on the rope around his neck, the word was given, and she, with three other disreputable women, and in the presence of at least 250 persons, Mexican and American, launched the murderer into eternity. He died in about fifteen minutes."

Suicidal Alteratives.

There is a young gentleman of the age of fourteen years and named Samuel, who resides in the State of Michigan, and to whom the compound word "fly-poison" is exceedingly unpleasant. This Samuel being some time ago called upon by his judicious mother to help with the churning, felt that that exercise could not compete with the charms of fishing, and that, in short, he'd rather not. He announced this candid decision, which, so far from being appreciated by his mother, was received with an affectionate but reformatory slipper—which is a potent argument almost without a rival. The churn accordingly claimed him for its own, until, during a brief absence of the good woman, he happened to perceive a casual plate of fly-poison and an idea. As she entered the room she saw Samuel putting the dreadful dish from his lips and heard his tragic cry, "There, mother, I guess you wont whip me no more!" There were no shrieks, no tears, no faintings on the part of that noble woman. She promptly swept Samuel into the pantry, and with the aid of the domestic, and in spite of his prayers and vain confession, administered to him (1) the whites of six eggs, (2) a mustard emetic, (3) a dose of pain-killer, (4) seven Ayer's pill, (5) two spoonfuls of castor oil, (6) a teaspoonful of salts, and (7) a blue pills. Samuel is an altered boy.

—Articles and methods recommended to the State Horticultural Society of Minnesota as useful for the destruction of bugs: 1. Crush the eggs. 2. Strong soapsuds. 3. Tobacco water. 4. Evening bonfires. 5. Trap 'em. Causes assigned at the same meeting for the destruction of fruit trees the past winter and spring: 1. Immaturity of the wood. 2. Severe freezing. 3. Non-attention of the sun to his business. 4. Dry weather. 5. Sudden changes in March. 6. Rapid freezing and thawing. The society agreed unanimously that a great many trees had been killed, but it does not appear to have agreed about anything else.

—The temperance crusade gathers strength even beyond the most sanguine expectations of the originators. A noble Kentuckian has organized an immense band and is attacking the forces of King Alcohol with astonishing effect. Meeting in a village the other day, this devoted band drank every drop of liquor in the place within four hours, and they are pledged not to remit their exertions until they have surrounded the contents of every saloon in the State.

—Ben Zine asked O'Shea, "How is it that the most reliable account of the deluge makes no mention of Irishmen having been taken into the ark?"

"Divil the one was there," said O'Shea.

"How, then was the race perpetuated?" queried Ben.

"Faith," said O'Shea, "in those days the Irish were wealthy, and had a boat of their own."

—At a Louisville hotel, a huge rat sprang from the money drawer, on its being opened by the bar-keeper, with a new, crisp ten dollar note in its mouth. For the next ten seconds the atmosphere behind the bar was disturbed with boots, brooms, brushes, mop-handles and sundry loud noises, but the larcenous rodent escaped from the storm of missiles and expletives under the ice-box, fortunately for the owner leaving the abstracted note on the floor.

—"He handled a gun carelessly, and put his angel plumage on," is a western paper's obituary on John Devine of Naples, Ill.

Indigestion's Martyrs.

Half the diseases of the human family spring from a disordered stomach, and may be prevented by invigorating and toning that abused and neglected organ with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Let it be borne in mind that the liver, the kidneys, the intestines, the muscles, the ligaments, the bones, the nerves, the integuments, are all renewed and nourished by the blood, and that the digestive organs are the grand alembic in which the materials of the vital fluid are prepared. When the stomach fails to provide healthful nourishment for its dependencies they necessarily suffer, and the ultimate result, if the evil is not arrested, will be chronic and probably fatal disease somewhere. It may be developed in the kidneys in the form of diabetes; in the liver as congestion, in the muscles as rheumatism, in the nerves as paralysis, in the integuments as scrofula. Remember, however, that each and all of these consequences of indigestion may be prevented by the timely and regular use of that sovereign antidote to dyspepsia, Hostetter's Bitters.

Imitators and their Schemes come to grief at last. Only original discoveries, like that of Dr. Helmbold, stand the test of time. Helmbold's Buchu, which is the only extract of that wonderful shrub that realizes its full virtues, is still relied upon to cure Kidney Complaint, Female Disorders, Impotency, Gravel, the effects of dissipation and all troubles of the urinary organs in either sex. This steadily successful medicine is recommended by physicians. Beware of counterfeits. John F. Henry, New York, Sole Agent. Sold by all druggists.

Quack Medicines.—We never puff, but ANAKESIS the great Western PILE remedy has cured Thousands, after lotions, ointments, and all manner of nostrums have failed. It is the discovery of Dr. Silsbee, an eminent western physician, and has been endorsed by medical men of all schools. It is a simple medicated suppository, acts as an instrument, poultice and medicine, affords instant relief from pain, and is pronounced an infallible cure.—Price $1.00. Sold by druggists everywhere. ANAKESIS Depot, 46 Walker St., New York.

NONE but a physician knows how much a reliable alterative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cures.—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues their claim. In this state of the case, DR. J. C. AYER & CO., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other kindred preparations in the market is that it cures the disease for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

Election Day

Was decidedly March-y, the wind blowing furiously in the morning, and snow falling, later. The travelling was hard, and the politicians were early at work. The republicans opened the ball in a lively manner at nine o'clock and succeeded in getting their share of the doubtful voters early.

In ward one the ward room was kept well filled all day, good-humored raillery and bantering between voters of opposite parties being the marked feature of the day. The opposition had considerable to say about "navy yard influence;" but as the said opposition had the Eastern Railroad (of which Hon. Frank Jones is a Director) in their favor, and it was known that the railroad influence would be used to the fullest extent for the democratic nominees, the result of the balloting was looked for before election day with some little anxiety by the republicans, who feared the railroad pressure might crowd them more than they could well bear. The democrats also hoped to give their antagonists a hard rub in that ward,—but how the apprehensions of the one party and the hopes of the other were realized is shown in our detailed report of the city vote.

In ward two the republican vote commenced coming in lively as soon as the polls were opened. As in the other wards, the prohibition ticket was printed on very nice paper, but even that was not inducement sufficient to secure a large number of voters to carry it. The democratic vote came in slowly during the forenoon, and there was nothing that could be called a crowd in the ward room until late in the day.

In ward three the voting was very slow on both sides until after 12 o'clock, but little over a hundred votes having been thrown at that hour; the old custom of voting after ten o'clock at night is hard to shake off. The prohibition ticket bore the names of two ladies—Miss Frances N. Shackford and Mrs. Carrie J. Craig—as candidates for school committee-men; and the democratic tickets generally bore the name of Charles W. Gardner for the same office. Mr. Gardner is and always has been a pronounced republican; and the action of the Sebastopol democracy in supporting him for a position he is eminently qualified to fill we consider as most commendable—a long step toward the entire removal of school matters from the political arena. If there is any one branch of our municipal affairs with which politics should have absolutely nothing to do, it is the management of our public schools; and in future years we hope to see the good example set by the third ward democrats followed by all parties in all the wards, and only the best men nominated and supported for committee-men, without any regard being paid to how they vote.

The "water question" was decidedly negatived, all around. The democratic city caucus ordered that party to oppose it, and "no" was printed on the party tickets; and the republican ward caucuses voted not to express any opinion on the subject, and the question as to whether or no the City should purchase the aqueduct was left unanswered on the republican tickets. The result of the voting will be found in another column.

The "temperance" men, who had a full State, county and municipal ticket in the field, managed to draw off 40 votes from the republican side—at least we do not know of any democrat who voted the straight prohibition ticket—but did not manage to secure a victory for free rum on the municipal ticket, even if the "temperance" candidate for Mayor did vote for the democratic nominee, in opposition to a life-long temperance man.

Fortunately Rev. A. C. Hardy's endeavors to elect the free-rum candidate for senator, Lafayette Hall, over the republican candidate, Dr. J. F. Hall, who has always been in favor of restricting the liquor traffic in every practicable way, were not successful; and we are glad of it, as we think Portsmouth has liquor saloons enough already, and they would soon be doubled in number, and much less decently conducted than at present, if Craig, Hardy, Norton & Co. could succeed in removing all restrictions from the liquor traffic.

Col. William H. Sise ran far ahead of his ticket in the second ward, where he was a candidate for re-election as alderman. This is a compliment the gallant colonel merited, for he has given good service the past year, and while always an outspoken republican he has never been a bitter partizan. Mr. Charles H. Mendum, who was twice elected alderman by the republicans within a few years, and was last year run down on the "citizens'" ticket, was this year a candidate for the same office (with or without his consent we do not know) on the regular democratic ticket.

A week before the city nominations were made, the republican canvassers placed the republican majority on the mayor vote at 600; but after How, Daniel Marcy was nominated to be run down, and the Boston liquor dealers' corruption fund of $30,000 was in large part sent to assist the brethren of Rockingham county, the estimated republican majority was placed at 300 only. How nearly correct the last estimate proved to be a comparison with the tabulated city vote will show.

Mr. Charles W. Gardner, for member of the school committee, received the largest majority ever given for any candiate for any office, in ward three.

Hon. Frank W. Miller is elected Mayor by a plurality of 387 votes over Hon. Daniel Marcy, and a majority of 344 over all. Both branches of the City Council are republican—same as last year. The majority for Gen. McCutchins is 350. Dr. J. F. Hall has 400 majority for Senator, in the city, and has probably 300 majority in the district. Mr. Miller's vote is 1233; Gen. McCutchins has 1236 in the city; and Dr. Hall 1266. The prohibitionists cast about 100 votes in this senatorial district.

Bruising Horses.

[New England Farmer.]

A man who will habitually take a horse through a narrow door knows very little of what a horse remembers, or what is fair treatment to the animal. One single blow on the hip against a sharp corner of a doorway is sometimes sufficient to ruin a valuable horse. But when that blow has been several times repeated the horse becomes valueless, because he has become a highly dangerous animal. We have seen a horse whose hips were never healed after striking two or three times in passing through a narrow way. Another dangerous practice is the leading of horses out of the barn door, by the side of loads of hay, grain, etc. A slight blow upon the hip will sometimes so excite a high-spirited horse that the person leading loses control over him, and he escapes upon a jump, banging his shoulders and hips as he proceeds, leaving patches of skin and hair as evidence that he has got through. Many a valuable horse has been ruined in this way, and many a valuable one can be saved by never leading him through a narrow space.

SMITH'S ACADEMY

AND

Commercial College

Founded 1874.

An institution for Young Ladies and Gentlemen intended to meet the requirements of Portsmouth and vicinity.

Instruction will be given in the Greek, Latin and modern languages and literature, including especial attention to those studies required for admission to college. Book Keeping, Mathematics, and Penmanship will have that prominence which their practical importance demands. The Natural Sciences will be included in what is intended to be a thorough and complete English course of instruction.

MRS. E. M. BARNETT, educated at Mt. Holyoke Seminary and well known as a successful teacher in schools in Massachusetts, will assist. Other competent teachers will be employed as the needs of the patrons may require. Applications for admission can be made at the residence of the Principal, 31 Middle St. or at the Academy rooms in Mechanics' Block, Congress Street. LEWIS E. SMITH, A. M., Principal.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
WILLIAM PAYNE

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER!

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever. It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color. It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff; and the scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, says of it: "I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE,

FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and always irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the OXLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

BEHOLD!

WILSON'S
SUPERPHOSPHATE
At Auction!
My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given each universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphate, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.
My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States, also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Invention, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and utility on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,
For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.
The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind, and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured a wide reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long-continued series of marvellous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed those dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well-founded, if taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

No Animal Laughs!

[Brunswick (Me.) Telegraph.]

It is said that no animal laughs. Are we quite sure that we know how they laugh; in other words, may not the dog laugh with his tail as he expresses his joy, his gratitude, his delight upon seeing his master? But is the dog left to rely solely upon his tail to express his emotions or his affections? We think not. We have owned dogs all our life, have taken a deep interest in them and have watched them in all, for years, studying their characters, &c. Our firm belief is that dogs laugh as much as men.

We own at present a little sinner—a Spitz dog—a pup and full of mischief. Out of doors it is almost impossible to control him. Bid him obey you, and he leaps 8 or 10 feet away, barks furiously at you with a "larking devil" playing about his eyes, and every muscle of his face in motion,—a laugh in fact as perfect, perhaps, as any dog can express. Poor old "Rover" and little "Joe" never met us without a smile upon their faces.

The dog of a friend in earlier years possessed a most wonderful facility of facial expression; indeed it was almost painful to look upon the little fellow, so intensely agonizing was the play of his muscles, breaking out into the most triumphant expressions upon meeting a friend. How many nervous people will laugh immoderately when they meet friends from whom they have been long separated!

But the most marked instance of a dog laugh we recall as an incident of our early boyhood,—say when we were from 8 to 11 years of age. A near relative owned a little black dog, a common cur we are inclined to think, but "smart as a steel trap" and "bright as a dollar." Whenever we visited the old farmhouse that dog received us, as he received every old acquaintance, with a series of sneezes and a play of features impossible to describe. We were too young to be a philosopher, but we always told our good grandfather that "Jack" both sneezed and laughed at us.

Let one more illustration suffice, and this is the most marked one that we now recall. When living at the south where mocking birds are common, a friend of ours owned a beautiful bird, but as full of fun and mischief as any animal that we ever knew; he would imitate perfectly the cackling of hens, the crowing of the rooster, the sounds of the sawing of wood, &c, but worse than all he had learned to express the joys of a let-out school held in his neighborhood; at such times, "Bill" made an intolerable racket disturbing entire households. But his favorite and greatest feat was to cheat "Jack," the terrier, which regularly came home with his master to meals. The cage was hung in the backyard; in a few moments after the dog had got himself comfortably settled in a berth, away would go a whistle calling the dog, as perfect an imitation of the whistle of the master as it could be; then the dog would run "like mad" through rooms and halls to the backyard, to be utterly confounded in not discovering his master, the bird sitting upon his perch an innocent and apparently unconcerned spectator. This whistling process would be repeated two, three, and perhaps four times before the dog would detect the cheat, and then he would retire with a look of disgust at the bird, and no amount of whistling would start him again. Just as soon as "Bill" saw that the game was up, he would hop from his perch to the floor at the side of his cage, his feathers all ruffled, and his whole expression that of intense delight, as much as to say—"Now, my boy, haven't I caught you." We always thought, and think so still, that the bird laughed.

Celia Thaxter says that a loon laughs when it looses its game. We know not how that may be; but we are inclined to think that a loon is no fool and he may well laugh,—when fired at— and he dives and dodges the shot hurled at him.

That parrots laugh we think there can be no doubt. One that we knew when scolded at, will always reply with a hearty "Good bye." There are two of them in separate cages. When one says—"How do you do," the other looks up and says—"How dare you?"

White Water Lily.

[Flower Garden.]

If our readers knew how easily the White Water Lily (Nymphia Odorata) could be cultivated, we believe that very many of them would be quite as proud of their lily gardens as of any other portion of their premises. The roots having been procured in the fall were kept damp during the ensuing winter, in flower pots. In the spring a tub was made by sawing a substantial barrel in two, and this, duly painted green, was set on brick, put in the garden, and one-third filled with a mixture of garden soil, sand and well-rotted manure. The roots were set in this mixture, water was added in small quantities, and at intervals of a day or two, and so gently as not to disturb the earth, until the tub was filled. Very soon the handsome round leaves, four or five inches in diameter, made their appearance and filled the tub. The loss of water by evaporation was made good from time to time, and ere long the blossoms appeared and delighted every one with their beauty.

When cold weather approached, the water was allowed to dry off almost entirely, and when it was thus nearly gone, the tub, with its contents, was placed in the cellar, and watered at long intervals through the winter. In the spring the roots were separated, and about half the increase returned to the same tub, in a fresh mixture of earth, and they are now brought out earlier than before, about April 1st, and blossom yet more profusely. The pure white flowers were as perfect as the Camelia, and delightfully fragrant, closing in the night and reopening in the morning as is the wont of Water Lilies. The blooms were about two inches in diameter not quite so large as some of the specimens in the pond whence these roots were first taken, but not less beautiful nor less fragrant.

The Result of the Election

Should satisfy every democrat. The latest returns indicate that although there is no election of Governor by the people, Mr. Weston will be successful. The House of Representatives will have a democratic majority. The republicans have chosen but five Senators and the democrats four. The three vacancies will be filled, of course, by democrats, and the Senate will then consist of five republicans and seven democrats. The legislature will then proceed to elect Hon. James A. Weston Governor.

Readables.

A Kentucky farmer refused to look at a sample sewing machine recently, as he always "sewed wheat by hand." He is related to the man who did not want a threshing machine on his farm, "for," said he, "give me a harness tug or a barrel stave, and I can make my family toe the mark according to the law and Scripture."

Senator Sumner died in Washington at three o'clock, Wednesday, of angina pectoris.

State News.

Harry Cushing of East Canaan, 11 years old, has damaged his arm so by jumping upon trains in motion that he has had to have a piece four inches long cut from the bone between the elbow and the shoulder.

An Enfield horse ran away down the railroad track and was run over and killed. Loss, $100.

Moses C. Leighton of Farmington slipped on Saturday, made a desperate effort to save himself and broke both bones of his right arm, which wouldn't have happened if he had been reconciled to a tumble.

Keene has adopted a city charter by a vote of 783 to 589.

Interest.

[Cor. Country Gent.]

The country is suffering from high interest more than from high freight by railroads, and I have not seen that it is yet brought forward as one of the grievances to be remedied by the farmers; and furthermore, as the productive industry of the country ultimately pays all high interest, and the farmers form three-quarters of the productive industry, it seems of the first importance to them to have a lower rate of interest.

At a meeting of the State Board of Agriculture of New Hampshire, reported in the Country Gentleman, Mr. J. F. Lawrence and your correspondent say from observation in the West (one of them in the Mississippi and Missouri valleys) that "the farmers of the West are, as a class, less independent, have less money, fewer comforts, not mentioning luxuries of life,—are less contented with their lot, and are suffering from the privations caused by poverty in the proportion of five to one compared to eastern farmers." Now what else could be expected when farmers pay from 10 to 20 per cent. for money, and under hard laws, in Illinois, the loans are in the form of trust deeds, and can be foreclosed in twenty days if interest or taxes be not paid?

I would be in favor of an interest law, drawn so that it could not be evaded, limited to 6 per cent. in all cases where there was security; and I would do away with the sort of auction bidding that is now going on between the States; some, I believe, legalizing 15 per cent. on mortgage, and others taking the tax off mortgages, so as to try and retain money. If there is another country in the world with such a state of things, I have not heard of it.

A moderate, steady rate of interest would increase manufactures very much, especially at the West and South, where their increase is so much needed. It would also lessen the number of idle people all over the country that are getting too large an income from a small capital. High interest also enables so many persons to go to Europe—some to live there for years—spending probably $100,000,000 a year there, besides the passage money paid to foreign vessels; and if what they say in Washington be exactly so, that if the freight money of our foreign commerce ($100,000,000) were all paid to United States ships instead of but $25,000,000 or $30,000,000, it would give us the balance of trade, and we could resume specie payments. The stoppage of half the fashionable absentees would do as much.

Some lenders would say that the rate of interest cannot be controlled, and if you limit it to 6 per cent., capitalists will go elsewhere; but they would speak without reflection; for where else could they go and get so much on security? Railroad bonds should not be excluded from the operation of the law, and that would tend to force the building of railroads in the proper way; by stock, and only when they are really wanted for the transportation of freight and passengers, and not as land speculations, to bring far off new lands into market for restless people to buy and raise crops on that are all, or nearly all, absorbed in freight in getting to consumers. With such a law, this government could soon fund all the debt at 5 per cent. or less at home, and avoid the evil of paying interest abroad.

If the profit on cultivating the land may be taken as an indication of what the rate of interest should be, 6 per cent. would be too high in my neighborhood; for many farms would not rent for the amount of the taxes and 6 per cent. on the assessed value; and some farmers here that have farms free of debt are this year borrowing to pay their taxes.

In conclusion, I would say that I believe such a general law, or uniform State laws to the same effect, would give us prosperity over the whole country, and would be only justice to borrowers, or more properly hirers of money, as they are the best part of the community, having most enterprise and most ideas.

A Remarkable Combat.

[St. Louis Globe.]

A man up on Clark avenue used to own a big yellow tom-cat, and a man round the corner from Clark avenue still owns a medium-sized yellow dog. The cat was an extraordinarily large cat, and its organ of combativeness was the size of a common cat, head, teeth, claws and tail included. It was a monstrous cat, weighing ever so many pounds more than the felines we are accustomed to, and its fighting qualities attracted universal attention in the community it inhabited. Again and again warworn tom-cats had attacked him, and the fur had been lifted and the ground torn up, but the big yellow cat had, like Spartacus, "never lowered his arms." Men with dogs had pitted their animals against the cat, but the battle had always gone one way, and the huge yellow tail had ever waved triumphantly over the gory field. The owner began to think his cat unconquerable, and so great was his confidence in the beast, he issued a challenge, not excluding the grizzly bear, and wherever he went the cat followed, prepared for a row upon sighting an enemy.

The man who owns the medium-sized yellow dog takes a great interest in that brute. From his own board he has nourished him from puppyhood, helped him through the distemper, and paid enormous amounts in cash for the repairing of sundry trowsers, unto which the dog has, from time to time, devoted his attention and energies.

Yesterday afternoon, about two o'clock, the owner of the big yellow tom-cat, followed by that property, and the owner of the medium-sized yellow dog, accompanied by that chattel, met in a beer saloon on Clark avenue. The twain owners eyed each other, and the feline and the canine glared the one into the other's eyes. The man who owned the big yellow cat rubbed his hands and whistled softly, while he who claims title to the medium-sized yellow dog smiled upon the ceiling reflectively. The fur around the dog's neck arose, and his tail stiffened like an icicle. The back of the cat became arched to a considerable extent, and the tail grew in proportions until it looked like a family of tails. Spectators mounted chairs and the proprietor of the establishment took down his Bible, because he knew there would be no business over the bar for ten or fifteen minutes, and he wanted to improve the time.

The big yellow tom-cat and the medium-sized yellow dog approached each other cautiously. The next moment there was trouble. Sawdust flew ten feet in the air, and the nails and splinters from out the floor whizzed through the atmosphere. Teeth, fur, claws, hair, bits of flesh, eyes and ears hurled about and kept the bystanders dodging. There was some noise, too. Five, ten minutes passed, and the affair only became more exciting. A man who entered after the difference commenced walked out again without a word, under the impression that a hot spring was breaking through. The building trembled and shook, and the joists creaked, and the windows rattled. The dog tried to crawl into the cat in search of a vital spot, and the cat crawled into the dog to see how he was made. The smashing of bones sounded like a man chopping cord-wood on a pleasant but frosty Sunday morning, about the middle or latter part of February, when all the other people were going to church, except those who had to stay home and cook dinner. The stove, tables and chairs rocked to and fro like wet nurses, and the whole scene was brilliant and exhilarating. The proprietor laid down his Bible and braced up his ice-chest, and then resumed his religious exercises. Families in the neighborhood prepared to move out, and insurance premiums rose from five to ninety-five per cent., according to the proximity of the property to the theater of conflict. The owners of the contestants superintended the conflict with perplexed countenances, and all was unquiet and excitement.

At length peace and rest fell like a soft mantle. The spectators descended from posts of observation, and brushed the fur and blood off their clothes and faces, and wiped the hair out of their mouths and eyes. The owner of the dog bought a gallon and a half of whiskey to rub his beast with, and the other owner hired all the empty barrels, coffee-bags and pillow-cases in the vicinity to carry off his big yellow tom-cat, of which it is estimated, there were at least twelve baskets of fragments.

—North Adams has a tailor long known for his keen, pungent wit. Not long since a well-known clergyman called at his shop with a pair of pantaloons, and asked him if they could be repaired. The knight of the shears unrolled them, held them up, in a most artistic manner, carefully examined them, and replied, "Yes, yes; the knees are the best part of them." The reverend gentleman saw the joke, smiled blandly and gracefully bowed himself out.

The Prayer Gauge.

Two little girls, cousins, not a hundred miles from Providence, went to bed the other night in high glee over some secret. After they were asleep, the mother of the younger going into their room, had her attention drawn to two slips of paper, pinned to the wall, one over each little head. They proved to be rude attempts at illuminations in colored crayons, and ran thus:

"O dear Jesus Christ, send mama a baby; may it not be twins. Amen."

—An epicure in Vermont writes to his local newspaper that having indulged freely in the eating of frogs, his hands are now covered with what his doctor calls "tumorous enlargements of the vascular papillæ and indurations of the surroundings epidermis"—that is, warts.

—A guardian of the peace in New York made his first essay, as a 'mounted policeman," one day last week, by grasping the horse's tail and attempting to climb up that way. The surgeon subsequently remarked that no horse ever had a finer opportunity, or took advantage of it with such infinite scorn of the consequences.

Kentucky in Egypt.

Governor THOS. E. BRAMLETTE, manager of the Kentucky Public Library, of Louisville, Ky., received last week, the following letter, which explains itself:

CAIRO, EGYPT, Jan. 22, 1874.

DEAR SIR:—I have arranged with Mr. S. S. Merchant, No. 78 South street, New York, to honor your draft for $50 for which I wish you to send me to this place a ticket in your Fourth Gift Concert, for March 31st, 1874. Direct it to "His Excellency Warren Bey, Surgeon-in-Chief to the General Staff," and pay the postage (which will be 20 cents) through. Be sure to write in one corner of envelope, "Via Brindisi," and do not fail to send me a copy of the drawing of prizes as promptly as possible. I think you would do well to appoint an agent (not myself of course,) in this country, as I am sure a number of tickets would be disposed of for every drawing. There is a fever for such investments in Egypt.

Very Respectfully, &c.,
EDWARD WARREN, M. D.

Gov. BRAMLETTE sent the tickets promptly. It would be a curious thing if the grand prize of $250,000 should go to Cairo, Egypt. The West would be paying back the East the treasures it has drawn from there. Probably a hundred tickets will be sent to Cairo as the result of this one. The incident shows the wide-spread popularity of the Gift Concerts, and the faith reposed in the management.

The Sinking Saved.

The combination of tonic, alterative and stimulating properties in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, especially adapts that famous specific to the cure of chronic forms of disease, when the strong influence of a long protracted morbid habit is to be surmounted. In chronic dyspepsia, and liver complaint, and in chronic constipation and other obstinate diseases, it is beyond all comparison the best remedy that can be taken. As a means of restoring the strength and vital energy of persons who are sinking under the debilitating effects of painful disorders, this standard vegetable invigorant is conspicuously successful. The permanent tonics included in the preparation are associated with a diffusible stimulant absolutely pure, and the tendency of these elements is modified by the presence of alterative ingredients slower in their operation and capable of producing more lasting local and general effects. For feeble convalescents and in all phases of debility, it is the best as well as the most agreeable of restoratives.

"Happiness, is the absence of pain," says Jean Paul Richter, and 10,000 grateful patients bless the ANAKESIS of DR. SELSNER as the only infallible cure for PILES ever discovered. It is purely scientific combining the best method of the French, English and American surgeons, acting as an instrument, poultice and medicine, and not only affording instant relief from excruciating pain, but performing an absolute and permanent cure. All doctors approve it—Price $1. Sold by druggists everywhere. Depot, Walker st., New York.

To Dr. Heimbold's Patients. The celebrated Extract Buchu, of which Dr. Heimbold was the originator, is still performing wonderful cures of obscure diseases of the urinary organs, restoring shattered constitutions, and overcoming debility and diseases arising from imprudence and excess. This great diuretic never fails. Patients should be particular to get the genuine, which bears the doctor's signature. All druggists sell it.

There is scarcely any disease in which purgative medicines are not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented were they more generally used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails. Besides it generates serious and often fatal diseases which might have been avoided by a timely and judicious use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, or Sugar-Coated Concentrated Root and Herbal Juice, Anti-Bilious Purgative. These little Pellets, unlike every other cathartic, produce such a secondary tonic effect upon the bowels as to bring about a permanent healthy action and increase their portatable motions. Price 25 cents a vial, by all Druggists. 7t2

NONE but a physician knows how much a reliable alterative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cures.—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues they claim. In this state of the case, DR. J. C. AYER & CO., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar efficacy from other kindred preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

Local Matters.

Laconics.

The City Councils will meet Thursday evening to count the votes for Mayor.

Two Republican Selectmen were elected in North Hampton after balloting four times.

Messrs. Editors: Is it customary for the moderator and selectmen presiding in town-meeting to swing their hats and hurrah at the defeat of their opponents? If not, Greenland may claim originality in this matter. DIG.

Estimates of the Senatorial vote in this district give Dr. J. F. Hall, republican, 2478, Lafayette Hall, democrat; 1970, Rev. A. C. Hardy, prohibitionist, 170; Dr. Hall's majority 401. We have taken the governor vote in some of the towns.

It is understood that the republican and democratic candidates for Mayor at the recent municipal election both voted their straight party tickets.

Ward Clerks Augustus Walden, E. Washington Brown and Henry C. Walker were very prompt in returning the votes of their several wards. We are under especial obligations to them for their courtesies.

Republicans and democrats were alike joyful on election night. The latter gave us a salute about midnight, and all the assembled republicans in our sanctum could do was to laugh good naturedly and cheer for Mayor-elect Miller. During the night, some wag sprinkled hay-seed on the custom house steps, and the joke took well.

The temperance men in Greenland defeated Nathaniel Wiggin, republican, for Representative. He led the democratic candidate two votes and lacked three of an election.

The manner in which the ultra temperance men have conducted themselves of late has had a tendency to make rum-selling appear more respectable.

Seabrook chose a democrat for Representative.

We are reminded that the republicans of ward one set the example of ignoring politics on school board, having years ago elected Mercer Goodrich.

The auction of household furniture at No. 7 Islington street, advertised by Joseph P. Morse, commenced on Wednesday and continued until evening, when it was adjourned to ten o'clock this (Thursday) forenoon.

Lillie Wilkinson and her dramatic company presented "Jane Vail's Mission" to a good audience at the Temple, Wednesday evening. They appear to-night in "The Dead Alive," dramatized from Wilkie Collins' latest novel.

The 3d and 4th Councillor districts have chosen republicans, the 2d and 5th have gone democratic, and the 1st is doubtful.

Yankees go about the streets saying "How's McCutch?" And the reply is "How's Prohibition?"

The Boston Journal says the election of "Mr. Frank W. Miller as Mayor of Portsmouth, secures to that pleasant city a gentleman of ability and energy."

Glue as a Healing Remedy.

For the last twelve or fourteen years, says a correspondent of the Scientific American, I have been employed in a shop where there are over three hundred men at work; and as it is the case in all shops of this kind, hardly a day passes but one or more of us cut or bruise our limbs. At first there were but few that found their way to my department to have their wounds bound up; but after a while it became generally known that a rag glued on a flesh wound was not only a speedy curative, but a formidable protection against further injury. I was obliged to keep a supply of rags on hand, to be ready for any emergency. I will here cite one among many of the cases cured with glue. A man was running a boring machine, with an inch and a quarter auger attached; by some means, the sleeve of his shirt caught in the auger, bringing his wrist in contact with the bit, tearing the flesh among the muscles in a frightful manner. He was conducted to my department (the pattern shop,) and I was washed the wound in warm water, and glued around it a cloth, which when dry, shrunk into a rounded shape, holding the wound tight and firm. Once or twice a week, for three or four weeks, I dressed the wound afresh, till it was well. The man never lost an hour's time in consequence. The truth of this statement hundreds can testify to. I use of course the best glue.

The Baobad.

[The Wonders of Vegetation.]

The baobab is a plant of monstrous size, the most colossal and the most ancient vegetable monument on earth, has round, woolly leaves, which consist of from three to seven leaflets radiating from a common centre and giving them somewhat the appearance of a hand, and magnificent white flower. It is an enormous tree, holding among plants the place that the elephant holds among animals—a hoary witness of the last changes which the earth has undergone, and deluges that have buried beneath their waves the productions of early ages. Several baobabs that have been measured were found to be from seventy to seventy-seven feet in circumference. From its branches hang, at times, colossal nets, three feet in length, and resembling large oval baskets open at the bottom, and looking from the distance like so many signal flags.

It would take fifteen men with their arms extended to embrace the trunk of one of these great trees, which, in the countries through which the Senegal flows are venerated as sacred monuments. Enormous branches are given off from the central stem a few feet from the ground and spread out horizontally, giving the tree a diameter of over one hundred feet. "Each of these branches," says Mr. Danton, "would be a monster tree elsewhere, and, taken together they seem to make up a forest rather than a tree."

It is only at the age of eight hundred years that the baobabs attain their full size, and then cease to grow.

The fruit of this tree is oblong; the color of the shell passes in ripening from green to yellow and brown. The fruit is called "monkey bread." It contains a spongy substance, paler than chocolate, and filled with abundant juice.

The bark is ashy gray in color and almost an inch in thickness. The negroes of the Senegal grind it down to powder, and in this state they use it to season their food and to maintain a moderately free perspiration, which enables them the more easily to withstand the heat. It serves also as an antidote for certain fevers.

—They have a mud-hole in Bennington so deep that small children are frequently lost in it, and the Gazette says: "We don't care anything about it, 'cause our folks are just out of children; but for the sake of our suffering neighbors, we call attention to the matter."

—The Savannah News says a negro was buried alive in a well at Butler recently. His friends dug down to him in about four hours, and found him alive and well. He said that he never wanted to sneeze so bad in his life, but was afraid he would jar down some more dirt.

Burned Her Own House.

[Woman's Journal.]

Dorcas Acres, of Turner, Me., a tailoress by trade, had, by long and patient labor, accumulated money enough to purchase a small house and lot, when she took to herself a husband—Lazarus Lunas—"to rule over her." The home was purchased after the marriage, with the money Dorcas had earned with her needle. The husband was in feeble health, and could earn nothing for their support, so Dorcas worked on at her trade, and supported herself and her husband also. She nursed him when sick, paid his bills, and buried him respectively when he died, asking no help from his relatives. He left no children and made no will, and Dorcas, being ignorant of law, as it effects married women and widows, supposed that the house was hers, because she paid for it with her own earnings. So she kept right on making coats and garments, like Dorcas of old; happy, no doubt, in the good works and "alms deeds" which she did. But this state of things could not last. The two brothers of the dead husband soon began to exercise their control over her, as in duty bound. The woman must be protected (?), if not by her husband, then by his nearest male relative. So Dorcas received notice that she could only have her "right of dower" in the little home—"the use of one-third"—"the widow's encumbrance." Now Dorcas was only an ignorant woman, and could not understand the justice of a law which could take two-thirds of her earnings from her and give them to relatives of her husband. So she refused to take any legal action in the matter, but as time passed on the brothers made it so uncomfortable for her that she dared not live in the house. But still disdaining to recognize the law which men had made to suit themselves, she set fire to her home and burned it down. She said, "If I cannot have it, they shall not." For which crime she was sentenced to the State Prison, and served out the time of her sentence, which, I believe, was two years.

—There is no use in trying to arouse children in the morning at this season of the year, under the maxim that the early bird catches the worm. There isn't any worm to catch and they know it. Just as soon as the frost is out so that the worm can be caught, the boys will be up and have him to go fishing with.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND HUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes The Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.

Aided by a large corps of able writers.

THE BANNER OF LIGHT is a first-class, eight-page Family Newspaper, containing FORTY COLUMNS OF INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE READING, classed as follows:

LITERARY DEPARTMENT.—Original Novelettes of reformatory tendencies, and occasionally translations from French and German authors; Poetry, original and selected; Choice Stories for Children, etc.

REPORTS OF SPIRITUAL LECTURES—By able Trance and Normal Speakers.

ORIGINAL ESSAYS—Upon Spiritual, Philosophical and Scientific Subjects.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.—Subjects of General Interest, the Spiritual Philosophy, its phenomena, etc., Current Events, Entertaining Miscellany, Notices of New Publications, etc.

MESSAGE DEPARTMENT.—Spirit-Messages from the departed to their friends in earth-life, given through the mediumship of Mrs. J. H. CONANT, which demonstrate direct intercourse between the Mundane and Super-Mundane Worlds.

ORIGINAL CONTRIBUTIONS from the most talented writers in the world.

All which features render this journal a popular Family Paper, and at the same time the Harbinger of a Glorious Scientific Religion.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE.

☞ There will be no deviation from the above prices.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money-Order on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes, since, should the Order or Draft be lost or stolen, it can be renewed without loss to the sender.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

Subscribers in Canada will add to the terms of subscription 20 cents per year, for pre-payment of American postage.

POST-OFFICE ADDRESS.—Subscribers should not all to write legibly their Post-Office Address and name of State.

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. There are published two volumes a year.

Patrons of the BANNER when renewing their subscriptions should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed; and the more care should be exercised when a change of location is desired.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a workman. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,

WILLIAM PAYN

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN

HAIR RENEWER!

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever. It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color. It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff; and the scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, says of it: "I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE,

FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and closes the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BIRTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

BEHOLD!
WILSON'S
SUPERPHOSPHATE
At Auction!
My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not pro perly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufactory, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Super phosphate.
My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.
The only Fertilizer that has ever received a SILVER MEDAL from the N. E. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

[WHAT CAME OF A THANKSGIVING PARTY.]

Well, you see, Sue, the whys and the wherefores were too many to write, and when you married and went away with your husband, I'd no more idea that things would come round as they did than I had of running over to Council Bluffs in a balloon to take tea with you. To tell the truth, it was all on account of that railroad business, which went cutting into our orchard and running hap-hazard over the best pasture-land, and taking a right of way along the wood-lot and crossing the highways, so that there's no peace for the living, let alone the wicked. However, I've no right to complain of it, in the long run. It wasn't as if our house had been in the family ever since the Plymouth folks landed, and the legislature had given the corporation leave to run right through the best wainscoted parlor, and take away the oaken staircase stained by the blood of a Revolutionary soldier, as they did up at Squire Elderly's place. I believe you were here when John Jordan happened this way civil-engineering and helping to lay out the railroad, and I dare say you've heard me declare that I wouldn't marry John Jordan, "no, not if there wasn't another man on earth!" Not that he had asked me then, you know; but girls aren't slow to refuse before they're asked. But he had waited upon me home from evening service and sociables; and he had dropped in to have a rubber at whist, just when I didn't want to be interrupted in the game of cribbage which Lucius Glover and I were pretty sure to be playing in the back parlor, while the family sat at work the other side of the folding doors, and the mellowed light from the astral lamp lent us a twilight atmosphere conducive to flirtation.

Mr. Jordan used to be a good deal at our house, talking with father about the lay of the land, and in that way folks came to coupling our names together—and nobody so provoked as I! Mrs. Scrutiny, who lived opposite, and watched us as closely as a cat watches a mouse-hole; who knew when we heated the brick oven for an extra baking, and counted the stockings on the line Mondays and ran over to see if we expected Sophronia and her husband down when we aired the parlor chamber; and who, when we declared we had nothing to wear to Mrs. Merry's dancing party, to a Thanksgiving ball, or charity fair would give us an inventory of our own wardrobes.

"Why, wear your blue silk, child, that was made out of your mother's pelisse;" or, "Dear sakes, there's the white muslin you had to stand up with Sophronia in;" or, "I'm sure the pink tarlatan that your aunt Kitty gave you is as good as new with a bit of darning;" or "When I was a girl, the poplin you got of the old-clothes peddler in exchange would have been thought plenty good enough for a charity fair."

Naturally John Jordan's calls didn't escape Mrs. Scrutiny. I believe she could see in the dark, like a cat; and she lost no time in communicating her observations. Consequently I heard away down at Fisherville and away up at Haverham that John Jordan had been seen at our door three days out of the week, for five weeks; and nobody would believe that he came to see father. But I didn't treat John with any kind of favor, let me tell you! I was always quarreling with him because the railroad was to cut up the orchard—as if it was his fault, or as if I cared; but I wanted something to be disagreeable about. I was none too sweet for him, I assure you; and sometimes Lucius and I would stroll off to a game at backgammon in the back parlor, and leave John to the others; and sometimes I would slip out and when I returned it would be pretty sure to be on the arm of Lucius. He always scowled when I came in with Lucius Glover, and I enjoyed that; and once he had the impudence to ask: "What, in Heaven's name, do you find to please you in that fop?" and I was so angry at his daring that the tears sprang into my eyes; and at that he looked divinely sorry, and stammered, "I didn't know—I didn't know it was serious!" and that didn't mend the matter, for it wasn't serious. Lucius had never said anything to the point, though he had dealt largely in sentimental enigmas; and, what was more, I didn't know as I wanted him to; and I didn't like that John Jordan should take it for granted in this way. But I didn't understand why I didn't like it, though I've found out since.

"Who said any thing about seriousness?" I snapped out. "I'm not one of the kind that ask a man's intentions if he looks at her! I never want to know their intentions, and they don't usually have any, except to while the time away!" I answered, more forcibly than elegantly.

"Very likely not," said he, going back to some plans he had unrolled for father to see when he came in—"that is, men like Glover."

"That's generous," said I, all in arms again. "I really should think that you and he were rivals."

"And so we are," he answered, without looking up. "I hate him because you like him!"

"I don't see why—" I began, awkwardly enough.

"Perhaps you had better take a microscope to discover the reasons."

If this is love-making, thinks I, it's an odd fashion that I'm not used to; and perhaps for that reason I was somewhat vexed when father put an end to it. To tell the truth, after I had been listening to John Jordan, Lucius' small-talk did seem small enough, and his sentiment weak enough; so sometimes it occurred to me that his mustache was his strongest point. But then there were other things to be considered; life wasn't all sentiment and poetry and moonlight walks. Father, you know, was only cashier in the Farmers' Bank, at a salary of fifteen hundred. We owned the house and land, to be sure; but if any thing should have happened to him, it would have been all day with us girls. We hadn't any especial gifts; we hadn't been educated to teach; and almost every one did her own sewing at our place. We were called a handsome family, you know, and beauty constituted our entire fortune. Now it was different at the Glovers'; they had bank stocks, and railroad shares, and mortgages, and what not; they had a family tree that would have put the Banyan to shame; they had services of silver as old as the hills, cut glass and Dresden china, family portraits and brocatelle, and real diamonds in the bank safe. They kept their carriage, too; and it was all enough to inspire the imagination of any girl whom Lucius smiled upon. The Glover women always had the best of everything—silks that would stand alone, gloves and hats from Paris, gowns made in the city; while we had to fashion our own bonnets, cut our own cloaks, turn our dresses, and dye our gloves; hem-stitch our handkerchiefs, patch our carpets, upholster our easy-chairs, and rub the furniture with hartshorn and oil; we had to economize in lights and fires too, and could afford a roast only twice a week! I remember visiting some rich cousins of father's in the city once; and all the time I had a consciousness that they hated to have their friends see me on the front steps in my shabby clothes that looked well enough at home; and when we were invited out one evening, I overheard them disputing as to who shouldn't go with me in that "old-fashioned blue silk," which I, in my ignorance, had thought quite stylish! And coming out of a dress-maker's room one day with one of my cousins—

"Dear me!" said she; "that hair-cloth furniture just gave me the blues; it's worse than any nightmare; it's so vulgar and barroomy!" Now we had nothing but hair-cloth in our parlors, and had felt very lucky to get it; but I never offered a chair to a caller after that without a qualm.

"You shall see what style is, one of these days, my friends," I promised them, mentally; "you will not be ashamed of me when I'm Mrs. Lucius Glover!" for, upon my word, I was weak and foolish enough to make up my mind on the way home that I would marry Lucius if he asked me, and let John Jordan take care of himself! Well, when I reached home, I found that father had taken John to board with us, and we were having a roast every day, and dessert; but for all that, the hair-cloth furniture was heavy on my heart; I was such a wretched little materialist in those days! I wondered if John thought as meanly of it too; though of course, I reasoned, he hadn't been used to anything better. Mrs. Scrutiny said it looked as if we were going to make Mr. Jordan one of the family; and John smiled, and twisted his mustache, and said he wished we would. About this time Lydia Glover was attacked with a sudden friendship for me; she really seemed to prefer our hair-cloth sofa to her own velvet cushions. Lucius usually came with her, and while he occupied himself with me, Lydia naturally fell to flirting with John; and more than once I caught myself answering Lucius absently, because I was trying to hear what John was saying to Lydia. Sometimes Lydia declared she could stay no later, and Lucius insisted that it was only the edge of the evening and then John would get his hat and walk home with her. I know I had a queer sensation the first time this happened, which didn't improve as I waited for him, hovering over the falling embers after Lucius had gone, on pretense of locking up the house. "Seems to me it takes you some time to walk up to the Glovers' and back," said I, when he came at last.

"Oh, you needn't have waited for me!" he vouchsafed; "I couldn't get away before. The Glovers have a fine place;" after a pause, in which I couldn't think of anything disagreeable enough to say, "I wonder how I shall bear it when I go there to see Mrs. Lucius?"

"That can't be the person you go there to see now," I assured him.

He laughed, and hummed the old-fashioned round,

"'Go to Jane Glover and tell her I love her;
And by the light of the moon I will come to her.'
That's what they call a catch isn't it?" lighting his candle. "Don't sit up for me again when I go to Miss Glover's, Sleepy-Eyes, for I may stay late!"

"It's small thanks you give me for keeping the fire alive for you," I complained.

He turned back, with his hand on the door, all the mischief fading from his face.

"I give you instead," he answered, "that which naught enriches you, but makes me poor indeed! Why should I thank you for keeping the fire alive, when you mean that it shall die out untended at last?"

"Come, you are waxing sentimental!" I cried, raking up the coals. "You've mistaken your listener. Good-night."

Seeing that nothing had come of his dancing attendance at our house, folks began to whisper about John and Lydia, as they must have something to worry over; I used to hear them, coming out of church, between comments on the sermon; and it made my cheeks burn, and gave me a sinking sort of sensation, that must have been akin to dying, that was bliss and pain, as the poet says, all at once. But I would have died first, indeed, before giving a sign. When they turned to me, as one who should know, being intimate with Lydia, and John's landlady, I smiled indifferently, and answered:

"If girls will marry, they must take such husbands as are going." The trouble was, I coveted John's love, without being able to make up my mind to renounce the good things which Lucius had to offer.

Well, about this time father had his stroke, you know—not exactly a stroke of luck—and was away from the bank for three months, with every prospect of being laid up the rest of his days; and I can tell you, if it hadn't been for John Jordan's board, we should have had short commons indeed. I began to be more convinced than ever that it was my duty to marry Lucius, when he should ask me. We weren't able to have any new gowns that year, because the money all had to go for doctor's bills and drug stuffs; and I was so worn out with watching and worrying, and the unending struggle to make both ends meet, that I was losing all my good looks, and growing wrinkles across my forehead.

"I'm sure it's enough to prevent any body in her senses from thinking of marrying a poor man," I reflected out loud, one twilight, believing that I had the parlor to myself.

"Were you thinking of it?" asked John Jordan, out of the depth of father's sleepy hollow chair, where the shadows hid him.

"I wasn't thinking at all," I answered, ready to cry with low-spiritedness; for I felt in my dusty old alpaca, with the unnatural lustre across the shoulders, as if I fully warranted the contempt of my rich cousins. "I never think," I assured him.

"Those who can think and won't think must be made to think," he parodied.

"Just as you please, Sir Oracle," I said. "We'll defer it, though, till after tea;" and he gave me his arm to the dining room.

Father got able to hobble out to the bank, and things began to get easier; though Mrs. Scrutiny said he looked to her as if he would never be himself again; and after that I lived in hourly dread of a second stroke, and the future wasn't alluring, unless I should marry Lucius—nor then either.

They were to have a masquerade party at the Glover's Thanksgiving night, and for a fortnight before Lydia and I were busy as moths, burrowing in the cedarwood trunks in the attic that came over from Holland with her great-grand mother's wedding clothes, and were full of old-fashioned finery, brocades and laces, and shoe-buckles. We had a rare time trying them on before the beveled mirror in Lydia's room; and whenever John Jordan happened in, she would rustle down to him, shaking out a glamour of magnificence from every fold, and shining like a star in her ancient splendor. We promised ourselves an Arabian Night's entertainment. And the promise was fulfilled. The house was one blaze of lights and blossoms, and the atmosphere was one pulsation of music and fragrance. You seemed to be walking through an avenue of tall flowering shrubs in some enchanted garden, and meeting such fantastic looking companions, as if pansies and princess-feathers and coxcomb were masquerading as young men and women of the period; and sometimes I fancied that the family portraits had taken this opportunity to step out of their dull frames, and flirt and dance with the best! Lydia wore her grandmother's wedding brocade, that looked as if it was spun out of snow-flakes. I had borrowed a pink silk petticoat of Aunt Kitty's, the palest blush, and had draped over it a mist of Nottingham lace that we had in the house time out of mind, and had bought for bed-curtains. It's awfully cheap stuff, you know, with a mesh as coarse as a cabbage net, but it made a lovely effect.

"You look like morning blushing over the Alps," whispered my partner, in the grand right and left.

"I've never seen it; have you?" I mocked.

"Often," he answered; and then I was sure it was Lucius, who had been abroad once. He offered his arm, and we stepped into a bay window, to look into the frosty garden illuminated by the moon, and what do you think he said next?

"Don't let us masquerade any longer," in the same half-whisper; "I love you; I believe you love me, in spite of your dissembling. I think I have surprised it in your face sometimes. Come live with me, and be my love. Be my wife, sweet."

The moment toward which I had been reaching had arrived, and found me unprepared. I was more wretched than a galley-slave, when I should have been most happy. I trembled like a reed in the wind, and leaned on his arm for support. "I—I can not answer you to-night," I said, temporizing; "the music confuses me. I don't know whether I love you—" trying to laugh—"or your ancestors. In a day—a week—oh, I can't answer you before Christmas; indeed, I can not!" I gasped.

"I will wait through time and eternity if only it be the right answer at last!" he returned. And then he led me to a seat, and somebody lent me a vinaigrette, and people asked what the matter was, and it seemed so ridiculous to be so overcome by an offer, that I didn't tell them; and the up-shot of it was, Lydia sent me home in her carriage before supper. If I had staid till the unmasking, you know—well there, that's a subjunctive case that I'll leave to your imagination. But the truth was, I wanted to get home and think! And I did think, with a vengeance! I thought all day and all night. I thought at church, at table, rubbing the silver, sewing on buttons; why, I couldn't say my prayers straight for thinking. I had never made such an intellectual effort in my life! Lucius came and went as usual, without urging it further, or appearing anxious about the result. Every body seemed to be moving in a mist, through which John Jordan's face shone out at times with an unutterable pathos in the questioning eyes. I wondered if he guessed at my dilemma. At last I went up to Sophronia's at Haverham, to finish my thinking. When I had been there three days, up came John Jordan in his own carriage. Sophronia and her husband had always had a mighty fancy for John, and, between us, I believe she had sent for him. Well, when Sophronia's husband came home to dinner, while he was carving, said he:

"That's a great failure down at your place, Jordan. Now I had an idea that the Glovers were made of money."

"What do you mean?" cried Sophy. "The Glovers failed! Why, they gave a masquerade party only the other day, with no end of splendor."

"That seems to be the cue of people who are tottering financially; they're determined to make a figure, if only for the last time," laughed Sophy's husband.

"They're pretty badly cut up by it," said John. "Lucius looks ten years older."

"Lucius?" repeated Sophy's husband. "He used to be a spark of your sister's, Sophy; didn't he? But he's no longer a match, eh?"

Sophy shot a quick look at me; John turned his head away; Sophy's husband regarded his plate. But as for me, I had done with thinking; I had made up my mind to go home that very day, and tell Lucius I would marry him, for better or worse! Perhaps you'll say I was Quixotic and romantic, and didn't deserve John's regard. But you see, I had given Lucius encouragement, and if I refused him, he and all the world would think it was on account of the failure, and of all things, I can't bear to be suspected of meanness! To be sure, I was going to lose the very things for which I had led Lucius on; but I deserved to, if that was any comfort. Sophronia said every thing she could think of to make me stay, and I vowed it was out of the question, I must be at home to look after the Christmasing; the pies would all be at sixes and sevens, with stones enough in them to build a temple, and father would have to go without his plum-pudding; and I had a Christmas present to finish. John had intended to spend the holidays; but he said, if I was set upon it and nothing could persuade me, he would harness up and take me home. It was a trifle ungenerous, perhaps, to oblige one lover to carry me to his rival; but I didn't stop to think of that, I was so absorbed by my own sacrifices.

It had been drizzling for about an hour when we started, but John had a covered sleigh and a fast horse. You know how short the December afternoons are, so it was dark as a pocket before we got into Haverham woods, and it had left off drizzling and a smart rain-storm had set in, and no make-believe, and John's lantern gave about as much light as a glow-worm. The railroad hadn't crept up as far as Haverham Centre, at that time, but it crossed the road, half-way through Haverham woods, where you would least expect it, where you had no hint of its approach till it was thundering down upon you, because the woods shut in the prospect, and the wind in the pines deafened you. They called it the Devil's Crossing.

Well, the horse went stumbling off through the slosh, and the noise of his feet and the sing song of the sleigh-bells and the storm roaring through the woods like a bull of Bashan must have rendered it impossible to hear anything short of Gabriel's trumpet; for while I was wondering who would buy the old Glover mansion, and if John guessed why I was hurrying home, and what I should be married in, all at once there was a flash and a noise as if a battery had been discharged across our path, mingled with shouts, and a pandemonium of bewildered faces—and then, oblivion! They got us home somehow; I didn't know anything about it. We had both been saved by a miracle, but the poor horse paid the debt of nature. I've learned to write and sew with my left hand since then, and I'm so used to my broken nose that I sometimes wonder why strangers look so hard at me; for you see, I'm no longer a beauty. A different kind of sacrifice had been required of me from that which I had reckoned upon. I believed that all which was necessary now was to send Lucius word that I could not think of imposing such a wreck as myself upon him till death should us part. But Christmas-eve, as I lay on the hair-cloth lounge in the back parlor—for, in spite of my bandages and weakness, I would be in the thick of the family gathering—just before the lamps were lighted, John Jordan came in and bent over me with a bouquet of tea-roses.

"As kind as ever," I murmured, putting out my right arm instinctively, and hiding my tears against the sofa-cushion.

"I'm glad it was the right hand," said he, sitting down on a hassock, "because the wedding-finger is left;" and he slipped upon it the biggest diamond I ever saw. "Look, it's like a petrified tear—a tear of joy!"

"It was my mother's," he continued. "Will you wear it, and answer the question I asked you last month at the masquerade, sweet?"

"The question you asked me!" I cried. "I thought—I thought it was only Lucius," I confessed, hiding my face behind the tea-roses.

"And how, may I ask, were you going to answer Lucius!

"I was going to answer 'No.' Who would want a wife like—like me?"

"And I will not take 'No' for an answer," said he; and the church bells rang in the happiest Christmas-eve of somebody's life.

They did not tell me till later that Lucius had mended his fortunes by engaging himself to an heiress while I was at Sophronia's. And I often laugh to think how near I came to refusing a lover who had never proposed.

"Do you think as badly as ever of marrying a poor man?" John asked, on our wedding-tour.

"Not if the poor man is John Jordon," I returned.

"They told me that you meant to marry for an establishment."

"That was before I had ever seen you," I assured him; and then the carriage stopped before a brown-stone front, and we ascended a flight of marble steps, and opened the door of our home! When I want to tease John, I always call him "My Lord of Burleigh."

Charles Sumner's Death

Has caused all the differences of the last few years to sink out of sight, and he is spoken of by all as is merited by the vast services he rendered to the cause of liberty and equal rights, and the greatness to which he attained. The day before the fatal attack Mr. Boutwell presented to the senate the resolution of the Massachusetts legislature rescinding the censure passed upon the battle-flag resolution, at which Mr. Sumner was greatly pleased. The papers generally are largely taken up by reviews of his life and services, no death since Lincoln's exciting so deep an interest and sorrow.

State News.

The Mirror says the Ward Five election in Manchester was illegal owing to the neglect of the selectmen to subscribe an oath on the back of the checklist that the list contained the names of those persons only who were legal voters in the ward. This throws out five democratic Representatives and elects a republican Senator. Two democratic members of Enfield also lose their election by the neglect of selectmen. No checklist was used at Gosport and no legal election was held.

A woman, who was a confirmed opium eater, died suddenly in Nashua on the 10th from the effects of the drug.

The town of Dublin must be thinly settled, according to a recent school report of that town, which says that "the schoolhouse is a mile from any human habitation, and much secluded by hills and forests."

Mr. Peter Southwick of Hollis, who froze his feet in November last, has had both members amputated, and his recovery is extremely doubtful.

The post-office at Great Falls was entered on the night of the 10th and a large number of letters taken away. Little if any money was taken.

The dwelling-house, L and barn at East Concord, owned by Mrs. Mellen Eastman, were destroyed by fire on the 10th. Most of the contents, except the furniture in the house, were burned. Loss $2500. Cause of fire unknown.

On Thursday, Frank Dawson, a Frenchman employed as a wood chopper by Smith & Eastman, was found frozen to death in a field a short distance from Tilton. He was last seen on his way home the night before town meeting, somewhat under the influence of liquor. He leaves a wife and two small children.

Bendables.

A Spanish defeat with the loss of 800 men and three cannon is reported from Cuba. Substitutes command $1000 each in gold in Havana, and are scarce at that.

Rev. Mr. Murray did not lecture in Norwich, Conn., Monday night, on "Civilized Heathen," some heathen having stolen his manuscript.

The Colvocoresses insurance suits have at length all been settled, and a large portion of the money has been paid over. The basis of the compromise was 50 per cent. on the face of the policies, with no deduction for premium notes or for the amounts due at the time of the captain's death. On this basis the heirs receive $105,000 from the companies. The captain had paid in premiums only $800.

Aaron White, who was pardoned out of the Massachusetts State prison last Thanksgiving day, the pardon to remain in force so long as he behaved well, is now in the house of correction in Hampden county for drunkenness, and will probably go back to his old quarters at Charlestown when his present sentence expires.

The Lewiston Journal says Lowell has made some curious statements to his counsel relating to the death of his wife—that it was caused by an accident. Mr. Ludden, his counsel, does not believe the story.

Foster Ames, of Orland, Me., was found dead in the woods at Buckeport a night or two ago. He was out gunning, and accidentally shot himself, the shot taking effect in his head behind the ear, and probably killing him instantly. His clothing caught fire from the gun and was burned off the body above the waist.

At Jeffersonville, Ind., one of the crusading ladies was thrown down by the wife of John Littles, keeper of a saloon. After the prayers and songs, the husband threw off his coat and proposed to fight the entire crowd, but he was quieted by his friends. There is great excitement. The crowd did not disperse until several buckets of water were thrown on them from the windows. There are some fears of bloodshed.

Boston's fire department had a lively time of it, Wednesday night, Ten alarms were "rung in" in four hours. The intense cold and high wind greatly increased the danger of an extended conflagration and the discomforts of the firemen, but the men worked splendidly and the total losses were kept within $130,000. One fireman was killed.

A Life on the Ocean Wave.

The record of disasters at sea for the last two months shows that the northern half of the Atlantic ocean has been the scene of a remarkable succession of extensive and heavy gales, not a few of them being denominated "hurricanes" on the log-books of ships unlucky enough to encounter them. The shipping columns of the papers have been filled with reports of vessels dismasted or otherwise distressed, decks swept, men washed away, etc., and the Bureau Veritas of Brussels, Belgium, has just published the following startling list of vessels totally lost in the month of January alone: Sailing vessels 168, viz., 81 English, 25 American, 12 German, 10 French, 7 Dutch, 7 Italian, 5 Greek, 4 Russian, 3 Norwegian, 2 Austrian, 1 Swedish, 1 Turkish, and 9 of which the nationality is unknown. In this number are included nine sailing vessels reported missing. Steamers totally lost, 18, viz., 11 English, 3 American, 1 German, 1 Danish, 1 Spanish, and 1 French.

Those Official Cheers.

Messrs. Editors: Some one who either did not have wit enough to find out the occasion of the hurrah on the Greenland Town meeting, or who deliberately misrepresented, states in your paper of Thursday that the Selectmen and Moderator joined in a shout on the defeat of their opponents. The facts are briefly these: After two unsuccessful ballotings for Representative, a democrat moved to postpone farther action on that article in the warrant. This motion was supported by the republican candidate, Nathaniel Wiggin, Esq., in a short speech, and was carried. Thereupon the democrats requested three cheers for Mr. Wiggin, which were given with hearty good will by both parties; and as a return compliment either Mr. Wiggin or some other republican requested cheers for Mr. Lovering, the democratic candidate, which were given with a like good will. I hope and believe that the Selectmen and Moderator were liberal enough to join in this exhibition of kind feeling toward those very worthy citizens, although I did not observe, myself, whether they did so or not.

GREENLAND.

Laconics.

The prohibition faction in this city had 57 names on their ticket, we are told by one who took pains to count them; and threw 41 votes—less than one apiece. Who says Craig, Hardy, Norton & Co. are not office-seekers?

It is said that an arrangement is to be made by the Boston & Maine and Eastern roads whereby trains will leave Portland over each road alternatively; for instance a train over the Eastern at 6.15, and another over the Boston and Maine at nine o'clock. This will give fewer trains on each road.

Messrs. Peyser & Kennedy, having formed a copartnership and taken the stand formerly occupied by Chas. W. Gerrish & Son, at No. 33 Market street, advertise a full line of custom-made clothing, cloths and furnishings,—in short, "all articles pertaining to a well appointed and assorted Gents' Furnishing Goods Store." They do not offer to sell "less than cost," but promise to sell the best quality articles at good, fair bargains; and they invite inspection of their stock and prices.

"BELLA; OR THE CRADLE OF LIBERTY," is a story of insane asylums, written by Mrs. Eugenia St. John. Its harrowing details are vouched for as true by the author. The perusal of the book arouses the indignation of the reader and reveals a state of affairs that cry aloud for correction. It is not unreasonable to believe that a vast deal of cruelty is practiced at these institutions, called "asylums," but which those unfortunates who have been confined in them unhesitatingly term "prisons." The public must eventually know whether the tales of privations and abuse told of the keepers are true or not. As a means of furthering impartial investigations the story of "Bella" will have a stimulating influence and we trust aid humanitarians who are seeking legislative action by which inmates of insane asylums may communicate directly with their friends without being subject to the insolent censorship of brutal or careless keepers. The work is published by N. D. Berry at 171 Tremont street, Boston.

MARINE CHRONICLE.

Brig Sally Brown, Matthews, for Baltimore sld from Saguа Feb 23.

Sch Mary J Ward, Ward, for this port from Savannah 15 days at Vineyard Haven Mar 11, had heavy weather and split sails.

An Open Letter.

To His Honor F. W. Miller, Esq., Mayor elect of Portsmouth.

The man whom the people have elevated from the humble calling of a "Miller" to his "Honor!" his "Worship!"—May his will grind out the public meal like the mill of the "Gods," "slow but sure."—"Honor and shame from no condition rise, act well your part, there all the honor lies."

Very humbly and truly your friend,

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Research made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.

JOHN TAGGART."

Laconics.

The prohibition faction in this city had 57 names on their ticket, we are told by one who took pains to count them; and threw 41 votes—less than one apiece. Who says Craig, Hardy, Norton & Co. are not office-seekers?

It is said that an arrangement is to be made by the Boston & Maine and Eastern roads whereby trains will leave Portland over each road alternatively; for instance a train over the Eastern at 6.15, and another over the Boston and Maine at nine o'clock. This will give fewer trains on each road.

Messrs. Peyser & Kennedy, having formed a copartnership and taken the stand formerly occupied by Chas. W. Gerrish & Son, at No. 33 Market street, advertise a full line of custom-made clothing, cloths and furnishings,—in short, "all articles pertaining to a well appointed and assorted Gents' Furnishing Goods Store." They do not offer to sell "less than cost," but promise to sell the best quality articles at good, fair bargains; and they invite inspection of their stock and prices.

False Alarm.

The shrill, prolonged screech of a locomotive whistle, Wednesday evening, at a few minutes before 9 o'clock, occasioned a false alarm of fire to be rung out from the North Church belfry, notwithstanding the fact that seven distinct whistles have been agreed upon by the railroad authorities, brewery proprietors and fire department as a signal of fire. Had there really been a fire it might have made bad work, the weather at the time being extremely cold and a smart gale blowing. Not a little apprehension was aroused, and when the firemen returned from their needless race toward the Creek, with the information that it was only a false alarm, nervous people felt much relief.

The whistle we are informed was a warning for the railroad men to muster, a freight train having left the rails about three miles this side of Newburyport, two or three cars being damaged. The track was cleared and the wrecking train back to this city again by 5 o'clock Thursday morning.

The "Apron Festival"

Of the Court street Christian society was opened in Congress Hall on Thursday evening, and was more successful than could have been anticipated considering the intensely cold and disagreeable weather, the attendance being most gratifying to the promoters of the affair. Stereopticon views, dialogues and pantomimes were among the amusements; many handsome and useful articles were offered for sale (and sold), and clam chowder, oysters stews, etc., found many devotees. The Festival will close this evening.

Chicago on the Cruelty Question.

One great object aimed at by the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals is the education of the young in humane principles, and our means of doing this is by the introduction of suitable books into our public schools. This has been much insisted on in our own local society. It has procured books, both English and American, and placed them in many of our schools, where their stories, pictures and facts about our dumb friends are always read with the deepest interest.

In a letter just received from a gentleman in Chicago, on this point he writes: "It is believed by me and by our society that the best means of furthering our great object is through the schools by the aid of teachers and reading books. Already our society has requested the Board of Education to prepare such reading books when changes shall be made, and an enterprising publishing house in this city, taking the hint, has a series of readers in course of publication containing lessons upon humane subjects to meet the coming demand." Good for Chicago.

He also writes: "I am glad to be able to say that much has been accomplished in our stock yards. The society keeps an agent at the yards constantly. Of course he is not popular with the drovers, but he has so won the approval of the superintendent of the yards that he has sent the society one hundred dollars without solicitation.

Formerly the stock yards were most diabolical, and they are by no means angelic now; much injury must needs be even where there is no intentional cruelty, where 4,500,000 hogs and 750,000 cattle are received and re-shipped or slaughtered in a single year. There is no place like it of equal magnitude in the world.

Still, progress in comfort is steadily made; the society in Chicago has done and is doing a great work and is steadily growing in public favor."

We believe this to be the case in regard to the society in Portsmouth. Every reform has to out its way across indifference and prejudice. But when its objects are fairly understood, it commends itself to the good sense and good principles of every man and woman; as for the children, a little army of them are in for it. God bless them.

SMITH'S ACADEMY

—AND—

Commercial College

Founded 1874.

An institution for Young Ladies and Gentlemen intended to meet the requirements of Portsmouth and vicinity.

Instruction will be given in the Greek, Latin and modern languages and literature, including especial attention to those studies required for admission to college. Book Keeping, Mathematics, and Penmanship will have that prominence which their practical importance demands. The Natural Sciences will be included in what is intended to be a thorough and complete English course of instruction.

MRS. E. M. BARNETT, educated at Mt. Holyoke Seminary and well known as a successful teacher in schools in Massachusetts, will assist. Other competent teachers will be employed as the needs of the patrons may require. Applications for admission can be made at the residence of the Principal, 51 Middle St. or at the Academy room in Mechanics' Block, Congress Street. LEWIS E. SMITH, A. M., Principal.

The Sinking Saved.

The combination of tonic, alterative and stimulating properties in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, especially adapts that famous specific to the cure of chronic forms of disease, when the strong influence of a long protracted morbid habit is to be surmounted. In chronic dyspepsia, and liver complaint, and in chronic constipation and other obstinate diseases, it is beyond all comparison the best remedy that can be taken. As a means of restoring the strength and vital energy of persons who are sinking under the debilitating effects of painful disorders, this standard vegetable invigorant is confessedly unequalled. The permanent tonics included in the preparation are associated with a diffusible stimulant absolutely pure, and the tendency of these elements is modified by the presence of alterative ingredients slower in their operation and capable of producing more lasting local and general effects. For feeble convalescents and in all phases of debility, it is the best as well as the most agreeable of restoratives.

"Happiness, is the absence of pain," says Jean Paul Richter, and 20,000 grateful patients bless the ASKAKESIS of DR. SILSBEE as the only infallible cure for PILES ever discovered. It is purely scientific combining the best method of the French, English and American surgeons, acting as an instrument, poultice and medicine, and not only affording instant relief from excruciating pain, but performing an absolute and permanent cure. All doctors approve it—Price $1. Sold by druggists everywhere. Depot, Walker st., New York.

To Dr. Helmbold's Patients. The celebrated Extract Buchu, of which Dr. Helmbold was the originator, is still performing wonderful cures of obscure diseases of the urinary organs, restoring shattered constitutions, and overcoming debility and diseases arising from imprudence and excess. This great diuretic never fails. Patients should be particular to get the genuine, which bears the doctor's signature. All druggists sell it.

NONE but a physician knows how much a reliable alterative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cures.—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues they claim. In this state of the case, DR. J. C. AYER & CO., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other kindred preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind, and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured a wide a reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long-continued series of marvellous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well-founded, if taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY

AT NO. 9 MONTGOMERY PLACE, BOSTON, MASS.

COLBY & RICH,

Publishers and Proprietors.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.

Assisted by a large corps of able writers.

THE BANNER OF LIGHT is a first-class, eight-page Family Newspaper, containing FORTY COLUMNS OF INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE READING, classed as follows:

LITERARY DEPARTMENT.—Original Novelettes of reformatory tendencies, and occasionally translations from French and German authors; Poetry, original and selected; Choice Stories for Children, etc.

REPORTS OF SPIRITUAL LECTURES—By able Trance and Normal Speakers.

ORIGINAL ESSAYS—Upon Spiritual, Philosophical and Scientific Subjects.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.—Subjects of General Interest, the Spiritual Philosophy, its phenomena, etc., Current Events, Entertaining Miscellany, Notices of New Publications, etc.

MESSAGE DEPARTMENT.—Spirit-Messages from the departed to their friends in earth-life, given through the mediumship of MRS. J. H. CONANT, which demonstrate direct intercourse between the Mundane and Super-Mundane Worlds.

ORIGINAL CONTRIBUTIONS from the most talented writers in the world.

All which features render this journal a popular Family Paper, and at the same time the Harbinger of a Glorious Scientific Religion.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE.

Per Year	$3.00
Six Months	1.50
Three Months	75

☞ There will be no deviation from the above prices.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money-Order on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes, since, should the Order or Draft be lost or stolen, it can be renewed without loss to the sender.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

Subscribers in Canada will add to the terms of subscription 20 cents per year, for pre-payment of American postage.

POST-OFFICE ADDRESS.—Subscribers should not all to write legibly their Post-Office Address and name of State.

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. Thus we publish two volumes a year.

Patrons of the BANNER when renewing their subscriptions should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed; and the same care should be exercised when a change of location is desired.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

IF VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas Scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter ran from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on steadily with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored me to the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
WILLIAM PAYN

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER!

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever. It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff; and the scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, says of it: "I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE,

FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

BEHOLD!
WILSON'S
SUPERPHOSPHATE
At Auction!
My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphates on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, and often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.
Mr. Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.
The only Fertilizer that has ever received a SILVER MEDAL from the N. E. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

IRON IN THE BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND HUMORS.
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes The Weak Strong.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Peroxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the system. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Yearling Member.
[After Dinner.]
There is a kind of legislator always represented at the State House to a limited extent, who is a perpetual source of astonishment to himself and others, how he got there. He is in the mental condition of the Hard Shell Baptist preacher, who said "when he got to heaven three things he expected would surprise him. First, not to find there many who he thought would get in. Second, to see some there who he did not think of meeting; but the greatest surprise of all would be to find himself there." That is the case of the member of which we are now speaking. He either runs in on an independent ticket, or at the regular party caucus; there being a squabble over contestants they settle it by taking some new man, for "better or for worse." This class generally "draw back seats," and "die yearlings." Their legislative career is brief, and is not apt to be brilliant. But the yearling member usually is impressed with the situation, and labors under the conviction that he must make a mark.

Emerson says every man is eloquent once in his lifetime. Without disputing the statement, it is true that every male American, and some female ones, have a desire to make a speech. The desire rises to white heat with the yearling member. He pants and thirsts to "hold an audience spell-bound." Nothing short of a spell-bound affair will satisfy him. Frequently it happens that the only spell that follows his maiden effort is the long, unbroken spell of silence, that seals his lips forever after he tries it on. Such was the fate of Smith, the member from Centerborough, who by some local upheaval was thrown into the House in —— for a single year, and then went entirely out of sight. Smith felt he had a special call to speak on the Maine Law, as it was then called. When a member is saturated with the idea that he has a mission to perform, it animates his whole nature. Smith had it good, and his face wore an air of profundity; he looked as wise as a cow chewing her cud; walked about the coat room and the corridors with his hands clasped behind him, and he seemed as though his intellect was grappling with some intricate metaphysical problem. Of course he had to get rid of this internal commotion, or explode. So he said to Gilson, who knew all the ropes, and was a recognized leader,

"I'm going to make a speech,"

"Well, what on?" asked Gilson.

"On the Maine Law; you see I have got, I think, a new idea."

"An idea is the rarest thing we have in the House; what is it?"

"It has struck me that we don't give sufficient weight or value to the actions of individuals, as such. We are apt to consider that the effect and consequences of human action ends when the act is done. Now I hold that any deed, whether for good or evil, like a stone cast into the water, goes on operating indefinitely, so that in reality a human action has endless duration, outlasting even the life of the actor himself. Now if I can give this idea to the House, as I've got it in me, I think it will bring the members to a sense of responsibility on this question. What do you say to it?"

"Good thing, fine, impressive. Have you spoken much?"

"No; but I believe I've got it in me, and I've observed that great speakers are cool and deliberate and don't skitter about, or slump in, and I intend to be calm and collected, and do it right."

"Well," says Gilson, "you have a capital idea, Smith, and if you get it off as you have told it to me, you will do yourself credit, and make the speech of the session. I will arrange with the Speaker and see that you have the floor to-morrow."

The next day, when the bill came up, the Speaker recognized our yearling, and announced "Mr. Smith, the member from Centerborough." Smith rose majestically, and appeared as though a dozen Dr. Miners and a ten acre lot of Dio Lewises were at work in his teeming brain. His pause was awful, but at last he spoke out, in a clear, confidential manner:

"Mr Speaker, Mr. Speaker, Sir. I have been thinking of late—that is, Mr. Speaker, lately I have been thinking, Sir—that we don't quite realize, Mr. Speaker—the consequences, Sir, of—of what we do, Mr. Speaker,—when—we do it, Sir. Mr. Speaker, Sir, I think that the influence of an action, Sir, that is, Mr. Speaker, the effect of an action—don't stop, Sir, with—the influence, Sir, or rather, Mr. Speaker, that the influence don't stop with the action, Sir, an action, Mr. Speaker, the influence of an action, Sir, that is, Mr. Speaker, an action has an influence, Sir, that goes on—Sir, and don't stop, Sir, and don't end, Sir,—till—till it gets through, Sir. Mr. Speaker, Sir, an action—Sir—an influence, Sir, has a—well, Mr. Speaker, I guess I've got into a little too deep water for me, and the best action I can perform is to sit right down."

And down Smith sat, and rose no more from the oblivion into which he sank. He told Gilson some time afterward that he didn't think the hall of the House of Representatives was properly constructed for public speaking. Gilson thought so, too.

—A St. Louis paper tells us that the strongest glass will sustain two thousand pounds to the square inch. It also has been known to twist a man's legs so that he couldn't walk.

SATURDAY, MARCH 14, 1874.

Consistency?

We hear of incidents in the late campaign showing several prohibitionists in rather poor light. One candidate for office went about spreading the report that the republican nominee for Senator in this district was in favor of a license law. When cornered by the man he had slandered, he declared that a score of persons said so, but when pressed to name one was unable to do so. The same individual was rejoicing over the successs of the prohibitionists, and said the republicans deserved defeat for changing the chairmanship of the State committee by superseding an outspoken temperance man for an intemperate person. This time he caught a Tartar, also, for an indignant gentleman present gave him the benefit of a few remarks. It is well known that there is no more rigid temperance man in the State than the person misrepresented by this prohibitionist.

A clergyman in a town in this county who has frequently advised his hearers not to purchase groceries where rum was sold, and styles himself a temperance man, voted for Weston for Governor, knowing that Weston favored a repeal of the prohibitory law, and against McCutchins, who was known to be a prohibitionist.

In another town, eighteen prohibitionists voted for a democrat for State Senator who spent $100 for rum to supply voters with during election day. It is such striking examples as we have mentioned that arouse feelings of contempt for the political hypocrites, who, claiming to be the simon-pure prohibitionists of the age, have succeeded in securing the probable repeal of the prohibitory law, because they were deemed of such little importance in the republican party that they were never able to aspire to leadership therein. Their conduct is like that of men owning a house with which they are dissatisfied, and being unable to procure a better one, burn the one they have a share in. We hope the republican party is forever rid of them.

The Temperance War.

The ladies' crusade against liquor dealing in Worcester, Mass., has commenced in earnest, though the Ohio plan will not be followed. The ladies have organized committees which will canvass all the hotels, saloons, club-rooms, drug-stores, etc., to ask proprietors to abandon the improper sale of intoxicants, and to enforce their appeal by endeavors to rouse their consciences, assuring them, in every case, that the women are praying for them and will continue to do so. This has been begun at the hotels and saloons on Main street, between Lincoln square and Austin street, a distance of a mile or more. No signatures to their pledge were secured, but the women were courteously received. On being refused they assured each dealer that they should come again, and pray earnestly meanwhile for them. They are not disheartened by the day's work, but express a determination to keep on.

Just So.

A dispatch to the Advertiser, from Concord, relative to the State election, says: "It is openly boasted by the democracy that if no obstacle meets them in the senate this year they will remove every republican office-holder in the State, repeal the prohibitory liquor law and redistrict the senatorial and councillor districts, with a view to securing important advantages in the future." Of course they will; nobody expects anything else. The democratic opponents of "partizan proscription" and "infamous and unjust gerrymandering" will lose no time in kicking out their office-holding opponents, and will fix the boundaries of districts and wards so ably that there won't be a man in the State able to tell where he lives. Well, let 'em—particularly as we don't clearly see how it can be prevented. The prohibitory law will of course go down under the combined attacks of the democrats and prohibitionists; but then we don't care for, either. The prohibitionists demanded free rum, and if they can stand it we can; we only hope they won't find they have have scorched their fingers in roasting other persons' chestnuts.

Readables.

It is said that Gen. Butler will not be a candidate for the position made vacant by the death of Senator Sumner, preferring the gubernatorial chair to one year in the U. S. Senate.

John A. Fay, lately appointed city marshal of Taunton, Mass., is said to be a tiger mist, and to have deserted his wife and twelve children some years ago, for another woman, leaving Mrs. Fay to be assisted by the city to the tune of $229.11. He is to be asked some conundrums about it.

The British loss in the Ashantee war was 16 killed and 368 wounded.

Lizzie L. King, alias Kate Stoddard, has come to the surface again through the Goodrich murder, in a paper dated March, 1873. It amounts to an assertion that Goodrich committed suicide, which impression she denies in an interview that she desired to convey. It throws no light at all on the matter.

Long ago—so long ago that we cannot tell exactly how long, a Mrs. King of New York instituted a suit for divorce against her husband, and a Mr. O'Neil was one of the principal witnesses for the libellant. King, finding he was going to the wall, shot O'Neil in the most cowardly manner as he was leaving the court room; for this he has just been tried, and found guilty of murder in the second degree.

The fireman who lost his life in Boston on the night of the 11th, was killed by a collision between two steamers. By the same accident Henry Worrall, who served with distinction in the Union army all through the rebellion and was an excellent fireman, was so badly hurt that he has had a foot amputated. The man who was killed, William Hills, was filling another fireman's place for the night; he also served with honor all through the war. The foreman of one of the engines lost three fingers and was badly hurt in the back; and the driver of one engine and the fireman of the other were also injured.

The funeral of Ex-President Millard Fillmore took place at Buffalo on the 12th. The city was in mourning.

The Iowa senate has adopted by a vote of 27 to 1, the house joint resolution for a constitutional amendment giving women their right to vote.

The Spanish Carlists report that their forces have entered Trun and commenced operations against Olot. The governor of Bilboa reports to Marshal Serrano that he has plenty of provisions, and will keep up his vigorous resistance to the Carlists.

Bismark is seriously ill.

The Japanese insurrection is quelled, the insurgents having all surrendered to the government.

The Duke of Edinburgh and his bride had a grand reception by the populace in London, on their arrival home on the 12th.

Seven of the war vessels forming the squadron at Key West are to go to the Brooklyn Navy Yard to be laid up.

State News.

Mrs. Angie Warner died in Nashua on the 11 th, aged 40. The deceased was a confirmed opium eater, and, under the care of a physician, was trying to break off from the habit. The habit overcame her good intentions, and she ate so large a quantity that it caused her death.

Ephriam M. Dunbar of Warner chopped an ankle on the 5th, missing the wood he aimed at and cutting himself very badly indeed.

Amherst on town-meeting day refused to spend $500 for a town history.

Silas M. Giles, Superintendent of the Carroll County Farm and Jailor, died of blood poisoning on the 8th, at Ossipee, aged 50.

Thirsty Prohibitionists.

[Portland Press.]

Rochester, N. H. cannot afford to have an election very often. Tuesday only a part of the town officers were elected and no representatives to the legislature. Wednesday the voters met again when the republicans succeeded in electing one representative of the five to which the town is entitled. Thereupon the democrats made a motion to send no more. The house was divided and the ultra prohibitionists voting with the democrats, the motion was carried. The misguided zealots in New Hampshire are doing their utmost to secure a season of free rum. They should be classed as the most effective champions of the rum traffic.

Charles Sumner's Career.

Charles Sumner was born in Boston, Jan. 6, 1811, and may be said to have retained a residence there all his life. His father, who died in 1839, was a lawyer by profession, and during the latter part of his life was Sheriff of Suffolk County. The boy went to the Boston Latin School, and was graduated at Harvard College in the class of 1830. After study at the Cambridge Law School, he was admitted to the bar in 1834, and rapidly rose to the first rank in his profession. He also delivered lectures on the law, and during the absence of the head of the Law School had full charge of it. He was a hard student, famous then and all through his life, for going to the bottom of all subjects which he attacked. He was especially fond at this time of constitutional law and the law of nations.

Declining professorships in the school and the university in 1836, a year later he visited Europe where he spent three years. On the 4th of July, 1845, he delivered the oration in Boston, on the "True Grandeur of Nations," called out by the complications between this country and Mexico. It excited attention all over the world and was pronounced by Richard Cobden "the most noble contribution made by any modern writer to the cause of peace."

This success was followed up by other similar efforts. He earnestly opposed the annexation of Texas, on the ground of slavery, and spoke against it in Faneuil Hall, Nov. 4, 1845, with great success. The following year, he addressed the Whig State Convention on the Anti-Slavery duties of the party, and soon after addressed an open letter to the Hon. R. C. Winthrop rebuking him for his vote in favor of a war with Mexico. Ultimately Mr. Sumner separated from the Whigs with whom he had always acted, and joined the Free-soilers, supporting Van Buren and Adams in 1848. In 1851 a combination of the new party and the democrats elected Mr. Sumner to the United States Senate to fill the seat of Mr. Webster, previously called to the cabinet of President Fillmore. In Congress he fought slavery and the slave holders, fiercely and persistently. In 1856, his great speech, "The Crime against Kansas" was delivered, occupying two days. Certain passages in it led to the savage assault upon him by Preston S. Brooks, on the 22d of May. From this Mr. Sumner probably never fully recovered. The cowardly attack had the effect to procure him an almost unanimous re-election in 1857,—he had the entire State Senate and all but seven votes in the House,—but he was obliged to go to Europe the same year and again in 1858, and it was not till the autumn of 1859 that he returned to active work.

To the election of Lincoln and Hamlin in 1860, Mr. Sumner contributed by speeches and documents, while in the Senate he strenuously opposed all compromises with the slave power. He delivered orations urging emancipation in Boston, Oct. 1 and in New York, Nov. 27, 1861. On the 4th of March, of the same year, he became Chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, a position which he retained until a breach with President Grant led to his removal and the substitution of Mr. Cameron. Jan. 9, 1862, he delivered an elaborate speech on the Trent Seizure, which perhaps had the effect more than anything to reconcile the nation to the surrender of Mason and Slidell. Mr. Sumner opposed recently the annexation of Santo Domingo, on the ground partly that it was an outrage to the black republic of Hayti, and made one elaborate speech to prove his points.

The gradual progress of Mr. Sumner to an attitude opposed to the republican administration need not be detailed. At the last Presidential campaign, his fortunes were linked with the Liberal republicans, although the state of his health prevented him from taking the active part which his desires would have suggested. Within a year or two, he has had a number of warning attacks, but he could not be persuaded to live a life of inglorious quiet. Every return to comparative health found him again in the field, and he died as he had lived, with his armor on.

An Obstinate Woman.

The most obstinate saloon-keeper the praying women have encountered is an Irish woman, who sells whiskey at Greenville, Tenn., named Mrs. Ward. At last accounts, the Crusaders had been encamped nine days before her doors, and the Milesian heroine was still holding out. On the 25th ult. the Crusaders were reinforced by Father Marron, a Catholic priest from Nashville. The good Father tried a little strategy. Instead of attempting to go into the saloon, he went to the barracks and sent word to Mrs. Ward. The latter immediately locked up her place and went to see him. What passed at the interview is not known. They were closeted for two hours, but as he went back by the next train, and she immediately went back to her saloon, and the contest was renewed by her with more fervor than ever, there is little reason to doubt that she had the best of the argument with the Father. The next morning the besiegers offered to pay Mrs. Ward an indemnity if she would surrender the citadel. At noon Mrs. Ward, under a flag of truce, met the enemy and agreed to capitulate and leave Greenville with all her forces, on the payment of $2,000. As no immediate reply was made, she returned to her stronghold. The besiegers kept on with their songs, and, loud above the din, Mrs. Ward replied with cheerful Milesian objurgations. The next morning there was a division in the councils of the besiegers, some being in favor of raising the indemnity, and others opposing it strongly, their voices being still for war. The battle was then renewed. The Crusaders drew up in line of battle and delivered melodious broadsides at the saloon, Mrs. Ward from an upper window replying with a rattling fire of choice expletives. About noon Mrs. Ward appeared at the window, with her face wreathed in smiles, and blew a trumpet-blast of joy. Thirty saloon-keepers of Chattanooga had sent her a handsome sum of money, which the express-messenger delivered at the back-door without the knowledge of the Crusaders. The money was sufficient to enable her to hold out for a long time to come, and at last accounts she was holding out, and the besiegers were getting tired. Two thousand dollars would get her out, but the question at last accounts was, Where can the money be raised?

Stowed Away in barrels.

[New York Tribune, March 2.]

A Cuban gentleman, who arrived in this city yesterday, gives the following account of his escape from the hands of the Spaniards in the city of Havana:

Last month he was drafted into the army under the new conscription laws, and, together with some three hundred others, all Cubans, was confined in the barracks known as the Cuartel de la Fuerza, in the Plaza de Armas, in the city of Havana. Within a few days they were to be sent to the front to fight against their fellow-countrymen, and, although the chances were desperate, some of them determined to effect their escape.

In order to gain communication with their friends outside, they began to study the dispositions of the sentinels who were put over them. Among these was one who was fond of his aguardiente, and the conspirators gave him many little presents to buy liquor to secure his favor. They began by asking him to let two or three go out at a time for a walk, and were always prompt in their return at the hour agreed upon. They spoke to a Catalan about getting away from the island. At last they learned that on a certain day a steamer would sail for a port in the United States, and the Catalan agreed to put them on board. At eight o'clock that night the favorite sentinel was on post, and they asked permission to take an airing. It was granted, and thirteen of them were allowed to pass out, under a promise to return at 10 o'clock, in time for roll-call.

As soon as they found themselves in the street each went to his home. Then, according to appointment, they met the Catalan in a coffee-house. He conveyed them in parties of three and four at a time, to the steamer. When they were all on board they paid him what they had agreed upon, $125 in currency each. The captain of the steamer then informed them that as he was exposed to a fine of $500 for every passenger found on board without a passport, he would have to charge them $68 in gold apiece, and that they would have to promise to submit to any precautionary measures he should see fit to adopt. This they agreed to, and the captain then said: "Now, gentlemen, you will have to get into barrels, and be headed up and put with the rest of the cargo."

Thirteen flour barrels filled with oranges were then emptied, and the Cubans got into them. The heads of the barrels were then replaced and secured, and they were then put in tiers with many other barrels of oranges on top of them. One poor refugee was too fat to squeeze himself into the barrel. This unfortunate had to go ashore, as the captain was afraid to carry him in any other way. The hold of the vessel was suffocatingly hot, and the wretched passengers suffered untold tortures in the barrels. They were stowed away at 12 o'clock, and the steamer did not leave until 4. Every little while the captain would go into the hold and say: "We'll start in a few minutes now," but for four hours did the tortues last.

One of them called out from his barrel that he could not bear it, and that he must be let out. The others adjured him to hold his peace, as their safety depended on his fortitude. He consented to make a new effort, and to try to stand it a little longer. While they were anxiously awaiting the sailing of the vessel they heard the police officers come on board. They went down into the hold of the vessel, and carefully searched every nook and corner for stowaways. They opened several barrels, but finding nothing but oranges, at last came to the conclusion that all was right, and went ashore. When the vessel got outside of the "Morro," the refugees were released, more dead than alive. Some of them were so badly cramped that they could not assume an erect position for many days afterward. For obvious reasons the names of the refugees, and the name and date of the sailing of the steamer, are not given. The gentleman who arrived here yesterday brings letters for a Cuban General, Villegas, and for other prominent Cubans in New York.

The Sinking Saved.

The combination of tonic, alterative and stimulating properties in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, especially adapts that famous specific to the cure of chronic forms of disease, when the strong influence of a long protracted morbid habit is to be surmounted. In chronic dyspepsia, and liver complaint, and in chronic constipation and other obstinate diseases, it is beyond all comparison the best remedy that can be taken. As a means of restoring the strength and vital energy of persons who are sinking under the debilitating effects of painful disorders, this standard vegetable invigorantis confessedly unequalled. The permanent tonic included in the preparation are associated with a diffusible stimulant absolutely pure, and the tendency of these elements is modified by the presence of alterative ingredients slower in their operation and capable of producing more lasting local and general effects. For feeble convalescents and in all phases of debility, it is the best as well as the most agreeable of restoratives.

"Happiness is the absence of pain," says Jean Paul Richter, and 20,000 grateful patients bless the ANAKESIS of DR. SILESKE as the only infallible cure for PILES ever discovered. It is purely scientific combining the best method of the French, English and American surgeons, acting as an instrument, poultice and medicine, and not only affording instant relief from excruciating pain, but performing an absolute and permanent cure. All doctors approve it.—Price $1. Sold by druggists everywhere. Depot, Walker st., New York.

To Dr. Helmbold's Patients. The celebrated Extract Buchu, of which Dr. Helmbold was the originator, is still performing wonderful cures of obscure diseases of the urinary organs, restoring shattered constitutions, and overcoming debility and diseases arising from imprudence and excess. This great diuretic never fails. Patients should be particular to get the genuine, which bears the doctor's signature. All druggists sell it.

No friend, stop that terrible cough, and thus avoid the consumptive's grave by using Dr. Tisdale's Golden Medical Discovery. For curing all throat, bronchial and lung diseases it has never been equalled. Sold by Druggists. 713

Noise but a physician knows how much a reliable alternative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cures.—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues they claim. In this state of the case, Dr. J. C. AYER & Co., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other hundred preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

Local Matters.

City Council.

In board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, March 12, petition of Charles H. Mendum and others for gas light at the junction of Hill & Carr's and Mendum & Co.'s stores on Market street, was referred to Committee on Gas Lights. Claim of Ephriam Pickering for damage to sleigh, was referred to Committee on Claims.

Bills of Lewis W. Brewster, amounting to $816.20, for printing the City Accounts and School Reports, were ordered to be paid when approved by the Mayor; and one amounting to $304, for printing City Ordinances, was referred to Committee on Printing.

The Committee on City Lands and Buildings were requested to replace the glass that is broken, and purchase a new bell-rope for south ward room.

The Committee on Accounts reported bills amounting to $1522, which were ordered to be paid.

The following preamble and resolutions were offered by the Mayor:

Whereas, Our Country mourns the loss of a statesman from its Councils by the death of Senator Charles Sumner; and

Whereas, We, in common with the people of the whole country, desire to manifest our appreciation of his public services, therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of the distinguished Senator our nation loses one who has filled the high office to which he was called with honor and ability.

Resolved, That we shall ever hold his memory sacred, and revere him as an honest statesman, profound scholar and devoted philanthropist.

Resolved, That we sympathize with the citizens of Massachusetts in their grief for the death of the man they loved to honor.

Voted, That the resolutions be accepted and placed on file.

Voted, That the Mayor be requested to furnish the City with his portrait and to procure Hon. Frank Jones'; and to ask the family of the late Hon. Richard Jenness, for his.

COMMON COUNCIL.

At 8:20 both Boards met in Convention and the recapitulation of the votes for Mayor was read.

Total, 2123. Miller 1233, Marcy 846, Robinson 41, scattering 3, and Frank W. Miller having the largest number of votes, the following resolution was passed:

Resolved by the City Councils in Convention, That Hon. Frank W. Miller, having received the largest number of votes for Mayor on the second Tuesday of March, was elected Mayor of the City of Portsmouth for the municipal year beginning on the first Tuesday of April, 1874.

Adjourned.

Navy Yard Notes.

As a mark of national respect to the memory of the late Ex-President Millard Fillmore, and in pursuance of an order from the Navy Department, the flags at the yard and on board the receiving ship "Sabine" were placed at half-mast, and a salute of one gun at each half-hour of the day from sunrise until sunset, fired from the "Sabine," on Friday. It is also ordered that the usual badge of mourning shall be worn by the officers of the navy and the marine corps for the period of thirty days.

The new boilers of the U. S. S. "Plymouth" are now being moved from the Boiler-Shop to the wharf, preparatory to being placed on board.

The Iron-Plating Shop is being enlarged to double its present capacity by connecting it with the timber shed immediately north of it. Workmen are engaged in taking down the old chimney, which will be rebuilt midway of the enlarged building, where a new and powerful engine is to be erected.

A big discharge of workmen from the Construction Department will be made today, and work in that department will be almost wholly suspended in consequence.

Laconics.

Fast Day, April 9th.

The Jubilee Singers give a sacred concert in Exeter, to-morrow evening.

Reductio ad absurdum—blaming the defeat of McCutchins to the Butler-Simmons fight. The result did not change 50 votes in the entire State, and it certainly gained many more. Where the sympathizers with Butler were strongest, there the largest republican gains were made.

Prof. W. D. Gunning is to give six lectures on geology in this city at Mechanics Hall, commencing next Tuesday evening.

Among the true temperance men of the State who have been working effectively for the purpose of reforming men addicted to intemperance, we class J. Horace Kent, Esq., of this city. Knowing from bitter experience the evils of liquor drinking he has assumed a position which warrants the feelings of respect which all men accord him. Mr. Kent was one of the most valuable members of the last legislature and will be found working effectively and untiringly in the next. His name was kept off the temperance ticket on election day, but that did not prevent his receiving a larger vote than the republican ticket polled, his majority being 198.

Our latest returns of the Senatorial election in this district give Hall, republican, 2357, Hall, democrat, 2111, Hardy, temperance, 77, scattering 7. Dr. Hall's majority, 162.

Hon. Marcellus Bufford is on the sick list, as also is City Marshal Johnson.

The Portland Press is misled by our way of treating the election returns, and says we seem rather pleased than otherwise over the defeat of Gen. McCutchins. That is all the credit we get for accepting defeat in a philosophic manner! The Press goes on to say that "the CHRONICLE is so near the navy yard that it is a little bit Butlerish." We are pleased to know that we influence the navy yard so well. Proximity to it does not change our natural inclinations to sympathize with Gen. Butler for the stout fight he wages against the Massachusetts aristocracy, and the whiffling newspapers which pretend to express the sentiment of Boston republicans. Gen. Butler never aided the CHRONICLE or its proprietors in any way, and when we state that our expressed sympathies would be with the General if the administration were to espouse the cause of his opponents, we have faith that our friend of the Press will be convinced that we are "Butlerish" for no sordid reasons.

Rev. W. W. Nutting of Gardiner, Me., will preach at the Universalist church tomorrow.

John G. Tibbetts, Esq., Representative from Ward One, has remained in the ward room all day on every election in March since and including 1855, twenty annual elections.

During Thursday night, while Michael Jones, living on Water street, was showing his wife how to fire a pistol, the weapon accidentally went off and the bullet entered the thigh of Mrs. Jones, passing down to the knee. Dr. Whittier was called and extracted the bullet.

Charles E. Laighton & Son have for sale new maple sugar and syrup.

A man attempted to get on a train at the Eastern depot, Friday, having three bundles in his hands. Slipping, he fell with his head a few inches from the car-wheels. One bundle went under the wheels and was soon in flames. Its contents were matches! The stranger concluded he wouldn't leave on that train.

For the information of those among our readers who (like ourselves) have wondered what an "Apron Festival" was, we will state that it is simply the "necktie dance" which was so popular a year or two ago, divested of all Terpsichorean associations and transplanted to the social church gathering. The lady and gentleman who procure the same pattern of apron and necktie, are supposed to protect each other carefully all the evening.

Butler & Laighton have just received a hundred dozen cans of preserved fruits, a ton of cheese, two or three tons of salt fish, three or four tons of butter, etc. See their advertisement,—it is easy to find and to read.

Rev. Carlos Martyn will speak on Sunday afternoon, at the North Church, on "Some Lessons from the Life of Charles Sumner." In the evening at 7:30 o'clock there will be a praise meeting.

Maggie O'Neil's variety company and Taber's "Emerald Isle" will be at the Temple this evening. Admittance 35 and 50 cents. See advertisement.

A few wrong types made errors in our mention of the Portsmouth Grange. Mrs. E. P. Seavey is Stewardess, and Mrs. Daniel H. Spinney very appropriately Pomona.

Auctioneer Morse will sell to-day at auction, by sample, on Market square, in lots to suit purchasers, five hundred barrels of Nitrogenous Phosphate.

Decidedly Complimentary.

[Exeter News-Letter.]

It is a consolation to be able to point to a substantial Republican gain in this election, where the figures are generally so sadly the other way. But Portsmouth has done herself high credit by making a net gain over last year of 151 votes for McCutchins. It surely must be the "banner town" of 1874. Nor ought the good fight in Exeter to pass unnoticed, where our friends not only held their own, but exhibit a gain of one vote for the Republican ticket, over last year. Portsmouth has honored herself by the choice of Col. Frank W. Miller for Mayor by a majority of 347 votes.

[Lawrence American.]

Portsmouth has handsomely elected as Mayor, Hon. Frank W. Miller, for many years the enterprising and successful publisher of the CHRONICLE, of that city. We are glad to record his success, and are sure he will make as excellent a chief magistrate as he is thoroughly a good fellow.

A Cemetery Falling into a Tunnel.

At Pere la Chaise, the celebrated Parisian cemetery, a disaster has occurred which, happily, is without precedent. It appears that the railroad of the Menilmontant-Charonne route is carried by a tunnel directly under the northeastern part of the burying ground, near the Mussulman quarter. Recently, the arch of this tunnel was found to be defective, and passenger traffic was suspended. On Saturday, the 7th ult., at 9 P. M., a terrific noise was heard in the tunnel. The vault of the arch had fallen for a distance of twenty feet, dragging down into the abyss the mortuary contents of some forty tombs. The human remains—chiefly bones—were gathered together and deposited in another part of the cemetery. The work of removing the remains was a dangerous one, for it was feared that other portions of the vault might fall on the workmen, involving the living with the dead. On Sunday, the 8th, fifteen coffins were removed. The repairs of the tunnel will occupy more than a year of constant labor, as it will be necessary to replace the entire vault.

—Somebody says, that Boston, having swallowed various other neighboring towns, is "now gressing the ears of Malden, preparatory to deglutition."

Practical Somnambulism.

[Kansas City Times.]

A remarkable incident occurred on Monday night in the residence of Mrs. S. S. Newmeyer. This lady resides with her two daughters, aged eleven and thirteen years, in a small frame house, and has for the past two or three months been suffering from acute mental anxiety, on account of the death of her husband, in December last. Mrs. Newmeyer has been addicted to sleep-walking, being restless during the night, seldom sleeping more than half a night at a time. So much has this habit of sleep-walking increased upon their mother that one or the other of the daughters has been obliged to keep constant watch lest something might befall her. A peculiarity about this somnambulism has been a desire of the sleep-walker to visit the parlor of the house, and take a seat in the chair directly opposite the one usually occupied by her husband in life. The daughters have frequently found her thus seated asleep, with a lamp burning upon the parlor table.

On Monday night Emma, the younger of the girls, was awakened by hearing a loud crash in the parlor, and a noise as of some person or persons running from the front yard. On going to the parlor they found their mother seated as usual, fast asleep in her chair, the lamp burning upon the table and the front window wide open.

A closer examination disclosed a man's hat and several burglar's tools, and from the appearance of the sideboard and bureau it was plainly evident that thieves must have been at work when the sleep-walker glided into the room. She must have caused quite a stampede, for the thieves did not stop to pick up their tools or their booty. They evidently supposed the apparition something supernatural, and left their night's work for others to finish. From footprints in the snow, there appear to have been two persons in the house. Mrs. Newmeyer was escorted to her room without trouble, and feels very nervous lest she should again fall into danger.

—How conscience doth make cowards of the saloon keepers, was exemplified the other day, when the girls from one of the schools in Pittsburgh went out for a walk, going along two by two, when, turning into a street on which saloons do much abound, all at once there was a clatter as of a feu-de-joie of small arms, caused by the sudden clapping of the window-shutters of all the saloons. The supposition was that the woman temperance movement was inaugurated, and in five minutes not a saloon but was closed and ready for prayer and praise. When the innocent girls had passed by, the saloon-keepers, one by one peeped out to survey the situation, and confidence was restored, the blinds were opened, the doors unlocked, and the traffic went on.

SPLENDID AND UNPARALLELED

TRIUMPHS

—OF THE—

WHEELER & WILSON

Sewing Machine Co.,

NEW YORK.

OVER EIGHTY-ONE COMPETITORS,

—AT THE—

WORLD'S EXPOSITION, VIENNA, 1873, &c.

1. The Knight's Cross of the Imperial Order of "Francis Joseph," conferred by his Apostolic Majesty the Emperor of Austria, upon the Honorable Nathaniel Wheeler, President of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Company, as the founder and builder of Sewing Machine industry.
2. The Grand Diploma of Honor, recommended by the International Jury for this Sewing Machine Company, for their important contributions to the material and social welfare of mankind.
3. The Grand Medal for Progress, awarded for their New No. 6 Sewing Machine, being for progress made since the Paris Exposition of 1867, at which the only Gold Medal for Sewing Machines was awarded to this Company. Hence the Vienna awarded marks Progress not from a low, level, or inferior medal, but from a Gold Medal, the highest award made at Paris.
4. The Grand Medal for Merit, for the development of Needle Industry and excellence and superiority of manufactured samples exhibited.
5. A Grand Medal for Merit, for excellence and superiority of Cabinet work, the only award of the kind in this section.
6. Medals for several Co-operators, of the Wheeler & Wilson Company, for superior ability.
7. The Official Report, published by the General Direction of the Vienna Exposition, signalizes the supremacy of the Wheeler & Wilson Company for quantity and quality of manufacture, and position in the Sewing Machine business, as follows:

OFFICIAL REPORT, VIENNA EXPOSITION SEWING MACHINES, &c.

(GROUP 13, SEC. 2, B.)

"The greatest Sewing Machine Manufactory in the world is that of Wheeler and Wilson, New York, which alone has brought already over 900,000 of their Sewing Machines into practical use. The complete production of the parts by machinery is so regulated that each complete machine may be used as a sample for exhibition. This firm produces 600 well adjusted machines daily."

"The latest production of this firm, and which is the wonder of the Vienna Exposition, is their new No. 6 Sewing Machine. This universal machine sews the heaviest leather harness and the finest gauzes with a true pearl stitch."

"Wheeler & Wilson have received the highest prize at all World's Expositions, and at the Vienna Exposition were extraordinarily distinguished."

FURTHER DISTINGUISHED HONORS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15, 1873.

THE GRAND MEDAL OF HONOR

—OF THE—

AMERICAN INSTITUTE, NEW YORK,

Was unanimously recommended by the judges of Sewing Machines for

WHEELER & WILSON'S

NEW NO. 6 SEWING MACHINE,

of being "a decided improvement over all other machines in the market," and which "most revolutionize certain branches of industry, especially in Shoe and Harness Manufacturing."

BALTIMORE, Md., October 31, 1873.

"THE MARYLAND INSTITUTE has awarded WHEELER & WILSON the Grand Medal for their New No. 6 Sewing Machine. Other Sewing Machines received nothing."

SAVANNAH, November 4, 1873.

"At the GEORGIA STATE FAIR, a SILVER MEDAL, the highest and only premium for Leather Stitching, was awarded to WHEELER & WILSON for samples done on their New No. 6 Sewing Machines."

☞ There will be no deviation from the above prices.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money-Order on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes, since, should the Order or Draft be lost or stolen, it can be renewed without loss to the sender.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

Subscribers in Canada will add to the terms of subscription 20 cents per year, for pre-payment of American postage.

POST-OFFICE ADDRESS.—Subscribers should not fail to write legibly their Post-Office and Name of State.

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. Two volumes will publish two volumes a year.

Patrons of the BANNER when renewing their subscriptions should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed; and the same care should be exercised when a change of location is desired.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, and for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the system, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which cut into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
WILLIAM PAYNE

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind, and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured a wide a reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long-continued series of marvellous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and gives a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well-founded, if taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attack.

'73 REUNION.

THE "HISTORY OF THE RETURN OF THE SONS & DAUGHTERS OF PORTSMOUTH, JULY, 1873," is just published. It contains 96 pages, octavo, and is a thorough detail of everything relating to the three Festal Days,

The Reunion, July 4th,
High School Reunion, 5th,
The Praise Meeting, 6th;

and containing a

Verbatim Report

of every speech that was uttered at the Tent on the 4th and 5th, besides giving a full report of all the Reunion preliminary movements in Portsmouth, Boston and New York. Much of the matter of this work has never yet appeared in any form, and we think it will prove interesting to all who participated in the Three Days' Jubilee.

The work is for sale at the Chronicle Office, J. H. Foster's Bookstore, and at Wm. R. Preston's.

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find in this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

BEHOLD!
WILSON'S
SUPERPHOSPHATE
At Auction!
My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain, through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.
Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
NO. 75 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protoxide Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Rumors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

A Rich Man's Rights.

[Golden Age.]

A rich man has the right of distributing his gifts when and where he thinks best, without let or hindrance. The fact that he is generously disposed ought not to turn all pauperdom loose at his heels. He ought to be let generously alone, to dispose of his wealth according to his own impulse and reason. This incessant beggary dams many a stream which, otherwise, might flow in perennial beneficence. Rich men are exposed to unusual perils. They are hated by one class, and envied by another. They are dogged by pickpockets, besieged with spies, in constant danger of being robbed, and perhaps murdered for their money. Every sharper tries to outwit them. Every swindler has his peck at them. Every adventurer tries his game upon them. Every speculator attempts to lasso them with his stocks or bonds. Society seems to have entered into a conspiracy to defraud them, and if they run the gauntlet of the street and the exchange, their bank may break in a panic, or their cashier prove a defaulter and run away. People condemn them for clinging so tenaciously to their money; but were it not for their tenacious clinging they would have nothing left.

On the other hand, every fool fawns on them, every adventurer praises and uses them. Every man with an axe to grind is their most humble servant and follower, if they will but just consent to serve as stone to give his instrument an edge. Every folly tempts them to purchase, and every vice puts on its fairest face to win their favor. Office is theirs if they will stoop to buy it, and if they cannot buy one legislature they can elect another. The moral perils of wealth at a time like this, when everything on earth is in the market, and can be had for a price, are incalculably great, and it is not surprising that so many rich men succumb to some of them, and grow arrogant, or tyrannical, luxurious, or vicious, or avariciously insane. When it is remembered how much latent indulgence, vicious oppression, crime, there is packed up in $1,000,000,—how much mischief its owner might do,—what a walking pestilence he might become,—it is a matter of great surprise that, as a class, our rich men are so moral, upright, and humane. It is easy for a poor man to think what he would do with a great fortune. But were the fortune to come without the training acquired by the getting of it, it is a question whether it would not injure more than it would benefit him, and whether he would not do more harm with it than good. A sudden gust of fortune is more dangerous than the steady head-wind most men have to butt against all their lives. Silver will sink a ship as quickly as stone, only pour in enough of it.

Every rich man has a right to his manhood. He ought to be left to enjoy that rich privilege. He has burdens enough to carry without being forced to feel every moment that he is merely a live money-bag, or a walking bank-book. He ought not to be insulted by having his wealth thrown continually in his face, as though money were more and better than manhood, and while other men are respected for character he is endured for his cash. He ought to be treated with a compliment of splendid expectations, as though he were capable of generosity, and conspiring for public weal. The more he is made to feel his simple manhood, and his relationship to mankind, and judged by the common standards of morality, and honored for what he is, and applauded for what he does for men and for truth, the better for him and for everybody.

Woman's Temper.

[Christain at Work.]

There are men who suppose they have all the annoyances. They say it is the store that ruffles the disposition, but if they could only stay at home with their wives, and sisters, and daughters, they would be, all the time, sweet and fair as a white pondlily. Let some of the masculine lecturers on placidity of temper, try for one week the cares of the household and the family. Let the man sleep with a baby on one arm all night and one ear open to children with the whooping-cough in the adjoining apartment. Let him see the tray of crockery and the cook fall down stairs, and nothing saved but the pieces. Let the pump give out on a wash-day, and the stove-pipe, when too hot for handling, get dislocated. Let the pudding come out of the stove stiff as a poker. Let the gossiping gabbler of next door come in and tell all the disagreeable things that neighbors have been saying. Let the lungs be wore out, by staying indoors without fresh air, and the needle be exhausted. We think Mary of Bethany a little to blame for not helping Martha get the dinner. If women sympathize with men in the troubles of store and field, let the men sympathize with the women in the troubles of house-keeping. Many a housewife has died of her annoyances.

Mice in Orchards.

In this section last winter many of the young orchards suffered from the depredations of mice. These pests attacked young trees, frequently girdling them, and in many cases stripping the entire trunk of bark, in which case the tree was lost. Although when a tree is merely girdled, it may be saved by a skillful operator, using scions of the tree to connect the lower and upper sections of bark (from four to six should be used); yet the tree is in a mutilated condition. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." The reason why mice infest young orchards is the fact that the surface is only too often overgrown with weeds. Since this is the case the remedy is obvious,—keep the orchard clean. Weeds, grass, straw, or any sort of litter attracts mice, and if they have a place to winter, young trees furnish their means of subsistence. In autumn, gather a little earth around the roots of each tree and tramp it hard! mice will be apt to avoid them in winter. It is a good plan to trample the snow around each tree in winter; mice never injuring a tree above the surface of the snow.

Then and Now.

In 1854, when the abbolitionist Charles Sumner was elected to the United States Senate by a coalition of democrats and free soilers after a three months' struggle in the Massachusetts Legislature, the newspapers of Boston of all parties were as bitterly unanimous in denouncing the now peerless Sumner and his friends for the defeat of Robert C. Winthrop, as they have of late been towards General Butler. One outlived the assault; perhaps the other may.

The Election.

The latest returns elect 169 republicans and 177 democrats to the House. Four republicans and four democrats are chosen to the Senate, viz; Dr. J. F. Hall, 1st district, 95 majority; Todd, 4th district, 96 majority; Abbott, 9th district, 250 majority; Stowell, 10th district, 6 majority;—republicans; Chandler, 3d district, 57 majority; Sanborn, 6th district, 200 majority; Daniell, 11th district, 500 majority; Parker, 12th district, 1400 majority;—democrats. There is no choice in the other four districts, Priest, democrat, lacking 80 votes of a majority in the 2d; Wallace, republican, lacking 80 in the 5th; Burns, republican, lacking 41 in the 7th; and Gove, democrat, lacking 47 in the 8th. Only two of the five Councillors are elected, Lovell, republican, in the 4th district, by about 100 majority, and Perkins, democrat, in the 5th, by 900. Stevens, republican, lacks 300, in the 1st; Scott, republican, 300 in the 3d; and Moulton, democrat, in the 2d, about 150.

The vote of Newmarket for Senator was as follows: Dr. J. F. Hall 148, Lafayette Hall 354, A. C. Hardy 16.

The Boston Advertiser recommends Judge Hoar for U. S. Senator, vice Charles Sumner. That settles Hoar's chances with the present legislature.

President Grant and Cabinet attended the funeral services of the late Senator Sumner at Washington on Friday. The body was embalmed. The funeral took place at Boston, Saturday.

Hon. George A. Carter, republican, was chosen Mayor of Saco on Friday, over Judge Tapley, by 50 plurality. His majority was 32.

The Powers-Cary libel suit in Houlton, Me., has resulted in a verdict for Powers. Damages assessed, $5508.

John A. Fay, the bigamistic city marshal of Taunton, Mass., has resigned his position to avoid the unpleasantness his exposure would have occasioned.

King, the murderer of O'Neil in New York, has been sentenced to imprisonment for life in the State prison. The majority of the jury were in favor of a verdict of murder in the first degree. Three or four were for a degree which did not include hanging. The jury was out twenty-seven hours. King is to apply for a new trial.

Victoria Woodhull & Co. have been found "not guilty "on a charge of libel, in the Challis case. The judge before whom the case was tried said the verdict was one of the most outrageous he ever heard.

State News.

The Union meat market building at Salmon Falls, was discovered to be on fire about three o'clock Thursday morning, and was damaged to the amount of about $600; insured. A faithful dog perished in the flames. The fire was the work of an incendiary and the object robbery, as the counting-room was ransacked and papers scattered over the floor. The meat was badly damaged, but there was but a small quantity in the building. The building was recently erected by a stock company.

Hon. E. H. Rollins has been re-elected Secretary and Treasurer of the Union Pacific Railroad Company.

A Sad Suicide.

The four o'clock train from Boston, on the Boston and Lowell Railroad, on Thursday afternoon ran over a man named Neil McLeod, near the chemical works in Woburn, and an inquest was held at one o'clock. The engineer and conductor noticed a jolting of the cars, stopped the train and sent a man back to see what the trouble was. On the person of McLeod was found the following memorandum, which shows that he committed sucide: "Neil McLeod is my name. My age is thirty-four years. I die because I cannot see my dear love. For her my heart is bursting, seeing I have no money to go and see her, and no one to give me work. So my dear, dear, love, good bye forever, amen." He also wrote asking that information of his death be sent to Mrs. Catharine Dell of West Quincy, and that Leod McLeod would write to Catharine McLeod, Nova Scotia. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by suicide, and exonorated the company from blame.

A Female Official.

A year ago last January, a Miss Mary E. Johnson was made matron of the female prison at Sing Sing, New York. On the 26th of last January an order was given by the Inspectors to Warden Hubbell to send all children over twelve months old to the poor house. Once before an attempt was made to carry out such an order, and the tearing away of infants from their mother's arms made so much noise that the officials were compelled to restore them. Warden Hubbell looked at the Act of the Legislature and found that it says, that the Agent and Warden may send such children to the poor house, but it is left discretionary with him. Mr. Hubbell thought that such a change would be impolitic. He was also puzzled at the sudden action of the Inspectors, but he soon ascertained that it was all Miss Johnson's work. He wrote a note to her and recived a reply substantially that it was none of his business—as the Inspectors, his superiors, had made the order. Mr. Hubbell said nothing more until the February meeting of the Inspectors. He then called the board's attention to the order, and said that he did not approve it, and thought it would be cruel to tear the nursing babes from their mothers. The Inspectors said that they would leave it with him (the Warden) and Mr. Graves, the Inspector in charge.

And there the matter stood at last accounts, though Miss Johnson had planned clandestinely to send away an infant just twelve months old; the warden found her out and prevented her.

A reporter called on Miss Johnson to talk with her over the matter, and here is a portion of the interview as reported. We omit the introductory questions and answers.

Matron—Well, I am in charge of this place, and it doesn't concern any one what my reasons are.

Reporter—It concerns the public.

Matron—I am accountable to the Inspectors.

Reporter—You are accountable to the public; so are the Inspectors, and the public demand an explanation of this extraordinary order.

Matron—The children are taught to pick pockets!

Reporter—What! nursing infants taught to pick pockets?

Matron—Well, there was a little boy here who tried to pick a visitor's pocket.

Reporter—The Warden tells me that children are sent away after they are four years old to the friends of the convict, if they have any; if not, they are sent to institutions where they are educated and made useful. It is not that class I speak of. What have you to say about sending nursing babes to the poor house?

Matron—It is the Inspectors' orders—that is all.

Reporter—Then you have no reason?

Matron—It's the law.

A pleasant official is that same Miss Johnson, and a splendid subordinate officer. She isn't accountable to Tom, Dick, or Harry, and rules by right divine.

A Righteous Judgment.

Last week a yough German girl named Amelia Donnerschlag, having a trustful confidence in the laws of our country, especially as expounded by Banyon, went before that Justice and began a suit for $200 against Augustus Behrens for breach of promise. She would have sued for more, but $200 is the limit of the jurisdiction of a Justice, and that is the reason why she stopped at that figure, not but what she esteemed her lover to be worth a much higher sum. A warrant was issued and the case came up yesterday. All the parties were in attendance.

The complainant stated that she had known the defendant in Germany, and had been engaged to him there. He had emigrated to this country in order to earn a home, and she had followed him in the course of a year. Soon after her arrival, finding him in good circumstances, she pressed him to fulfill his promise, but he refused to do so. Hence the suit.

The Justice asked the young man if he had anything to say in his behalf and he stated he had.

Mr. Behrens—As the young lady says, your Honor, I was engaged to her in Germany, where she was living with her father. I came to Chicago and boarded at the house of her sister and mother, who were living on Division street, and I lived with them for nine months. During that nine months I had many opportunities to watch the ways of this young lady's mother, and I was not pleased with them at all.

At this point the brow of the Justice unbent. His manner, which had been particularly gloomy, began to change, and he looked with something of friendliness upon Mr. Behrens.

"Excuse me," said the Judge, "I should like to ask you a few questions: Did this woman say that she intended to live with you after you were married? Did she inform you that she was ready to take all the care of the household off your hands? Did she ask you to let her save up your money? Did she say that she could take care of it a great deal better than you could?"

"Yes," said Mr. Behrens.

"Go on," said the Judge.

Mr. Behrens—When this young lady came over here from Germany she did ask me to marry her and I was ready to and I told her I was. But she said that her mother must live with us and keep house for us. I told her I had watched the ways of her mother, and that I was not pleased with them; that I loved her very deeply and was ready to marry her, but did not wish to marry her mother also, who was a woman of lordly and unpleasant habits, and insisted upon feeding me too much on cabbage, a vegetable I have always had a dislike for. I am ready, your Honor, to marry her now, providing that she will leave her mother out in the cold; but I will not marry the old woman, I have made up my mind to that, no matter what comes.

The Justice—Now let me ask you, my young friend, which would you rather do, pay down $200, or marry the young laly and have her mother live with you?

Mr. Behrens (firmly)—I will pay the $200.

The Justice—Allow me to shake hands with you. I envy your firmness. There was a period in the life of this Court, Mr. Behrens, when it was placed in circumstances somewhat similar to your own. If it had had the moral courage which you possess, it would have saved about twenty-five years of misery and unhappiness. The alternative was presented to this Court whether it would marry a young lady and her mother, or whether it would pay $125 in gold. This Court was poor at the time. It was earning an unsatisfactory living at the restaurant business. It yielded. It took the young woman and the mother-in-law, and kept the $125. For a quarter of a century this Court regretted its hasty action. It is glad to meet a man who cherishes happiness more than he does money. The order of the Court is that the defendant stands discharged and the complainant, who has been trying to bring a man into slavery to a mother-in-law, be fined $10 and costs.

Going West.

[Eureka Sentinel.]

Yesterday we were interviewed by a young man who seemed to have had his share of trouble and misfortunes in the world. Six months ago he left a good situation in the State of Delaware, and, taking Greeley's advice, started West. Arriving at Crestline, Ohio, he had his pockets picked of a fine gold watch and $200 in greenbacks. Left without money he telegraphed home for assistance, which he received in a few days and again started on his journey. He got as far as Council Bluffs and started to walk across the railroad-bridge which spans the Missouri at that point; half way over he heard a rumbling behind him, and, on looking back, saw a train of cars in his rear. To run forward was impossible; to retreat, sudden death, and, in his excitement, while climbing over the outside rail of the bridge he fell into the river. He was rescued, more dead than alive, by an old negro, who put out from the shore in a small boat to his assistance. The next day he continued going out West, arriving at Ogden minus his trunks, hat, etc. One night at the Junction was sufficient for him, and westward he went. On the road he met with a "greeny" from the cow counties, who wanted the young man to go to his place to work—an offer which was thankfully accepted. Hardly had he found his new acquaintance when a third party commenced manipulating some cards. He was soon surrounded by a crowd, among them our young man, who took a great interest in the game; in fact so great was his interest that he soon found that he was minus about $230 (all he had) in trying to catch the deuce of hearts, which, with two other cards, the dealer was carelessly throwing around on a blanket. He thinks he has seen enough of the West, and arrived here yesterday morning on his road to Pioche, intending to go to the San Juan mines.

Coughing Down a Legislator.

The Columbia correspondent of the Charlestown (N. C.) News describes a recent scene in the South Carolina House of Representatives as follows: "The House was at this time in great confusion. Holmes, of Colleton, called upon the chair for the yeas and nays, but the call was not recognized by the speaker until the vote had been announced, whereupon Holmes arose to a question of privilege, which was overruled. Holmes, however, insisted upon his question, and began to make a speech. It was then that a most ridiculous scene ensued. While the member for Colleton was going ahead slowly with his question of privilege his brother members seemed to be suddenly seized with a species of epizootic or chronic influenza. It was evidently a deliberate, premeditated design to cough the member down, and taking in the situation at a glance he became proportionally wrathy. He first called upon the Speaker to protect him, to which the Speaker replied that the gas was probably escaping. This made the member more wrathy, and he threw out the 'inuendo' that some of the members were choking with one of Joe Woodruff's $250,000 pills. Mackey appealed to the Speaker to send for a physician. But the coughing continued, until the member from Colleton began to realize that his brother members were not disposed to hear him, whereupon he gracefully took his seat, and the symptoms of epizootic disappeared.

The Eucalyptus.

Not long ago a paper on the Eucalyptus tree was read before the French Academy of Sciences, the purpose of the author being to show that malarious districts could be made salubrious by the culture of this vegetable giant, which is popularly known as the Australian gum tree. It was shown that the Eucalyptus grows very rapidly, absorbing an enormous amount of moisture, and experiments made in Algiers and the West Indies appeared to leave no room for doubt as to the sanitary value of groves of these trees. And now a California newspaper assures its readers that the Eucalyptus is well adapted to the climate of that State, and that it is destined to prove an almost inestimable blessing to the inhabitants of poorly timbered districts. About four years ago General Stratton, the surveyor-general of California, planted two large groves of these trees near the town of Hayward, covering in all about one hundred and fifty acres, and to-day he is the owner of 130,000 trees, big and little, some of them measuring fifty feet in height and a foot in diameter.

When the surveyor-general was setting them out, the people of the neighborhood laughed at the notion of his living long enough to derive any benefit from his expenditure, but the timber is exceedingly valuable now for firewood, and in five years more logs upwards of two feet in diameter can be got out for manufacturing purposes. When seasoned the wood resembles hickory, being very hard and solid, and when used for fuel it gives out a heat almost equal to coal, and deposits a cinder that will keep hot an extraordinarily long time. At a time when the energies of the agricultural portion of the people are too generally devoted to the destruction of "the forest primeval," this attempt to grow trees where nature has withheld them deserves the imitation of land-owners and the attention of everybody.

—A "fashionable" christening party in New York was postponed last week in consequence of the non-arrival of a steamer from Europe having on board the lace dress (made to order,) in which the baby was to have appeared. The clergyman engaged was disgusted.

—An honest deacon in a Connecticut parish—his name was not Richard Smith—was sorely troubled about the Copernicus system of the universe. He believed it to be unscriptural and untrue, and he carried his doubts to his minister. The latter being in his own estimation a scientific man, and also a believer in Copernicus, said the sun was a stationary body, not revolving, as the deacon maintained, around the earth. But the latter pointed with an air of triumph to the story of Joshua when he commanded the "sun to stand still." "Very well," said the minister, "show me, if you can, the passage of scripture where it said Joshua ever commanded the sun to move again."

The Sinking Saved.

The combination of tonic, alterative and stimulating properties in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, especially adapts that famous specific to the cure of chronic forms of disease, when the strong influence of a long protracted morbid habit is to be surmounted. In chronic dyspepsia, and liver complaint, and in chronic constipation and other obstinate diseases, it is beyond all comparison the best remedy that can be taken. As a means of restoring the strength and vital energy of persons who are sinking under the debilitating effects of painful disorders, this standard vegetable invigorant is confessedly unequalled. The permanent tonics included in the preparation are associated with a diffusible stimulant absolutely pure, and the tendency of these elements is modified by the presence of alterative ingredients slower in their operation and capable of producing more lasting local and general effects. For feeble convalescents and in all phases of debility, it is the best as well as the most agreeable of restoratives.

"Happiness, is the absence of pain," says Jean Paul Richter, and 29,000 grateful patients bless the ANAKESIS of DR. SILSBEE as the only infallible cure for PILES ever discovered. It is purely scientific combining the best method of the French, English and American surgeons, acting as an instrument, politice and medicine, and not only affording instant relief from excruciating pain, but performing an absolute and permanent cure. All doctors approve it.—Price $1. Sold by druggists everywhere. Depot, Walker st., New York.

To Dr. Heimbold's Patients. The celebrated Extract Buchu, of which Dr. Helmbold was the originator, is still performing wonderful cures of obscure diseases of the urinary organs, restoring shattered constitutions, and overcoming debility and diseases arising from imprudence and excess. This great diuretic never fails. Patients should be particular to get the genuine, which bears the doctor's signature. All druggists sell it.

My friend, stop that terrible cough, and thus avoid a consumptive's grave by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For curing all throat, bronchial and lung diseases it has never been equaled. Sold by Druggists. 713

NONE but a physician knows how much a reliable alterative is needed by the people. In all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cures.—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the peculiar virtues they claim. In this state of the case, DR. J. C. AYER & CO., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other kindred preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

Local Matters.

Accident.

Mr. Clarence B. Mason purchased a new axe on Friday, and used it for the first time next day. The first blow he struck with it was in endeavoring to split a stick of wood, using both hands in wielding the axe. As it descended, Mr. Mason's foot slipped on the ice, and in falling his left hand went under the axe and the thumb was severed from it below the middle joint. The thumb was replaced and bound on, and Mr. Mason is anxiously waiting to see if it will stick. A few years ago he chopped off a part of the fore-finger of his right hand.

A Look Ahead.

The democratic civil engineers in this city are already mustering their theodolites and things, and girding up their loins preparatory to running a lot of the crookedest ward-boundary lines which political science can produce. We hear that the city is to be divided into five wards; and the demos think their engineers skilful enough to make the division so judiciously that in any future election the republicans will have to throw at least a thousand more votes than their opponents to carry the city,—six hundred majority on the Mayor vote won't give the republicans a ghost of a chance to carry the Councils. Whether or no our democratic friends can do so well as that, we cannot say; but we have no doubt they will do the very best they possibly can, — and if they find they can't make their boundaries zigzag enough to answer their purpose we advise them to call in the assistance of the leading local prohibitionists, who have shown themselves unapproachable at finding out devious ways. And as the democrats and prohibitionists are hand-in-hand on the question of license vs. prohibition, we see no reason why they should not join their forces in the soon-to-be-popular game of "gerrymandering."

The redistricting of the city, as well as the State, is a natural sequence of the democratic victory, and we don't object to it in the least; probably it would make no great difference if we did. But while the democrats are overhauling the city's affairs for their partizan advantage, there is one thing they could as well as not do to the manifest advantage of the whole city, and without in the least interfering with their party schemes; we allude to the abolition of the useless Common Council, and an increase in the number of aldermen. If the number of the faithful who desire honorary positions in the city government is too large to admit of any reduction in the number of city officials chosen, the membership of the Board of Alderman could be placed at twenty, or more; and as an alderman is a much heavier gun than a common councilman, such a change would be an absolute gain to the dominant party as well as a benefit to the tax-payers. We charge nothing for this suggestion, the old democratic maxim, "To the victors belong the spoils," precluding our getting anything this year.

Laconics.

About 800 men were discharged or suspended from the navy yard on Saturday. About 500 were discharged from the Portsmouth (Va.) yard and a large number from the Brooklyn yard.

Rear Admiral Joseph Lanman, U. S. N., formerly commandant of this naval station, died at his home in Norwich, Conn., on Friday, aged 63 years.

Rev. Carlos Martyn delivered an eloquent eulogy on Sumner Sunday afternoon in the North Church. We will not be so unjust to the scholarly speaker as to attempt to lay before our readers a synopsis of his remarks, because nothing short of a verbatim report would do him full justice. We cannot, however, forbear quoting one sentence of his, which, to say the least, has in it the merit of originality. Referring to the unsullied and unimpeachable integrity of the deceased Senator amid the stench of Washington corruption, he said that the city referred to was so filled with iniquity as to send up a moral odor strong enough to cause the man in the moon to hold his nose!

A Hot Brick.

[Max Adeler.]

Mrs. Battles suffers from cold feet, and the other night she warmed up a brick, intending to take it to bed with her. She laid it down by the bedside while she attended to the baby, and then she forgot about it and turned in. After awhile Battles came over to the room and when he had assumed his night shirt, he began to say his prayers. When he was about half way through he happened to move his knee a little to the left, and it came in contact with the hot brick. For an instant he thought something had stung him, and jumping up, he got the lamp and came back to ascertain what it was. He saw the brick lying there, but it never occurred to him that was the cause of the trouble, so he picked it up for the purpose of throwing it out of the window. Then he suddenly dropped it with a cry of pain, and after an indignant denunciation of Mrs. Battles, he procured a piece of paper, and in a furious rage hurled the brick through the window sash. It hit a policeman who happened to be standing on the pavement below, and in less than ten minutes Battles was on his way to the station-house, followed by a crowd of all night upon a charge of assault and battery. He was released in the morning after paying twenty dollars fine. He has not finished his prayers yet, and Mrs. Battles now warms her feet with a flannel petticoat.

—"It is true," remarked a pickpocket arrested in Rochester, "that I am a thief. But a legitimate thief, sir; for look you, I was searching that man's pockets for proof of frauds against the government."

—"What would our wives say if they knew where we are?" said the captain of a schooner when they were beating about in a deep fog, fearful of going ashore. "Humph, I shouldn't mind that," replied the mate, "if we only knew where we were ourselves."

—A novel law question has arisen in Ohio. The Mississippi River until recently has annually frozen over solid between Prairie du Chien and McGregor. The ice has furnished a winter highway from one side to the other during several months in the year, enabling the people to dispense with bridge and ferries. Recently the Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad has built a pile bridge across the river, the effect of which, it is asserted, has been, by creating eddies and changing the current, to wholly prevent the formation of ice, so that the stream below the structure remains permanently open. The river, it is claimed, is a public highway at all seasons, as much one way as another, and the use of the ice-bridge is a right of which the public cannot be divested by any authority. It is assumed that suits for damages would lie, and that the railroad bridge is liable to be indicted and ordered removed as a nuisance and obstruction to trade and intercourse between States.

—A canine war is being fiercely fought in St. Louis. It was only a day or two ago that a lady from Pittsburg, Pa., was proceeding quietly down Fourth street, in that city, leading a quiet yellow cur by a string, when the dog-catchers and the dog catchers' cart came rattling round the corner. The catchers caught sight of the yellow cur dog, and knowing from his appearance and that of his mistress that they were strangers, and that the yellow cur was unprovided with a license, jumped off the wagon and went for him. In the twinkling of an eye they had a wire lasso round his neck, and the wire proving stronger than the cord to which the lady clung, the dog and cord quickly reached the wagon and were thrown in. The trap was shut with a slam, and the catchers, jumping on the wagon, started rapidly away. The lady, however, gave chase, and by her screams and gesticulations attracted a large crowd, who stopped the wagon, and but for the arrival of several policemen would probably have attempted a rescue. Under cover of the blue coats, however, the dog-catchers beat a retreat, and the yellow dog from Pittsburg is doubtless now enjoying the hospitalities of the city, with a fair prospect of execution within three days. The lady declared, with considerable energy, that she did not bring that dog all the way from Pittsburg to be robbed of him, but the result proved that she was mistaken.

The Grand Union Hotel, New York,

Situated opposite the Grand Central Depot on Park (4th) avenue, 41st and 42d streets, stands as one of the finest commercial and family hotels in the country; it is new and first-class in all its appointments. It contains over 350 elaborately furnished apartments, in suites or single. The carpets are of the finest Wilton velvets and English Brussels and Axminster. All heated to a degree of perfect comfort by steam power. Each room contains everything in the shape of modern improvements. It is destined to do an enormous business, as passengers from all parts of the country, arriving at the Grand Central Depot, can save time and annoyance by taking up their abode at the Grand Union Hotel. The expense alone of hiring a carriage is as much as it will cost for one night's lodging, and this fact must be appreciated by commercial travelers and others visiting the metropolis. Baggage will be delivered in the various rooms in fifteen minutes after the arrival of trains, free of charge. There are two large restaurants, containing the best the market affords, at rates current with the times. There is also a lunch counter, billiard room and bar. There is in addition a first-class barber shop, bathing room, gentlemen's furnishing store, tailoring establishment and Turkish baths attached to the building. Also a ladies' toilet room, with all appliances, coat room, etc. The parlors of the house are manifest of comfort, convenience and elegance. From the cellars to the top floor the halls, corridors and rooms are fitted up with a neatness and luxury that are seldom found in many of our chief hotels. The waiters and clerks are efficient, attentive and gentlemanly in demeanor, and this is an element of hotel life that is far from general.

The structure occupies a commanding position and presents an imposing exterior. It is unquestionably in an architectural point an ornament to the location in which it stands, and he must be blind indeed who fails to acknowledge its beauty of design upon visiting the neighborhood. The chief convenience for the traveling public lies in its being but one minute's walk from all the trains having their terminus at the Grand Central Depot. The Grand Central Depot being located in the most fashionable part of New York City and surrounded by first-class dwellings and improvements, only one block from 5th and Madison avenues, makes this hotel very desirable for families to locate, as well also for the traveling and commercial public. The Grand Union Hotel has been erected and furnished by Mr. James B. Shaw, the owner, at a cost of $900,000, with the intention of making it equal to any hotel in the City. The management of the hotel has been placed in the hands of Messrs. G. F. & W. D. Garrison, gentlemen whose experience, urbanity, kindness and business ability are as well established as is the reputation of their "Highland House," a charming Summer resort at "Garrison's," opposite West Point, occupying a high, picturesque and healthful locality amid the Highlands of the Hudson, fifty miles from New York. The popularity of the Messrs. Garrison cannot fail to commend the Grand Union to their countless friends, and the public generally are rapidly learning that no hotel in New York offers superior attractions, either for transient guests or permanent residents.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

Old Time Chronicles, No. 108.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

The revolutionary war had not commenced, but opposition to the tax on the colonies by England was the cause of sending over a few regiments of soldiers in 1768 which were quartered in Boston. This was the cause of much bad feeling and indignation on the part of the people. They hated both the home government and the soldiers, as it was seen that efforts were being made to awe them into submission. But about a year and a half passed without any outbreak. It came, however. It was on the evening of March 5, 1770. A crowd of men and boys used insulting language to a guard of soldiers in King (now State) street. The militia fired into those present, killing three and wounding several others.

A somewhat lengthy article published in the Boston Gazette and Country Journal in its next issue after the affair, is now at hand. From it we learn that clubs were used by some persons, and the soldiers pricked with their bayonets, before the slaughter. The names of these killed are given; Samuel Gray, killed on the spot, a ball entering his head and beating off a portion of his skull; James Caldwell, killed by two balls entering his back; Crispus Mattocks, killed by two balls entering his breast, one of them going through the right lobe of his lungs and tearing away part of his liver.

These three died in a few minutes. The same paper states that Samuel Maverick, aged 17, received a ball in the belly, which was cut out at his back, and he died the next morning; Christopher Mark, wounded, it was supposed would die; John Clark, Edward Payne, John Green, Patrick Carr and David Parker, wounded.

The results then were three killed, and mortally wounded, six others wounded. This was called the "Boston Massacre" and took place 104 years ago.

This was the first bloodshed preliminary to the Revolution. Five years passed, and the next blood spilled was in the Revolution proper, at Lexington, Mass., April 19, 1775.

—The Swede, Johnson, imprisoned at New Haven on the charge of murdering Mrs. Hess of Meriden, has won not a little sympathy by writing very fair verses of a melancholy and touching spirit, which the New Haven Palladium has published from time to time, with the comment that they showed unusual ability, considering their source. Recently one of these poems, beginning "If we knew the cares and crosses," was printed, and read very smoothly. It has been discovered that Johnson cribbed the whole thing from the Baptist Weekly. Sympathy with him will probably wax fainter.

SPLENDID AND UNPARALLELED TRIUMPHS

—OF THE—

WHEELER & WILSON Sewing Machine Co.,

NEW YORK.

OVER EIGHTY-ONE COMPETITORS,

—AT THE—

WORLD'S EXPOSITION, VIENNA, 1873, &c.

1. The Knight's Cross of the Imperial Order of "Francis Joseph," conferred by his Apostolic Majesty the Emperor of Austria, upon the Honorable Nathaniel Wheeler, President of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Company, as the founder and builder of Sewing Machine industry.
2. The Grand Diploma of Honor, recommended by the International Jury for this Sewing Machine Company only, for their important contribution to the material and social welfare of mankind.
3. The Grand Medal for Progress, awarded for their New No. 6 sewing Machine, being for progress made since the Paris Exposition of 1867, at which the only Gold Medal for Sewing Machines was awarded to this Company. Hence the Vienna awarded marks Progress not from a low, level, or inferior medal, but from a Gold Medal, the highest award made at Paris.
4. The Grand Medal for Merit, for the development of Needle Industry and excellence and superiority of manufactured samples exhibited.
5. A Grand Medal for Merit, for excellence and superiority of Cabinet work, the only award of the kind in this section.
6. Medals for several Co-operators, of the Wheeler & Wilson Company, for superior ability.
7. The Official Report, published by the General Directors of the Vienna Exposition, signifies the supremacy of the Wheeler & Wilson Company for quantity and quality of manufacture, and position in the Sewing Machine industry, as follows:

OFFICIAL REPORT, VIENNA EXPOSITION SEWING MACHINES, &c.

(GROUP 13, SEC. 2, R.)

"The greatest Sewing Machine Manufactory in the world is that of Wheeler and Wilson, New York, which alone has brought already over $60,000 of their Sewing Machines into practical use. The complete production of the parts by machinery is so regulated that each complete machine may be used as a sample for exhibition. This firm produces 600 well adjusted machines daily."

"The latest production of this firm, and which is the wonder of the Vienna Exposition, is their new No. 6 Sewing Machine. This universal machine sews the heaviest leather harness and the finest gauzes with a truly pearl stitch."

"Wheeler & Wilson have received the highest prizes at all World's Expositions, and at the Vienna Exposition were extraordinarily distinguished."

FURTHER DISTINGUISHED HONORS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15, 1873.

THE GRAND MEDAL OF HONOR

—OF THE—

AMERICAN INSTITUTE, NEW YORK,

Was unanimously recommended by the judges of Sewing Machines for

WHEELER & WILSON'S

NEW NO. 6 SEWING MACHINE,

of being "a decided improvement over all other machines in the market," and which "must revolutionize certain branches of industry, especially in Shoe and Harness Manufacturing."

BALTIMORE, Md., October 21, 1873.

"The MARYLAND INSTITUTE has awarded WHEELER & WILSON the GOLD MEDAL for their New No. 6 Sewing Machine. Other Sewing Machines received nothing."

SAVANNAH, November 4, 1873.

"At the GEORGIA STATE FAIR, a SILVER MEDAL, the highest and only premium for Leather Stitching, was awarded to WHEELER & WILSON for samples done on their New No. 6 Sewing Machines."

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. Two volumes annually commence.

Patrons of the BANNER when renewing their subscriptions should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed; and the same course should be exercised when a change of location is desired.

☞ ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

IF VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, and many years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can justly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and sluggish, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced using it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as soon as VEGETINE began to cure the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,

WILLIAM PAYNE

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind, and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured a wide a reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long-continued series of marvellous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well-founded, if taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

'73 REUNION.

THE "HISTORY OF THE RETURN OF THE SONS & DAUGHTERS OF PORTSMOUTH, JULY, 1873," is just published. It contains 96 pages, octavo, and is a thorough detail of everything relating to the three Festal Days,

The Reunion, July 4th,
High School Reunion, 5th,
The Praise Meeting, 6th;

and containing a

Verbatim Report

of every speech that was uttered at the Tent on the 4th and 5th, besides giving a full report of all the Reunion preliminary movements in Portsmouth, Boston and New York. Much of the matter of this work has never yet appeared in any form, and we think it will prove interesting to all who participated in the Three Days' Jubilee.

The work is for sale at the Chronicle Office, J. H. Foster's Bookstore, and at Wm. R. Preston's.

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signatures of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

BEHOLD!
WILSON'S
SUPERPHOSPHATE
At Auction!
My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have issue out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.
My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.
The only Fertilizer that has ever received a SILVER MEDAL from the R. I. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

IRON IN THE BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND RUMORS.
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes The Weak Strong,
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protoxide Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Horrid Miss Leigh.

AN ENGLISH STORY.

Tom Luttrel aged twenty-four, was a thoroughly good fellow, good-tempered, good-looking, and heir to a good property, but he had one sorrow—he was engaged to a girl he had never seen.

Some ten years before a dispute had arisen about a certain Hillington estate in Leicestershire, to which Mr. Luttrell—Tom's father—and a certain Carnworth Leigh both laid claim. Litigation seemed inevitable, and the legal fraternity began to prick up its ears, when one morning Mr. Luttrell received the following note:

"Dear Luttrell; You and I have been good friends all our lives, and there is no man living for whom I have a greater esteem than for yourself. Cannot we, then, settle this wretched business without troubling these infernal lawyers? My uncle, Haughton Leigh, had a suit that lasted him twenty years and killed him in the end. Now, listen to me; my daughter Nellie will have all I've got at my death, except Barnfield, which goes to Jack's boy. Why shouldn't she marry your boy Tom? Let the property alone for the next ten years; then Nellie will be eighteen and Tom four-and-twenty—if they like to marry then, well and good; if either should decline to carry out the arrangement, let the property go to the other. This is a rough idea of my plan, which Jackson, your lawyer, could soon put into shape. What do you say? Yours, &c., Carnworth Leigh, Barnfield."

To this proposition Mr. Luttrell agreed, and Tom found himself an engaged man at fourteen. Soon after this Mr. Leigh was obliged to leave England for his health; and for many years he resided entirely on the Continent. So it happened that Tom and his future bride never met.

About a month before the time fixed for his decision Tom betook himself to a small inn in the village of Settlebourn near Stockford, nominally to fish, but in reality to escape from his father's arguments, and to get a little time to himself, for quiet reflection, while he solaced his wretched soul with tobacco.

One day as he lay lazily smoking by the silver Beck, something fell from a high bank above him and dropped lightly on the water, while a girl's voice exclaimed;

"Oh my gracious, my hat!"

Tom looked and saw a very neat little hat floating, boatlike, down the stream.

"Bother the young woman," he grumbled, "I suppose now she'll expect me to fetch it!"

As he rose he looked up to the spot from which the voice had proceeded, and saw a girl whose beauty surprised him. She stood bareheaded on the bank, gazing with a look of comic dismay after the fast receding hat, and Tom had an opportunity of examining critically, from the little head, with its crisp brown hair, disordered by the wind, to the slim ankles which her position revealed as she stood above him.

Running some yards down the bank, he stepped out upon an old willow, which protruded over the stream, and waited in the hope that the current would bring the hat within his reach. He was not disappointed, and in a few minutes more he was again on terra firma with his prize.

"I must make friends with this young person," he thought, as he carefully dried the dripping feather with his handkerchief.

The fair stranger had watched his efforts from her elevated post, and smiled sweetly on him as he climbed the bank with his recovered treasure. She had evidently been sketching, for her materials were scattered in picturesque confusion around her.

"I hope it's not much damaged," said Tom, as he looked rather ruefully at the result of his manipulations. "I'm afraid the feather's in a bad way."

"Oh, it doesn't matter in the least. Thanks. How kind of you to take so much trouble. But for you I must have walked home bareheaded."

"I wouldn't put it on just yet," Tom said. "Let it lie in the sun a little, and dry while you go on with your work."

"But suppose it starts off again, when there's no one to recover it for me?" she suggested.

"Let me guard it then, and you can work in peace. You are sketching, I see; may I look?"

"Oh, yes, but it's a miserable failure, I'm afraid," she said laughing, as she handed it to him. Tom examined it, and, being a bit of an amateur himself, proceeded to criticise, and, finally, to instruct. He found this girl very charming; she seemed so delightfully free from all conventionality, without at all resembling his bete noir, the "fast girl."

They grew quite confidential as the lesson proceeded, and were amazed, when, on consulting their watches, they discovered that it was half past six.

"I must fly," she said, "or I shall be late for dinner, and Sir John can't stand that."

"Have you far to go?" asked Tom craftily.

"About a mile. I'm staying at Newlands. Good-by. No, I can carry them, thanks; I couldn't think of troubling you any more. Good-by," and she was off.

Tom went to his room, thinking a great deal about his new friend, wondering where the charms lay, which, even more than her beauty, had fascinated him. "Perhaps it's her dress," he thought; "she dresses better than any woman I ever saw; and then her boots!" Here he lit a cigar and fell into a dream about the little white hand which had worked so industriously and confidingly under the direction of his big brown paw. All the next day he wandered by the river but she came not. That evening he was restless and ill-tempered with his hostess, and every one who approached him.

The day after he was more fortunate. She was sitting in the old spot, and greeted him cordially.

"You're just in time," she said. "Look at my tree; isn't it like those beautiful green cauliflowers you see in the pickle bottles?"

Tom sat down and went to work on the refractory tree while she watched him.

"I say," she said at last, "isn't this dreadfully improper?"

"Which?" asked Tom, working away vigorously.

"Why, you and me," she replied ungrammatically; "we've never been introduced, and I don't in the least know who you are or anything about you. Lady Turnbull would have a fit if she knew it."

"Let me introduce myself," said Tom laughing. "My name is Luttrell—Tom Luttrell; or, if you prefer it Thomas Carson Alvanley Luttrell."

If she had not been sitting behind him, Tom must have noticed the flush which spread over her face at this announcement. After a pause, she said slowly:

"So you're Tom Luttrell?"

"Yes," said he looking up. "What do you know of me?"

"There is a young lady staying at Newlands who is a great friend of mine; she has told me about you."

"Indeed! And what's her name?"

"Miss Leigh; Nellie Leigh."

It was Tom's turn to flush now. "Miss Leigh," he repeated. "Good heavens! You don't mean to say she is in the neighborhood?"

"You don't seem fond of her," she said quietly.

Tom painted vigorously. "I hate fast girls," said he at last.

"How do you know she's fast? You never saw her."

"I've heard about her," Tom said gloomily.

"What have you heard about her?" demanded his companion sharply.

"Why, there was Ernest Browne; he met her a little while ago. She talked along the whole time to him, and—swore, I think he said, and wanted to smoke. Then Tiverton told me she was the best hand at quoting Artemas Ward he ever heard. Bah! I hate a girl that quotes Artemas Ward," and Tom switched viciously at the dandelions with his cane.

His companion watched him with a mischievous smile.

"I wish you'd be less keerless with that weppin," she said; "you'll upset my water directly, and then you'll have to go and get some more."

Mrs. Jane Swisshelm gives her views on the woman's temperance movement, as follows:

"To one who thinks calmly, and recognizes man's natural guardianship of woman, it is wonderful to see hundreds of thousands of able-bodied men stand aside and cheer a few thousand feeble women on to such a wasting, hopeless, physical contest. What is it all but a trial of physical strength between the liquor dealers and their assailants, with all the conditions in favor of the former? Who does not know that the man can sit longer by the hot stove than the woman can kneel in the snow? Who does not know that he must win the case when it comes before the courts? Who does not know that the law is not on her side? Who does not know that they have no more right to encumber a side-walk with a prayer meeting tent than with a pig-pen? Who does not know that they have no more right to enter a man's house without his consent, or to hinder his lawful business by crowding his door step, than he has to set up a bar in the parlor of any of them? Who does not know that these women are re-enacting the part of the old sheep who knocked his own brains out butting a swinging mallet? The thing seems at every stroke to give way, but returns with rebound to strike the striker, while the men who encourage the onslaught are like the boy who hung up the mallet for the sheep to butt at."

"Now, don't you begin it," Tom pleaded.

"Way not? I like Artemas."

Tom shrugged his shoulders.

"Well," his tormentor continued, "have you any other fault to find with your bride?"

"She's not my bride."

"But she will be."

"No, I'm bothered if she will?" Tom broke out vehemently.

"What! will you buy your freedom with Hillingdon and seven thousand a year?"

"Aye, and think it cheap at that price."

"Complimentary to Miss Leigh. Shall I tell her?"

"If you like—but never mind Miss Leigh."

"You've not told your name, yet," said Tom, after a while.

"My name's Nellie, too," she said musingly.

"Shall I call you Nellie, then?" he asked.

"Certainly not," she said coldly, and recommenced painting vigorously. He was getting on too fast.

Tom watched her silently. "Won't you forgive me?" he pleaded after a while.

"Shall I?" she said, holding her sketch at arm's length, to observe the effect.

"Yes, do," said Tom, "it's so christian."

"Then I will," and she gave him her hand with a most adorable smile. Tom felt sadly inclined to kiss it, but refrained.

"Now," said she, consulting her watch, "I must be off."

"And will you allow me to carry your things?" asked Tom.

But at this moment she was capricious, as ladies will be sometimes, and positively refused to allow him to do any such thing. Then arose a struggle for the "things," which were, however, captured by Tom after a short resistance.

She turned and walked majestically away, as Tom gathered up the implements with a grin, and followed her. When he came up to her she was sitting on a stile looking dreamily on the ground. She raised her eyes as he approached.

"Mr. Luttrell," she said, "I want to speak to you seriously."

Tom deposited his burden on the ground, sat himself on a log facing her, and waited solemnly.

"I want to know if you're quite determined not to marry Miss Leigh?"

"I am," he replied, looking steadily at her, and tapping his teeth with her pencil.

"Since when?"

He hesitated.

"Since when?" she repeated imperiously.

Tom began to dig little holes with his stick.

"Well, within the last few days;" he might have seen the smile and blush of pleasure which lit up her face as he spoke.

"You see," he continued, "it's my father's marriage, not mine; and a man likes to choose his own wife. I dare say there's no real harm in the young person. If she's your friend, it speaks well for her, but still—"

"But still what? You've never seen her; how can you tell you won't like her?"

Tom became more than ever absorbed in his excavations.

"The truth is," he blurted out between the digs; "the truth is that lately, quite lately, I think I've seen the only girl I shall ever care to ask to be my wife," and he looked suddenly up at her.

She rose confused, and began to consult her watch earnestly.

"I must go, really. Please give me my things. This is the park boundary, so I won't trouble you any more."

She sprang over the stile as she spoke, interposing it between them as she said adieu.

"When shall I see you again?" he asked, as he held her hand at parting. She allowed it to linger in his as she answered—

"Oh, soon, I dare say; perhaps when you least expect it." And gently returning the pressure of his hand, she turned away. After a few steps she looked back.

"Any message to Miss Leigh?" she asked, mockingly.

"Oh, confound that Miss Leigh!" growled Tom, "I wish she was in Otaheite." Then, seating himself on the stile, he lit a cigar and watched her graceful figure till he could see it no longer. Suddenly he smote his thigh—"By Jove! I never got her name after all," he said.

Immediately on arriving at his inn he commenced cross-examination of his hostess, by which he learned two facts; firstly, that Newlands was the property of Sir John Turnbull; and, secondly, that there were two young ladies staying there, Miss Leigh and Miss Harding.

Next day saw him speeding in a hansom from Paddington to his father's house in Brook street, intent on destroying that worthy gentleman's peace of mind by the announcement of his determination to give up Miss Leigh and Hillingdon.

"Is my father in, Simms?" he asked of the butler, when that functionary appeared to attend his young master.

"No, sir; Mr. Luttrell went out with Mr. Leigh just after lunch."

"Mr. Leigh? Is he here?"

"Yes, sir; Mr. and Miss Leigh arrived this morning from the country.

"The deuce!" said Tom. "They haunt me wherever I go," and he retired precipitately to his own den.

"Bring me something to eat here, Simms! and don't let Miss Leigh know that I am in the house."

By the time he had finished his lunch his mind was fully made up. Selecting a hugely crested sheet of note paper, so as to give the document an official character, he sat down, squared his elbows, and commenced to write.

The following epistle was the result of his efforts:

MY DEAR MISS LEIGH: For the first time I address you personally; though you doubtless must have been for some time aware of the link which in some way connects us. The time has now arrived when our decision must be made in regard to our future—whether we shall go through life together, or separate at once forever. I will not conceal from you, my dear Miss Leigh, that for some years I have looked upon you as my destined bride, and have considered myself fortunate in the prospect of an alliance with one of whose beauty and goodness I have heard so much. It is but recently that I have discovered that my heart is no longer mine to dispose of, and I now feel that to urge you to fulfil our engagement would be to insure a life of misery for both of us. Let us, then, separate without a personal interview, which would only cause unnecessary embarrassment. As to Hillingdon, I resign it to you willingly, feeling sure that you would make a better mistress than I should a master.

Trusting then some day to meet you as the bride of some one more worthy to possess you than myself, I am, my dear Miss Leigh, your sincere friend.

THOMAS CARSON LUTTRELL.

"That'll do, I think. I hope it won't smell of tobacco, Simms," as that worthy answered the bell; "take this to Miss Leigh with my compliments."

Simms was too well trained to show surprise at anything; he bowed and went. In ten minutes he returned.

"Miss Leigh's compliments, sir, and would you speak to her in the drawing-room?"

"Oh, hang her!" said Tom; but there was no escape. The drawing-room was darkened to exclude the afternoon sun, but Tom discovered a white figure at the far end, which rose and bowed as he advanced.

"I am delighted, Miss Leigh," he began, "to have the pleasure——. Hullos! Miss Harding? You here!"

"Miss who?" asked the laughing voice of his Settlebourne friend; "I am not Miss Harding."

"Then who in the name of goodness are you?" he demanded eagerly.

She looked down demurely.

"I'm that horrid Miss Leigh, as you called me the other day."

Tom sat down and stared at her; presently he broke into a loud laugh.

"Oh, it's all very well to laugh," she said, in an injured tone.

In a moment more he was kneeling by her chair, looking up into her eyes.

"Miss Leigh—Nellie——"

"I told you not to call me Nellie, yesterday," she said tartly.

"Yes, but yesterday isn't today; we're engaged now."

"Engaged, sir! What, after this?"

"Oh, hang the letter. You know how I love you to distraction. You were your only rival in my love, and you will marry me, dear, won't you?"

"Certainly not. You said I was fast and slangy, and that Hillingdon would be a cheap price to get rid of me. And then this letter!—Let go my hand—how dare you, sir! Be quiet, Mr. Luttrell! Tom, don't!"

But Tom was not to be denied. After this spirited resistance Miss Leigh surrendered ignominiously.

"Tom," she whispered as her head lay on his shoulder, "do you really care for me?" (Kisses and protestations.)

"And you really want to marry me?" (More kisses and protestations.)

"Then," and her voice sank lower yet, "then take down the card, for I'm let to a single gentleman."

The Election.

The returns are at last all in (we did not care if they never got all in, for we long ago had quite as much as we wanted of such returns,) and it is now certain that the allied free-rummies and ultra prohibitionists have routed the republican hosts,—horse, foot and dragoons,—and will proceed as quickly as possible to plunder the camp. We acknowledge that we did not anticipate so disastrous a result when the campaign opened; and as we cannot have the pleasure of saying "We told you so," we must content ourselves with glancing at the causes which led to the republican defeat,—it's some comfort to a man to conduct his own post mortem, anyhow.

In the first place, the candidates were unequally matched. Weston was well known and personally popular, while McCutchins was almost entirely unknown outside of his own district. Weston was the railroad candidate, McCutchins the "hayseed" representative; the railroad forces were managed by a few recognized leaders, while the agricultural legions proved to be unmanageable by anybody—a disciplined and well-appointed army against a mere mob. Then the insertion of the free-rum (for that is exactly what "license" means to the democracy) plank in the democratic platform, and the refusal of the republicans to insert such a plank in theirs, at once arrayed the whole rum-power of this State and Massachusetts against McCutchins; but we do not believe that even the combined liquor interest and corporation influence, mighty as each of them are, would have sufficed to defeat the republicans had it not been for the action of the prohibition party. The vote polled by the latter, it is true, would not have done much harm had there been no change in the relative vote of the other two parties; but the nomination of full State and town tickets by the prohibition men gave great encouragement to the democrats while disheartening many republicans, and no doubt caused a large quantity of the "drift-wood," which always wants to be on the winning side, to float over to the democratic shore. We are yet in the dark concerning the reasons for the proceedings of the prohibitionists; Gen. McCutchins is an avowed temperance man, and the republican party passed the present prohibitory law, kept it on the statute books, and at their State convention plainly said they would not repeal it; and what the bogus "temperance" men hope to gain for the cause they pretend to support, by securing the election of a "license" governor and the repeal of the prohibitory law, we cannot understand. We have said that we cannot see the reasons for the factious action of the prohibitionists; but we will go further, and say that no reason can be given for their action which will stand the inspection of common sense.

A Saco Horror.

On Sunday afternoon some boys who were playing on the banks of the Saco river, below the cataract in Saco, found wedged in among the rocks the head of a young woman, so well preserved that it could not have been in the water more than forty-eight hours. A cord was tied lightly around the forehead, to which was attached a brick. The head was taken to the City Hall for recognition, but although several persons thought the face was that of a young lady they had seen on the street, no one could identify it. The face is described as that of a young lady of twenty years, dark hair, teeth well preserved, as are all parts of the head, save a piece of one ear which is gone. The head has been chopped off from the body close to the chin. There is much excitement over the matter.

If the democracy have actually carried New Hampshire, look out for flaming announcements by the organs, that the great "tidal wave" which is to sweep the republican party out of power, is near at hand. The public will be assured that this is but "the beginning of the end" of republicanism, and that the democratic millenium will soon be heralded in with pæans of victory by the "faithful." But when the grand fight occurs the republicans will arise in their might, not only in the closely contested Old Granite State, but elsewhere, and smite the democracy into another national defeat.

The Sinking Saved.

The combination of tonic, alterative and stimulating properties in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, especially adapts that famous specific to the cure of chronic forms of disease, when the strong influence of a long protracted morbid habit is to be surmounted. In chronic dyspepsia, and liver complaint, and in chronic constipation and other obstinate diseases, it is beyond all comparison the best remedy that can be taken. As a means of restoring the strength and vital energy of persons who are sinking under the debilitating effects of painful disorders, this standard vegetable invigorant is confessedly unequalled. The permanent tonics included in the preparation are associated with a diffusible stimulant absolutely pure, and the tendency of these elements is modified by the presence of alterative ingredients slower in their operation and capable of producing more lasting local and general effects. For feeble convalescents and in all phases of debility, it is the best as well as the most agreeable of restoratives.

"Happiness, is the absence of pain," says Jean Paul Richter, and 20,000 grateful patients bless the ANAKESIS of DR. SIZER as the only infallible cure for PILES ever discovered. It is purely scientific combining the best method of the French, English and American surgeons, acting as an instrument, poultice and medicine, and not only affording instant relief from excruciating pain, but performing an absolute and permanent cure. All doctors approve it—Price $1. Sold by druggists everywhere. Depot, Walker st., New York.

To Dr. Heimbold's Patients. The celebrated Extract Buchu, of which Dr. Heimbold was the originator, is still performing wonderful cures of obscure diseases of the urinary organs, restoring shattered constitutions, and overcoming debility and diseases arising from imprudence and excess. This great medicine never fails. Patients should be particular to get the genuine, which bears the doctor's signature. All druggists sell it.

NONE but a physician knows how much a reliable alterative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cures.—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues they claim. In this state of the case, DR. J. C. AYER & Co., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other kindred preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

Local Matters.

The Water Question.

In the election notices as published, warning the inhabitants of Portsmouth "qualified to vote for Senators" to meet at the various ward rooms on Tuesday, March 10th, to bring in their ballots for various persons for various offices, it was announced that the sense of the voters would be taken on the following question:

"Shall the City buy the Property and Franchise of the Portsmouth Aqueduct Company?"

The adverse action of the democratic caucus evidently killed the whole thing for the time being; and such being the case, the republican caucus in Ward Two decided to express no opinion in the case, and broke up with the understanding that it was useless to express a preference either way—virtually a decision to take no action at all. Consequently, there was but a light vote on the water question, and what there was was adverse to the acquisition of the water works by the city.

We imagine that many people labor under a misapprehension as to the possible effect of a popular vote to buy the water works, and consider that such a vote would render it obligatory on the city government to purchase at the price named by the Aqueduct Company. In reality, a popular vote either way would neither add to nor take from the power of the city government to buy the water works and make the tax-payers pay the bills. The citizens may unanimously say "buy," in town meeting, and the city fathers may reply "we won't," and the citizens can't compel them to; and on the other hand, the citizens may unanimously say "don't buy," and the city fathers may conclude to purchase, and the citizens can't help themselves. A vote to purchase would really amount to nothing more than an expression by the citizens of their opinion that it is advisable for the city to take the business of furnishing a sufficient supply of water into its own hands, instead of leaving it longer in the hands of a private corporation under whose administration a sufficient supply has not been and probably will not be furnished.

That the city needs and must have more water, for every-day use and for the fire department, no one will dispute; that there is plenty of water at Fountain Head for a much larger city than Portsmouth is likely to become within fifty years, is asserted on what seems good authority; that the Aqueduct Company will not lay out the money needed to bring an abundant supply to the city seems certain, and that the price they ask for their property is pretty "steep" is not to be denied; and the question is, "what is best to be done in order that the water which goes to waste at Fountain Head may be utilized in our half-watered city?" There have been various other schemes mooted,—notably one for introducing water from Raymond pond,—but the bottom fell out of them all; and Fountain Head is likely to be the only source of supply for many years to come.

The adverse vote—668 nays to 41 yeas, with Ward Two to hear from yet—though it carries no legal weight with it, will undoubtedly suffice to kill the last plan proposed, (that the city take care of its own water supply,) at least for the present; and it seems tovirtually endorse the Aqueduct Co.'s refusal or neglect to furnish more water. The reason given for their action by the opponents of the scheme is that it would cost a large sum of money; a prominent democrat who opposed it, put the cost of buying out the company and repiping the city at $400,000; and a republican who favored it, stated that an outlay of at least $75,000 would be needed in addition to the purchase money, before the city could be properly supplied. Either of these estimates acknowledges that a very heavy outlay must be made; this is to be done for the benefit of the city, if at all, for the gross receipts from the sale of water, after it is done, will be but little more than at present; and if the city refuses to lay out the money required for its own benefit, on the ground that it will not be a paying speculation, it is absurd to expect it will be done by a corporation which furnishes water solely as a business speculation. The water company under the present dispensation pays big dividends on a small invested capital; but with that capital many times increased and with no corresponding increase of receipts, the dividends would not amount to much. Corporations may or may not have souls, but our water corporation certainly has common sense enough to know that if furnishing a full water supply would ruin the city it could not be very profitable to a private company. So, as the city will not take the necessary action to secure water enough because it would cost too much to do it, and the Aqueduct Co. will not, for the same reason, we suppose householders will continue to grumble and the fire department and insurance men to lament over an insufficiency of water, until a disastrous fire spurs the city into doing in a hurry and at a heavy cost what might now be done more leisurely and at much less expense.

Spauldings' Bell Ringers.

This well known and popular concert company, which includes among its members the famous lady harpist, Georgie Dean Spaulding, and a ladies' cornet quartette, with other accomplished artists, under the immediate direction of the veteran manager and solo bell player, Mr. W. P. Spaulding, is now making its ninth annual tour of New England, and will appear at the Temple in a matinee, for ladies and children, at half-past two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and in the evening will give a grand entertainment in the same place, to commence at eight o'clock. The company has received very flattering notices from the press wherever it has appeared, and the entertainment promises to be a fine one. See advertisement.

Laconics.

Prof. Gunning, who is this evening to commence a course of six lectures on geology, at Mechanics' Hall, is well remembered here by many as a capable and interesting lecturer, and an estimable and pleasant gentleman. His lectures are by no means dry or dull, but amuse while they instruct, and are all the more enjoyable for the Professor's illustrations. If the greatest study of mankind is man, then it must be a dull scholar that cannot find entertainment here.

Capt. Earl English, U. S. N., who is ordered from this navy yard (where he has for some eighteen months filled the position of executive officer) to duty afloat, will leave behind only pleasant recollections of his unvarying courtesy as a gentlemen, and efficiency without officiousness as an officer. If anything could reconcile those most interested to the departure of so popular an official, it is the fact that he will be succeeded as executive by Capt. Jonathan Young, who is well known here, and of whom only good is known, anywhere.

The ship Grandee, Capt. Jacobs, arrived at Callao Feb. 5th, after the remarkable short passage of 86 days from New York. In his letter to the agent Capt. Jacobs speaks in the highest terms of the ship, both in regard to the sailing qualities and as a sea-boat.

A fire broke out in the small barn of Patrick Kierly on Bow street, Monday afternoon. It had hay and other things in it and was pretty well burned. The boys wanted to pitch it into the river, but Chief Engineer Marston couldn't see it in that light. They did set an outhouse afloat, however, and howled as it toppled into the Piscataqua. "The firemen fit nobly," says a bystander.

Alfred, Elbridge, Horace and Aaron have gone to Washington to fix a thing or two. 'Cess to 'em!

The Spaulding Bell Ringers, a first-class company have engaged rooms at the Rockingham. They appear at the Temple next Saturday evening.

A Bon Mot that Helped on War.

[Washington Cor. St. Louis Republican.]

Aleck Stephens has got so that he can sit up again, and though not able to sit in Congress he can tell a good story. He explained the other night, apropos of the "woman's temperance war," how the war started. When the Georgia delegation was on its way to Cincinnati in 1856, they came by the way of Washington, and Toombs gave them a dinner. Among those present, were Howell Cobb, General Gardner of Port Hudson fame, and Stephen A. Douglas After the flowing bowl had been passed about frequently and liberally, and the three or four prominent Presidential candidates in the party had got well warmed up, General Gardner proposed a toast: "Here's hoping you may all live to be President of the United States." All rose, and as he raised the glass to his lips, Douglas turned to Cobb and said, "Our friend wishes you a very long life, Mr. Cobb."

Cobb set his glass down on the table, glared at the Little Giant an instant, and then joined in the drink and the laugh that went round at his expense.

"But," said Aleck, tenderly lifting his bad leg over his leg that is not quite so bad, "Cobb never forgot nor never forgave that bon mot. He treasured it up all through Buchanan's administration, and it was often the cause of insidious advice from the cabinet officer of the President prejudical to the great senator, and wrankled in Cobb's bosom when he planned the tactics that prevented Douglas getting the Charleston nomination by breaking up the convention. It did more than any other personal thing to split the democratic party, to elect Lincoln, to precipitate the war and stand us where we are."

Queer Combinations.

[Belfast Journal.]

"Neal & Pray," was the title of a house in New England, of which both members were anything but religiously inclined. "Robb & Steele" were noted for their honorable character—quite as much so as "Wright & Justice," who were their neighbors. "U. Ketchum & I. Cheatem" is a well known incongruity; but the marriage of Benjamin Bird, aged 60, to Julia Chaff, aged 20, showing that "an old bird" may be "caught by chaff," is not so familiar; nor is the marriage of George Virtue to Susan Vice. These collection of familiar names seem "odd" enough; and so it is when we find in a newspaper paragraph that John Makepence has been arrested for instigating a riot, or when Parson Playfair is charged with cheating at cards. "Southern & Western, dealers in eastern produce" is a sign that might have been seen in Boston, twenty years.

The strangest combination for a Maine law community was the sign for many years displayed on a store between Belfast and Bangor: "U. & I. Treat."

—Heroism, a Vermont paper thinks, is limited, after all. A girl who, the other day jumped into the Merrimack River and rescued a drowning child, fainted away when she saw her false curls floating down the stream.

—A day or two ago Jones was injudiciously "full." Being painfully aware of his inebriety, he endeavored to conceal it from the public by buttoning his coat up very closely, imparting an abnormal stiffness to his knees, and tripping over his own heels. He stalked up to a street car, walked briskly in just as the horses started forward—and instantly tumbled out again backwards without unbending a muscle. Straightway he recovered, seating himself beside an acquaintance, making no sign of his mishap. Presently he turned to this individual and queried; "Klizshn?" "No." He considered a moment, and then again asked: "Offthetrack?" "No." More reflection—sleepily then: "Runoveraprespice?" "No." "Spozhn?" "No." Somnolent cogitation. "Any acc'dnt?" "Not at all." He took this piece of information into his intellectual maw, and, digesting it concluded that he must be very drunk indeed. Anxious to cover up the disgraceful fact and turn the matter off respectably, he shortly turned again with the bland observation: "Well, if I'd anone that, I woudena got out." He blinked off into an unconscious state in a little while, then "woke up," with his eyes wide open, to show everybody that he'd only been thinking. He rode on about a mile beyond his street, and was finally taken home in a hack.

—"Father, did you ever have another wife besides mother?" "No, my son; what possessed you to ask such a question?" "Because I saw in the old family Bible that you married Anna Domini, 1862, and that wasn't mother, for her name was Lucy Jenkins when she was a girl."

—The most confiding woman lives in Providence. She went to an auction, and, knowing the prevalence of thieves at such places, asked a nice-looking man to take care of her pocket-book, containing eighty-five dollars. He is still taking care of it.

—A rare sense of the appropriate is found in the fact that Miss Maggie Mitchell, who appears at the Boston Theatre after the opera season, plays "Little Barefoot" at the South during the winter, and comes North with it in warm weather.

—A little boy in a family caught his foot in some worsted with which his sister was working the sentence, "God is Love," in perforated cardboard, and got a crack on the ear that will lay him up for a fortnight—if it does not injure him for life.

—An agricultural paper recommends brandy as a cure for staggers. Brandy is good for staggers, of course.

SPLENDID AND UNPARALLELED TRIUMPHS

—OF THE—

WHEELER & WILSON

Sewing Machine Co.,

NEW YORK.

OVER EIGHTY-ONE COMPETITORS,

—AT THE—

WORLD'S EXPOSITION, VIENNA, 1873, &c.

1. The Knight's Cross at the Imperial Order of "Francis Joseph," conferred by his Apostolic Majesty the Emperor of Austria, upon the Honorable Nathaniel Wheeler, President of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Company, as the founder and builder of Sewing Machine industry.
2. The Grand Diploma of Honor, recommended by the International Jury for this Sewing Machine Company only, for their important contributions to the material and social welfare of mankind.
3. The Grand Medal for Progress, awarded for their New No. 6 Sewing Machine, being far superior to made since the Paris Exposition of 1867, at which the only Gold Medal for Sewing Machines was awarded to this Company. Hence the Vienna awarded marks Progress not from a low, level, or inferior medal, but from a Gold Medal, the highest award made at Paris.
4. The Grand Medal for Merit, for the development of Needle Industry and excellence and superiority of manufactured samples exhibited.
5. A Grand Medal for Merit, for excellence and superiority of cabinet work, the only award of the kind in this section.
6. Medals for several Co-operators, of the Wheeler & Wilson Company, for superior ability.
7. The Official Report, published by the General Direction of the Vienna Exposition, signalizes the supremacy of the Wheeler & Wilson Company for quantity and quality of manufacture, and position in the Sewing Machine business, as follows:

OFFICIAL REPORT, VIENNA EXPOSITION SEWING MACHINES, &c.

(GROUP II, SEC. 2, n.)

"The greatest Sewing Machine Manufactory in the world is that of Wheeler and Wilson, New York, which alone has brought already over $60,000 of their Sewing Machines into practical use. The complete production of the parts by machinery is so regulated that each complete machine may be used as a sample for exhibition. This firm produces 600 well adjusted machines daily."

"The latest production of this firm, and which is the wonder of the Vienna Exposition, is their new No. 6 Sewing Machine. This universal machine sews the heaviest leather harness and the finest gazzets with a truly pearl stitch."

"Wheeler & Wilson have received the highest prices at all World's Expositions, and at the Vienna Exposition were extraordinarily distinguished."

FURTHER DISTINGUISHED HONORS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15, 1873.

THE GRAND MEDAL OF HONOR

—OF THE—

AMERICAN INSTITUTE, NEW YORK,

Was unanimously recommended by the Judges of Sewing Machines for

WHEELER & WILSON'S

NEW NO. 6 SEWING MACHINE,

of being "a decided improvement over all other machines in the market," and which "must revolutionize certain branches of industry, especially in shoe and Harness Manufacturing."

BALTIMORE, Md., October 31, 1873.

"The MARYLAND INSTITUTE has awarded WHEELER & WILSON the GOLD MEDAL for their New No. 6 Sewing Machine. Other Sewing Machines received nothing."

SAVANNAH, November 5, 1873.

"At the GEORGIA STATE FAIR, a SILVER MEDAL, the highest and only premium for Leather Stitching, was awarded to WHEELER & WILSON for samples done on their New No. 6 Sewing Machines."

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

Subscribers in Canada will add to the terms of subscription 20 cents per year, for pre-payment of American postage.

POST-OFFICE ADDRESS.—Subscribers should not all to write legibly their Post-Office Address and name of State.

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. Thus we publish two volumes a year.

Patrons of the BANNER who are renewing their subscriptions should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed; and the same care should be exercised when they change their place of residence.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

IF VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such disease, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will restore the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. This conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas Scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
WILLIAM PAYN

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind, and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured a wide a reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long-continued series of marvellous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well-founded, if taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not, when by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and stays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

BEHOLD!

WILSON'S

SUPERPHOSPHATE

At Auction!

My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.

My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.

The only Fertilizer that has ever received a SILVER MEDAL from the N. E. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS.

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and allpapers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND RUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes The Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron, in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Fever and Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Congressman Small's Reply.

NEWMARKET, N. H., Feb. 12, 1874.

GEO. W. BURLEIGH, Agent Great Falls Manufacturing Co.; Sir: A few days before leaving Washington, I received your letter, dated Feb. 16, 1874, in your handwriting, signed by yourself and fifty-seven others which you call a "protest" against the late appointment of Postmaster in your town. The distribution of public patronage in the shape of recommendations for appointments to office, is undoubtedly, the most vexatious duty a Congressman is called upon to perform. A conscientious discharge of that duty, according to his best judgment, although he may err, is all that can be required of him; and all that the sound judgment of his constituents will demand. I recognize fully, the right of a Congressman's constituents to "protest" against his action; and when such protest can be regarded as expressing the sentiments of an aggrieved people, it is deserving of the highest consideration; but when the language of such a paper is simply opprobrious, and its whole tone is that of ill temper and spite, while it contains no suggestion even against the entire fitness of the appointee, or that his appointment will not give entire satisfaction to the people;—such a protest will not only always fail to effect its intended purpose, but will be sure to recoil upon him who instigated it.

I shall entirely excuse those who signed that paper with you. They relied upon you for the truth of that statement, and none will regret it more than they, when they know the facts. I shall say nothing as to whether the signers of that paper are all republicans, or whether they all live in Somersworth or not. The people there know better than I do about that. For convenience, I shall group your charges together but shall state them correctly. You say: "We, republican voters of Somersworth, N. H., and a part of your constituency, hereby protest against the gross outrage done us by your indecent haste in filing the vacancy caused by the death of Royal Eastman. Saturday morning, the day after Mr. Eastman's funeral, Clarence L. Chapman was on his way to Washington; he arrived there Sunday, and on Monday, through your pertinacity he was nominated Postmaster at Great Falls. Ahab made no greater haste to take possession."

The only charge here is an outrage by "indecent haste." Mr. Eastman died at 12 o'clock, on the night of the second of February. I received notice of the death from the Postmaster General on the fifth, and he, in the same paper, required me to recommend some one to fill the vacancy. The Great Falls post office is a money order office, and is otherwise an important office; and no one knows better than yourself that such an office would not be allowed to remain vacant, but that some one must immediately be appointed and give bonds for the security of the mails. On Monday evening Mr. Chapman arrived in Washington, having started from Great Falls on Sunday as I was told. He brought with him a petition signed by two hundred and forty-seven Republicans of your town, and among them many who are every inch your peers. It was also signed by some ten or twelve Democrats. He also brought sundry letters from leading Republicans of Somersworth; all urging Mr. Chapman's appointment. This petition was not started until February 7, and none of those letters were written until that date, which was after Mr. Eastman's funeral. The next day, Tuesday the 10th, a week after Mr. Eastman's death, I sent to the War Department, and procured a copy of Capt. Chapman's war record, which was highly satisfactory, and I recommended his appointment. The papers were sent to the President, and he immediately sent his name to the Senate for confirmation. Such is the history of the transaction. Who is this Capt. Chapman? Let me tell you what you already well know, that when President Lincoln sounded his first bugle call "to arms!" Chapman, a poor boy of sixteen, was the first to respond from your town. He spent his last half dollar to have extra heel taps put on his boots to make him tall enough to pass; and he travelled all the way on foot to the recruiting station to enlist. He served out the first enlistment, for nine months, and then re-enlisted as a private, serving four years in all, with distinction to himself and honor to his town; being several times promoted for his gallant conduct, he came out of the service a captain with an honorable discharge. During the service he received a crushing wound in the shoulder, of which he was a long time laid up, and from which he has never fully recovered, and never will. For the last year and a half Capt. Chapman has been postal clerk on the Great Falls and Conway railroad. Such is the history of the new post master—a thoroughly straightforward, honest man, against whom you dared not to say one word.

You say "we say nothing of your duplicity in promising that no such hasty action should be had;" nor could you, for no such promise was made; but I did request all persons who spoke to me about the office, not to disturb Mr. Eastman's last days by a scramble for his office. You continue "nor of the moral cowardice which drove you to skulk behind an appointment trembling at possible responsibility. In one breath you charge me with being a coward skulking behind an appointment trembling at responsibility. In the next breath you say that "through your pertinacity he was nominated Postmaster at Great Falls." That sounds to me very much like afternoon logic; a pertinacious coward is really a new character. You continue, "neither do we intimate that such baseness can be had only by purchase." Why not? Why should not one who estimates men and women only by the amount of money he can coin from the sweat of their toiling bodies say that? But you say you simply claim that your position, etc., should have protected you from the pettifoggery of a "snap judgment;" and, "in that common decency which characterizes civilized man, and to which your conduct is so rare an exception, we waited until the deceased was in his grave before beginning a political contest for his successor. Your cannibal haste has left us nothing but this protest." Now let us see —In the first place Chapman's petition was not started, nor letters written until after the deceased was in his grave, while on the other hand—You yourself, and two other signers of the protest, wrote me on the 4th, while Mr. Eastman lay dead in the house, urging the appointment of Mrs. E. in his place, and you say "please have the arrangement made." This was three days before any letter for Chapman was written. Who appears now to have been in haste; who wanted a "snap judgment?" It is true you asked only for the unexpired term; but the length of the term cannot qualify the act. I immediately wrote you asking to know how Mrs. E. was left as to property, giving you to understand that I should be influenced by her pecuniary condition; to which letter I never received a reply. I was called upon in Washington, before Mr. Eastman's death, asking that she might be appointed at his death, and I replied that if she was left comfortably well off I should not favor it. I understand that Mr. Eastman left about $20,000, and that in fact Mrs. Eastman when enquired of after his death, said she did not desire the office, as she should have to settle her husband's estate. One other of those protestants wrote me on the 4th, while Mr. Eastman lay dead in the house, asking for the appointment of another person. Your letter is dated Feb. 16, 1874, and is so much worn that you had to patch it before you sent it, and you say that nothing is left but this protest; but in fact a petition was started for Mrs. Eastman, dated Feb. 13, and afterward forwarded to me, having only thirteen names upon it and those are all protestants. Suppose I had waited until that petition came? I should have had a petition for Chapman with 257 names and one for Mrs. E. with 13. Upon which should I have acted? What kind of haste is cannibal haste?

Before closing, I desire to congratulate you upon your happy selection of an organ in which to publish that protest. It was very fitting that the newspaper which the loyal New Hampshire soldiers had occasion during the rebellion, to "clean out" for treason, should be the paper in which to publish a protest against the appointment of a loyal New Hampshire soldier to office. Be assured, sir, it will always give me pleasure to recognize substantially, when I can, the claims of loyal soldiers.

Yours Very Truly,

W. B. SMALL.

Daily Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 18, 1874.

Gen. Butler Again.

The Concord Monitor isn't pleased with our assertion that the Simmons affair didn't cost the republicans fifty votes in the entire State, and says it was the revelations made during the quarrel which affected the election adversely. It seems to us that the Monitor strains a point to endeavor to convince its readers that Gen. Butler is the prime cause of the defeat. Now the facts are that Gen. Butler chose to recommend one of his friends to the President, for the position of Collector of the port of Boston. It was a local matter between Massachusetts politicians. Simmons was a capable official and those opposed to him brought no word of complaint against him. Their only objection was that Congressman Peirce and others did not recommend him. It was a trivial matter, yet such was the enmity to Gen. Butler that certain Congressmen worked themselves into an unwonted excitement, and newspapers which had been looked up to as republican, frothed with a sort of political hydrophobia in their endeavors to make the matter a national rather than a State affair. The only aim was a personal one, and in their endeavors to defeat Gen. Butler, these politicians and papers only succeeded in making his triumph greater and in placing themselves in a more ridiculous attitude than ever. From that time the Massachusetts papers in the interest of the Boston aristocracy appeared to be bent on mischief, suggesting possible republican defeat in New Hampshire, knowing that defeat was probable from the time that the republican State convention nominated farmer McCutchins. Eager to predict it, willing it should come about, anxious to injure the Essex Congressmen, they harped upon the hobby and with the first election returns shouted in derision "We told you so." Had Gen. Butler taken the stump in New Hampshire and every anti-Butler Massachusetts Congressman followed in opposition, the election would have had a different result, for the reason that the people believe in a man who is never a coward, whose faults are palpably visible, who maintains his position always against odds and has proved his ability to cope with his combined foes,—in preference to a lot of truckling "statesmen" who are afraid of his influence, and having nothing but negative qualities, are jealous at his successes, and unable to defeat him, resort to abuse which if directed toward themselves might have a crushing effect, but which is as useless as it is unworthy decent contempt.

The Monitor says our "admiration of the 'Essex statesman' is a matter of taste," and very good taste it is, considering that it is the best choice that Massachusetts affords. Our Concord cotemporary in its zealous following of the rutted road which its Massachusetts predecessors have so diligently trodden, should not entirely ignore the fact that the people of this State are too intelligent to bow at the bidding of a half dozen Massachusetts silk-stockings whose merit lies in their wealth rather then in breadth of brain, and whose impudence is only exceeded by their stupidity.

The Temperance War.

The ladies of St. Albans have published a card saying that the "Dio Lewis plan" of operation is virtually abandoned on the ground that it seems to be consonant neither with the habits nor the character of the people of Vermont to carry on the crusade in that manner.

The Washington temperance people are urging the passage of bills before Congress, the first enacting that the usual paraphernalia or tools used about drinking places shall be considered as evidence that liquor is sold, and the second a damage bill, similar to that now in force in Ohio.

In Chicago, Monday, a delegation of ladies presented to the city council a memorial against the proposed repeal of the Sunday-saloon ordinance, and remained at the city hall to await the result of the vote, which was the adoption of the repealing ordinance by a vote of 22 to 16. The defeated ladies were then escorted from the hall to the outer door by the police, who with the utmost difficulty kept back the howling mob who were outside from reaching the ladies, all of whom were of the highest respectability, and numbering among them the wives of the best citizens. They were assailed with yells and howls from one of the vilest crowds that could be raked from the gutters of the city, who pressed so closely upon the little band that, had they not been protected by a few men among the crowd there is little doubt violence would have been offered them. Indeed, one brute did trip one of the ladies, but slunk away before the fist of a gentleman standing near. The mob followed the ladies the entire distance back to the church, yelling every moment like Comanches, and presenting one of the most disgraceful scenes ever witnessed in that city. After the committee had entered the church and briefly reported the failure of their mission, those present spent some time in prayer and then dispersed.

A saloon-keeper at Dayton, Ohio, has caused the arrest of Mrs. Thomas, a leader of the temperance band, under the ordinance against obstructing the sidewalks. One hundred dollars' bail was given. She will demand a jury trial, and it is expected that considerable trouble will be experienced in procuring a jury.

New York Horrors.

Michael Murphy was arrested Monday just as he was about to cut his infant child to pieces with a carving knife. Rum was the cause of his blood-thirstiness.

Last Saturday night Owen Mangan and wife quarrelled in West Twentieth street, when the former, as testified to by a witness, threw a kerosene lamp at her, which exploding enveloped the room in flames, setting fire to her and causing her death in great agony at the hospital Sunday. The husband, who ran out of the house leaving his wife on fire, has since been committed to jail. He claims that the lamp dropped accidentally from his hand.

The Saco Mystery

Is explained by the Biddeford Democrat, which says:

Some time since a student in a Boston dental school sent this head, that of a woman about 17 years of age—to Saco. It passed from one hand to another, and a physician into whose hands it finally fell, after making all the examinations he desired, and having no further use for it, put it in a bag, sewed up the bag and sunk it, as he supposed, beyond the reach of mortal eyes, but by some means it was brought to the surface and all commotion arose. The Superintendent of burials took it in charge Sunday afternoon.

S. J. Court.

The S. J. Court held an adjourned session at Concord, on Friday and Saturday.

Joseph Pinkham received a favorable decision in a case against George F. Maddox, to recover the price of a sewing machine.

The libel suit of Paymaster J. N. Carpenter, U. S. N., against John H. Bailey, was continued for trial, a plea in defence being ruled insufficient. This is the famous case raised on the petition of certain republicans to have a democrat removed from his position in this city.

The exceptions in the case of Otis A. Cate, convicted of burning the barn of Charles Hayes & Son, were overruled.

All the exceptions in the case State vs. Eastern Railroad (on an indictment for killing Capt. Robert Norton at Seabrook,) were overruled.

James D. Stott and others vs. Rockingham Co., a claim for payment for taking care of and burying one Felch, who died of smallpox in Exeter jail, was settled by the court allowing each of the Stotts $150, and directing the commissioners to make a reasonable allowance to the jailor.

A committee of the bar was appointed to draft resolutions on the death of the late Chief Justice Perley, to report the third Tuesday in June.

Readables.

The Cubans claim to have information of a contemplated uprising of 4000 slaves in the district of Mariel, forty miles from Havana, and also in the neighborhood of Bahia Honda. The insurrection has been instigated by poor whites who have a dread of the draft. A Havana letter says the desertion of 600 volunteers to the Cubans is confirmed from Santiago. Several more plantations have been burned in the western department. There are fresh reports that Gen. Portello was severely defeated, to which fact the Cubans attributed the rise in gold.

The contesting delegations of the republicans were sworn in at the organization of the Biddeford council on Monday. Mayor Warren, democrat, insisted that the democratic contestants should be admitted, but no notice was taken of it. The council adjourned until April 6th. The democratic members then organized, but without effect, as the regular board has possession of the public records and papers.

Massachusetts men are getting excited over the question of Sumner's successor. Ex-Governor Bullock would honor the position, but we do not see his name mentioned among the list of candidates.

An Englishman, claiming to be an agent of a prominent book-publishing firm, got into trouble in Bangor. He was advertised by the firm as not being in any way connected with its business, and then he gave notice that he would lecture on Thursday evening in the city hall on "Immigration," announcing himself as "a graduate of Oxford college, England;" but when the evening came he did not appear at the hall, and subsequently sent notes to the papers saying that he could not lecture "because of the grief he felt for the death of his friend Charles Sumner." On Saturday he became violent and threw three carving-knives at some persons. He was arrested, and will be sent to the insane hospital.

The legal decision just rendered in the bill of equity brought by the Portland, Saco and Portsmouth Railroad against the Grand Trunk and Atlantic and St. Lawrence companies to determine their respective rights on Commercial street, Portland, gives the Portsmouth, Saco and Portland road and the Eastern road, as is now the case, coequal rights over the Commercial-street track at the Grand Trunk, and also the right to haul the cars of the Maine Central and all the other roads over the track the same as their own, without extra payment to the Grand Trunk road. It is a very important decision, affecting the various railroads, especially those having termini there whose cars the Eastern Railroad may handle.

State News.

It is said that Harry Bingham is likely to be be Speaker of the House of Representatives next June.

Orange balloted fifteen times for a representative and then voted not to send.

Jeremiah Chandler, a carpenter, fell from his barn on Giles street, Concord, Monday afternoon, and was instantly killed. He was about fifty years of age.

Charlestown has been holding a three days' town meeting, and at last accounts had not elected a representative. The legal days for choosing one having expired, the voters went to work to get a selectman, with the same poor result, three candidates being in the field and neither inclined to yield.

Amherst voted at its recent meeting not to have she history of the town written.

Thos. Nast Interviewed.

A reporter of the Chicago Times recently interviewed Thomas Nast, and found him speechless as a natural result of his extended lecture tour, with the aid of his crayon, to make himself understood, and a lively conversation was the result. We quote:

"Would you have any objection to being interviewed, Mr. Nast?"

A spasm of pain crossed the artist's face for a moment, and then rushing to the bed he dived down under it and brought out a large blackboard. Seizing a piece of crayon he vigorously commenced scratching upon it, and in a few seconds the reporer beheld a prostrate figure of Nast writing in the agonies of death, while upon his bed sat six able-bodied men poking him in the short ribs with lead pencils and note-books. This led the reporter to infer that Mr. Nast did not like being interviewed.

Reporter—But who, Mr. Nast? What do you think of reporters?

The caricaturist here drew a pump with a quillist vigorously working the handle.

Reporter. Ah, you think they ask too many questions? But do they not always tell the truth in regard to their interviews?

The figure of George Washington armed with his little hatchet was hastily sketched upon the board, and underneath it the single word, "Reporter."

Q. I see you appreciate their veracity. Pray tell me, do you enjoy Chicago?

A picture of boned turkey, champagne, gin-cocktails and Calumet snipe fried, hastily followed.

After remarks as to some local celebrities the conversation proceeded.

Reporter. Are you meeting with much success in your entertainments?

A picture of a railway train loaded with greenbacks, and each car ticketed "Th. Nast," followed.

Reporter. How much do you expect to make in Chicago?

A Masonic eye with a well developed wink was drawn.

Reporter. Do you really labor from patriotism, and do you think President Grant the modern condensation of Achilles, Cato and Cæsar?

The artist here drew a nose that looked a great deal like his own, and upon the end of it a thumb with four fingers extended at a wiggle.

Reporter. I have been much pleased with you, Mr. Nast, and should like to know you more intimately. I shall take pleasure in calling again. Of course it would be agreeable to you?

The artist hastily drew a No. 10 boot, elevated at an angle of about forty-five degrees, and cosily nosted its extremities under just such a coat as the reporter wore.

Inferring from this that Mr. Nast would be pleased to see him again, the reporter refused the kind offer of a dozen parquet reserved seats, and withdrew.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER!

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever.

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff; and the scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, says of it: "I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE,

FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change a beautiful brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.

—Some days ago a letter was received in New Orleans, directed to "the biggest fool in New Orleans." The postmaster was absent, and on his return one of the young clerks informed him of the receipt of the letter. "And what became of it?" inquired the postmaster. "Why," replied the clerk, "I did not know who the biggest fool in New Orleans was, so I opened the letter myself." "And what did you find in it?" inquired the postmaster. "Why," replied the clerk, "nothing but the words, 'Thou art the man!'"

Laconics.

Mr. B. F. Webster is laying the foundation for a building to be used as a young ladies' seminary, at the corner of Miller Avenue and a new street north of Lincoln Avenue. It is to be completed and ready for occupancy Sept. 1st.

A horse engaged in the business of drawing a grocer's wagon about town, took it into his head that he would indulge in a lark on Tuesday, and made things lively for a few minutes on Water street, by running away while his driver was delivering groceries. Several men stood in his way and shouted "Whoa" until he was close to them, when their interest in the proceedings seemed to evaporate and they would coolly step aside; but the horse was finally stopped by Mr. Samuel Blatchford, before he had succeeded in smashing even the wagon.

Chief Engineer David B. Macomb is to succeed Chief Engineer Thom Williamson in charge of the steam engineering department at the navy yard. Mr. William S. Hancock, foreman pattern maker, is removed, and Mr. Benson of Biddeford, Me., takes his place.

A correspondent of the Times thinks God is good for allowing democratic success.

The navy yard workmen will be paid today at one o'clock.

The March term of the United States district court commenced here Tuesday. As there was no business ready the court adjourned.

A young lad named Hidden, living with Mr. J. B. Downs at the Shoals, a day or two since became tired of the monotony of his life and resolved to take a voyage to Newburyport. The only sea-going craft he could secure was a small gunning-float, in which he boldly set out; and when his absence from the island was discovered he was too far away to be chased with any hope of a capture, a powerful marine glass showing him to be nearly ashore and doing well.

Rye.

The ball at the Town Hall on Thursday evening was a success.

The singing school of Mr. David Jenness closed on Friday evening after a successful term of twenty evenings.

The course of lectures for the benefit of the Congregational society was formally opened on Saturday evening by a lecture from the Pastor, Rev. J. K. Aldrich. His subject was "What to say, and how to say it." The second lecture in the course will be given on Friday evening next, the 20th, by G. H. Jenness—subject, "The history and wonders of Astronomy."

The Christian society is having very pleasing weekly "sociables."

Mr. Abram J. Drake, whose buildings were destroyed by fire last Fall, is to rebuild, and has already commenced hauling the lumber.

Messrs. Job Jenness & Son are to keep the hotel at Cape Arundel, Me., the coming season.

Improvements are being made at Straw's Point.

The road tax this year is $2000.

Kingston.

The election in Kingston was a curious specimen of the union of parties. Some eighty or more citizens, disgusted by the scenes which have sometimes, heretofore, characterized the elections, signed a pledge to discountenance the use of liquor and money, and to vote for candidates, nominated half from the democratic party and half from the republican party. The result was a combination of liquor men and temperance men, etc., who united to oppose the union ticket, and it is said, without rum or money, elected a board of officers who will, we hope, faithfully discharge the duties of their offices. M.

Cremation.

A Leipzig professor has designed a furnace specially for the purpose of cremation, which will do the work efficiently in twenty minutes at the outside. The body is to be placed in an upright position inside a fire-proof receptacle, through which artificially heated air is forced in a current, carrying all the noxious gases up a chimney, and leaving after the process a small residue only of snow-white ashes. The cost at which the furnace can be constructed is £2250.

The ceremony of cremation was recently put in practice in England, upon the body of Lemontinia Smith, a famous gypsy oracle. More than a hundred Romany "chals" attended the funeral. All the wearing apparel, trinkets and domestic articles belonging to or in any way used by the dead woman, were solemnly burned.

A Fiendish Outrage.

A fearful outrage was perpetrated by a mob at Ahualulco, in the State of Jalisco, Mexico, last Sunday. In the morning a priest delivered an incendiary sermon, in the course of which he advocated the extermination of Protestants. This so excited his hearers that an armed mob of 200 persons gathered in the evening and proceeded to the residence of Rev. John Stevens, a Congregational minister sent out by the women's board of foreign missions of Boston. With cries of "Long live the priests," they broke into the house, and seizing the clergyman, smashed his head to jelly and chopped his body into pieces. They afterwards sacked the house and carried off everything of value. After much delay the riot was suppressed by the local authorities. The government has sent a detachment of troops to the place, a rigid investigation has been set on foot, and orders have been issued for the arrest of all priests in Ahualulco and the neighboring town of Teshitan. A mob in Saguayo, acting under a similar religious frenzy, attacked the small garrison of the town, burned the public archives and pillaged the houses of the authorities.

—Almost all the maidens of Oregon are bowed down with the mumps.

—No fashionable lady ever goes to bed without first looking in the glass.

—"If this jury convicts my client," said a Missouri lawyer, rolling up his sleeves and displaying his ponderous fists, "I shall be compelled to meet each one and hammer justice into his soul through his head."

—A Delaware man has been taking cod-liver oil for four years to cure the consumption, and has just found out that he never had any consumption. He is the maddest man in America, and his children haven't said "boo" for a week.

—Says the Milwaukee Sentinel: "An old Milwaukee bummer, when he read in yesterday's Sentinel that the women in Ohio are emptying barrels of whiskey into the gutters, pathetically exclaimed, 'What happiness to be an Ohio gutter.'"

The Stomach's Revenge.

The stomach cannot be maltreated with impunity. Overload it with food, irritate it with fiery liquors, impair its activity or vitiate its juices by any outrage on the laws of health, and it revenges itself through the liver, the bowels, the kidneys, the brain or the nervous system, and sometimes through all these organs simultaneously, or in succession. There is scarcely any variety of bodily or mental pain or discomfort which it does not inflict upon those who abuse and overtask its powers. Under these circumstances there is but one medicine to which the sufferer can resort with the certainty of obtaining immediate and permanent relief. The most wholesome and genial of all stomachics and correctives, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, produces an immediate and most beneficent change in the condition of the patient. The whole digestive system is at once invigorated and soothed, the liver regulated and toned, the bowels relieved of all obstructions, the spirits cheered, and the relaxed nerves strengthened and steadied.

"Happiness, is the absence of pain," says Jean Paul Richter, and 20,000 grateful patients bless the ANALECTIC of Dr. SIZANNE as the only infallible cure for PILES ever discovered. It is purely scientific combining the best method of the French, English and American surgeons, acting as an instrument, poultice and medicine, and not only affording instant relief from excruciating pain, but performing an absolute and permanent cure. All doctors approve it—Price $1. Sold by druggists everywhere. Depot, Walker st., New York.

To Dr. Helmbold's Patients. The celebrated Extract Buchu, of which Dr. Helmbold was the originator, is still performing wonderful cures of obscure diseases of the urinary organs, restoring shattered constitutions, and overcoming debility and diseases arising from imprudence and excess. This great diuretic never fails. Patients should be particular to get the genuine, which bears the doctor's signature. All druggists sell it.

NOW, but a physician knows how much a reliable alternative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cures.—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues they claim. In this state of the case, DR. J. C. AYER & Co., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other kindred preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

Special Notices.

Do not Madly risk Consumption when a few drops of HALE'S HONEY OF HORHOUND AND TAR, will inevitably cure coughs, colds, catarrh, influenza, and every other ailment leading to that awful malady. Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Don't Neglect Costiveness!

The prolific source of Headache, Dizziness, Heartburn, Oppression of Food, Flatulence, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Sick Headache, Palpitation or Fluttering of the Stomach, Yellow or Bilious Skin, Pain in the Side, Weakness, etc. DR. HARRISON'S PERISTALTIC LOZENGES cure all these symptoms, being both a laxative and tonic combined. Agreeable to the palate, operating without pain, they quicken the Liver, promote digestion, and are the only preventive and cure for PILES. Trial box, 30 cts. Large box, 60 cts., mailed free for this last price.

SMITH'S ACADEMY

—AND—

Commercial College

Founded 1874.

An institution for Young Ladies and Gentlemen intended to meet the requirements of Portsmouth and vicinity.

Instruction will be given in the Greek, Latin and modern languages and literature, including especial attention to those studies required for admission to college. Book Keeping, Mathematics, and Penmanship will have that prominence which their practical importance demands. The Natural sciences will be included in what is intended to be a thorough and complete English course of instruction.

MISS E. M. HARVEY, educated at Mt. Holyoke Seminary and well known as a successful teacher in schools in Massachusetts, will assist. Other competent teachers will be employed as the needs of the patrons may require. Applications for admission can be made at the residence of the Principal, 51 Middle St. or at the Academy rooms in Mechanics' Block, Congress Street. LEWIS E. SMITH, A. M., Principal.

IMPORTANT.

THE attention of the public is called to the fact that the STEAM WHISTLE FIRE ALARM, consists of seven long, distinct whistles. Our citizens will please remember this, that our fire department may not be called out needlessly.

A Senator out on Dinner.

Senator Nesmith, according to the Washington Capital, once underwent the following experience, incident to having received an invitation to dine from Judge Holt:

Fully equipped according to the law of etiquette, he repaired to the house of the eminent jurist on Capitol Hill, at 7 o'clock P. M. Ringing the door-bell, he in a few minutes was asked for his name, which was given on a neatly written card done at the National Hotel by the card-writer, and the guest was then conducted across a cold porch into a dimly lit, cold parlor. Here he sat, wondering how it happened that he was among the first guests, and getting chilled to the bone, for it was a very cold night. In a few minutes he was joined by the Judge-Advocate-General in a most extraordinary dinner dress, consisting of a gown and slippers—the last very much down at the heel. The chilliness of the room seemed to be increased by the entrance of the host, who is generally as cold as an icicle, but on this occasion seemed to be the North Pole. After a few minutes' conversation the host invited his shivering guest into the library, where a warm fire made them more comfortable. For an hour the two discussed the condition of the Union, but Nesmith saw no guests arriving and heard no rattling of dishes, or rather no preparations for a feast. From eight till nine they dwelt principally on our foreign relations, and yet no dinner. From nine till ten the conversation was desultory and miscellaneous, and yet no dinner. Nesmith, who had all his life been dining at noon, had abstained on this day, and now found himself hungry enough to eat his host. He could not help thinking, while looking at the Judge-Advocate-General, that he would like to take a little Holt on the half-shell or Holt in a roast, or better yet, Holt baked and basted. Eleven o'clock came, and while Nesmith tried his best to talk the host seemed to draw within himself, and might have been taken for a bronze statue, but for the monosyllables "Yes" and "No" that dropped out at times like three-pennies from a nail machine.

In the midst of a spasmodic effort at a sentence from Nesmith, Judge Holt suddenly got up and said solemnly: "Senator, you must excuse me, but I have an engagement." Nesmith jumped up with as much alacrity as his weakness would permit and staggered out. The Judge accompanied him to the front door, and when bidding him "good-night" said:

"I hope, Senator, you will not forget our little dinner party for to-morrow night."

"Holy Moses," cried Nesmith, faintly, "I thought it was to-night."

SPLENDID AND UNPARALLELED TRIUMPHS

—OF THE—

WHEELER & WILSON Sewing Machine Co.,

NEW YORK.

OVER EIGHTY-ONE COMPETITORS,

—AT THE—

WORLD'S EXPOSITION, VIENNA, 1873, &c.

1. The Knight's Cross of the Imperial Order of "Francis Joseph," conferred by his Apostolic Majesty the Emperor of Austria, upon the Honorable Nathaniel Wheeler, President of the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Company, as the founder and builder of Sewing Machine industry.
2. The Grand Diploma of Honor, recommended by the International Jury for this Sewing Machine Company only, for their important contributions to the material and social welfare of mankind.
3. The Grand Medal for Progress, awarded for their New No. 6 Sewing Machine, being for progress made since the Paris Exposition of 1867, at which the only Gold Medal for Sewing Machines was awarded to this Company. Hence the Vienna awards marks Progress not from a low, level, or inferior medal, but from a Gold Medal, the highest award made at Paris.
4. The Grand Medal for Merit, for the development of Needle Industry and excellence and superiority of manufactured samples exhibited.
5. A Grand Medal for Merit, for excellence and superiority of Cabinet-work, the only award of the kind in this section.
6. Medals for several Co-operators, of the Wheeler & Wilson Company, for superior ability.
7. The Official Report, published by the General Direction of the Vienna Exposition, signalizes the supremacy of the Wheeler & Wilson Company for quantity and quality of manufactures, and position in the Sewing Machine business, as follows:

OFFICIAL REPORT, VIENNA EXPOSITION SEWING MACHINES, &c.
(GROUP 13, SEC. 2, B.)

"The greatest Sewing Machine Manufactory in the world is that of Wheeler and Wilson, New York, which alone has brought already over $6,000 of their Sewing Machines into practical use. The complete production of the parts by machinery is so regulated that each complete machine may be used as a sample for exhibition. This firm produces 600 well adjusted machines daily."

"The latest production of this firm, and which is the wonder of the Vienna Exposition, is their new No. 6 Sewing Machine. This universal machine sews the heaviest leather harness and the finest gauzes with a truly pearl stitch."

"Wheeler & Wilson have received the highest prizes at all World's Expositions, and at the Vienna Exposition were extraordinarily distinguished."

FURTHER DISTINGUISHED HONORS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15, 1873.

THE GRAND MEDAL OF HONOR

—OF THE—

AMERICAN INSTITUTE, NEW YORK,

Was unanimously recommended by the judges of Sewing Machines for

WHEELER & WILSON'S

NEW NO. 6 SEWING MACHINE,

of being "a decided improvement over all other machines in the market," and which "must revolutionize certain branches of industry, especially in Shoe and Harness Manufacturing."

BALTIMORE, MD., October 31, 1873.

"THE MARYLAND INSTITUTE awarded the HIGHEST MEDAL for their New No. 6 Sewing Machine. Other Sewing Machines received nothing."

SAVANNAH, November 4, 1873.

"At the GEORGIA STATE FAIR, A SILVER MEDAL, the highest and only premium for Leather Stitching, was awarded to WHEELER & WILSON for samples done on their New No. 6 Sewing Machines."

Publishers and Proprietors.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.
Aided by a large corps of able writers.

THE BANNER OF LIGHT is a first-class, eight-page Family Newspaper, containing FORTY COLUMNS OF INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE READING, classed as follows:

LITERARY DEPARTMENT.—Original Novelettes of reformatory tendencies, and occasionally translations from French and German authors; Poetry, original and selected; Choice Stories for Children, &c.

REPORTS OF SPIRITUAL LECTURES.—By able Trance and Normal Speakers.

ORIGINAL ESSAYS.—Upon Spiritual, Philosophical and Scientific Subjects.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.—Subjects of General Interest, the Spiritual Philosophy, its phenomena, etc., Current Events, Entertaining Miscellany, Notices of New Publications, etc.

MESSAGE DEPARTMENT.—Spirit-Messages from the departed to their friends in earth-life, given through the mediumship of MRS. J. H. CONANT, which demonstrate direct intercourse between the Mundane and Super-Mundane Worlds.

ORIGINAL CONTRIBUTIONS from the most talented writers in the world.

All which features render this journal a popular Family Paper, and at the same time the Harbinger of a Glorious Scientific Religion.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE.

Per Year	$3.00
Six Months	1.50
Three Months	75

☞ There will be no deviation from the above prices.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money-Order on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes, since, should the Order or Draft be lost or stolen, it can be restored without loss to the sender.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

Subscribers in Canada will add to the terms of subscription 20 cents per year, for pre-payment of American postage.

POST-OFFICE ADDRESS.—Subscribers should not all to write legibly their Post-Office Address and name of State.

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. Thus we publish two volumes a year.

Patrons of the BANNER in remitting their subscriptions should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed, and the same care should be exercised when a change of location is desired.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

IT VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, is the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the size of a saucer, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All my friends say it is a miracle to see me out walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored me to the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
WILLIAM PAYN

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind, and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured a wide & world-wide reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long-continued series of marvellous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well-founded, if taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of very forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, Boston." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

BEHOLD!
WILSON'S
SUPERPHOSPHATE
At Auction!
My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I am limited to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still Move been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.
My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time mentioned, ready to receive orders, prices to be fixed by auction.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Research made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters relating to the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
All necessary for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay thereby, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"Mr. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

Daily Chronicle.

THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1874.

Boston Correspondence.

BOSTON, March 17, 1874.

March is hardly the month for sensations in this latitude, yet Boston has experienced a succession thereof lately.

Mr. Butler, in connection with Simmons as collector, has been accused of a great deal, and the confirmation of his candidate doubtless alienated some votes at the New Hampshire election. Allowing such to be the case, I value those votes as only equal to those that the democratic organs say are "bought by Navy Yard influence" at every election. If such strict party votes can be bought, the party must be very corrupt; if they can not be bought, the papers lie against themselves, and bring discredit to their party. [Of course the republican party would buy no party votes.]

The removal of the "Paddock Elms" seemed to distress a large number, but I doubt if a single vote to-day could be obtained to reinstate those old caterers to the comfort of pea-nut vendors, and obstacles in the way of passengers seeking the cars. The fine trees in the Granary Burying Ground will thrive the better for the removal of these almost dismantled hulks, and Tremont street from School has never before so much resembled a city thoroughfare as since the removal of these unsightly trunks. The S. P. C. A. is not more tender to a horse than I am to a tree, but after an experience of many years I am constrained to pronounce the Paddock Elms as ungainly, unsafe, without shade, and destructive to the growth of younger trees in the Granary Ground. For itinerant vendors, and for the hanging of cast shoes of horses of the Metropolitan railroad they served admirably.

The funeral of Mr. Sumner yesterday, was a lesson, not only to politicians, but to every young man. Every class, age, sect and politic joined to do honor to one who had proved incorruptible through a long public life. Lincoln, the President, had not such homage shown him as Sumner, the Senator,—perhaps from the fact his career was so much shorter. 'Twould be useless for me to give you selections from the many papers you receive yourself; but I have today received assurances from life-long opponents of Mr. Sumner that they consider him an exponent of the "honest man," and though they worked against him in life, would be glad to have his powerful influence for good to-morrow.

Business generally was stopped. Many stores did not even take down the shutters. Myriads were decorated in memory of the departed statesman. The floral decorations at the State House, King's Chapel and at private places, were profuse and in excellent taste. Window after window was also exquisitely arranged with the black and white emblems of mourning arranged from every species of stock, from a satin ribbon to the cheapest cambric. Yet all these made a grand display of public sentiment.

The procession of carriages from King's Chapel seemed interminable,—the notabilities entering therein comprised much of the elect of the land in literature, science, and politics,— while the long line of colored people on Beacon street, waiting to "fall in," gave testimony to the deep interest the departed has ever held in equality of mankind. The crowds at the State House on Sunday and Monday, and on the streets Monday afternoon, will be long remembered by those who were fortunate (?) enough to be jammed therein.

No more agreeable dance has occurred in Boston this season than the complimentary ball given to T. M. Carter, (leader of Carter's Band,) at the elegant new Odd Fellows' Hall on the evening of the 4th inst. The music was undoubtedly the finest that will be heard in Boston this season on a like occasion,—numbering thirty pieces before the close, including the principal leaders of orchestras and bands in the city. About 300 couple attended, among whom I noticed a number of Portsmouth friends. Mr. Carter has for a second leader Mr. C. H. Tompson, formerly leader of the Portsmouth Cornet Band. At intermission, Mr. Carter received an elegant present from the musicians present; none but members of the press being invited as witnesses from the outside throng.

In the crusade against the liquor traffic so lately inaugurated, there seems to be no provision made for the substitution of water for wine [I transpose that] or to provide for persons in delicate health who need a gentle stimulant. I would commend the wines of Perkins, Stern & Co., for several reasons:—They are pure; they are native; they are palatable; they have been proved and recommended by high authority.

The procession to-day in honor of St. Patrick has brought out an immense crowd of our Irish population, despite the unpleasant weather, so damaging to fine silken banners and rich regalia. The procession was very large considering the storm, and the public thoroughfares presented a queer sight from above as it passed along, the thousand upraised umbrellas resembling a gigantic bed of dark, waving mushrooms. M.

Readables.

While Nicholas Heil and Eve patrons were playing cards in his saloon at Breslau, L. I., Sunday evening, August Kellerman entered intoxicated, and pointing an Enfield rifle at the party exclaimed, "Look out now, fellows." Andrew Muller, a peaceful brewer, received the charge in the head as he turned round and was killed instantly. The authorities, with difficulty, prevented the populace from lynching Kellerman, who is now in jail.

John R. McLean, one of the proprietors of the Cincinnati Enquirer, was sent to jail on the 14th, by Judge Marchant, in the Police Court, for persisting in refusing to answer questions propounded to him on the previous day. The case before the Court was one in which Thomas Quinn and ex-Judge Hoeffer were the plaintiffs, and Schouden, engineer of the water works, was the defendant. The charge was a libel in causing a publication affecting the plaintiffs' character. McLean was asked who gave the information on which the publication was based, and refused to answer.

Bailey, the Danbury News man, has engaged passage in the Cunard steamer sailing from New York on the 13th of April. Mr. Bailey expects to be absent about six months.

The forthcoming report of the committee on war claims will take decided grounds against paying for damages done by Confederate troops in the loyal States during the late war. The question arises on the claims of Ohio for property destroyed in the Morgan raid. It is held, however, by the committee, that to pay this would establish a precedent by which citizens of Maryland, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Missouri could claim payment for all the property lost in those States on account of the rebellion. It is estimated by the chairman that $150,000,000 would not cover all the claims which would come under some such head as the Morgan claims.

In a letter regretting that he has to decline an invitation to address a post of the Grand Army at Rome, N. Y., the late rebel Admiral Semmes says: "As citizens of the same country, who have had a good rough-and-tumble fight, I see no reason why we should not make peace and be friends when the fight is over, especially if the fight has had the effect to increase mutual respect."

The Central Pacific Railroad is again blockaded near Emigrant Gap. The snow at Summit is fully twenty-five feet deep on a level. The telegraph poles and wires are buried out of sight half the distance from Emigrant Gap to Truckee.

The Treasury Department has evidence that the American ship Monadnock has been foully dealt with at sea, being found bottom upward with an augur hole in the bottom, the crew having made their escape in boats.

Bald Mountain, in the western part of North Carolina, is giving forth symptoms of volcanic action.

State News.

The vote in Hillsborough county was somewhat mixed. The democratic candidate for County Treasurer had 25 plurality; the republican candidate for Register had 7 plurality; the democratic candidate for Commissioner had 27 plurality.

The law library of the late Chief-Justice Perley was sold by auction, at Concord. The sale aggregated about $8000.

The supreme court, in session at Concord, decided, in the case of C. W. Spaulding against the town of Andover, that the reimbursement act of 1872 was unconstitutional.

Footlight Flashes.

Miss LeClercq is at Ford's Baltimore, East Lynne-ing.

Maggie Mitchell is Jane Eyre-ing herself in Cincinnati.

The Peake family is ringing the changes out in Wisconsin.

Dowd Byron has reached Brooklyn on his way "Across the Continent."

Mrs. J. B. Booth is playing in Brooklyn nightly to a large house, but with few in it.

The O'Gorman is lecturing in Chicago, but people are "nun" the wiser who hear her.

The Wallace sisters are doing small business down South, but then they are small girls.

Pepper is delivering seasonable lectures in Chicago. A local critic calls Pepper "red hot."

"Led Astray" is being presented in Cincinnati by a troupe that has Lingard there as long as the people desire, if not longer.

It costs $1,500 a night for an opera singer to disappoint an audience in Havana. Poor place for a strictly temperate artist to get suddenly indisposed.

Miss Neilson was to open at San Francisco on Monday, but it is quite probable that she is enjoying the fine scenery from a snow-bound train on the Pacific railroad.

Gough refuses to go into the crusade business. He can make more by lecturing for $200 a night, so he leaves the praying business to those who are willing to pay for the liquor consumed at the highest market price.

Temperance pieces are being prepared for production at several theatres all over the country. Praying bands are among the principal features; but they all take a drink—when asked. They are filled with a proper "spirit."

"Gift shows" are popular out West. A traveling Yankee recently advertised that he would give away his wife to any one who would take her, and he was immediately called upon by a number of Benedicts, who besought him to do them a similiar service upon the same terms.

—If a child wants a light to go to sleep by, give it one. The sort of Spartan firmness which walks off and takes away the candle, and shuts all the doors between the household cheer and warmth and the pleasant stir of evening mirth, and leaves a little son or daughter to hide its head under the bed clothes, and get to sleep as best it can, is not at all admirable. It is after the pattern of Giant Despair, whose grim delight, confided to Diffidence, his wife, over the miseries of wretched prisoners, always seemed most inimitable—a perfect picture of the meanness of despotism. Not that the dear mother means to be cruel, when she tries this or that hardening process, and treats human nature as if it were clay to be moulded into any shape she may please. Very likely, she has no idea whatever of the injury and suffering she causes, or perhaps her heart aches; but she perseveres, thinking she is doing right.

—The characteristic story of Parepa is told that once, when asked how she came to marry such a little man as Carl Rosa, who, probably to forestall jesting on the subject, generally good humoredly alluded himself to their difference in physique, Madam, with an arch smile and twinkling eye, demurely said: "Now, would you really like to know?" "Yes," was the reply. "Why, because he asked me!" she replied with a merry laugh.

A Magnificent Trust.

[New York Graphic.]

The statement which appears in another column of the financial condition of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, is a document of singular interest to the general public. This corporation is now by far the greatest financial trust on the Western Continent, and even in Europe has no parallel in the particular work assigned to it; only the two great national banks of England and of France having to deal with amounts of money comparable to those in its hands.

On this point the figures speak for themselves, and we can add nothing by comment to the impression they will make. The Company in question holds in trust nearly or quite one-sixth of the whole amount of funds devoted to life insurance in the United States. That there are great advantages in insuring with a company like this is obvious, and is sufficiently illustrated by the statement itself; the whole expenses of the Company were last year much less than half the average expended by similar companies.

It will be seen that the Trustees seem to have acted with a wise foresight in positively limiting the number of members the society will accept. Under no circumstances will it exceed more than one hundred thousand persons. This number, though not vastly greater than its present membership, is quite large enough to secure all the advantages to be derived from economy and unity of administration. And it will doubtless be a long time before any similar corporation in the world can attain equal dimension and rival its position and fame.

Doubtless the Company will now rapidly fill up its limit of policy-holders, which will be kept constantly full and overflowing with its superfluous applications into its still growing neighbors.

We invite the attention of our readers to these facts and suggest that this would be a suitable time to apply to this great Company before its ranks are full and the door is closed. It will be seen that the panic has not effected its business as it has that of other life companies. There are no doubtful securities among its investments and nothing can effect its stability—its receipts for interest alone being so much larger than its death losses.

The Stomach's Revenge.

The stomach cannot be maltreated with impunity. Overload it with food, irritate it with fiery liquors, impair its activity or vitiate its juices by any outrage on the laws of health, and it revenges itself through the liver, the bowels, the kidneys, the brain or the nervous system, and sometimes through all these organs simultaneously, or in succession. There is scarcely any variety of bodily or mental pain or discomfort which it does not inflict upon those who abuse and overtask its powers. Under these circumstances there is but one medicine to which the sufferer can resort with the certainty of obtaining immediate and permanent relief. The most wholesome and genial of all stomachics and correctives, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, produces an immediate and most beneficent change in the condition of the patient. The whole digestive system is at once invigorated and soothed, the liver regulated and toned, the bowels relieved of all obstructions, the spirits cheered, and the relaxed nerves strengthened and steadied.

PILES can be cured only by ANAKESIS, the greatest discovery of the age and the sole, infallible remedy for the worst cases of PILES. Thousands of sufferers after trying in vain all manner of lotions, ointments, and internal remedies, have been instantly relieved and permanently cured by ANAKESIS. It is the happy discovery of Dr. Silsbee, a regular scientific physician, and doctors of all schools endorse and recommend it. Price $1.00. Sold by druggists everywhere, and sent free by mail from principal Depot, 46 Walker St., New York.

A down-town Merchant recently sued his druggist for attempt to defraud. He was suffering from inflamed kidneys and asked for Dr. Helmbold's Buchu. The druggist gave him another kind, upon which the profit was greater. Instead of relieving the patient as the genuine preparation has always done, the imitation compound aggravated the disease, and a long and distressing illness followed. The court, after full hearing, gave judgement for the plaintiff with costs. MORAL, buy only the genuine. For sale by all druggists.

My friend, stop that terrible cough, and thus avoid a consumptive's grave by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For curing all throat, bronchial and lung diseases it has never been equaled. Sold by Druggists. 713

NOXIN but a physician knows how much & reliable alterative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative compound can cure a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues they claim. In this state of the case, DR. J. C. AYER & CO., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other kindred preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

Special Notices.

Have Mercy on your Lungs. They are as tender as lice. A hard cough tears and inflames them, and if unchecked may produce tubercles, hemorrhage, death. Use HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR, a quick, agreeable and infallible cure. Crittenton's, 7 5th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

Don't Neglect Costiveness!

The prolific source of Headache, Dizziness, Heartburn, Flatulence of the Bowels, Flatulence, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Sick Headache, Palpitation or Fluttering of the Heart, Yellow or Pallid Skin, Pain in the Side, Weakness, etc. DR. HARRISON'S PERISTALTIC LOZENGES cure all these symptoms, being both a laxative and tonic combined. Agreeable to the palate, operating with out pain, they quicken the Liver, promote digestion, and are the only preventive and cure for PILES. Trial box, 30 cts. Large box, 60 cts., mailed free for this last price.

DR. HARRISON'S ICELAND BALSAM, a splendid cure for Coughs, Hoarseness, and all Throat and Lung complaints. For sale by DR. HARRISON & CO, Proprietors, No. 1 Tremont Temple, Boston, and by all Druggists. 1m14 1m

Chapped Hands, face, rough skin, pimples, ringworm, salt rheum and other cutaneous affections cured, and the skin made soft and smooth, by using the Juniper Tar Soap, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York. He certain to get the Juniper Tar Soap, as there are many imitations made with common tar which are worthless. f 4

Prof. Gunning's Lecture.

The first illustrated geological lecture in Prof. Gunning's course was delivered on Tuesday evening, the 17th. The attendance was not what it should have been, nor what it would have been were people generally aware how intensely interesting are the revelations of the rocks, as presented by a skilled geologist who is at the same time an able lecturer. Those who did attend enjoyed a rich treat, and they and their friends will be careful not to miss the next lecture, which should attract an audience to crowd the hall.

The speaker began by showing that the oldest rocks in the earth's crust are cinders. Overlying those are rock systems formed on sea bottoms. Drawing on a large canvas, with pastels and chalk, he showed how such rocks as sand-stone, lime-stone, slates and the like are formed, and how the bony frame work of animals dropping into the rocks while forming, is petrified. Thus the stratified crust of the earth holds the ruins of by-gone creations. Studied in the order in which they were formed, these rocks are volumes of the earth's history.

To illustrate the methods by which science recreates the earlier creations the speaker took a new field. Between the Wasatch and the Rocky mountains is the basin of an ancient lake,—a lake as great in its day as Lake Superior is in ours,—a lake which stood there so long that the mud formed on its bottom is represented in a system of rocks a mile thick,—a lake which has been dry so long that rivers have plowed their channels down through these rocks a mile deep! The speaker then pictured a fragment of bone found imbedded high up in a sand-stone bluff—sand, once, on the bottom of this lake. Alone, the bone could tell us but little; but by its side other fragments were found, which the speaker drew and from which he developed the laws which govern the animal frame. Over the frame he sketched the animal itself. The drawing displayed a creature as large as an elephant, its head bushy, with three sets of antlers, its nose prolonged into a trunk, its toes stubby like those of the rhinoceros. And such strange, gigantic creatures as these roamed long ago on the margin of that ancient lake! Other creatures were there, quite as strange; horses not larger than rabbits; animals intermediate between pigs and camels.

After illustrating the laws of reconstruction by other drawings, he took the audience, by a bird's flight view backward through the history of creation as written on the rock systems of our own continent, drawing in rapid succession the leading types of life in each epoch.

More Water.

Messrs. Editors :—In the CHRONICLE of the 17th you seem to intimate that the action of the citizens on election day virtually endorsed the Portsmouth Aqueduct Co.; pardon me when I say that I think otherwise. In my opinion it was decidedly the reverse, and the citizens were almost unanimous in their opinion that this antediluvian corporation was not worth purchasing, at any price, at least until it should be decided upon the authority of competent engineers that the supply at Fountain Head was, as has been asserted, (on what authority I know not,) adequate for the supply of a city much larger than ours. I have faith in the interest our citizens take in the affairs directly concerning them, and fully believe that if they could be satisfied that the supply was ample, and only lacked the appliances of modern science to furnish a generous supply of water with sufficient head for both household and fire purposes, they would not hesitate to use all means in their power to secure for the City this most needed of all public necessaries.

It is, I believe, a settled question that it is not economy to go a long distance for the purpose of procuring a large head of water; and should there be a sufficient supply at Fountain Head, pumping-works could be established, either with a stand pipe or a Holly pump (placed in the main pipe) that would give any head of water that might be desired.

I hope our City Councils will take some action whereby a thorough investigation (by competent engineers) may be made of the quantity of water there available, and if it is found sufficient, estimates of the expense of a suitable aqueduct; and I have no doubt that all reasonable citizens will look forward with deep interest to the result and by their countenance and support encourage our City Government to take some active measures in promoting this great work.

The Mayor elect of our city being a Miller, and thoroughly conversant with the minutest principles of hydraulics, will no doubt in his inaugural thoroughly elucidate the matter, and point out to the City Councils the proper course for them to pursue in the premises. W.

Laconics.

Mr. John Murray, the actor, was accidentally poisoned by partaking of water containing an infusion of potash, while performing in "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," at Portland, Tuesday evening. He will be here as advertised to fulfill his engagement, as antidotes were successfully administered.

Freight Charges.

[Indianola Tribune.]

As much has been said concerning the rates of through freight to the seaboard we give the following figures on five carloads of 1961 bushels of wheat shipped from this place to New York. The 1961 bushels brought in New York the sum of $2958.20.

Freight charges were	1024,58
Other charges	65,38
Total	$1089.96

The net proceeds in New York were $1868.24, or less than 96 cents per bushel. The cost for freight per car was $20.491. The cost for freight per bushel was 53 cents. The cost for freight per hundred pounds was 88 cents. The freight charges from this place to Chicago are at the rate of 32 cents per hundred, leaving a charge of 56 cents from Chicago to New York. This shows plainly where the skeleton in the wheat bin is situated.

This grain, of course, would go from this place to New York without breaking bulk, and the only thing the railroads had to do was to haul it there, as the cars were loaded for them here, and there were charges for unloading at New York. No other comments are necessary to show what ails the farmers, nor is it necessary to try to refute the excuse of some monopolists that the silk dress and the piano in the house or the carriage on the farm are the real causes of the unprofitableness of farming.

We gave last week the freight charges on five car loads of wheat to New York, and this week we give the charges on one car of oats shipped to Portsmouth, New Hampshire, by Geo. W. Fernald, Esq. The car contained 787 bushels, and the oats were sold in Portsmouth for 63 cents per bushel or $495.98.

This would appear to the Western mind to be an enormous price and indeed would be if the intervening freight charges were reasonable. The freight bills were as follows:

From Indianola to Chicago	$ 66.04
From Chicago to Boston	164.70
From Boston to Portsmouth	20.30
Making total freight charges	$251.04

Or almost 32 cents per bushel for freight charges alone. These charges, taken in connection with a charge of $7.73 for commission, makes the total cost of getting this car load of grain to the eastern market $258.77, leaving for the shipper only $237.21, when considering that the oats cost here 30 cents per bushel or $236.10, it it will be seen that the profit to the shipper of $1.11 is not alarmingly large.

These results show plainly the cause of the complaints of the Western farmer, and also show that it is not between here and Chicago that the skeleton is situated but between Chicago and the sea-board.

Will Wagner Hang.

[Portland Advertiser.]

The Lewiston Journal, noticing the speculations in the newspapers about Wagner's probable fate, calls attention to Governor Dingley's remarks in his inaugural upon the law requiring the Executive Council to review capital cases. "Practically," the Governor says, "the determination of this extraordinary court of review—in which each member is a law unto itself—is controlled by a majority of the Council; for a sense of the impropriety of one and the same person acting both as judge and executioner, has in every case that has arisen under the law, restrained the Executive from assuming the grave responsibility of over-riding the action of the Council when that body has voted in favor of commutation. When the Council have voted otherwise, as they have done in only a single case since the enactment of the statute of 1869, the Executive has issued his warrant, as then clearly required by law." As the law remains unchanged, it follows that the fate of Wagner, or of any other convicted murderer; must remain undetermined, until the Council have "reviewed" the case a year after the sentence of the court is pronounced.

—Detroit is sure of at least one case of genuine love. A packet of 132 letters was picked up in one of the city streets, the other day, being a correspondence covering a period of six weeks; there was not a letter in the lot that didn't have at least six "darlings" in it, and such expressions as "my angel love" seemed to have been applied with a pepper box.

—It is an astounding fact that sight-seers will run extraordinary risks sometimes to witness out-of-the-way performances. It was only last week that there was nightly at a New York theatre "a volcanic eruption of talent," an "overwhelming cataract of variety stars" and a "maelstrom of artistic attraction," and yet hundreds of people risked their lives in the face of these collected perils, and paid money to see the eruption and partake of the giddy pleasures of the maelstrom.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY AND RUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes The Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected solution of the Protoxide of Iron; is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

This compound of the vegetable alteratives, Sarsaparilla, Dock, Stillingia and Mandrake with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system that undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, as Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum. Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism and Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation and General Debility. With their departure, health returns.

There will be no deviation from the above prices.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money Order on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes, since, should the Order or Draft be lost or stolen, it can be renewed without loss to the sender.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

Subscribers in Canada will add to the terms of subscription 20 cents per year, for pre-payment of American postage.

POST-OFFICE ADDRESS.—Subscribers should not fail to write legibly their Post-Office Address and name of State.

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. Two volumes are published.

Patrons of the BANNER when renewing their subscriptions should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed; and the same care should be exercised when a change of location is desired.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes fileless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas Scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on one side of my neck, one on each side of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plant corn, a well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind, and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured a wide a reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long-continued series of marvellous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of COUGHS, COLDS, and CONSUMPTION, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well-founded, if taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

BEHOLD!
WILSON'S
SUPERPHOSPHATE
At Auction!
My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignments has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.
My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.
The only Fertilizer that has ever received a SILVER MEDAL from the N. E. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Belling the Cat.

Valentine Hardy æ. twenty-four, might be considered a favorite of fortune. He had a good appearance; a nice little income, paid him by a grateful nation for six hours' attendence daily in the Water Department of Somerset House, was supplemented by an almost equal amount accruing from private property, and he had married the object of his heart's adoration, one of the prettiest girls in all New England, to wit: Felicia Hope; but (that plaguy conjunction generally steps in as an alloy)—but Felicia's mother had permanently taken up her abode in the neat little house at Bayswater which Valentine had provided for his living treasure.

Felicia was the only offspring of her mother's union with the late Colonel Hope, of the Bombay, Z. I., and had left India but a year when mischievous Cupid threw her in the way of Val. Hardy. They met, they loved; he proposed, and she accepted him. It was quite a love match; Val.'s income was not sufficient to make it worth the while of a dashing brunette to wed him solely for that; and, on the other hand, Mrs. Hope had but just enough to maintain her position in the world.

Felicia's mamma was still in what some persons term the pride of womanhood; she was not vain enough to think she could pass for her daughter's older sister, but few would have taken her to have reached the age of forty-two. Her husband, twenty-two years previously, had fallen in love with her tender brown eyes and rose-tinted cheeks; even now the eyes had not lost their old expression, and though the hot Indian sun had driven away the former fresh, healthy look, leaving in its place a tint more subdued in tone, Mrs. Hope was still a very attractive woman. Grizzled colonels and tanned majors who knew her amiability, womanly sympathy, and devotion to their deceased comrade, had more than once hinted that the matrimonial market was still open to her, and jealousy and heart burning had reigned in the little settlement of Borrioboolah Gha, up the country, ere the Colonel's widow and her only child resolved to return to England. But Mrs. Hope smiled sadly and shook her head; she was deaf to all flattery; the citadel of her love was impregnable, and her future now was bound up in the happiness of her child. At one time—soon after the Colonel and his wife arrived out, when her spirits were less buoyant than they had been of late years—there was a rumor that, had her wishes been consulted, she would far rather have been the spouse of a certain civilian in England than have journeyed to India the bride of Colonel Hope. This, however, was only a rumor, born no one knew where or how; and when her new acquaintances witnessed her assiduity to her husband, and saw the color returning to her cheeks, the rumor died away in the obscurity in which it had arisen; certainly it had never reached the ears of Felicia.

The day Val. Hardy sought the consent of Mrs. Hope to the marriage was probably one of the most miserable the trio had ever spent. Val. (who really was a soft-hearted fellow, despite his burly form and thick moustache,) when he witnessed the emotion of his future mother-in-law. The young couple would not at first acknowledge the mistake they had committed, but, on one special occasion, after Mrs. Hope had had a particularly fatiguing day of it, and had scurried the servant from room to room until symptoms of rebellion became apparent in the lower regions of the house, Val. ventured to hint to his wife that he thought it would be better if she took a more active part in the domestic arrangements, at which Felicia burst into tears, and admitted that she felt disappointed at not being allowed herself to hold the reins of government. What was to be done? Mamma was so kind and considerate in relieving her of all worry and harass, and then, again, mamma managed the servants so well. Both husband and wife readily admitted that all Mrs. Hope's services were like those performed by the celebrated Mrs. Margery, solely out of "that goodness of her heart;" still, the state of affairs was not satisfactory. Weeks passed on, and the situation remained unaltered. Once indeed, Val. had, at breakfast time, timidly hinted that he thought it a shame so much responsibility should be thrown upon Mrs. Hope; but she would not let him finish his sentence. A tear rose to her soft brown eyes, and, placing her hand upon his, she murmured, "Valentine, do not think I feel any weight of responsibility. It was by your wish I came into this house, and the thought of living with my child after she became another's has made me inexpressibly happy. For years past I looked forward with dread to the day when her hand would be sought in marriage, and when my eyes would cease to be gladdened by her presence but at occasional and perhaps long intervals. You, Valentine, dissipated my fears; she is still my child, and, though I have resigned her to your care, she is no more a stranger to me then when she rested upon my bosom. All I do in this house is a pleasure to me. I feel I am working for those I love and I strive to relieve them of vexatious care."

At this kind-hearted Val. and his wife protested that any idea of separation from their dear mother was farthest from their thoughts. Mrs. Hope's little speech was, however, not yet at an end; when her children would allow she resumed, her voice now somewhat tremulous: "If I thought either of you wished me gone I would not vex you with my presence an hour longer. Deny me the privilege of working for you and I am miserable; let me go on easing your cares, and I have attained the extent of my desires. Ah, now, silly ones, tell me you were only laughing at your poor old mother."

She rose from the table and clasped her daughter (now, of course, in tears) in her arms, gazing wistfully in Valentine's face. out to disturb your happiness. Of course it makes a difference the lady being your wife's mother and not your own, but take my advice and provide for the old lady in some other way."

"But she isn't an old lady. She's a robust, active woman, fond of taking a leading part in all that is going on, and thoroughly devoted to us both."

"That's where the mischief lies. She'll be so anxious for your interests that she won't let either of you have a moment's peace. However, I don't want to supply a wet blanket for any of your plans, which have doubtless been well considered. I have given you my advice, so now suppose we change the subject."

But Val. Hardy, despite sundry disagreeable inward promptings, remained faithful to the plan he had himself proposed, threw up the society of the London Wanderers, got married, and, on the expiracy of the honeymoon, brought Felicia to their new home in Minerva terrace, finding everything prepared for their reception, and Mrs. Hope thoroughly installed.

The position Mrs. Hope had assumed she firmly maintained. Solely to save the young people trouble, she had taken upon herself the entire arrangement of the furniture; she had been engaged in wordy contests with the landlord relative to sundry details of whitewashing, paper-hanging and painting, and, of course, had carried her every point. The servants were of her own engaging; she had decided upon the butcher, baker and milkman of the neighborhood to be patronized; a gardener had been spoken to relative to periodical visits to the small space of ground in the rear of the house, and had already planted the flowers Mrs. Hope thought most suitable; in short, all Felicia and Val. had to do was to return to be welcomed by their happy and now all-powerful mamma. Mrs. Hope kept the keys; Mrs. Hope ordered and dispensed everything. In point of fact Mrs. Hope was mistress of all she surveyed.

Now for a time this was pleasant enough. The doting young husband had no thought of anything or any one but his Felicia, and did not want to be bothered with household details, while his beautiful spouse regarded her mamma's efforts with every token of thankfulness. But by and by came a change. The torrid sunny days of summer yielded to the chills of winter; the opera season was at an end, there were no pleasant walks of an evening in by-paths of Kensington Gardens, the flower shows were over and it was cheerful after tea to sit by the warm fireside and enjoy the comforts of home. At this period was it that Felicia began to realize that she was little more than a visitor in her own pleasant palace, while Val. suddenly made the discovery that the real director of the household was his mother-in-law. The young couple would not at first acknowledge the mistake they had committed, but, on one special occasion, after Mrs. Hope had had a particularly fatiguing day of it, and had scurried the servant from room to room until symptoms of rebellion became apparent in the lower regions of the house, Val. ventured to hint to his wife that he thought it would be better if she took a more active part in the domestic arrangements, at which Felicia burst into tears, and admitted that she felt disappointed at not being allowed herself to hold the reins of government. What was to be done? Mamma was so kind and considerate in releaving her of all worry and harass, and then, again, mamma managed the servants so well. Both husband and wife readily admitted that all Mrs. Hope's services were like those performed by the celebrated Mrs. Margery, solely out of "that goodness of her heart;" still, the state of affairs was not satisfactory. At this kind-hearted Val. and his wife protested that any idea of separation from their dear mother was farthest from their thoughts. Mrs. Hope's little speech was, however, not yet at an end; when her children would allow she resumed, her voice now somewhat tremulous: "If I thought either of you wished me gone I would not vex you with my presence an hour longer. Deny me the privilege of working for you and I am miserable; let me go on easing your cares, and I have attained the extent of my desires. Ah, now, silly ones, tell me you were only laughing at your poor old mother."

She rose from the table and clasped her daughter (now, of course, in tears) in her arms, gazing wistfully in Valentine's face. The young husband felt a guilty flush rise to his cheek, but he had not the courage to tell her the truth. Apparently satisfied, the blooming widow resumed her seat, looking once more as bright, fresh and beautiful as a summer landscape lit by the rays of the morning sun.

"She's a splendid creature," said Valentine to himself, as he set forth upon his official duties. "By Jove, if I was not the husband of the daughter I'd wed the mother."

The same afternoon, by mere accident, Val. met his old acquaintance, Herbert Price. Since the evening the latter had given the young lover his memorable advice they had not seen each other. Price was too much a man of the world to feel any pique at failing to receive from his club crony any intimation of the change in his life; so when Hardy offered him his hand, they were as great chums again as though they had parted but the day before.

"Well, old man," said Valentine, "it's all come about just as you said. The mother's a good soul, but an awful bore. Won't let my wife do a single thing, and treats me as though I were a pet spaniel of a scarce breed. She's so deuced kind and considerate and of such an amiable disposition that you can't quarrel with her."

"Just the most awkward kind of mother-in-law to deal with."

"Exactly. If she was a violent, cantankerous old woman I might give her a bit of my mind; whereas now whenever I attempt to hint that it would be quite as well if my wife took the management of the house into her own hands, I feel as if I were an accomplished poisoner, just about to give my victim the finishing dose."

"I see your position," remarked Price, "and it reminds me of the old fable of the mice and the cat."

"What fable is that?"

"Listen. Once upon a time there was a colony of mice, whose eager desire it was to make a safe raid upon a certain heap of corn. In the same barn, however, dwelt a particularly watchful cat, and when sundry of the rasher mice entered to disport themselves upon the coverted grain, fearful was the havoc made in their ranks. Council after council was held, and at length it was determined that something should be done in order that token might be given of the cat's approach. A brilliant idea then struck a spruce young mouseling, and springing upon his hind legs, he said: 'What if a bell were put around the wily creature's neck!' For a brief space the novelty of the scheme struck the council with admiration. Then rose a gray-grizzled mouse, practical and experienced from the end of whiskers to the tip of his tail, and gravely said: 'What my young friend has suggested is most creditable to his inventive faculties, but who's to bell the cat?'"

"By Jove, you've hit it, old man. Come down and see our cat—I mean my mother-in-law—and judge for yourself the extreme difficulty of my position. Return with me this evening."

"No, no," pleaded Price; "I'm a bashful old fellow, unused to the society of ladies."

"I won't take a denial. Call for me at the Water Department at a quarter to four. We can have a cosy chat this evening, and wind up with a friendly rubber."

Herbert Price hesitated, and was lost. He liked Valentine Hardy better than any of his casual acquaintances, and at length was induced to promise that he would accompany him to Bayswater. The journalist shunned and affected to despise female society; but beneath his somewhat rough exterior and bluffness of speech there was a chord which vibrated with wondrous resonance whenever the sound of a certain name rang in his ear, and awoke sad and painful memories—memories of days long departed, when the future had seemed tinged with the roseate hues of promise.

When Val rushed off to resume his duties, Herbert Price wished in his heart that he had not that afternoon met his young friend; but he had given his word that he would spend the evening with him, and accordingly at the time appointed, they mounted the box-seat of an omnibus, and were soon rattling along the busy thoroughfares. Before the young husband had concluded extolling the virtues of his wife, they had arrived at Minerva terrace, and in a few minutes Price was in the presence of the winsome little woman who had so completely enslaved Valentine's affections. Mama, it appeared, had gone to the West End, to fulfil the great feminine duty of "shopping," and, having several calls to make, was not expected home till seven o'clock. The mere announcement that Herbert Price had been for many years a faithful friend of her husband's was enough to insure for him a hearty welcome from Felicia. The gray-haired cynic won by her bright smiles and simple grace, soon recovered his self-possession, and ere an hour had passed began to reflect that after all, perhaps, his experience of womankind had not been sufficient to warrant the outbursts of spleen in which he had so often indulged respecting the sex.

"Val Hardy, you are a lucky man," he said, when after tea the two men strolled into the garden.

"Your wife is charming," continued Price; "if she inherits her virtues from her mother you have nothing to complain of."

"Well, you will soon have an opportunity of judging for yourself, for if I mistake not, that is her knock," replied Valentine as the echo of a rat-tat floated through the house and along the garden to the grotto in which the friends were seated. Just as Val and his friend were about to leave their hiding-place, with the view of entering the house, the dining-room window opened and the forms of two ladies were seen descending the veranda steps.

"We may as well remain where we are," said Val., pausing, "for see, the ladies are about to join us."

Presently Felicia and her mother approached, and Val. went through the stereotyped form of introducing his companion to Mrs. Hope, but no sooner did the words "Mr. Herbert Price" escape his lips than she grasped her daughter's arm, and suddenly drew back a few paces.

"Mamma, dear," cried Felicia, startled by the sudden movement, "what ails you?"

"Nothing — nothing, my child," murmured Mrs. Hope; "a spasm — nothing more. It is gone now."

With the sound of her voice, Herbert Price's cheek flushed, and his heart beat violently. He was at the back of the grotto, and for a few seconds leant against the woodwork for support. The semi-darkness which prevailed concealed the agitation occasioned by the accents of a voice whose every note had once thrilled his soul, but which he had never expected to hear again. Quickly recovering himself, however, he advanced, and bowing stiffly, said: "If I mistake not, I know Mrs. Hope when she bore another name."

"Dear me, how strange, mamma," said Felicia. "Can it be possible that you knew Mr. Price before you were married?"

"Mr. Price is not mistaken," responded Mrs. Hope; "before I wedded your father we often met."

Obeying a sign made him by his guest, Valentine drew to the side of his wife, and taking her arm said, "Perhaps, Felicia, two such long-parted friends may have much to say to each other, and we may be in the way." The young man has never yet comprehended how, from the few words spoken on either side, he felt that his mother-in-law and Herbert Price desired to be alone. It was one of those instinctive thoughts that come but seldom in a lifetime—a thought upon which we at once act without further consideration. Felicia felt no such impulse, but calmly submitted to the superior will of her husband, and together they entered the house.

For a few moments the elderly pair left in the garden were silent. Herbert Price still stood by the entrance to the grotto, while Mrs. Hope remained a few feet from him, nervously destroying a half-blossomed rose she had just gathered.

"I feel," he said, "that some explanation should be made of my presence. Having been acquainted with Mr. Hardy for some years, I came by his invitation to be introduced to his wife and home. Believe me, had I expected to meet in Mrs. Hardy's mother the Blanche Tressell I once knew, no power, no influence in the whole world could have persuaded me to be here." He spoke thickly, his emotion betraying itself in every word he uttered, while his limbs trembled as though ague-stricken.

"I do believe it, for I know it to be the truth. Mr. Price—Herbert—I merit all your scorn and reproach; but were you acquainted with the circumstances which led to my conduct twenty-two years since you would look with an extenuating eye upon my crime, e'en though you might not be able to forgive me. Shall I proceed?"

She involuntarily drew toward him, but he made no movement, save a slight inclination of his head for her to continue her story.

"Long before I wedded Colonel Hope my father was deeply involved in debt; a combination of commercial misfortunes dragged him deeper and deeper into the slough of bankruptcy, and he knew that an accident might any day lead to a disclosure of the true state of his affairs. Though not vehemently opposing my betrothal to you, he took care during your absence in Australia, whither you had gone on a special mission connected with the journal upon which you were engaged, to advocate the claims of Colonel Hope, then home from India on a furlough. Your rival was assiduous in his attentions, and if he was much older than myself, could boast of a handsome income in addition to his pay. He became a favorite with my father, and was a constant visitor. Day by day attempts were made on all sides to undermine my constancy, for I loved you, Herbert, truly, fondly, with all the fresh affection of budding womanhood. One day, worn and harrassed with business disappointments, my father lay upon a sick-bed, dangerously ill, the doctors desparing of his recovery. Calling me to his side he declared that naught could bring peace to his last moment but the promise that I would become Colonel Hope's bride. Terrified and heart-sick, I gave my hand over to your rival. Shortly after that my father died. Though I dared not write to you, I hoped that you would have returned to claim me. But the months passed; Colonel Hope's leave of absence was on the point of expiring, and he sought the fulfilment of my promise. A week after our marriage we embarked for India, where I remained until a year after his death.

"I had never heard of you in the interval, and deemed that, like myself, you had wedded another. To my husband I was a faithful, true wife; he knew my love was not his, but he was satisfied with the respect and consideration I paid him. For you, Herbert, my love has never wavered. It has lain dormant in my breast for years, but with this meeting has again sprung into life with all the freshness of youth." Tears sprang to her eyes as she extended her hand to him. "Let me beg in conclusion, she said, "that the fact of our engagement in years gone by may be kept from Felicia. I would not wish her to know the reasons that induced me to wed her father."

"You have my promise, Blanche," exclaimed Price, ecstatically grasping her hand and holding it within his own. "Save what I am compelled to tell Valentine, no word of the past shall escape my lips. It is a secret locked as securely in my bosom as in yours."

"And can you forgive me?"

"On one condition only." He felt her hand tremble in turn as he drew her nearer him, but she made no attempt to withdraw it. "Blanche, I have long lived a solitary, hopeless life, and my pecuniary resources have not improved to the extent they should during the progress of so many years. But, were it possible, I would wish to regard the past as a dream from which we have just awakened." He paused, but she knew the words that were upon his lips. "Blanche," he murmured, "may I renew the vows made you in my youth?"

The moon was now high in the heavens, and shed its tranquil light into the little garden. The reunited pair had retreated to the shadow of the grotto, but, as Blanche Hope raised her eyes and looked into his with all the fond, hopeful trust of former days, he knew his question was answered in the affirmative, though no sound broke the stillness of the night.

"And you will be my wife, darling?"

Her voice, subdued to the faintest murmur, but loud enough to reach his eager ears, gave forth an acquiescent response, and, clasping her in his arms, he kissed her forehead.

* * * * * * * *

"Well," said Valentine Hardy, when a couple of hours after he accompanied his friend to the omnibus, "who could have guessed the turn events have taken? From me Felicia shall never know of your engagement in early life; but I trust you'll both decide not to live far away from us. My wife and I will miss the mamma awfully." Then bursting into a hearty roar of laughter, Val. exclaimed, "By Jove, old man, you've belled the cat!"

Daily Chronicle.

FRIDAY, MARCH 20, 1874.

"Revelations."

The Concord Monitor's idea that Gen. Butler is to blame for the republican defeat in this State, because (as it says) the "revelations" made during the Simmons fight had a damaging effect, seems old enough to us. We should think the blame belonged to the men who made such damaging revelations possible by committing acts which would not bear the light, rather than to the men by whose action the abuses were exposed. Wrongs are not righted by denying their existence, and when the republican or any other party becomes so corrupt that its record will not bear the closest scrutiny, it is high time it gave way to a purer one. But the republican party has in the past shown a greater readiness to reform abuses within its own organization, and more power to effect such reformation, than any other party ever did; and our faith is strong that any "revelation" of abuses will in the future (as in the past) call forth the prompt remedial action of the party, even though party idols have to be thrown aside to secure the desired end.

Mrs. Catherine Leach, wife of Shepard Leach of Bridgwater, Mass., was found dead in the cellar of her house early on Tuesday morning, with her neck broken. It appears that she returned home from Taunton on Monday evening, and was last seen alive sitting by her fire about nine o'clock. It is thought she had prepared to retire and mistook the cellar door for the bedroom door, and fell to the foot of the stairs, causing instant death. Mrs. Leach was the only person in the house. She was a very heavy woman and about fifty-five years old.

The prosecution failed to secure the conviction of Mr. George Young of Boston, proprietor of Young's Hotel, on a charge of selling liquor or keeping it for sale, and the stock taken from him some weeks ago is to be returned.

The Cincinnati distillers admit that their business has decreased 75 per cent. since the women's temperance crusade commenced.

A colored mail driver at Richmond, Va., has caused losses amounting to $200,000 by stealing letters. But little of the property stolen was of value to the thief, who has been jailed.

A local tornado at Cairo, Ill., blew a shanty, full of negroes, into the middle of a pond, whence they were safely rescued by boats.

The steamship City of Pekin, the largest vessel afloat except the Great Eastern, was launched on Wednesday at Chester, Penn.

Frederick A. Bailey, head book-keeper of Badeau, Lockwood & Co., wholesale fruit importers, New York, has left with $160,000 of the firm's loose cash.

The Germans of Cincinnati have held an immense anti-temperance meeting, and denounced the crusading women and everybody else connected with the temperance crusade.

The mayor of Chicago has positively refused to veto the ordinance allowing the liquor saloons to keep open on Sunday, having been asked to veto it by a committee of ladies.

A rabid Newfoundland dog rushed into the dwelling house of Mr. Wm. Bond, 594 Tremont street, Boston, Wednesday afternoon, and after tearing and breaking the furniture in the parlor, ran up into the attic, where one of the ladies in the house had the presence of mind to shut him up, until the arrival of an officer, who shot him. The furniture was damaged about $50. The inmates were very much frightened.

There's not much choice for the republican members of the Massachusetts legislature between the sneering Hoar, the humbug Dawes and the self-sufficient Chas. Francis Adams, for the senatorial vacancy caused by the decease of Chas. Sumner. Hon. Alex. H. Rice or Ex-Gov. Bullock would be a vast improvement on either.

Georgia is the first of the States lately in rebellion to pass a law giving public money to persons who became helpless in the Confederate service. The bill made a donation of $100 to those who had lost both eyes by reason of service rendered to the Confederate States. It was disapproved by the Governor on a technicality, there being no entry on the journal to show that the act passed by a two-thirds vote, as is required by the Constitution, though in fact it did so pass.

State News.

The vote for Mayor of Concord gave Kimball, republican, 1713, and Osgood, democrat, 1147, and there were 6 scattering. Mayor Kimball's majority 560.

A Boston party that recently visited Wolfeboro caught from the lake 65 trout that would average three pounds each.

Michael Conner, aged five years, was thrown from a wagon on Railroad square, Nashua, while riding with his father. He fell face downward on the pavement and was severely bruised in the face, besides losing all his teeth. The child suffered great pain.

The Haverhill Bulletin thinks Sinclair, Bingham & Co. will "slop over" at Concord next June, and like Tom Benton's bull will leap so high as to break their necks by the fall. That is what happened to the prohibitionists on the 10th of March.

The Commercial Advertiser calls New Hampshire "The Old Granny State." Ugh!

—There are over ten million women in America, and yet Tom Hutton, of Georgia, hung himself on account of a girl fifteen years old.

—A flannel-checked lawyer of Bucyrus, Ohio, led off in a temperance meeting, stating that he had seen his own father killed at his side by the carelessness of a drunken man. "Then," said he, "I took a solemn oath never to drink again, and since that time I have never broke that oath, at least not very much!" Of course a ripple of laughter floated over the audience.

—A delicate exhibition of self-praise, combined with a prodigious knowledge of history, comes from Covington, Indiana, and is worthy of record. The editor of the Friend, the local paper says: "We are unacquainted with many of our subscribers. When we think that Frederick the Great could call each of his 20,000 soldiers by name, the circulation of the Friend is appalling."

The Stomach's Revenge.

The stomach cannot be maltreated with impunity. Overload it with food, irritate it with fiery liquors, impair its activity or vitiate its juices by any outrage on the laws of health, and it revenges itself through the liver, the bowels, the kidneys, the brain or the nervous system, and sometimes through all these organs simultaneously, or in succession. There is scarcely any variety of bodily or mental pain or discomfort which it does not inflict upon those who abuse and overtask its powers. Under these circumstances there is but one medicine to which the sufferer can resort with the certainty of obtaining immediate and permanent relief. The most wholesome and genial of all stomachics and correctives, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, produces an immediate and most beneficent change in the condition of the patient. The whole digestive system is at once invigorated and soothed, the liver regulated and toned, the bowels relieved of all obstructions, the spirits cheered, and the relaxed nerves strengthened and steadied.

PILES can be cured only by ANAKESIS, the greatest discovery of the age and the sole, infallible remedy for the worst cases of PILES. Thousands of sufferers after trying in vain all manner of lotions, ointments, and internal remedies, have been instantly relieved and permanently cured by ANAKESIS. It is the happy discovery of Dr. Silabee, a regular scientific physician, and doctors of all schools endorse and recommend it. Price $1.00. Sold by druggists everywhere, and sent free by mail from principal Depot, 46 Walker St., New York.

My friend, stop that terrible cough, and thus avoid a consumptive grave by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For curing all throat, bronchial and lung diseases it has never been equaled. Sold Druggists. 31¼eq

A down-town Merchant recently sued his druggist for attempt to defraud. He was suffering from inflamed kidneys and asked for Dr. Helmbold's Buchu. The druggist gave him another kind, upon which the profit was greater. Instead of relieving the patient as the genuine preparation has always done, the imitation compound aggravated the disease, and a long and distressing illness followed. The court, after full hearing, gave judgement for the plaintiff with costs. Take no other, buy only the genuine. For sale by all druggists.

None but a physician knows how much a reliable alterative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cures.—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues they claim. In this state of the case, DR. J. C. AYER & Co., of Lowell, have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other kindred preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

Good News from the Front.

[Special Dispatch to Daily Chronicle.]

WASHINGTON, D. C. March 19.

President Grant has sent to the Senate the name of Major Daniel J. Vaughan, to be Pension Agent. J. H. KENT.

More Water.

Editors Chronicle:—In your article Tuesday morning, upon the vote of the people on the Water question, you state that the democratic party is responsible for the adverse decision; if so, it is one of the few good things of which it, of late, has been guilty—for as it appears to the writer, and judging from the vote, to many—there was not sufficient information on that subject before the people to allow of the formation of an intelligent opinion. We all know, to our cost, that, for years, the supply has been getting "small by degrees and beautifully less," until at certain seasons it requires a pump with the patience of Job at the handle to get enough to fill a teapot; and this at points many feet below the height to which a few years ago it spontaneously flowed. We have been told (but not on authority which most of us think sufficient) that there is sufficient supply for years to come at "Fountain Head." The public want to be convinced of this; they see that for years the apparent supply at the reservoir—Great Swamp — has been fast lessening; they know that pumping at that point is now necessary, and they know that for months each year the Aqueduct Company utterly fails to fulfil the conditions of its charter, viz., the furnishing of a supply!—Now what is the Franchise worth, which the people were asked to vote to buy (and at a probably exorbitant price) under these conditions? What are the pipe and logs—too small and insufficient even if sound—worth, if they must be at once replaced? Does the vote of the forty-one represent the stockholders of the Aqueduct Co.? What the city needs is an intelligent commission to examine into and report upon the subject. Let the Company feel that the public know that their franchise is of less account than it affects to believe, and you would probably see a little more life infused into the fossils who control it; and if the water is there, we should get it—otherwise it had better remain in its present hands than be foisted upon a tax-burdened . PUBLIC.

[Note.—Of course, if there is no water at Fountain Head the Aqueduct Company's "franchise" is worth but little; and—equally of course—had the citizens voted to purchase it, their agents (the city government) would have made all needed investigations before making any bargain. The citizens voted to aid the construction of the P. & D. Railroad; but the city government rejected the first scheme proposed, and it was not till an entirely new plan was hit upon that the expressed wish of the citizens was carried out by the government.

But the lack of water at Fountain Head was not adduced before election day as a reason for refusing to purchase, but the great cost of bringing the water into the city; at least the latter was the only reason we heard of as being advanced. If Fountain Head is drying up, the City would do better to look out for some other source of supply than to rest contented with growling at the Aquedect Co. for not furnishing more water; but if there is plenty there, we do not see why the Company should be blamed for not bringing it into the city, if the job is to cost as much as has been estimated and will pay nothing on the capital invested when finished.—Eds.]

Let 'Em Come On.

"Falsehood travels a league while truth is putting on its boots." Some time ago our democratic neighbor, the Times, unblushingly announced that "Mr. Nathaniel K. Raynes weighs but ninety pounds." The imprudent editor was coveced with confusion when we announced Mr. Raynes' fighting weight to be one hundred and twenty-two pounds, and the challenge for him (the editor) to go to the brick yard and wait till the man he had traduced appeared caused a sudden massing of the democratic paste-pot, shears, ink-bottle, etc., for defence. Then the Boston Journal copied the mendacious assertion regarding Mr. Raynes, and now we find it in a Portsmouth (Ohio) paper. Those foreign editors may consider themselves included in the brickyard invitation without any further formalities; but we warn them that Mr. Raynes is an old Texan ranger, and was a pretty heavy gun in the democratic battery of this city, before he went to Texas.

White Veal.

Messrs Editors: In hope that I may prevent cruelty and ward off disease, I wish to call the attention of the public to the fact that when they eat white veal they are eating the meat of a calf that was sick when it was killed. In order to make the veal white butchers are in the habit of bleeding calves a day or two before killing; they become deathly sick and faint and in this condition they are killed and sent to market. The butchers furnish it because "it sells best." When will intelligent men and women refuse to buy or eat white veal? Ask your physician (if you do not believe this statement), if an animal, which has been bled day after day till he is faint, will furnish healthful meat!

SECRETARY S. P. C. A.

Freight Charges.

Messrs. Editors: In your issue of Thursday morning, under the head of "freight charges," you publish an article from the Indianola Tribune that seems to do injustice to the through lines bringing freight from the West to the sea-board. I do not wish to be understood as an apologist for the unreasonable charges or acts of any corporation, but justice should be done to even those corporations that above all others are represented as "having no souls." I do not know anything about what the proper charges should have been on the five cars of wheat sent to New York, but as to the car of oats sent to Portsmouth it would seem that a little more light on the subject would enable all interested to see that grain could be shipped from Indianola to Portsmouth with a fair margin to the shipper. Inquiries at this railroad station show that the car of oats alluded to was first brought to Boston, then sent over the Boston & Maine Railroad to Newmarket Junction and thence by the Concord & Portsmouth Railroad to this city, each road charging its local rates. Now there has been no time this Winter when railroad rates have been so high, but what that same car of oats could have been contracted for from Chicago to Portsmouth for $163.69, provided it had been properly billed. At this charge the very handsome profit of $22.42 would have been left to Mr. Fernald; and at present, rates have been so reduced that the charge would be but $125.92.

The only inferences that can now be drawn with the knowledge of all the facts are these; that Mr. Fernald either did not know how to properly bill, with actual weights stated on bill of lading, or that the roads have overcharged. If this latter be the case, Mr. Fernald can collect back from the roads and yet rejoice in a good round profit. If the former, he is probably buying his wisdom by experience and will do better next time. Yours, &c. Y.

The Man Without a Country.

Most of our readers will remember Rev. Edward Everett Hale's story of Philip Nolan, the "Man without a Country." It will be remembered, according to the story, that Philip Nolan was an officer in the United States Navy who said he never wanted to see the United States again. This happened when he was a young man. Then Secretary of the Navy took him at his word and when Nolan's ship was ordered home that officer was transferred to the relief ship remaining on that station. Thus it happened while years went on and new Secretaries entered the cabinets of succeeding Presidents. Neither was any officer or man permitted to converse with Nolan on any subject in relation to that country in regard to which he had expressed such an unpatriotic wish until, an old man and on his death bed, the punishment was remitted and the dying officer learned of the great growth of his country, her progress as a nation, the Mexican war and finally the great struggle in the Rebellion, and, with tears streaming down his cheeks, and white locks floating over his shoulders he kissed over and over again the old flag and wound its folds tenderly about him.

It will be seen that here is material for a most dramatic presentation and with Mr. Murray's "Rip" before us we feel all the more interest in his new creation. As for the drama, the author had to weave it out of whole cloth, Mr. Hale's story being a mere narrative without incidents or salient points. Mr. Murray is supported by Miss Lizzie Gale and the Metropolitan Theatre Company.

Laconics.

Congressman Small closed his letter to Geo. W. Burleigh, Esq., thus: "Be assured sir, it will always give me pleasure to recognize substantially, when I can, the claims of loyal soldiers." Yet Mr. Small opposed the reappointment of Major Vaughan to the Pension Agency, and favored a person who had been in office nearall the time since and including Frank Peirce's administration. Wonder if Congressman Small thinks a paymaster in the army is a soldier?

Four hundred mechanics and laborers resume work at the navy yard, this morning, in the construction department, orders having been received to hurry the completion of the sloop being built by contract.

Our citizens are to be furnished with a rare treat on Fast night, a concert by the band from the Boston Asylum for the Blind.

The bridge at Dover Point has been opened for tolls, with James Drew, of Newington, as tollman.

The Portland Press leads us to infer that it would be a "Butler organ" were there a navy yard in proximity to it. We had entertained a better opinion of its "independent journalism!"

Mr. Benjamin Norton advertises the "Averill Chemical Paint" for sale at his grocery and provision store on Cabot street and gives a list of well-known names as vouchers for its cheapness, durability and beauty. It is sold ready mixed, in packages ranging from a half-pound can to a forty-gallon cask.

SMITH'S ACADEMY

—AND—

Commercial College

Founded 1874.

An institution for Young Ladies and Gentlemen intended to meet the requirements of Portsmouth and vicinity.

Instruction will be given in the Greek, Latin and modern languages and literature, including especial attention to those studies required for admission to college. Book Keeping, Mathematics, and Penmanship will have that prominence which their practical importance demands. The Natural Sciences will be included in what is intended to be a thorough and complete English course of instruction.

MRS. E. M. BARRETT, educated at Mt. Holyoke Seminary and well known as a successful teacher in schools in Massachusetts, will assist. Other competent teachers will be employed as the needs of the patrons may require. Applications for admission can be made at the residence of the Principal, 51 Middle St. or at the Academy rooms in Mechanics' Block, Congress Street. LEWIS E. SMITH, A. M., Principal.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA DEBILITY DROPSY AND RUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes The Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building upon an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

This compound of the vegetable alteratives, Sarsaparilla, Dock, Stillingia and Mandrake with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system that undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of those same humors to some internal organ, or organs, whose action they derange, and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone, the disorders they produce disappear, such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidney, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism and Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side and Head, Female Weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation and General Debility. With their departure, health returns.

Publishers and Proprietors.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.
Aided by a large corps of able writers.

THE BANNER OF LIGHT is a first-class, eight-page Family Newspaper, containing FORTY COLUMNS OF INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE READING, classed as follows:

LITERARY DEPARTMENT.—Original Novelettes of reformatory tendencies, and occasionally translations from French and German authors; Poetry, original and selected; Choice Stories for Children, etc.

REPORTS OF SPIRITUAL LECTURES—By able Trance and Normal Speakers.

ORIGINAL ESSAYS—Upon Spiritual, Philosophical and Scientific Subjects.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.—Subjects of General Interest, the Spiritual Philosophy, its phenomena, etc., Current Events, Entertaining Miscellany, Notices of New Publications, etc.

MESSAGE DEPARTMENT.—Spirit-Messages from the departed to their friends in earth-life, given through the mediumship of MRS. J. H. CONANT, which demonstrate direct intercourse between the Mundane and Super-Mundane Worlds.

ORIGINAL CONTRIBUTIONS from the most talented writers in the world.

All which features render this journal a popular Family Paper, and at the same time the Harbinger of a Glorious Scientific Religion.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE.

Per Year	$3.00
Six Months	1.50
Three Months	75

There will be no deviation from the above prices.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money-Order on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes, since, should the Order or Draft be lost or stolen, it can be renewed without loss to the sender.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

Subscribers in Canada will add to the terms of subscription 20 cents per year, for pre-payment of American postage.

POST-OFFICE ADDRESS.—Subscribers should not fail to write legibly their Post-Office Address and name of State.

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. Two we publish two volumes a year.

Patrons of the BANNER when renewing their subscriptions should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed; and the same care should be exercised when a change of location is desired.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

If VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, and suffering years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes filthless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

Last Christmas Scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows: One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the knee, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to my seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced using it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All who know me say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In consideration of all said, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to take me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to enclose you this statement of my case, with an earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,

WILLIAM PAYN

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind, and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured a wide a reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long-continued series of marvellous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well-founded, if taken in season. Every family should have it in the house, ready for the prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

'73 REUNION.

THE "HISTORY OF THE RETURN OF THE SONS & DAUGHTERS OF PORTSMOUTH, JULY, 1873," is just published. It contains 96 pages, octavo, and is a thorough detail of everything relating to the three Festal Days.

The Reunion, July 4th,
High School Reunion, 5th,
The Praise Meeting, 6th;

and containing a

Verbatim Report

of every speech that was uttered at the Tent on the 4th and 5th, besides giving a full report of all the Reunion preliminary movements in Portsmouth, Boston and New York. Much of the matter of this work has never yet appeared in any form, and we think it will prove interesting to all who participated in the Three Days' Jubilee.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

BEHOLD!
WILSON'S
SUPERPHOSPHATE
At Auction!
My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, summer and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufacturer, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.
My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.
The only Fertilizer that has ever received a SILVER MEDAL from the N. E. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN
HAIR RENEWER!
This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.
Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever. It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color. It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff; and the scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean.
By its tonic properties, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness and making the hair grow thick and strong.
As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.
Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, says of it: "I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."
BUCKINGHAM'S DYE,
FOR THE WHISKERS.
This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade to brown or black, as desired. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and efficiently produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.

The Temperance Movement Strikes the Cross Roads.

[Toledo (O.) Blade.]

CONFEDRIT X ROADS, (which is in the State uv Kentucky.) February 28, 1874.

When I opened my northern papers and red uv the prayin movement by the wimmin uv Ohio and Injiana, I said to myself, "The Cross-roads is bound to ketch it." There ain't no trouble agoin but wat it lites onto the Cross-roads. Misforchoon has marked the Cross-roads for its own.

And last Tuesday, Bascom got a postal card on which it wuz statid that on the Friday followin a delegushen uv ladies from New Boston, a manufakturin village started by a lot of Yankees over about ten miles from here, where they don't sell no spirits, wound visit the Cross-roads and try the efficacy uv prayer onto Bascom, to see if they cood not konvert him to stop his sole-destroyin, demoralizin bizness. Es Bascom red the postal card (or rather ez I red it for him,) he wuz a picter to look upon. His kneez knoct together and his face turned a ghastly pale, and his hand trembled so that it wuz with difficulty that he cood raise a glass of likker to his lips.

"My sole-destroyin bisness!" said he. "my bizness sole-destroyin! Good heavens, what next?"

"My time is about up, I guess, remarkt Deekin Pogram. "I hev seen strange things in my life-time, but when I am not allowed to take my regular drinks it is time I wuz goin hence."

"The idee," said Issaker Gavitt, "that sellin likker or drinkin it is demoralizin. I hev drunk likker all my life, and—"

At this pint Issaker's wife come in, and wanted Issaker to go and get some rice, and then go home and split some wood. Issaker wantid to know wat she come there for, and the onreasonable woman bustid into tears, and sed she couldn't split wood, with no shoes and three inches of snow on the ground, and that there wuzn't a thing in the house for the sick baby to eat, and ef Issaker would spend half the time at work that he did loafin in Bascom's and half the money on his children that he did for likker and—

Issaker didn't allow her to finish her onreasonable harrangue. He took her by the shoulder and shoved her out of the door, and swore that he didn't know how it wuz in Ohio and Injeany, but he'd be d—d if in Kentucky woman shoodent keep in her proper spear. He wuzent agoin to allow no woman to dictate to him wat he shood do with his time or his money nuther.

Capt. McPelter remarkt that ef his wife ever jined in sich a demonstrashun she'd wish she hadn't. His wife tried to stop him from taking another drink wunst, after he felt his oats and hed throwd a cradle with a six months baby out uv the door, and the black eye she got wuz a warnin to her never to interfere with his prerogative no more.

Poor Bascom wuz cast down. He said Amerikin liberty wuz gone, when a passel uv women got to goin about interferin with a man's biznis. But he should adopt vigorous measures. He'd never surrender—never.

Friday come and Bascom wuz ready for em. Evry wun uv our persuasion in the Corners hed ordered his wife to keep strikly in doors, and on no akkount to vencher out door in the day. Bascom asked us all to stay with him and see thro it. To which we all agreed. Then ez wuz married and kep house, went home to fix up their doors and nail boards over the broken glass uv their winders, so that their wimmin shoodn't see outside. It's no small matter to close up all the holes in the houses at the Corners.

Well, at 11 o'clock a procession uv wimmin did make their appearance at the lower end uv the village, and they moved slowly to'ards Bascom's. G. W. wuz as pale as a sheet.

"G. W.," sed I, "there is but one thing you kin do. Rally your friends about you, and make head against this unholy crooseade. The regular frequentees of the place are frittened, and are not here. Bring em here! Bring em here to wunst! Swing out a placard wich shel read:

"Likker free to all doorin the continyouance uv this fanatikle campaine! Ho! all ye that thirst! Come and drink without money and without price!"

"This, G. W. will fetch em in, and ez long as the likker is free they will stay in and give you their moral support. Shel I write the placard?"

G. W. wavered. He cast one glance at his kegs, and sighed hesitatingly. I cast one glance at them kegs, and wuz determined that so good an opportoonity shood not be lost.

"Ha!" sed I, "the foe! they come! they come! Ye hesitate now is to be lost. The head uv the invadin party hez turned the corner; shel I write?"

"Yes!" sed Bascom, busting into teers: "write. Ef they, shet me up I'm moolsed, and ef you have free drinks I'm busted. But I'd rather take the free drinks part of it."

"Certainly," sed Issaker Gavitt, soothingly; "free drinks, by all means. After all, Bascom, it amounts to the same thing. I'ts free drinks anyhow, for you hev to charge em to us, don't you?"

And so I writ the placard and histed it up at the door. The result was magical. In less than three minnits the glad noose had reached every house in the village, and there wuz gathered together in Bascom's sich a solid mass uv liberty-lovin men ez had never been seen together at the Cross Roads.

Bascom appointed two ov us to draw likker for the thirsty crowd, and then we throwd open the doors, calkilating to greet em with such cheers, cz wood effectooally silence all the singin and prayin they cood do.

The wimmin approached. We cood see em. They were all closely vailed. Ez they approached the door I directed the likker to be served out faster, so ez to get the boys tuned up to the right pitch. But, alas! they didn't stop! They didn't stop to sing or to pray or nothin. They simply passed by, pulling their vails close to their faces, and snickerin. I looked thro the vail uv one uv em and saw whiskers.

But with rare presence of mind I said nothin.

"Draw more likker!" I shouted, "they will be back in a moment."

By the time this drink wuz down Bascom wuz so far gone that he didnt know nuthin. He got lunatic, and springin from the counter insisted on everybody's not only drinkin but that every man uv us shood fill a bottle and take it with us.

It is onnecessary to state what followed. The revilry waxed furious, and by night the bodies uv the fallen were piled on top uv each four deep. Evry drop uv likker in the house wuz gone, for wat wuzn't drank hed bin allowed to waste, for men drawd it who wuz to tite to shet the faucets. Bascom wuz laid out, Deekin Pogram was snorin ez tho he hedn't slept for a week, and I, seasoned vessel that I am, wuz the wust played out uv any uv em.

The next mornin Joe Bigler venchered around, and I asked him concernin the wimmin.

"Wimmin!" sed he, "them wuznt wimmin. They wuz boys employed in the factrys in New Boston. Nasby," sed he, confidenshly, "my opinion is that that cuss, Pollock, put this up on you with a view to rooinin Bascom. I heered him talkin with one uv them factry men, who is his brother-in-law, and I heered the brother-in-law say that it wuz too good not to do it. I presume that is what they referred to. But don't say that I told yoo."

Passing Pollock's an hour after, I heerd him and Bigler laffin vociferously, and I knowd that this wuz wat they wuz laffin at.

But thank Heaven, the joke isn't on to me. I got twenty square drinks out ov it for nothing. But I do pity Bascom. His heart is broke. His empty barrels, his broken glasses and bottles, bear mute testimony to his losses. May Heaven forgive Pollock and Bigler.

PETROLEUM V. NASBY, P. M.

P. S.—I shel shoo the first number uv my new paper next week.

SATURDAY, MARCH 21, 1874.

The Temperance War.

The women's temperance union of Worcester, Mass., on Thursday began a crusade among the liquor saloons of that city, visiting a large number of them and singing, praying and soliciting in each after the plan inaugurated in Ohio by Dr. Dio Lewis. They were generally respectfully treated, but apparently accomplished little toward the furtherance of their objects. In a few instances they were insulted, but no violence was offered them.

The State temperance convention of Ohio has heartily endorsed the woman's movement against dram-drinking and selling.

In Bangor, Me., the ladies call upon the municipal authorities to strictly enforce the prohibitory law; if this is not done they say they will try the Ohio plan.

Rev. Robert Collyer thinks the temperance crusade will not accomplish any lasting good.

San Francisco has taken the anti-rum fever, and proceedings have been commenced by a mass meeting of 4000 persons.

At Cleveland, Ohio, on the 20th, the mob assaulted the ladies and severely injured one of them. Several gentlemen were hurt, one policeman seriously, while trying to protect the ladies from the brutal assault of the roughs.

In Pittsburg, Penn., the police have been instructed to close all saloons at midnight, and to keep them closed on Sundays. A vile, hooting rabble followed and insulted a committee of ladies who called on the mayor to ask his aid in restricting the traffic in liquor. Whatever may be thought of the wisdom or folly of the movement in which the women are engaged, the proceedings of mobs at Cincinnati, Chicago, Pittsburg and other places proves that the temperance crusade has the unqualified disapprobation of the dangerous classes,—the rakings of the gutters and back slums,—which fact will not tend to lower the crusade any in the estimation of decent people.

Readables.

Mrs. Joseph P. Waterhouse, of Boston, was burned to death on Friday by her clothes taking fire from a stove.

James Sylvester, a trapeze performer, was killed by a fall while doing a flying somersault in the 34th street Theatre in New York, Thursday evening. He miscalculated his distance and lived but a few minutes after striking the floor.

Shaw's Block at Biddeford, Me., was burned Friday. It contained fifteen stores, an eating house, billiard room, offices, a large hall, etc. Loss $17,000; insurance $15,000.

The steamship Mikado brings intelligence from Honolulu that Prince Kalokua has been elected king of the Sandwich Islands, to succeed Lunalilo. The elections were quiet. A serious riot occurred in Honolulu when the result of the election was made known. A mob composed of Queen Emma's adherents attacked the house of assembly and beat several of its members, one of whom afterward died. They tore up the seats and desks, and set fire to the house, when the United States and British marines landed and dispersed them. W. L. Green, minister of foreign affairs, tendered the thanks of the government for the timely interference of the marines. The King is still threatened with assassination.

A fellow at Union Hill, New Jersey, knocked down and then shot at a young lady who had shown good sense enough to refuse the offer of his hand in marriage. The young lady was much hurt, though the cowardly bully fortunately missed hitting her with the bullet. The ruffian escaped.

A little three-year-old daughter of John Elwood was burned to death while playing with matches at her father's house in Orange, N. J., Wednesday.

George W. Wheeling, a merchant of Trenton, N. J., eloped Wednesday evening with the daughter of S. R. Smith, a wealthy banker of that city. Wheeling leaves a wife and two children destitute.

The white wife of James Freeman, (colored,) of Farmington, Conn., murdered her sister, aged 18 years, with an axe at an early hour Thursday morning. Jealousy was the cause.

A dense fog in New York harbor, Thursday, interfered greatly with river navigation. A ferry boat ran into a ship and scared many people, but no lives were lost.

A lightning-stroke at Modoc City, Penn., caused a $100,000 fire.

The Hudson river is clear of ice.

A number of New Jersey legislators have been selling their free passes over the Erie Railroad, and are now gratified at finding themselves famous through the publication of their names.

A report comes from Missouri to the effect that a desperate conflict took place between the notorious Younger brothers, who are supposed to have been engaged in the Iowa train robbery, and some detectives, in which one of the brothers and two detectives were killed.

—A band of Ohio women gathered in front of a lawyer's office by mistake, and prayed and sung half an hour before they learned that they had been throwing away time. It is estimated that their prayers wouldn't have had any effect under eighteen months.

City Council.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, A. K. Warren received leave to withdraw his bill for payment for breaking out roads. It was voted to pay Ephraim Pickering's claim for damage to sleigh. A petition from Frank Rodrick, asking permission to erect a barber's pole on Vaughan street, was referred to committee on streets with power. Permission was granted Isaiah Wilson to encumber Market street, near Market square.

Laconics.

The Journal says "The public are again asking if the improvements on Richards Avenue are to be commenced this Spring?" Give it up—it's the hardest conundrum we ever tackled, though the avenue itself is the softest thing we know of, just now.

Another municipal election in November next, after the ward-boundaries shall have been duly "fixed" as per democratic programme, is talked of as among the probabilities.

Spaulding's Bell Ringers (including Miss Georgie Dean Spaulding, the lady harpist, and the celebrated ladies' cornet band,) appear at the Temple in a matinee entertainment this afternoon, and again in the evening. See advertisement.

Messrs. V. Doane & Co., of this city, are having another new schooner, of about 160 tons, built at Essex, Mass. She is to be called the "Daniel Marcy," and will take a place in their fishing fleet. It is expected she will be ready for launching the last of this month.

The republicans of Kittery have nominated Miss Harriet Shapleigh as one of their candidates for school committee; and at the republican caucus in York, Thursday evening, Miss Elizabeth Rogers was nominated for a similar position.

The officers attached to this naval station on Thursday evening tendered a complimentary ball to Capt. Earl English, who is about to leave the yard for sea duty. The sail-loft was beautifully decorated under the superintendence of Mr. D. Webster Barnabee, whose good taste in such matters is well known; and the brilliant success of the whole affair was another evidence of the esteem in which Capt. English is held by his brother officers.

The Sole Cause of Defeat.

[Dover Enquirer.]

The election in New Hampshire has resulted for the second time within the last nineteen years in the triumph of the democracy. While there is no choice of Governor by the people, the democrats have secured a majority of the members of the House and will be enabled to fill the vacancies in the Council and Senate, and will thus have complete control of all the branches of Government.

The responsibility for this result and the causes which have led to it need little discussion at present. The most prominent issue during the campaign has been the Prohibitory law as antagonized to the proposed License system of the democratic platform. On this question the democrats have made a bold and open fight. From the beginning we have known what to expect from them. They have neither skulked nor covered up their principles. Whatever our differences of opinion, we must give them credit for straightforward and clearly defined purposes. In their triumph Prohibition is defeated, and either a license law or the unrestricted sale of intoxicating liquors is henceforth to take its place in New Hampshire.

This result is through no fault of the republicans as a party. With two or three local exceptions they have stood firmly by their platform and with honest and earnest endeavors sought to retain the present excellent laws in the statutes. They have lost only because prohibitionists, men whose professed aims for years past have been before all else to retain and enforce the prohibitory laws, have now in this crisis of the conflict seen fit to join hands with open advocates of the rum power, and through their co-operation have given them the victory.

It is well to speak plainly in this matter. There are towns and wards entitled to 29 representatives that have failed to elect in this contest. Of these the democrats were entitled to but one, the town of Moultonboro. In 22 others the prohibitionists held the balance of power and could have elected the republican candidates had they seen fit. In other towns, electing eleven democrats, they also held the balance of power, and could have turned the scales in favor of the republicans. Had they done this, instead of there being 11 democratic majority in the House there would have been 33 republican majority, nearly entire in favor of retaining the Prohibitory law. We have taken no account above of Ward Two in Dover, Somersworth, Gilford, and several towns in Cheshire county, where the representatives were lost through local divisions. We charge them only where the actual balance rests with them. They have also defeated the choice of four republican Senators, Messrs. Wallace, Sanborn, Burns and Barnard, and of the three republican Councillors, Messrs. Foss, Stevens and Scott—every one of them, as we believe, friends of Prohibition; and not least, the election of McCutchins for Governor, of whose temperance principles not even they can have a doubt. This is their work.

There are many men in the prohibition party, and we are willing to admit that they have thrown the larger number of its votes, who are conscientious, sincere men, who have voted in this election as seemed to them best for the cause of temperance. For such we have no word of reproach. We believe they have greatly erred in judgment, and that they themselves will be quick to see and regret the consequences of their action. These men have acted honestly if not wisely, and however sad or fatal the results they have aided in bringing about, their motives were of the best.

Of that other class, the designing leaders, and especially the political priests who with their eyes open have deliberately, with hypocritical pretences and cool-blooded treachery, betrayed the cause they pretended to uphold and advocate, we have no words to express our utter detestation and abhorrence. These men of easy virtue, who in their pulpits and editorials and public speeches have made prohibition the only vital issue, yet who in private have repeatedly expressed their sympathies for the success of the democracy, and the consequent overthrow of prohibition,—who have reproached the republicans as a party because they did not enforce the laws against public sentiment, and yet have thrown their own entire strength for its defeat,— who have openly avowed their desire that all these prohibitory laws may be swept from the statute that people may have an experience of free rum and its consequences—for such men as these there is no depth of public indignation and contempt too great.

They have reaped just as they have sown. They have prostituted their authority and influence as Christian teachers to the overthrow of the great interests of temperance, involving the highest welfare and destinies of thousands of their fellow citizens, from whom the restraints that have shielded them and the supports that have upheld their weak and tempted wills will now be taken. Placed in positions where they ought to have been guides and lights to the earnest and conscientious men who have sought their direction, they have falsified their trusts, giving them stones instead of bread, and in some instances at least have misled them by the most unpardonable misrepresentations and distortions of truth. No wonder that the Herald and the democratic journals are rejoicing together. It has been a joint stock concern all through. There is a glorious ring in these mutual congratulations of Millen and Lovering and Page and Baily and Stone. The lions and the lambs and the asses have indeed lain down together.

But for the struggling men who will now have temptations staring them in the face at every corner under the coming reign of legalized rumselling, precipitated upon us by the councils and acts of these prohibition leaders—What of them? How long must the experiment last? How many of the weak must succumb to increased temptations before the Stones and Millens will be satisfied? They have taken the responsibility and they must bear it. If through their false lights any of their weak brethren shall perish—if through them the happiness and hopes of peaceful households shall be broken—if the young shall be demoralized and borne away by the increased floods of intemperance and corruption to which their acts have so contributed—upon them must rest the burden, and it is one that may well make them thoughtful, and one for which the plaudits of the drunken rabble at the polls will be a poor consolation.

The Prohibitionists' Reward.

[Lawrence (Mass.) American.]

The political gentlemen of this year who will need to be unusually watchful for their personally safety, when the fool-killer makes his rounds, are the prohibitionists of the State of New Hampshire. The republican party boldly adopted a prohibitory plank in their platform, in deference to the wishes of Dr. Blackmer and his crowd. The latter knew perfectly well that their only hope of obtaining any hold for temperance in the government of the State was in and through the republican party. They had what they wanted in the platform, but when it came to voting, the so-called prohibitory party voted for their own men and prevented the choice of republican representatives in a dozen or more towns. Had they acted with the republicans, the legislature would now have been in the hands of a party pledged to prohibition and the prohibitory law would have been saved. As it is, the prohibitionists of New Hampshire have given the State to democracy, and the repeal of the prohibitory law and a year of free rum will be their reward. We trust that Blackmer & Co., having thus shown themselves the allies of the most vicious elements in the State, will at the least have the decency, for the next twelve months or so, to cease pretending that they are the friends of temperance. The dram shops of the whole State, thanks to these dogs-in-the-manager, led by Blackmer, can now swing wide their doors, with none to molest or make afraid.

—An Oswego woman says she cannot pray in the saloons, but she will shoot the first man who sells her husband liquor. That will certainly make the thing binding.

—"If you are courting a girl," says a California paper, "stick to her, no matter how large her father's feet are."

SMITH'S ACADEMY

—AND—

Commercial College

Founded 1874.

An institution for Young Ladies and Gentlemen intended to meet the requirements of Portsmouth and vicinity.

Instruction will be given in the Greek, Latin and modern languages and literature, including especial attention to those studies required for admission to college. Book Keeping, Mathematics, and Penmanship will have that prominence which their practical importance demands. The Natural Sciences will be included in what is intended to be a thorough and complete English course of instruction.

Mrs. E. M. BARRETT, educated at Mt. Holyoke Seminary and well known as a successful teacher in schools in Massachusetts, will assist. Other competent teachers will be employed as the needs of the patrons may require. Applications for admission can be made at the residence of the Principal, 31 Middle St. or at the Academy rooms in Mechanics' Block, Congress Street. LEWIS E. SMITH, A. M., Principal.

A Skeleton Man.

There is at present on exhibition through the country towns of England a "skeleton man," whose physique presents phenomena of so extraordinary a nature as to have merited a description in the London "Lancet." Dr. John H. Salter, of the Royal College of Surgeons, gives the following account of this "living anatomy:" "He is thirty-four years of age, stands four feet six inches high, and weighs forty-nine pounds. His father is dead, having succumbed to the effects of old age; his mother is living, and also two sisters, who are healthy, married, and well grown. He is himself quite healthy, and, except in appearance, constituted much the same as other mortals. His arms and legs are simply bones, abnormally small, covered with rudimentary muscles so minute that their outlines can with difficulty be seen or felt. The head is somewhat large; the face extremely attenuated, the teeth prominent, eyes blue, without lashes. The skin of the cheeks is stretched tightly over their projections of bone, and the chin and lower parts of the face are wrinkled and wizen. He eats, drinks, smokes, sleeps, takes exercise, and shows fits of temper like a spoiled child. He is said to have never had a day's illness in his life; to be not particularly sensible to cold; to be capable of imbibing alcoholic drinks in considerable quantities; and the only faculties which seem to be defective are his hearing and speech, the latter of which is expressed in sepulchral tones and in a jerky manner. He can walk a mile or two at a stretch. He shakes hands strongly and heartily. His breathing is normal. He has a good head of brown, straight, fine hair; rudimentary eyebrows; no hair elsewhere over his body. His joints are large, and so is his abdomen; his chest is of fair size."

The most curious question that arises is as to how this man can possess so much strength as he does with so little muscular development; and why his tissues are not nourished to a greater extent by the quantity of food consumed. There has been no alteration in his weight for ten years.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT FOR 1874.

READ AND THINK.

We have received to-day a large lot of FLOUR in Barrels and Half-Barrels, which we propose to sell at PRICES THAT CAN'T BE BEAT.

PRIDE OF THE WEST	$10.75
RED JACKET	12.00
GENUINE	9.25
A	10.00
LILY OF THE VALLEY	10.50

These prices are less than the same brands or quality can be bought in this State, and we guarantee everything as we say, or you can return it at our expense.

With EVERY BARREL of Flour so sold, we shall give you your choice of

TWO CHROMOS,

Sharing the Meal!

—AND—

The Anxious Mother.

Why? 1st, Because it so increases our sales that even with a small profit on the flour we can make day wages. 2d, Because when people come to buy flour they see the prices of other goods and buy them.

NOW TRY US. All we ask is for you to call, see and be convinced.

Publishers and Proprietors.

ISAAC B. RICH.....BUSINESS MANAGER.
LUTHER COLBY.....EDITOR.

Aided by a large corps of able writers.

THE BANNER OF LIGHT is a first-class, eight-page Family Newspaper, containing FORTY COLUMNS OF INTERESTING AND INSTRUCTIVE READING, classed as follows:

LITERARY DEPARTMENT.—Original Novelettes of reformatory tendencies, and occasionally translations from French and German authors; Poetry, original and selected; Choice Stories for Children, etc.

REPORTS OF SPIRITUAL LECTURES—By able Trance and Normal Speakers.

ORIGINAL ESSAYS—Upon Spiritual, Philosophical and Scientific Subjects.

EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT.—Subjects of General Interest, the Spiritual Philosophy, its phenomena, etc., Current Events, Entertaining Miscellany, Notices of New Publications, etc.

MESSAGE DEPARTMENT.—Spirit-Messages from the departed to their friends in earth-life, given through the mediumship of MRS. J. H. CONANT, which demonstrate direct intercourse between the Mundane and Super-Mundane Worlds.

ORIGINAL CONTRIBUTIONS from the most talented writers in the world.

All which features render this journal a popular Family Paper, and at the same time the Harbinger of a Glorious Scientific Religion.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION, IN ADVANCE.

Per Year	$3.00
Six Months	1.50
Three Months	75

☞ There will be no deviation from the above prices.

In remitting by mail, a Post-Office Money-Order on Boston, or a Draft on a Bank or Banking House in Boston or New York City, payable to the order of COLBY & RICH, is preferable to Bank Notes, since, should the Order or Draft be lost or stolen, it can be renewed without loss to the sender.

Subscriptions discontinued at the expiration of the time paid for.

Subscribers in Canada will add to the terms of subscription 20 cents per year, for pre-payment of American postage.

POST-OFFICE ADDRESS.—Subscribers should not fail to write legibly their Post-Office Address and name of State.

Those wishing the direction of their paper changed from one town to another, must always give the name of the Town, County and State to which it has been sent.

☞ Specimen copies sent free.

Twenty-six numbers of the BANNER compose a volume. Thus we publish two volumes a year.

Patrons of the BANNER when renewing their subscriptions should be careful to always state the place to which the paper is mailed; and the same care should be exercised when a change of location is desired.

ADVERTISEMENTS published at twenty cents per line for the first, and fifteen cents per line for each subsequent insertion.

SCROFULA.

SCROFULOUS HUMORS.

IF VEGETINE will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health, and baffling different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood-Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention. When the blood becomes listless and stagnant, either from change of weather or climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body. The conviction is, in the public mind as well as in the medical profession, that the remedies supplied by the Vegetable Kingdom are more safe, more successful, in the cure of disease, than mineral medicines. VEGETINE is composed of roots, barks, and herbs. It is pleasant to take, and perfectly safe to give an infant. In Scrofula the VEGETINE has performed wonderful cures, where many other remedies have failed, as will be seen by the following unsolicited testimonial:

A Walking Miracle.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir:—Though a stranger I want to inform you what VEGETINE has done for me.

I last Christmas Scrofula made its appearance in my system—large running ulcers appearing on me as follows:—One on each of my arms, one on my thigh, which extended to the seat, one on my head, which eat into the skull bone, one on my left leg, which became so bad that two physicians came to amputate the limb, though upon consultation concluded not to do so, as my whole body was so full of Scrofula they deemed it advisable to cut the sore, which was painful beyond description, and there was a quart of matter run from this one sore. The physicians all gave me up to die, and said they could do no more for me. Both of my legs were drawn up to the seat, and it was thought if I did get up again I would be a cripple for life.

When in this condition I saw VEGETINE advertised, and commenced taking it in March, and followed on with it, until I had used 16 bottles, and this morning I am going to plough corn, a well man. All my townsmen say it is a miracle to see me round walking and working.

In conclusion I will add, when I was enduring such great suffering, from that dreadful disease, Scrofula, I prayed to the Lord above to relieve me out of this world, but as VEGETINE has restored to me the blessings of health, I desire more than ever to live, that I may be of some purpose to my fellow man, and I know of no better way to aid suffering humanity, than to endorse you this statement of my case, with my earnest hope that you will publish it, and it will afford me pleasure to reply to any communication which I may receive therefrom.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,

WILLIAM PAYN

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind, and become household words among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured a wide and a reputation, or maintained it so long, as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long-continued series of marvellous cures, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of COUGHS, COLDS, CONSUMPTION, that can be made by medical skill. Indeed, the CHERRY PECTORAL has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors, to a great extent, and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects, that is well-founded, if taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely protection. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

And acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, INFLUENZA, WHOOPING COUGH, HOARSENESS, PAINS OR SORENESS IN THE CHEST OR SIDE, BLEEDING AT THE LUNGS, LIVER COMPLAINTS, &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

By a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

Does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

And all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

BEHOLD!
WILSON'S
SUPERPHOSPHATE
At Auction!
My plan of selling Superphosphate without consignment has proved so successful and has given such universal satisfaction to the Farmers, that I have decided to pursue a similar course this season, and shall make arrangements so that the Farmers in all the principal towns in New England can have an opportunity of purchasing some of my Superphosphates, either of the dealers or of my agents. I have none out on commission, and shall send none out in that way. No goods will be sent from the works until sold, and purchasers can thus rely on receiving fresh goods whenever they choose to buy. The experience that I have had in selling Superphosphate on commission, has taught me that the plan is not the right one. In many instances the goods are not properly taken care of, but often remain exposed to the weather, sunburnt and winter, and the purchaser who buys from a lot which has thus lain through several seasons may (and perhaps justly) complain that the Fertilizer is not up to the standard, when in reality the goods were of extra quality at the time they left the Manufactory, and would still have been had they been properly cared for. It is to avoid this and other abuses that I decline to commission any Superphosphate.
My Agent M. D. Lawrence will be at the following places at the time named, ready to receive orders, price to be fixed by auction.
The only Fertilizer that has ever received a SILVER MEDAL from the N. E. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"Mr. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

CURING
Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach and Breath, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, and purifying the Blood, are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, and powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action, and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every-day complaints of everybody, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most skillful physicians, most eminent clergymen, and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed, and of great benefit they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar-coated, they are easy to take, and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

Parepa's Married Life.

A lady of New York, both poet and novelist, who enjoyed the friendship of Parepa, thus writes a touching memory of her to the Chicago Times, under the nom de plume of "Cameo." On her first arrival in this country, at a private entertainment in New York the writer said to the artist:

"You are very beautiful, and remind me of my favorite Milo. I have a copy of this most wonderfully lovely Venus in every room of my home that possesses sufficient interest to keep me in it an hour at a time."

"How I should love to live in one of those rooms!" exclaimed Parepa. "My life makes an Arab of me—a female troubadour, a singing vagabond; but when I am rich enough I shall marry some good man for love, build me a home, and fill my house with little children, all my own. I love little children. Do you know that 'Norma' nearly breaks my heart? They tell me that I am too young to sing in 'Norma,' that only those who have been mothers and sorrowed deeply know anything about that wonderful opera.

I can imagine it is a mysterious composition to heartless, selfish women, who love no one but themselves, and to whom children are a burden and a torture. I do not sorrow. I have been broken-hearted, and I know the wretchedness of an unhappy wife, but God is good. He permits me to forget, and I feel now when I am singing as if there were no such thing as years, and no coldness in age. I am wild with hope, to-night. Don't you see it in my face?"

"Perhaps you will love some American gentleman, and live with us always."

"I don't know. My next husband must be a devotee of music, and enjoy it as intensely as I do. When a man loves me truly and is possessed of that one sentiment in common with me, he may be rich or poor, a giant or a pigmy, an Apollo or a Caliban, I shall marry him all the same, and may be happy with him without asking him where he was born."

By and by she married, and people smiled at her choice, simply because of the inequalities of their size; but I remembered what she told me when first we met and I believed in her womanliness more entirely than ever. She married an artist, and as time has proved, she married him from motives that cannot be questioned by the skeptic, in downright, unselfish affection.

That their personal appearance when together was somewhat comical, she well knew, and laughed at it more heartily than any one else. If he did not care because her unusual size made him appear smaller than he really is, neither did she feel sensitive because his little figure gave her the appearance of a beautiful young giantess. One night I saw them together at the Leiderkranz ball. Everybody who is familiar with the grotesqueness of this grand affair, knows that no opportunity of burlesquing notable people is permitted to pass without proper attention. Parepa had become Madame Rosa a little while before, and many persons had not yet smoothed the smile out of their faces that the difference in their height would call up.

An immense tall Teuton dressed himself for the ball as a bride in white robes, a lady's wig, and flowers, and a small lad was arrayed in the full dress of a gentleman. Now and then he wished to converse with his wife, and with a pull of her hand, or a snatch at her drapery, she was made to understand that an interview was desired. The wife halted. The ladder was placed against her breast, and the little husband ran up until his face was on a level with his companion's when a most social occasion occurred. When the chat was over, the little man ran down, took his ladder in his hand again, and the pair promenaded through the academy. Carl Rosa and Parepa, his handsome bride, saw the intention of the burlesque, and whatever unpleasantness Rosa might have felt, he smiled very pleasantly about it, while his wife laughed like a merry child, until the tears rolled over her handsome dimpled face. Round and round the immense ball room the great artists followed this travesty of themselves, so that no one should fail to comprehend the practical joke.

"It is disrespectful, and I don't like it," I said to her, as she came to my box.

"O, but I do," she answered. "It is such fun for everybody; 'I've got a little husband no bigger than my thumb, I'll put him in a phat cup, and there I'll make him drum,' won't I, Carl Rosa?" and she looked so happy and childlike at him that he laughed back at her, while she sang the old-fashioned nursery rhyme in the sweetest of undertones.

Then I knew that she was thoroughly happy wife, and satisfied with her lot.

Madame Rosa was never jealous of other prime donne. Every one who came down upon us was more welcome to her than the last.

"We cannot have too much music, nor too many songs," she said. "An artist is an example, and everybody should be glad to hear of a new one. By and by I am going to find that home that I have dreamed about, and all those children, and I don't want to leave a great silent space where I have been so long."

The space has been made and the silence has fallen, but there was never any real home for her, nor any little children. Alas! poor Carl Rosa!

When Parepa thought she should have been a mother, two years since, she went to England that the child's birthplace might be the same as her own. By and by she came back to us sorrowfully, and left the little hope buried in a tiny coffin. She sang again, and her voice was richer, sweeter and tenderer, but something had gone out of her face, something of carelessness for the present—a something of hope for the future, but her song had an added pathos, and there was less laughter where she went.

By and by the renewed hope of becoming a mother brought her back from Egypt to her native country. Her physician had endeavored to hinder her expectation from reaching too far into her plans for the future; but she refused to think of a childless home, for a child all her own was her dream of happiness.

In Heaven, we hope, her dream is a beautiful realization, for the dead mother lies with her dead babe clasped close to her bosom, and we are all very sorrowful.

MONDAY, MARCH 23, 1874.

Those Massachusetts "Statesmen."

One might fancy that the Concord Monitor is as blind from choice in following the lead of the Massachusetts "trucklers" as it is egotistic in its manner. Having criticised us because we chose not to coincide with its nonsense about the recent republican defeat being caused by the Simmons affair, the Monitor now sees "no good purpose to be subserved by a controversy." Not content, however, with its change of tactics, the Monitor does desire to know the names of the truckling "statesmen" to whom we referred. Senator Boutwell and Congressman Dawes have doubtless so covered their tracks that the Monitor can see no disposition to truckle in either. As for the Massachusetts papers, among those calculated to injure the republican cause were those which had been foremost heretofore in advocacy of republican principles, but were so spitefully engaged in a personal quarrel about a custom house office that they, like Dawes, gave aid and encouragement to the enemy. And chief among these patriotic newspapers was the one issued from the office wherein the editor of the Monitor was schooled. As to Senator Wadleigh's ill-advised declaration, we do not choose to find fault. The Senator freely spoke his mind, and we do not know which was the greater mistake, the prediction or the declaration. In either contingency, he is capable of following his own convictions and does not rely on the utterances of Massachusetts "statesmen" or editors for his opinions. The Monitor has again been strengthened in its—convictions? Having abandoned the idea that the Simmons appointment caused the defeat on the 10th of March, it made haste to say that it was the "revelations" which the appointment brought forth which caused all the trouble; but as if fearful of admitting too much it returns to the original declaration that "the facts in the Simmons case are too recent and too glaring to be covered up." Such is "independent journalism" of the Massachusetts variety!

The Massachusetts Senatorship.

If New Hampshire republicans have any interest in the Senatorial succession to Charles Sumner, it is quite certain that they have no sympathy with Henry L. Dawes. Twice on the eve of elections in this State, has he abused his privilege as a leader of the House of Representatives and attacked the administration for the purpose of injuring the republican party. His most recent action in that line furnished the democracy with a key-note which they did not fail to use. If such men as Dawes are to be elevated to the leadership of Massachusetts politics, it is plain that New Hampshire republicans must draw their inspiration from purer sources. No meaner action can be adduced than a stab from a supposed friend. The more implicit the confidence the more dangerous the treason. Mr. Dawes had no just cause for making the charges he did. In the first case, he showed his disbelief in them by taking the stump to counteract their influence; in the last, he allowed the mis-statements to go uncontradicted. It is not of such material that senators should be made. While there is a Wendell Phillips in Massachusetts there would be very little use for a Dawes, and with the possibility that the latter may have a successful following, the candidacy of Gen. Banks may be a pretext that will lead to a repudiation of the Berkshire Congressman.

1871-1874.

The Manchester Union says the situation this year "is strikingly different from that of 1871." We think the statement is correct. Then the democracy laid all their shortcomings and sins of omission to their allies, the labor reformers in the House, and to Senator Smith. We hope the coming June session will not develop quite as much ill feeling as did the failure to browbeat Senator Smith because he was an old man. The legislature of 1874 will have a reliable democratic majority in both branches and the responsibilities of the session will be borne by the democracy. The uneasy men of the party are already erecting a few elephants for the edification of the party, and the leaders will find ere long that the jobs expected of them are likely to create much feeling if put through, and considerable dissatisfaction if not.

Chief among democratic promises are the propositions to repeal the prohibitory law and oppose railroad consolidation. Next in order comes the attempt to reorganize the judiciary, the redistricting of the Senatorial and Councillor districts, and the removal of republican officials. A hungry crowd of claimants will appear in Concord in June demanding their share of official patronage. Rather unruly customers will they be and dire threatenings will they utter should their schemes fail. The rum and railroad questions will be uppermost, and we are greatly mistaken if they do not prove greater elephants than the democracy can safely dispose of. The question of carrying out the promises of the democratic platform is among the most vital issues.

This Congressional District

Is the closest in the State. We give the vote for Governor this year and last. A plurality elects Congressmen.

Democratic plurality 149.

Congressman Small was chosen last year by 378 plurality.

Readables.

The New York World says: "The class of leaders, once a great and powerful and most useful class in this country, has been growing smaller and smaller of late years, until there are those to be found among us who hold that it has become as extinct as the dodo. Of those who could advance even a presentable claim to belong to this class in New England, Mr. Sumner was decidedly the last. He leaves no man behind him in public life who could be spoken of as a 'leader' in a great public meeting in Boston or Springfield without provoking shouts of laughter."

The Worcester Gazette styles Gen. Butler's candidacy for Governor of Massachusetts a "campaign against the liberties of the State."

Fritz Stillzeniter, aged about eighty years, his son and daughter-in-law and two small children, one an infant, were found dead Friday evening near Centerville, Illinois. The throats of the two men were cut and the skulls of the woman and children were crushed. Who committed the atrocious crime or for what purpose is not known. The murdered family lived on a farm three miles south of Centerville, on the road to Saxton.

The work-shops of the Massachusetts State prison, at Charlestown, were burned on Saturday. Loss $500,000.

A man driving a horse drawing a wagon-load of naphtha, in New York, thought he would take a smoke; and after lighting his pipe, carelessly threw the match he had used upon the naphtha, which immediately went off,—as did the driver, leaving his horse to burn to death. The poor animal was rescued but little harmed, however, by Supt. Hatfield of the long-named society.

Frederick Bailey, the defaulting clerk of Badeau, Lockwood & Co., the great fruit importers of New York, is said to have spent $100,000 of his employers' money at the gaming table and among abandoned women within three years. He left a wife and aged mother behind when he ran away. His outward life had always been most exemplary, and he was considered quite a model of filial and marital virtue, and faithfulness to his benefactors.

Several mills at Newburyport have discharged the hands who staid out to celebrate St. Patrick's day.

The report of the congressional committee to investigate the affairs of the First National Bank of Washington shows the cause of the failure to have been the gross misuse of the funds entrusted to the bank.

State News.

Says the New York World: "The Shell Rock (Ia.) hogs must be something like the New Hampshire republicans. 'They refuse to eat, squeal a good deal, and then die.'" If the World had the management of the funeral, it would probably find on its hands rather the liveliest corpse that ever disturbed the serenity of one suffering from the first flush of unaccustomed success. Perhaps the World does not believe in a hereafter.

The Manchester Union says it is safe to say that Congressman Small's services will be dispensed with after his present term.

The house of Ira Quimby was burned at Lisbon on the 16th. Loss about $1000.

Mr. Robert Moses of Meredith Village was driving across the Lake on Wednesday, when he broke through the ice, between Eagle and Stoneham islands, and his horse was drowned.

The Rochester Courier says: "The democracy were materially aided by their license platform, and it is highly probable that the present prohibitory law will be repealed and a license law enacted. It may be an incentive for them to do it in order to secure the vote and favor of the prohibition party."

William M. Evarts has accepted an invitation of the Dartmouth alumni committee to deliver a eulogy on Chief Justice Chase at the next commencement.

The stock of liquors of Patrick Conner in Exeter was seized by the police officers of the town on Thursday, and Conner was arraigned upon a complaint charging him with being a common seller of liquors. The respondent waived examination and was bound over to appear at the April term of the supreme judicial court for the county of Rockingham.

John Saunders of Nashua was arrested by Marshal Patterson on a charge of taking letters from the post-office that did not belong to him. He was arraigned before Commissioner Stanley, and in default of bonds to the amount of $1000 for his appearance at the United States court, was taken to jail.

There have been sixteen deaths among the legal voters between the ages of twenty-three and eighty-seven years, in Alton, the past year, which is about twice as many as usual and is about one in thirty-four of the population.

The town of Grafton is one of the few fortunate towns that are out of debt.

Patrick Quirk of Dover interfered on Tuesday night in a quarrel between Patrick Hughes and his wife, whereupon Hughes knocked him down and kicked him in the face in such a manner that the attendant physician thinks that he will probably lose his eyesight, and possibly his life.

William W. Storrs, the absconding cashier of the First National Bank, of Concord, was in Minnesota at last accounts.

Five out of nine of the children in the family of Charles Laundry, in Great Falls, have died within a few weeks.

The Dodge gold mine, at Lisbon, has been sold for the sum of $3000.

It is claimed that the Mechanics' Savings Bank of Nashua, which suspended on Monday, will come out all right in the end. The worthless stock of the Nashua, Acton and Boston Railroad, which it holds, has not helped the credit of the institution.

Great Falls makes thirty-two miles of cotton cloth daily.

A Clerical Ass.

[Foster's Democrat.]

The editor of the Prohibition Herald is a very ungrateful sort of a man. He hounded on the rank and file of his party to secure a licensed rum victory in the State, and now, having accomplished the purpose, he turns upon them and says: "We do not hold ourselves responsible for the hallucinations of lunatics."—Call this backing your friends? Perhaps he intended it to be taken the other way, by putting in the lunacy defence of his own conduct.

[Dover Enquirer.]

The Herald throws off all disguise this week and openly rejoices that Weston is to be our next Governor, with all its attendant consequences. A copperhead in principle, its editor only shows which party has had all its sympathies in the campaign. He evidently thinks the Great Jehovah has given him a special mission to reform the world and consults him in all important matters, as he seems in his editorial to know all about His plans. We believe there are one or two instances in the Bible where God used lying prophets for certain purposes, but that was in the olden time when even asses had their mission. He has certainly got hold of a strange specimen, if the prohibition editor has any special authority. But let him remember that his sin shall find him out and shall not go unpunished, even though his wickedness may be overruled for good. He and his fellow-workers had a great opportunity to save a great cause which they professed to serve, but they proved faithless. Upon them be the responsibility.

—"Give thanks unto the Lord," wrote the Governor of Wyoming in his last Thanksgiving proclamation, "for his mercy endureth forever. In witness whereof I hereunto set my hand," etc. Which reminds us of a proclamation of the Board of Health of Syracuse a number of years ago, during cholera time, "No more cholera. By order of the board."

—A wag went to the station of one of the railroads, and, finding the best car full, said in a low tone, "Why this car is not going!" Of course this caused a general stampede, and the wag took the best seat. In the midst of the indignation the wag was asked: "Why did you say this car wasn't going?" "Well, it wasn't then," replied the wag, "but it is now."

—Flesh-colored boots for ladies' wear, labelled "Paradise boots," in allusion probably to the kind Eve wore, are displayed as a pleasing novelty by a New York Crispin. The new ladies' boot in Paris is the Pompeian. It is of black velvet, and very high, the legging in front all Venetian cut work, embroidered with silver cord, and a pink or Pompeian red silk stocking is thus seen through the open clover or diamond-shaped design.

—We hasten to do justice to Miss Belle Murray, who was recently charged with having embezzled funds while holding the office of Deputy Recorder of McLean County, Ill. She has been acquitted by a jury, and at the same time grave suspicions have been expressed as to the financial integrity of the masculine office-holder who had originally charged her with embezzlement. It is evident that the women have yet something to learn before they can claim a full equality with men. Miss Murray, on being tried for embezzlement in office, is proved to be wholly innocent. No male office-holder would have been tried on similar charges without having secured a sufficient sum to fully console him for the vexation and risk of the trial. But the women will learn all things in time.

The Stomach's Revenge.

The stomach cannot be trifled with impunity. Overload it with food, irritate it with fiery liquors, impair its activity or vitiate its juices by any outrage on the laws of health, and it revenges itself through the liver, the bowels, the kidneys, the brain or the nervous system, and sometimes through all these organs simultaneously, or in succession. There is scarcely any variety of bodily or mental pain or discomfort which it does not inflict upon those who abuse and overtask its powers. Under these circumstances there is but one medicine to which the sufferer can resort with the certainty of obtaining immediate and permanent relief. The most wholesome and genial of all stomachics and correctives, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, produces an immediate and most beneficent change in the condition of the patient. The whole digestive system is at once invigorated and soothed, the liver regulated and toned, the bowels relieved of all obstructions, the spirits cheered, and the relaxed nerves strengthened and steadied.

PILES can be cured only by ANAKESIS, the greatest discovery of the age and the sole, infallible remedy for the worst cases of PILES. Thousands of sufferers after trying in vain all manner of lotions, ointments, and internal remedies, have been instantly relieved and permanently cured by ANAKESIS. It is the happy discovery of Dr. Silsbee, a regular scientific physician, and doctors of all schools endorse and recommend it. Price $1.00. Sold by druggists everywhere, and sent free by mail from principal Depot, 46 Walker St., New York.

A down-town Merchant recently used his druggist for attempt to defraud. He was suffering from inflamed kidneys and asked for Dr. Helmbold's Buchu. The druggist gave him another kind, upon which the profit was greater. Instead of relieving the patient as the genuine preparation has always done, the imitation compound aggravated the disease, and a long and distressing illness followed. The court, after full hearing, gave judgement for the plaintiff with costs. MORAL, buy only the genuine. For sale by all druggists.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 13, 1870.

DR. R. V. PIERCE—For the past six months I have used your Golden Medical Discovery in my practice, and in that time have tested its merits in severe coughs, both acute and chronic, in chronic diseases of the throat, severe cases of bronchitis, general derangement of the syst m, constipated condition of the bowels, and wherever a thorough Alterative or blood purifier has been indicated. In all cases I have found it to act gently, yet thoroughly and effectually in removing the various diseased conditions, and bringing about a healthy action throughout the system. Yours, fraternally,

H. L. HALL, M. D.

NONE but a physician knows how much a reliable alterative is needed by the people. On all sides of us, in all communities everywhere, there are multitudes who suffer from complaints that nothing but an alterative cures.—Hence a great many of them have been made and put abroad with the assurance of being effectual. But they fail to accomplish the cures they promise, because they have not the intrinsic virtues they claim. In this state of the case, Dr. J. C. AYER & Co., of Lowell, Mass., have supplied a COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA, which proves to be the long-desired remedy. Its peculiar difference from other kindred preparations in the market is that it cures the diseases for which it is recommended, while they do not. We are assured of this fact by more than one intelligent physician in this neighborhood, and have the further evidence of our own experience of its truth.—[Nashville (Tenn.) Farmer.]

Rum revives democracy—vide election returns.

The Manchester Union wishes to know if the people "realize the enormity of the crime committed by the administration" in employing a large force at the navy yard during the winter. The Union had not learned that four hundred workmen had been re-employed. Can it inform us what election is near at hand to cause this, or what elections were pending in Pennsylvania, New York or Massachusetts which required a large force at the Philadelphia, Brooklyn and Charlestown navy yards recently? By and by the people will believe that the statements of the democratic press contain too many falsehoods.

The office of Surveyor at this port, made vacant by the decease of J. D. Pillow, has been abolished by the Secretary of the Treasury.

Kearsarge 3. F. E. Co., No. 3, will give a "promenade ball and tea party" at Congress Hall on the evening of Fast Day, April 9th. The entertainment will commence with a band concert and promenade at 8 o'clock; refreshments will be served (free) at 9; and dancing will commence at 11. Harlow's Band will furnish the music, and tickets are placed at the low figure of 75 cents each.

Rev. Mr. Chase, agent of the New Hampshire Bible Society, is now engaged in making the annual collection of funds for its support, commencing in this city to-day. A principal object of the Society is to furnish the scriptures to destitute families in this State; and Mr. Chase has bibles to dispose of, either by sale or gift, to any who desire them. Last year he visited nearly every family in the city, and gave fourteen bibles to as many families where there was either no bible at all or only portions of one.

Horace returned from Washington, Friday night, after an absence of four days, having succeeded in securing the appointment of "Sancho" as Foreman of Dogs at the navy yard.

The only speech made in the late campaign, at Portsmouth, was by Dr. J. Blackmer, prohibition candidate for governor. Result—out of 2126 votes cast in the city the prohibitionists received 41.

Neal & Pray.

Messrs. Editors; I notice in your issue of March 17th, an article headed "Queer Combinations," copied from the Belfast Journal, viz: "Neal & Pray was the title of a house in New England, of which both members were anything but religiously inclined." The above was evidently intended for Pray & Neal, formerly doing business at the North End, in this city, many of whose friends and relatives still live, enjoying very many pleasant reminiscences of the consistent christian lives and characters of both members of the firm.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

Remarkable Ships.

[Progressive Ship Builder.]

The most remarkable illustration on record of the advantages of adhering to first principles in light draught of water may be seen in the U. S. steamer "Pawnee." This vessel, built in 1859, rendered constant service during the late war, with the battery of a frigate, and the draught of water of the smallest gunboat, 10 feet, and at no time exceeding 11 feet, attaining a speed of 9 knots at sea under steam alone, with but one half the allotment of steam-power contracted for, the machinery for developing which, because of its inefficiency, was taken out of the vessel and consigned to the scrap heap, this being the first twin screw vessel of our navy. Her construction and performance have arrested the attention and astonishment of the naval world, her dimensions being so extraordinary, having a depth of only 6 per cent. of her length, which length is but 490 per cent. of her breadth; such relative proportions of length and depth were never before applied to ocean service, nor were such signally successful results ever before obtained in the same direction; her roll never reached eight degrees with her full battery properly adjusted. Had this vessel been provided with a centerboard, or a series of bilge keels midships, and a proportionate area of sail, with fore and aft rig on four masts, 16 knots would have been the measure of her speed at sea in good weather, without the aid of machinery or ballast.

The "Pawnee" being a war vessel, and having greater breadth than any of the British Atlantic steamers of double her length, we shall show the advantages of light draught in a merchant steamer of 12 feet draught, the "Ocean Bird," built in 1852; this vessel has steamed 417 nautical miles within 24 hours in open sea, not by chip log nor by the measured mile, but by observation, while the best speed of the British steamers of about double the draught of water and nearly double her length, with proportionate power, have failed to reach 400 nautical miles within 24 consecutive hours. Notwithstanding the boast of steam achievements upon the ocean, it can be demonstrated beyond all question that we have retrograded in the model of our vessels, both in speed and sea qualities, during the past 20 years. In order that the reader may know how very far steam propulsion has fallen short of the just demands of the age, we shall show what has been done by sailing vessels in the direction of speed some twenty years ago. In a voyage from New York to Melbourne, the ship "Flying Scud," built in 1853, one of Cameron's line of Australian Packets, of 1,703 tons, old measurement, on the 24th of November, 1854, ran 449 nautical miles, the whole run being made in 76 days; she has a length of 529 per cent. of breadth, and a depth of 58 per cent. of breadth.

But we take more especial note of the performance of a smaller vessel, a two-masted fore-topsail schooner, named the "Clipper City," of 185 tons, old measurement, built in 1854, designed for a fast-sailing and consequently light-draught lumber vessel, for the trade of Lake Michigan. This vessel has a length of 97.33 feet at load line, a breadth of 27.72 feet extreme; draught equal to about 370 per cent. of the breadth, the breadth being 360 per cent. of the depth. She has a center-board 24 feet long and 9 feet wide, and comparatively light; has sailed 25 miles in 80 minutes, in a heavy lake sea. She has made the run from Chicago to Milwaukee, distance 90 miles, in 5 hours, averaging 18 miles per hour, and part of the time she must have reached the almost incredible rate of 20 miles per hour; she needs no ballast. The cabin of this vessel was furnished with a scale of displacement, showing the weight of vessel and weight of cargo at any line of immersion. The weight of hull when fully equipped was 121 1-2 tons, her ordinary cargo of green lumber 100,000 superficial feet, and when the deep line of flotation was reached, 110,000, her weight of cargo was 185 tons, and her draught of water 7 1-2 feet; three-fifths of her lumber cargo is carried upon deck. Short as this vessel would most likely be thought to be, relatively, it has been found impossible to bury her bow at a speed of 18 miles per hour; the resistance of pressure to longitudinal oscillations or pitching is very great. This opposing element encountered on the bow in sailing, being distributed, not only along the sides, but under the bottom, acts powerfully to restore the equilibrium of the vessel, when disturbed by the action of the sea, or under the unsteady depressing leverage of the sails. Owing to her great breadth and shape of section lines, she is exceedingly stable and steady, standing up and carrying all her sail, when other vessels are obliged to reef, and may be said to scarcely roll at all in any except extraordinary weather.

A Balky Horse.

There are two ways of managing a balky horse. My companion knew one of them and I the other. His method is to sit quietly in the wagon, and at short intervals throw a small pebble at the horse. The theory is that these repeated sudden annoyances will operate on a horse's mind, and he will try to escape them by going on. The spectators supplied my friend with stones, and he pelted the horse with measured gentleness. Probably the horse understood this method, for he did not notice the attack at all. My plan was to speak gently to the horse, requesting him to go, and then to follow the refusal by one sudden, sharp cut of the lash; to wait a moment, and then repeat the operation. The dread of the coming lash after the gentle word will start any horse. I tried this, and with a certain success. The horse backed us into the ditch, and would probably have backed himself into the wagon, if I had continued. When the animal was at length ready to go, Davie took him by the bridle, ran by his side, coaxed him into a gallop, and then, leaping in behind, lashed him into a run, which had little respite for ten miles, up hill or down. Remonstrance on behalf of the horse was in vain, and it was only on the return home that this specimen of Cape Breton driver began to reflect how he could erase the welts from the horse's back before his father saw them.

A "Missing Link."

[London Graphic.]

Mr. Darwin's "missing link" has at length been found, to judge from an account of dwarfish human beings, said to resemble a race of monkeys, which is given by the Siam Weekly Advertiser: "On the island of Borneo has been found a certain race of wild creatures, of which kindred varieties have been discovered in the Philippine Islands, in Terra del Fuego and in South America. They walk unusually, almost erect, on two legs, and in that attitude measure about four feet in height. They construct no habitations, form no families, scarcely associate together, sleep in caves and trees, feed on snakes and vermin, on ants' eggs, and on each other. They cannot be tamed or forced to any labor, and are hunted and shot among the trees like the great gorilla, of which they are a stunted copy. When captured alive, one finds with surprise that their uncouth, jabbering sounds are like articulate language. They turn up a human face to gaze at their captors, and females show instincts of modesty; in fine, these wretched beings are men and women."

—When our ancestors wanted hot rum punch, they said so without evasion; they did not call it "kettled-rum."

—The Bishop of Winchester, (Eng.) recently publicly stated his regret that while England stood pre-eminent as a commercial country it occupied a similar position in the most degrading vice of mankind, drunkenness, and advocated the removal of the temptation as a cure for the evil.

—A very sly old woman in Cleveland has been making money by tricks that are vain. She waylays young men, when they are out with their lady friends, and demands that "dollar and forty cents that you owe me for washing." The young man is generally too confused to make an immediate reply, and his confusion is not lessened by the inquiring looks of his fair friend, while the old woman repeats her demand, and in some cases obtains the plunder.

—AND—

Commercial College

Founded 1874.

An institution for Young Ladies and Gentlemen intended to meet the requirements of Portsmouth and vicinity.

Instruction will be given in the Greek, Latin and modern languages and literature, including especial attention to those studies required for admission to college. Book Keeping, Mathematics, and Penmanship will have that prominence which their practical importance demands. The Natural Sciences will be included in what is intended to be a thorough and complete English course of instruction.

MRS. E. M. BARRETT, educated at Mt. Holyoke Seminary and well known as a successful teacher in schools in Massachusetts, will assist. Other competent teachers will be employed as the needs of the patrons may require. Applications for admission can be made at the residence of the Principal, 51 Middle St. or at the Academy rooms in Mechanics' Block, Congress Street. LEWIS E. SMITH, A. M., Principal.
